MEKEEL'S WEEKLY STAMP NEWS

INDEX TO VOLUME XLII 1928

COMPILED BY A. C. LEDUC.

NOTE:—The regular features, to be found in every issue, are not included in this index. These are the Editorial Page, New Issue Chronicle, News Gleanings, Air Mail Notes, Answers to Correspondents, Beginners' Page, etc. Items of particular interest which occur under these headings are, however, indexed according to their subject matter. Special reference to individuals will be found under "Personals." Activities of stamp clubs will be found under "Organized Philately," Deaths under "Obituary," matter pertaining to U. S. or foreign air mail activities are grouped under "Air Mails," and matter concerned with stamp exhibits will be found under "Exhibitions." Items of special interest are cross-indexed.

The Midwestern Exhibition

Official Prospectus of the Great Stamp Exhibition to be Held at Cleveland, O., May 21-26

FOREWORD

BUT two philatelic exhibitions of major importance have been held in this country. Both of these were in New York City, in 1913 and 1926. While it is not intended that the Midwestern Exhibition shall rival either of these, it will nevertheless be a first-class exhibition in every respect.

Cleveland is admirably situated, being the home of the Garfield-Perry Stamp Club, one of the oldest and best known philatelic clubs in America. Philately is also well organized in the neighboring cities of Buffalo, Detroit, Pittsburgh, Cincinnati and numerous other places in Ohio, Western New York, Western Pennsylvania, and Eastern Michigan.

The Midwestern Exhibition will be a regional affair, having the backing and support of practically all the Clubs in the territory mentioned. Many prominent philatelists reside within this area, and their exhibits alone would make a worthwhile display.

It is intended, however, that participation shall be open to all Collectors in both the United States and Canada. The usual conception of an exhibition held in a hotel is one of close, stuffy quarters. This will be an exception, the space leased being commodious, with high ceilings, well lighted and ventilated, with every convenience provided for visitors.

The aisles between the rows of exhibits will be wide, and the frames of a size and shape well suited to close observation by people of all ages and sizes.

Recognizing the importance of the dealer in our hobby, ample arrangements have been made for booths, which may be rented by dealers, publishers, or dealers in philatelic accessories.

The success of this Exhibition, both as an exhibition, and from a financial standpoint, is a matter that should be of interest to every collector, dealer and publisher in America.

It is an experiment, the success of which seems at the time of writing, to be assured. If successful, there are a score, perhaps a hundred other centers in America, where by pooling their strength and resources, a group of Clubs in a certain area can duplicate the Midwestern Exhibition.

The method of financing the proposition, and the business-like manner in which all affairs pertaining to the exhibition will be handled, should appeal strongly to all conservative business men in our hobby.

While, of course, no guarantee can be given as to the amount that will be paid back to stockholders, upon liquidation of the affairs of the Company, there is abundant reason to believe that it will closely approximate 100%, with the chance that it will be somewhat below that figure, and the possibility that it may yield a small profit.

It is not undertaken, however, with any other thought than that of advancing Philately, and we believe it is entitled to the full support of every collector, dealer and publisher in America.

RULES AND REGULATIONS

1. Exhibits (except where otherwise indicated) must be mounted on loose sheets or cards. Exhibitors will be permitted to display a portion in the cases, and the balance of the collection may be sent in albums or in loose sheets at a charge of 50c per bound album, or 50c for every fifty loose sheets.

2. Space occupied in the display of Exhibitors' collections, will be charged for at the following rates:—

Per frame, holding 12 pages 9½ x 11½, $2.00 each.

Albums to be shown open at interesting pages, $1.00 per book.

Albums in Class J, 50c per book

The charge for space will be payable by the Exhibitor before, or at the time of sending in his exhibit.

Minimum charge for entering any exhibit is $1.00 except for Class J.

3. Exhibits may be insured by the Exhibitor independently, or they may be insured against loss by fire or theft while in the custody of the Exhibition Committee, before, during and after the Exhibition, from time of receipt until returned back to the owner. The Exhibition Committee is arranging to insure exhibits at a small charge, but neither the Exhibition Committee, nor the Officers of The Midwestern Philatelic Exhibition Company, incur liability for any exhibits sent them. The charge for insurance will be payable by the Exhibitor before or at the time of sending in the exhibit. Rates will be announced later. No responsibility will be attached to the Company, nor to the members thereof, nor to the members of the Exhibition Committee, nor its employees, for any loss of or damage to an exhibit arising from any cause or reason whatsoever.

UNITED STATES AND BRITISH NORTH AMERICA LIST

Owing to the enormous demand for our price list the first edition has already been exhausted. We have now got out a second edition in which will be found priced for the first time, a large number of blocks of Canadian and Newfoundland stamps. We think this will prove of great interest to many of our customers.

We should be pleased to send this list containing 32 pages of prices, etc., free upon your request.

No collector who is interested in these issues can fail to be without our list, which is backed by a most extensive stock enabling us at all times to supply almost every item listed.

START IT RIGHT

1928 in its opening invites each of us to again start right, philatelically, as well as in other ways.

Perhaps a right start for those interested in United States stamps would be to have a copy of my 1928 price-list entitled "Stamps of United States and Colonies"

This list is free upon request. The constantly increasing sales from it from year to year must mean that my prices are right for the high quality of the stamps I furnish.

Modern business methods insure the prompt filling of orders with carefully selected copies correctly catalogued.

4. Competitors are required to give notice to the Secretary of the character and extent of their exhibits. The printed forms provided for the purpose of this notification should be used.

5. Exhibits must be forwarded prepaid, and will be returned at the expense of the owner. All exhibits will be returned as soon as possible after the close of the Exhibition, in the manner directed by the owners. Unless other instructions are given, they will be returned by registered mail, if postage is received, or by express charges collect.

6. The Exhibition Committee reserves the right of refusal to include any exhibit, or any part of any exhibit, without assigning any reason for such refusal; in the event of there being insufficient space for showing the whole of any exhibit, the Exhibition Committee reserves the right to show only such portions of the exhibit as said Committee may elect.

7. Exhibits must be the bona fide property of the Exhibitor in every case. Joint collections must be shown in joint names, but combinations made expressly for the purpose of exhibition cannot be admitted for competition.

8. Exhibitors in Class J must, if called upon to do so, furnish evidence of age, which shall be satisfactory to the Exhibition Committee.

9. Albums and volumes of stamps intended for exhibition, will be shown open at such interesting pages as the Committee may decide. Such albums will be kept in cases, and may not be inspected except by the Judges, or in certain cases by permission of the owner, and at his risk, and then only in the presence of a member of the Committee.

10. No exhibit may be moved prior to the close of the Exhibition.

11. The Judges will be appointed by the Exhibition Committee. Their decision will, in all cases, be final. The Judges will be requested to base their awards upon a consideration of completeness, rarity, philatelic knowledge and research, condition, arrangement and neatness. Judges may compete for awards, but shall not act as Judges in any section in which they are exhibiting.

12. The Judges have power to add to the number of awards where the competition is heavy, or to reduce the number of awards where the competition is insufficient to justify the making of the full awards scheduled in the scheme of competition.

13. Exhibits intended for competition must be entered in the class appropriate to such exhibits in the following scheme of competition. Exhibits which the owners may desire to enter "Not for competition" will be shown so marked, and in their proper classes.

14. No single exhibit can secure more than one award. There is, however, no limit to the number of exhibits any one collector may enter in one or more classes.

15. Exhibitors must send short descriptions of their exhibits for inclusion in the Official Catalogue, but such description may be modified, altered or omitted at the discretion of the Exhibition Committee.

16. Exhibits must be delivered by May 19th, 1928, to—The Midwestern Philatelic Exhibition Co., Care of the Safety Deposit Department of The Guardian Trust Co., 623 Euclid Ave., Cleveland, O.

Specially prepared address labels will be mailed to all exhibitors to be used on their shipment to exhibition.

17. All questions that may arise concerning the Exhibition and not provided for by these Rules and Regulations, will be decided by the Exhibition Committee.

18. The signature of an exhibitor on the entry blank will indicate that he accepts these rules and regulations.

NOTES

Unused and used stamps may be shown together or separately except where one or the other kind is expressly stipulated.

Documents, photographs, proofs, essays, etc., relating to an exhibit may be included in the specialized exhibits to which they relate.

Exhibitors are requested to make all entries on separate blanks. This will facilitate the work of the Exhibition Committee.

Additional entry blanks may be secured on application.

All exhibits must be carefully wrapped and tied. The name and address of the sender must appear in the upper left hand corner of the package as well as on some portion of the exhibit.

GENERAL INFORMATION

All communications should be addressed to Otto F. Moses, Secretary, The Midwestern Philatelic Exhibition Co., 616 Hippodrome Bldg., Cleveland, Ohio.

STAMP AUCTION

Arrangements have been completed with Mr. Alvin Good, 558 Hippodrome Annex Bldg., Cleveland, O., to conduct

1½c UNPERFORATED U. S.

The two varieties of 1½c imperfs., Scott Nos. 576 and 631, offer some interesting varieties of plate number, center, guide line, and arrow blocks. Those of 576 are entirely different from 631, lines, margins and plate number positions being in no way similar.

I offer a complete sheet of 400 of each of these varieties for $16.00. They are a good investment.

C. E. NICKLES, 213 Seaton Pl., N. E., Washington, D. C.

Junior Approvals

I have prepared a series of approv books especially intended to serve co lectors using the "Junior Internation Album". EVERY stamp in these boo fills a definite space in this album, — al as every stamp is a "standard" variety an collector with a small collection will fin them of the greatest use.

There are over 15,000 varieties of stam in the series mounted in 50 approval boo as follows:

Books A-1 to A-10 inclusive each conta 300 varieties of stamps from about 130 di ferent countries — A to Z — and of s many different types as possible. Th stamps are alphabetically arranged and n single stamp is priced over 10c net.

Books A-11 to A-50 inclusive are mounte by countries, in order of issue, and aga each book contains not less than 300 var eties. All stamps are priced "net", that the correct discount has been figured o each stamp and the price marked is wh you are to pay.

There are no duplicates in the entire s ries so when you will have received all t books you will have had the opportunity make a very good representative collectio

You will do well to try it

Have You a Surplus of These?

We always want to buy for ready cash and at the top of the market anything fine in early U. S. stamps or covers. If you have a specialized collection of any stamps or series; a find of old correspondence; an accumulation of 3c '51s, '57s or '61s on or off cover; patriotic covers of the Civil War, either Confederate or Union, or of the Spanish American war; a few thousand Bank Note issues, even the common 2c and 3c stamps if there are enough to bother with.

Send them to us with your best cash price. Particularly if you have items you think are worth more than anyone else will pay, for that is just the kind we want. Our check or the stamps will come to you by return mail if you ask it.

Just now we are anxious to spend some real money for fine items, but don't want the culls at any price.

The Continental Ribbed Paper U.S. Issue 1873-74

NEW LIGHT ON AN INTERESTING MINOR VARIETY PRODUCED BY THE CONTINENTAL BANK NOTE COMPANY DURING EARLY DAYS OF ITS CONTRACT FOR PRINTING UNITED STATES POSTAGE AND OFFICIAL ADHESIVES

By WARNER BATES, 184 State St., Albany, N. Y.

PART II.

The reader will remember that this series was inspired by the derogatory remarks of a writer in a recent publication, casting reflection on the legitimate status of the Continental printings on ribbed paper.

Review of a number of works by various specialists touching on the same subject shows several of them to be in the same apparent darkness concerning the ribbed paper variety.

J. W. Sampson, in his work on "The Seven Cent Vermilion," says: "So-called 'ribbed paper' specimens are occasionally offered, but the writer confesses that he does not hold them in high esteem as collectible varieties. The corrugations, supposed to be characteristic of ribbed paper, are very difficult to detect."

E. B. Power, in his work on "The Postage Stamps of the United States," produced for Stanley Gibbons, Inc., does not mention the ribbed paper varieties.

Others might be quoted, but space does not permit.

Many students of United States stamps have avoided the serious study of paper varieties in the Bank Note Company printings from 1870 to 1890, and as a result, an astonishing confusion exists in the mind of the average collector.

This failure to study paper varieties in these issues has resulted in these particular stamps not being nearly as popular as they should be, considering their age, their historic and philatelic interest and the scarcity of some issues.

After ten years of study, I am convinced that the papers used by the National, Continental and Bank Note Companies form the most interesting and most important branch of study in these issues.

In the 1851-57 issues, plate varieties hold the greatest interest, plate varieties have much of interest for the student of the 1870-88 issues, but when the specialists of the United States turn earnest attention to these stamps, I am confident that paper will hold the center of the stage or at least divide honors evenly with plate varieties.

Fortunately not all students have assumed that the ribbed papers were difficult to detect and of more or less doubtful character.

Frank E. Goodwin recognizes both the horizontally and vertically ribbed papers in his work on "United States Department Stamps."

Luff recognized the ribbed paper and the Scott Stamp & Coin Company rightly lists the ribbed papers in its Specialized Catalogue, although a contradictory and confusing statement exists in the general catalogue which should certainly list the variety considering that it gives recognition to the laid paper of the 1861 issue.

H. L. Wiley, in his book on "The Three Cent Green" gave full recognition to the ribbed paper varieties, both horizontal and vertical (no, we are not speaking of cross word puzzles).

When one thinks of the confusion existing regarding the Continental printings of the 24 cent, 30 cent and 90 cent values, the importance of thoroughly understanding the various papers used by the Continental Company will be understood.

Many of the thirty cent values that I have seen offered by the most reputable of dealers as Continental printings have been American printings on the American hard paper. Others have been on National papers. While I personally do not study any denomination above the six cent, excepting the ten cent values, and therefore cannot speak with certainty regarding the thirty cent, I doubt much if it is possible to distinguish the Continental printings of this stamp by color alone. Paper should be the deciding factor and if the dealers and specialist do not know papers, how is the general collector to decide?

Consider the 24 cent "deep purple" of the Continental printing listed by Scott at $1,500. If some collector were to find this stamp on a true ribbed paper, there could be absolutely no doubt that it was a Continental printing for the reason that a study of hundreds of thousands of copies of the one, two, three, and six cent values furnishes conclusive proof that the ribbed paper was used by the Continental Company only.

I attempted to show in the first article of this series, by proof of dated copies and covers of the three cent green, that the probable date of the printing by the Continental Company on ribbed papers was during the summer and fall of 1873, or the fall and winter of 1873-74, and that this paper was likely in use only a few months.

WHAT IS RIBBED PAPER?

We will now examine into the characteristics of the ribbed paper. It should be kept in mind that this article deals with the Three Cent Green only, but that in general the statements can be applied to other denominations of the Continental printings.

THE NEW MONGOLIAN REPUBLIC

By F. L. WILSON.

Mongolia, that land of roaming nomadic tribes wandering with their herds hither and yon through the Middle Asian, Southern Ural and Near Caspian steppes and ever penetrating far into Eastern Europe, has awakened finally to declare itself a National Republic.

Situated in the Central part of Asia, it borders the Eastern and Southern provinces of tumultuous China, the U. S. S. R. and the newly formed Republic of Tannu Tuvynsk. It occupies an area of 2,780,000 square kms. and has a mixed population of nearly two and a half million Mongolian, Chinese and Russian. Like China, who has dominated its political life for over two centuries, Mongolia has shown no progress and even today remains a backward country.

Through its domain no railway winds its steely ribboned way. Only at its borders the Eastern China Railway encroaches for a short distance. So we find just ordinary country roads over which to travel, with two or three of the famous caravan routes passing southeasterly through the great Gobi (Shamo) desert. Telegraph and telephone lines found their way into Mongolia during the 20th century and today a radio station operates at the capital city Ulan Bator Khoto (Urga).

Russia has poured a more or less progressive influence into Mongolia throughout the past score of years. Russia was instrumental in bringing in the telegraph and telephone lines and is now ready to extend its Baikal Railway line through to Ulan Bator Khoto (Urga). When young China rose up and ousted the Manchus Dynasty in 1911, the Czarist government of Russia, still stinging from its defeat at the hands of Japan, sought solace in sending its political agents into the land to incite the reigning prince of Mongolia to revolt and throw off the stagnant influence of China and hoping in this way to strengthen its own prestige among these people. On November 18, 1911, Mongolia did proclaim itself an independent republic. On December 1, 1912, the Great Khan of Mongolia was proclaimed "Bogdo Gegeno." Immediately steps were taken to drive out the Chinese rule and in the fall of 1913, in less than a year's time, almost all of the central and outlying parts of Mongolia were under his power. When in 1914 the great world war required the attention of Russia within its own domain and the near east, the Republic of China quickly seized this open advantage and exerted its influence in outer Mongolia. In 1915 this outer part of Mongolia was acknowledged a part of China with a sort of autonomy from inner Mongolia. When the Soviet Republic overthrew the shackles of the Czarist government in 1917, the new leaders at once made overtures with Mongolia and attempted to persuade there a Bolshevik conception of their social order. The spring of 1920 saw the result of such propaganda and a revolutionary party was formed, having the material support of the Russian Communist. A Provisional Revolutionary government was established on March 13, 1921, and an executive committee of five members with authority from Moscow aided by the Soviet army drove out from Mongolia the Russian White army during the course of the following few months. In November, 1924, when Bogo Gegeno died, the great Khurldan Parliament was dissolved and an Independent Mongolian National Republic proclaimed without the president as executive head of the government. Russia has since introduced many other of its order Soviet, including the red flag.

Philatelically, the new Mongolian National Republic has but recently made its bow. However, the first postal service made its appearance in Mongolia in 1863 through the efforts of a Russian tea merchant and at first was exclusively private in character. Later this was changed into a government establishment. In the twentieth century the government postal system included Moned Ulastutoy, Kosh Agach Kobdo and Urga Ulasutay. A Chinese postal service on the Kakhta-Urga-Kalga line was operated by Englishmen in 1918 and within the Urga Republic only one Mongolian government postal system was in operation.

Prior to 1914 was known as the pre-stamp period of postal operations in Mongolia. Mail matter was prepaid in cash and an impression was made on the cover with a rubber stamp and in the center of the impression was written in ink the amount paid.

The first issue of stamps appeared in 1924. This issue was printed in Moskow by the government printing bureau (Hosnak) from an approved design supplied by the government. These stamps were issued in the following denominations: 1, 2, 5, 10, 20, 50 cents and $1.00 in Chinese values. They were printed on Surface Tinted Paper of very stout texture and vary in size and details of design. All values are known to have been perforated horizontally across the middle so that they might be divided and used for half their face values. The central design appears to be a coat of arms OCHERA of Mongolia and symbolic of the theocratical peer of the past. Cancellations on the stamps are square with inscription in English horizontally and Mongolian vertically, the date, month and year are inscribed in Arabic figures across the center. There also appears the name URGA, the former name of the capital and ULAN BATOR KHOTO, the present name. The supply of this issue is exhausted.

For the second issue the government surcharged the then current revenue stamps with a rectangular box design. These surcharges were of four colors:

Violet surcharge on the 1, 2, 5, 10, 20 and 50c and 1 and 5 dollar.

Red surcharge on the 1, 2, 5, 10, 20, and 50c and 1 dollar. Also the black surcharge and the blue surcharge on the same values.

The third issue and last was printed by the government printing bureau and on these appeared a new coat of arms SOEMB and also a new value of "mung" equivalent to the American cent and "tuhrck" equal to the American dollar. There appears two types in the 5m and 20m, the difference being in the pearl above the crescent and the devices and panels in the middle of the stamp. The values issued were the 1 yellow, 2 brown-orange, 5 lilac, 10 light blue, 20m yellow-green, 40 lemon and 50m buff, 1t brown, 3t red and yellow and 5t brown-violet, with the insignia on all denominations in black.—Stamp Echo.

OUR BOOK REVIEW

There seems to be no end in the making of handbooks and guides for the beginner, and it is well that this is so. The larger the publicity given to the fundamentals of stamp collecting the keener will be our interest in the hobby. The latest candidate for public favor is "The Guide to Stamp Collecting and Philatelic Index," published by the Weekly Philatelic Gossip, Holton, Kans., price 35c. The book is written by Al Burns, and it covers the usual lines of treatment of the subject. One-half the book is given to a philatelic index which should prove of use to the beginner. A considerable amount of advertising completes a readable and useful booklet.

COLLECTIONS

We always have various small collections on hand which it would not pay us to advertise. If interested in such, just drop us a line and we shall be glad to let you know what we have. Of the more expensive collections we have at present the following three for sale:—

1) Sweden. A beautiful collection of this popular country containing 425 stamps. Of the 19th Century half are mint; of the 20th about 99%. As the party who formed this was very particular as to condition, practically every stamp can be called superb. Among others we note: 1855 4sk ultramarine (unlisted); the rare 1855 and 1858 reprints; two 1858 9 öre; 17 öre gray; rare 1891 50ö blue green; 50ö and 1kr imperforate; mint copies of the 1918 55ö and 80ö; the Landstorm errors Nos. 437 and 438, of which only 100 were issued, etc., etc. Although this superb collection cost the owner $700 to form, we will sacrifice it for only $450! A wonderful buy for dealer or collector 450.00

2) Collection of several thousand 19th and 20th Century stamps mounted in three volumes of a Schaubek Album. This is a very fine collection, formed in Europe, and consists largely of the medium priced stamps in very fine condition. No European stamps are included, but 20th Br. Colonials and America are strongly represented. As some of the highest priced stamps have been removed, we are able to offer this beautiful collection at a much more reasonable price than we first thought possible. This collection gladly sent to any serious buyer for examination. Price 2500.00

3) Collection of the whole world, 1920-1927, mounted in a 1926 edition Scott's loose leaf Album and seven provisional albums as a supplement. Will list about $3000 and contains many high value stamps. Strong in Br. Colonials. Every stamp mint and in superb condition. Price only half catalogue or 1500.00

AUCTIONS

FIRST AIR MAIL
APRIL 1927

AIR POST CHRONICLE

Austria.—On August 1st, the first Contract Airmail Service between Vienna and Rome was opened, when a mail consisting of 602 ordinary pieces and 132 registered letters left the capital, and 522 ordinary and 20 registered letters were despatched from Aspern. A special first-day cachet was applied, circular in shape, and depicting an aeroplane around which were the words "Post-Erstflug Wien-Rom." It is reported that during the year 1925, 438,700 air stamps were sold in Austria, the value totaling 151,220 schillings, and in 1926, 276,700 air stamps to the value of 266,950 schillings were purchased by the public, an increase in value of over 100,000 schillings.

Albania.—The following are the quantities of the airmail stamps issued with the "Rep. Shqiptare" overprint, according to the Baltic Philatelist:—5q, 55,000; 10q, 55,000; 25q, 58,100; 50q, 78,100; 1fr, 72,000; 2frs, 48,450; 3frs, 22,200.

Colombia.—Germany was the first country, we believe, to issue postal stationery with imprinted air stamps, but to Colombia may be given credit for the first stationery bearing imprinted semi-official air stamps, for the S. C. A. D. T. A. company has placed on sale a letter-card for use on its airways, which bears the inscription of the company, the representation of a flying machine, and the imprinted stamp, value 20c, in grey on salmon.

Czecho-Slovakia.—On the opening day, July 4th, 1927, of the new line between Prague and Marienbad, a mail of 800 pieces was flown from the capital, and a special reception postmark applied at Marienbad. The editor of Letectvi has been good enough to point out that the commemorative mail reported in the last number of The Aero Field was not an official mail leaving this country for Poland. It seems evident that the mail was first carried on the balloons and then posted for despatch by ordina routes from Prague afterwards.

Chile.—Reports are in circulati that the Chilian Post Office states t the air stamps are issued by the Co mercial Aviation Co. and are in no w of an official character. That flo covers bear the full franking fee in n tional stamps apart from the air stam supports this statement, but there c be no doubt that the air post adhesiv are fully recognised by the authoriti for they are wholly unobtainable unus Letters intended for despatch by air h to be handed over the Post Office co ter, as the special stamps were appli after payment, to the envelopes by t postal clerks only. Further, these stam are catalogued both by Yvert and Sco while a recent number of Champio Bulletin published a copy of a dec authorising their issue and quoting act numbers prepared for use. We beli that the air service, after operating fo very short period, was suspended so time ago, for no special cancellation h been applied since the end of Augu Further news is promised us by c correspondents.

Cuba.—A regular service betwe this island and Florida was inaugurat in the middle of October, and a spec official cachet in addition to the ordina postmark, was applied to all outgoi airmail at Havana. In the first m were about fifty letters bearing varieti of the imperforated stamps.

France.—It is proposed to establi a service between Marseilles and Mona and hydroplanes have already made tr flights on this extension of the line b tween London-Paris-Lyons and Ma seilles. The aerial service between To louse and South America, about whi we have already given details, is n planned to open, according to one repo at the end of this year, and according foreign publications, at some time duri 1928.

BRIGHT & SON, 164 STRAND, W. C. 2, ENGLAN

Ceylon.—An airmail service from olombo to Tanjore and from thence to ladras, Bombay, Calcutta and Karachi under consideration, we learn from Ir. C. P. Smith, when an aerodrome lay be constructed near the Bristol In-itute at Tanjore. The aerial fee for stcards will be 2 annas and for letters, annas.

Guatemala.—A first airmail flight etween Guatemala City and Chiquimala ok place on June 12th, two machines ing in use. Mr. A. A. Cohen informs that both machines were rather badly maged upon arrival through coming wn on a muddy landing field. The regular circular air cachet was applied, and all covers were backstamped upon arrival.

Great Britain.—On September 17th, the afternoon letter mail service to Holland was suspended for the winter, and on September 30th the following routes were also closed for the season, though the service between London, Amsterdam and Hamburg has been extended to Berlin:—London to Basle and Zurich via Paris; and London, via Paris, to Lyons, Marseilles and Geneva.

On September 29th, mail was receivable at the London Post Office for despatch to connect with the re-opening of the Kenya service.

Greece.—The airmail vignettes reported in the December, 1926, Aero Field, of which 100,000 series were ordered, but only 20,000 released for circulation, 414 sets being despatched to the Postal Union at Berne, have now been recognised as officially issued.

Germany.—Both the machines that attempted the trans-Atlantic aeroplane flight to America were carrying airmail, and it has been said that 3,500 covers, the postage of which amounted to 74,000 marks, were held up on the return of the unsuccessful plane pending the decision of the Director of Posts.

Holland and Dutch Indies.—Lieut. Koppen and his two companions successfully completed their flight from Amsterdam to Batavia and back on October 28th, in the record period of 28 days, or 19 days actual flying time. Leaving Amsterdam on October 1st, they covered the 8,750 miles to Batavia on October 10th and started their return journey on October 21st. Experimental mail was carried in both directions, for which a special franking fee was charged and special air postmarks applied in addition to the ordinary ones. Six hundred and sixty-nine letters and 1,423 postcards were flown on the outward journey and 1,288 letters and 3,054 postcards were brought back from the Indies. The special cancellation was at times rather carelessly applied on the latter mail, as we have seen several pieces without it. We are indebted to Mr. A. Cossar for the news that on the return trip of Mr. Van Lear Black from Batavia to Holland, 42 covers were carried from Karachi, five being for Baghdad, 33 for Holland and four for Great Britain, those for Baghdad and Holland being postmarked at Karachi on July 13th. This mail is said to have been sanctioned by the Post Office authorities.

Hungary.—In the course of the Exhibition at Debreezen about eighty cards bearing a special propaganda postmark and vignette were despatched and carried on the regular air-line from Budapest outwards.

Japan.—The Yuraku announces that the first attempt to connect the airmail lines between Tokyo and Osaka and Fukuoka and vice versa was made successfully on July 27th. From Tokyo 336 pieces were carried for Fukuoka, the mail bag being transferred from one machine to the other at Osaka, where an additional 29 letters were added. On the same day, a mail of ten pieces for Osaka and fifty for Tokyo was flown from Fukuoka, to which were added 36 more pieces at Osaka en route.

EDITORIAL

We wish to acknowledge the receipt of many holiday greetings from near and far; and while we shall not attempt to write each sender, we would have all of them know that we value the evidences of their remembrance of the WEEKLY at this time. To those abroad who have so nicely timed the arrival of their messages, we give our best sentiments and assure them that their consideration is appreciated. Some of the messengers have the stamp theme nicely interwoven in their tidings and speak well for the pretty wit of the originators.

The New Year starts well and it is unnecessary to make predictions which carry little weight as a rule even though they are useful in filling space. While it is true that the prosperity of commercial philately is dependent to some extent upon the general well-being of the country, yet it was once pointed out by a shrewd observer that when general business is slack, the man of affairs who is a philatelist has more time to devote to his stamps and in consequence he is more in the market than customarily. Come what may, philately cannot lose.

There will always be problems for discussion and some difference of opinion among the citizens of the philatelic world; and we are glad that it is not otherwise. It has been said that only a small percentage of the public does the thinking for the nation, but with philatelists, the statement does not ring true. Judging from our correspondence, the number of collectors who do not think or who are inarticulate is small, relatively speaking. In the first stage of his collecting career, the philatelist may busy himself merely with his stamps and be an on-looker on the philatelic life of the streets, so to say, but it is not long before he is prone to join the throng and his opinion is heard among that of his fellows.

If thanks are due any division of collectors, they are to those who have been instrumental in getting publicity for stamps in periodicals and newspapers that are read by the general public. We have harped on the desirability of obtaining notices of the kind until the subject has become tiresome to some, but we know that the good that results in the aggregate from efforts of workers do more to establish philately as an accepted occupation than any other means, from first to last. It is not always easy to turn the trick, but when once the collector finds that he has prevailed and the printed page bears testimony to his enterprise, he has reason to feel that he is advancing the pursuit. Philatelic publicity is the shortest cut to the practical advantage of stamp collecting.

We have been told of the discovery of several Hawaiian Missionary stamps by several readers who based their reports on a newspaper announcement to that effect; and now we have word from the principal in the find. The fortunate man is none other than Mr. J. Lynn Avery of Long Beach, California, whose position as a banker and lodge man makes him well known in his locality; and we have just received particulars from Mr. Avery that will prove of interest to our readers. The two Missionaries are the 5c blue, and the 13c blue of the second type, evidently, and were found by Mr. Avery in the possession of "the widow of a man who had owned them for many years, having originally been given them by a sea captain who traded in the South Seas in the early days." An account of the find, illustrated by a cut of the 2c Missionary is given in the Long Beach Press Telegram of December 15th, in which it is said that the term, Missionary, was given to "these stamps for the reason that the comparatively few copies known were nearly all found on the letters written by the missionaries, at that date constituting nearly the entire white population of the islands." It is needless to say that the resurrecting of one or more Missionary stamps is an event of importance and any increase in the visible supply of these great rarities is an interesting development. The supposition is that the two copies found by Mr. Avery have been or will be closely scrutinized. Further details will certainly be awaited with attention.

Mr. E. M. Ash nominates the cancellation longest in use in any country and says: "To the best of my knowledge, the one I enclose was used on Cuba No. 1, in the year 1855; and intermittently on all issues up to 1881. In going over a large accumulation of Cuban stamps I find a number of the map issue of 1914 cancelled with the old No. 1 grid, all of them having been used on registered mail at the Havana General Post Office. Can any one beat this?" Sure enough, the familiar grid-like oval cancellation seen on No. 1 Cuba appears on the block of 10c, 1914, as enclosed. Incidentally, Mr. E. M. Ash should know his Cuba, as he has moved again and he is now "Supte. Terminal, Puerto Tarafa, Camaguey, Cuba." It is written: "There's more movement to this family than to a whole jazz orchestra."

A photograph has been received from Mr. Arthur de Vaux, Lyon, France, of a sheet of 25 of the American Legion, 90 centimes, without the numeral of value in the lower left hand tablet. Mr. de Vaux says: "As you will see, the value has not been printed. The stamps were printed in two operations, first the background and then the value. It is probable that two sheets went under the second machine stuck together and only the first one received the impression of value. Up to this date there is only one sheet known of this variety. It was sold to myself and by mistake in a lot of 5,000 at the Main P. O. of Lyon (Lyon-Recette-Principale, bureau des Archers) September last. I thought that you might be interested in this queer error, as to my knowledge this is the first time in French stamp history that a stamp was sold without value." The photograph shows this striking error to advantage; and there is not any sign of impression on the tablet that ordinarily bears the tablet of value.

An inquiry has been received asking when the American Philatelic Society was organized and by searching through old files to refresh our memory, we are able to submit the following particulars. The committee on organization met at the Metropolitan Assembly Rooms, 64 East 4th Street, New York City, on September 13th and 14th, 1886, when officers were elected. Previously, it had been said that the proposal to organize the national society had met with favor and that over 400 members were enrolled. All of these who sent in their ballots with a postal note for 25c to defray expenses were entitled to vote for officers. The committee on organization was the result of the expression of a wish of four philatelic societies that a national body be formed. The total number of votes cast was 219 and John K. Tiffany received 127 as president; and he succeeded himself many times. The New York meeting of 1886 may be said to have been the first convention, and Chicago nosed out Philadelphia as the place of the 1887 convention by sixteen votes. At the Chicago convention, Mr. Wm. C. Stone, Springfield, Mass., and Mr. P. M. Wolsieffer, Philadelphia, acquired the habit of attending the annual meetings.

THE NEW HARRIS "JOURNAL"

H. E. Harris & Co. have favored us with their new Bi-Monthly Journal. It's a beauty, and even if you were not interested in stamps you would enjoy it just for the cover, which bears a handsome engraving in blue and gray of a design adapted from a Greek postage stamp.

We were also pleased to find several interesting pages of editorials, notes, and letters, unusually good because they were for the most part impersonal—devoted to philately quite apart from the goods H. E. Harris & Co. has to sell. We think this practice of printing editorial comment in a house organ should be encouraged, and we are glad to see Mr. Harris so worthy an exponent.

Throughout its entire 64 pages this issue surpasses any previous in the alluring variety of bargains and offers. For example, we note an offering of mint British Colonials at face value. Many other good things are listed, and the Bi-Monthly Journal should prove a valuable market guide to its readers. Copies free for the asking.

Mr. Harris, who is one of the most progressive advertisers in the stamp game, preaches the value of advertising mainly by practice. He writes us:

"Dealers should do more and better advertising. It improves the circulation of merchandise and keeps a business healthy.

"Although our firm has twenty-six employees on the time-clock, we still find it necessary to stay open several nights a week to keep the orders moving. This activity, I am sure, is largely the result of advertising combined with right prices.

"Our advertising in the past has been too irregular to be anywhere near 100% effective; but for 1928 we are planning a steady campaign. We are going to do our best to produce a Bi-Monthly Journal every two months, and we shall renew our contract with MEKEEL'S and publish attractive ads as often as possible. MEKEEL'S is an old standby of ours. We have a faith, based on experience, that ads in your magazine bring results when a worthwhile product is advertised."

REFERRING TO THE RECENT ARTICLES OF MESSRS. "CALABAR" AND HILL

By ROBERT S. GORDON, Middletown, O.

Aden—Stamps of India are used at times, but those of Great Britain are found oftener, I believe. A recent letter posted on board a P & O boat enroute from India to Aden bore British, not Indian, stamps.

Ascension—Mr. Hill's estimate that used are twenty times as scarce as unused seems pretty high. Has anyone any statistics at hand regarding postal receipts from sale of stamps in Ascension compared to the sale of them by the Crown Agents? That would help, although of course all local sales wouldn't be used, nor would all C.A. sales be unused.

British Honduras—Classing these with Virgin Islands is not accurate, in my opinion. The first has nearly fifty thousand, the second only five thousand, population. The first has upwards of ten PO's, the second has three. Virgin Islands used on cover are far scarcer than Brit. Honduras, which are not exceptionally hard to find.

Brunei covers are rated rather low by Mr. Hill. They are much harder to find than the same stamps used. These stamps were, until recent years, at least, occasionally used on letters from Labuan,—whether by oversight or not I do not know.

Cayman Islands, while having nearly the same population as the Virgins, nevertheless seem to be much commoner used, and hardly seem to justify Mr. Hill's rating of used values at twice catalog.

Curacao is certainly rated too high. As to Suriname, I have no first hand information, but I was a resident in Venezuela for some time, and never found the slightest difficulty in obtaining Curacao in any condition at prices considerably lower than prices for the same unused at the Willemstad (Curacao) PO.

Falklands are, as Mr. Hill states, more common on cover recently than in former years, and perhaps three times catalog is not too much to pay for some values on cover. As a rule, though, that is too much. With a little hunting, they can be bought for less.

French Colonies—French India and Togo, as well as St. Pierre et Miquelon, are rated rather high. Chad, Niger, Ubangi, and Upper Volta could well be classed with Mauritania and Wallis et Futuna as regards approximate scarcity on cover. (Letters from Fort-Lamy, Chad, to New York average 110 days in transit!)

Gambia and Gilbert & Ellice seem to be high—especially the former. Gambia should certainly not be valued used at more than Brunei and Span. Western Sahara.

Kuwait—Is it obsolete, as "Calabar" says? I received a cover in the fall of 1926 franked with the overprinted stamps—and it wasn't one of these "self-addressed, cancelled-to-order" covers, either. The writer of the letter may have used a "left-over," however.

Montserrat and Nauru are given higher values by Mr. Hill than seem consistent; although it is surprising, as "Calabar" remarks, how many more used Naurus seem to be in existence than would appear reasonable from the size of the place.

New Guinea—In "Calabar's" notes under New Guinea he lists 11 PO's. There are, or were recently, two others: Buka Passage and Salamea, making 13 in all.

Somaliland Protectorate—Mr. Hill's statement that these "are worth three times catalog if used" is surprising. I suspect that Mr. Hill has merely been having a little bad luck in obtaining them. Can anyone add to my list of PO's of this colony, which I am sure is not complete: Berbera, Bulhar, Burao, Erigavo, Hargeisa, Las Khorai, Sheikh, and Zeyla.

Spanish Colonies—La Aguera and Western Sahara do not seem to be fully appreciated. La Aguera in particular (it is now obsolete) ought to bring on cover an enormous price, if rarity and not demand was the controlling factor. Used off cover, from any Spanish colony of the twentieth century should be regarded with suspicion. They are often seen with cancellations, correctly named and dated, but the stamps themselves never saw the colony from which they are supposed to have been issued, in a great many cases. I have recently seen a postcard, unaddressed, bearing one stamp each of Elobey, Rio de Oro, and Spanish Morocco—each stamp being cancelled with its correct postmark.

It must of course be remembered that used stamps of some colonies vary greatly in potential, even if not in actual, value, according to the size of the particular town or hamlet cancelling the stamps. It is hard to lay down a general rule for such colonies; especially since such values are subject more to personal preferences than to the law of supply and demand. Gilbert & Ellice; India used in Persia, Arabia, and Tibet; and the scarcer French colonials are good examples. To my mind, a cover bearing Indian stamps posted at Gyang-tse, Tibet, may have a value entirely disproportionate to that given to it by someone not so interested in postmarks. A Chad cover from Abeshr (which I have been trying to get for some time) may be, and probably would be, of no particular interest to many collectors. It savors too much of collecting postmarks and not stamps.

And yet the postmark field is bound to overlap slightly to anyone who is interested in used stamps at all. Notice, for example, the prices now being paid for U. S. cancellations, for Queensland used in British New Guinea, for Ballon Monte items. I believe the time is fast approaching when collectors, realizing the impossibility of completing general collections or even group collections, will turn to the individual colonies more and specialize on a scale heretofore unknown. When that time comes we may have specialized catalogs, along the line of the present U. S. Specialized, which will give a truer value to the many items, such as cancellations that are now almost entirely neglected.

"Country" Etymology

Iceland.—The second discoverer Flocke named this polar island "Iceland" on account of the great amount of floating ice off the north coast; it was as correctly christened Sujoland "Snowland" by the Norwegian Noddod.

Argentina.—Meaning "silver land" is from the latin Argentium which signifies "silver," whilst the river has received its name Rio de la Plata (Plata silver) from the Spanish.

Belgium.—The new kingdom which separated from Holland in 1831, was named after its old inhabitants the Cetic Belgae, as the land of the Belgians had already been called Belgico in the time of the Romans.

Holland.—This name was formed from the original "Holtland," on account of the thick copsewood of the islands at the mouth of the Maas. Holt is the low-German form for the high-German Holz (wood).

EL ERIZO THE HEDGEHOG

This stamp, the 1c 1905, pictures the statue of Juan Santa Maria, erected in the town of Alajuela in honour of this Costa Rican hero. The story of this man's bravery will bear re-telling.

It was on April 11, 1856, that the Costa Rican army tried conclusions with the American buccaneer, William Walker, in the town of Rivas. Walker had resolved to conquer the whole of Central America, and had already succeeded in subduing Nicaragua, and was making ready to crush Costa Rica. The Costa Rican army found him strongly fortified in an inn, while his men were quartered in the church and other buildings in the town. In order to obtain a decisive victory, it was necessary to dislodge him from his stronghold. Every inch of the intervening space was covered with the rifles of the enemy. General Canas, who was in command, conceived the idea of setting the inn on fire.

"Is there no one brave enough to risk his life to save his compatriots?" asked the general. Immediately there sprang from the ranks a soldier. "I will go," he said, "but I charge you not to forget my mother." A torch was prepared and he started on his perilous journey. As he drew near to the inn a bullet shattered his right arm. Placing the torch in his left hand he soon covered the remaining space. A second bullet laid him low, but before he died he was able to apply the torch to the wooden structure which was soon in flames. The invaders fled in terror and the Costa Ricans were masters of the situation. Juan Santa Maria, commonly known as El Erizo the hedgehog, was the name of this brave soldier, and the statue shows him still grasping the fatal torch in his right hand.—Postage Stamp.

The Mosque of Omar

Jerusalem, says a writer in the "Popular Pictorial," is one of the most ancient and interesting cities in the world. Situated 2,500 feet above sea-level, the district in which it stands is somewhat uninviting, being both rugged and barren. The city occupies the greater part of the space occupied by two ravines—the Valley of Jehoshaphat and the Valley of Hinnom.

The walls of the city have a circuit of about two and a half miles. They were built by the Turks about three centuries ago, partly on the site, and mainly with the materials of still more ancient walls. The present walls vary in height from 30 to 50 feet, flanked, at intervals, by massive towers.

The public buildings within its walls are numerous, and occupy a large amount of space. The largest is Moriah, now called El-Haram Esh-Sherif (The Noble Sanctuary). Christians are but rarely admitted to this building. Its area is nearly one-eighth of the whole city, and where not built upon, is laid out as a lawn, planted with trees.

The most conspicuous building is the Mosque of Omar, strikingly shown on the current 13m stamp of Palestine. It is situated near the centre of the area, on an elevated terrace, approached by four porticos, one of them with a beautiful marble colonnade. It is lighted by forty-eight windows of stained glass, and surmounted by a magnificent dome. This mosque occupies the site, and is supposed to contain some remains of the Jewish temple.

Mohammedan Calif, Omar, who took the city in 636 A.D., was responsible for the erection. Within recent years, a considerable improvement has taken place in the appearance and prosperity of the city. Pilgrims and travellers annually visit it in large numbers, and numerous hotels have been erected to satisfy their wants. It was in 1892 that Jerusalem was connected with Jaffa by railway.—Postage Stamp.

Mixed Perforations

This is a combination of perforations found in the case of some modern stamps. The term "mixed" is applied to stamps from sheets which were either defectively or incompletely perforated and were then patched on the backs with strips of paper and re-perforated by a machine of a different gauge in those parts where the original perforation was not satisfactory.

Romance in Stamps

By NELL LOUNSBERRY.

Romance in Stamps? Why to those favored few who love a stamp for itself, and not for its mercenary value, they are an open sesame to the wonders of the world—keys to a locked door of treasures. The pictures on stamps are like portholes in a magic ship. They give us brief glimpses into the life of strange countries and create a great desire in our minds to know more of the queer people we meet in our Album Travels.

As we speed through Mozambique, we catch fleeting glimpses of palm-thatched huts, and brown, tattooed men and women. . . . A busy port, with ships loading and unloading cargoes. We can even hear the shrill whistle blasts and queer foreign jargons from the workmen on the docks. We see men cultivating tobacco and working in the cane fields with strange, little two-wheeled carts. Others are toiling in the great green rubber forests. Everywhere there is evidence of bustling industry.

True, many of the portholes do not frame such interesting scenes as do these looking out on this Portuguese Colony in East Africa.

We can fairly feel the chill of the North as we sight Newfoundland. Our ship glides on by the monument to the fighting Newfoundlanders, and past a cold mountain lake, surrounded by lofty snow-capped domes. In the Royal Naval Reserve, a majestic bull caribou flings his head in the air and sends forth his clarion cry. And there, among the other porthole views are the portraits of Good Queen Mary and George V!

Romance in stamps? Why one can circle the globe and penetrate to the heart of darkest Africa, via the Magic Carpet of the album page.

Perplexing Surcharges

V. R. I.—Victoria Regina Imperatrix. (Victoria, Queen and Empress). An overprint applied to many Transvaal and Orange Free State stamps during the last South African war.

V. N.—Vaccination. Another South Australian surcharge.

Junior Dictionary

Post Office.—The chief inscription on the famous 1d and 2d stamps of Mauritius issued in 1847, and it also appears upon the Annapolis, Millbury, New Haven, New York, Providence and St. Louis "postmasters' stamps" of the United States.

Post Office Dept.—Found on the U. S. official stamps used by the government department dealing with postal affairs prior to the introduction of the "penalty envelopes."

Post Office Telegraphs.—The series of stamps issued in Great Britain for use on telegrams in 1876 and used for a few years until postage stamps for this purpose were authorised.

Post Stamp.—The only English inscription, except that relating to the facial value, shown on many of the stamps of the Indian native state of Hyderabad.

Post Tenebras Lux.—The motto shown above the Arms on the first stamps issued in the Swiss Canton of Geneva. It means "After darkness, light."

Pound.—The £1 stamps of Great Britain and Victoria have the value expressed as "one pound," but the stamps of similar denominations in other parts of the British Empire using the same currency as the motherland are usually expressed as "£1" or "20s." In normal times the pound has a value of $4.87 in United States money.

Pre.—An abbreviation for "piastre" overprinted on the 1876 provisional issue for Turkey.

In Lighter Vein

An old lady being told that the King was a philatelist expressed great surprise, remarking: "I always thought his Majesty belonged to the Church of England."

Never had there been such a commotion in the little flat. And the most excited person present was the sister of a young mother who has just presented her husband with twins.

Auntie was wildly delighted at being auntie in a double sense, and off she rushed to the post-office for stamps to spread the great tidings.

"Stamps!" she jerked, as she reached the counter and flung down her money.

"How many, miss?" politely inquired the clerk.

"Two," she cried joyously.

"What kind?"

"A boy and a girl," she returned rapturously, as she bade him hurry.

"And now, I suppose I must stick the confounded stamps on myself," said the irate customer in the post-office, who had been fuming at the delay.

"Perhaps they would be more useful on the parcel," answered the young lady sweetly.

A gentleman residing in a small provincial town not long ago received a letter through the post, and, as there was no stamp on it, he had to pay double postage. On opening the letter he found a small scrap of paper on which was written, "I'm all right: how are you?" The sender of the letter two days later had a large parcel delivered at his door with tenpence to pay for carriage. Judge of his surprise on opening it to find a large stone therein along with the following message:—

"Dear Sir,—On finding that you were alright, this load was lifted off my mind."

A lady sent her son a pair of trousers by book post. The postal officials wrote to her as follows:—

"Clothes cannot be sent by book post.

NEWS ITEMS:—

THE regular Bi-monthly list of W. T. Wilson of Birmingham, Eng., is full of interesting offers and we have no hesitation in recommending to our subscribers that they send for a copy. A wonderful lot of novelties and special bargains in old and recent issues is listed. Mr. Wilson makes a specialty of covers and his offerings of Indian Convention States are extensive. We are especially pleased with an advertisement of the WEEKLY which was given us without solicitation. We should be very glad if other dealers would follow suit.

ELSEWHERE in this issue Allen-Bolton advertises an approval book of interest. He has submitted a specimen for our examination and we think well enough of it to invite our subscribers to send for a sample copy, which may be had for 5c. Address the firm at 38 Stretton Rd., Croyden, England.

WE have been favored by Albert E. Gorham with specimens of two first flight covers. One left Cincinnati Dec. 17, 1 P. M., for Chicago, and at 6 A. M., Dec. 18, took off for New York and arrived 8.30 P. M.. The other was used on Indianapolis-Chicago route same date.

THE Stamp Collectors Club of N. J., having outgrown its club rooms, has moved to 413 27th St., Union City, N. J. The Society has just been granted a charter by the A. P. S. and this fact will bring more members, as the sales circuit of this organization is something worthwhile. Anyone interested in the A. P. S. in New York or New Jersey within traveling radius is heartily invited to attend our meetings. Write A. Klingenstein, 49 Waverly St., Jersey City, N. J.

WE have been shown by Albert E. Gorham a Buffalo-Cleveland first flight inaugurating airmail. The route number is 20 and the date, Dec. 17.

WE are indebted to a host of our subscribers for the many Christmas greetings and well wishes. We heartily reciprocate the many kind expressions of good will. Our old friend, A. W. Dunning, now in the Southland, gave a very practical and very acceptable token of the Christmas spirit by mailing us a package of extra fine pecans. Many thanks, Mr. Dunning.

ARE YOU A GENERAL IN THE STAMP ARMY?

Of course you are! Your dollars are your soldiers, with which you are setting out to conquer a fine stamp kingdom,—a really worth-while collection.

But what about your intelligence service? You can't dispose of your troops effectively, unless you know something of the ground they are to fight over, and of the enemy dispositions.

GIBBONS STAMP MONTHLY is the stamp general's intelligence department. It collects news from all parts of the stamp world, gives valuable market hints and warnings, tells what stamps are going obsolete, and records all new issues, — often with numbers printed.

☞A post-card brings you a free specimen copy. A dollar bill (not stamps) brings it every month for sixteen months. 10,000 read it. Why not YOU?

Luxemburg.—In connection with the Philatelic Exhibition, a special balloon mail was despatched on September 8th. This consisted of philatelically prepared postcards inscribed for the event and bearing on the reverse particulars. in French, of the first issued stamps of the Duchy. We have heard that 15,000 of these cards were prepared, but have not received exact data as to number flown. Cachet was officially applied to obliterate the franking stamps, while each card was also postmarked at Roodt on the same day.

Persia.—We are indebted to a correspondent for the following information. The first flight from Teheran to Bender-Pehlevi, on the Baku route, took place on February 8th, 1927, the date on the postmarks in Arabic representing 18 Bahman (11th Persian Solar Month) of the year 1305. Flown covers bear a special air cachet in red inscribed in Persian and Arabic, while the Teheran postmark is in violet. Flown covers were backstamped with a special postmark at Pehlevi four days after the departure from the capital. We are informed that less than 150 pieces were carried on this first flight, and are promised the exact number later, if available. Practically all the flown covers bear air-overprinted stamps, in addition to the ordinary franking stamp.

The following is a list of overprinted stamps kindly furnished by the same writer:—1ch, 65,000; 2ch, 30,000; 3ch, 45,000; 6ch, 40,000; 9ch, 35,000; 10ch, 55,000; 13ch, 18,000; 26ch, 18,000; 1kr, 20,000; 2kr, 15,000; 3kr, 11,000; 4kr, 5,000; 5kr, 5,000; 10kr, 20kr, and 30kr, 600 of each.

Russia.—Champion's Bulletin reports that of the new air stamps, 200,000 of each were issued.

Switzerland.—On the occasion of the eighth Fair at Lausanne, a special postmark was applied to all mail intended for the aerial services on September 25th only.—The Aero Field.

SUBURBAN'S CHRISTMAS PARTY

By FRED O. OHLUND, Pres.

(Mr. Ohlund has been president of the Suburban Stamp Club of Boston for the past seven years and has brought to the office an energy and enthusiasm that has done much in making the club successful. He very modestly gives the credit to others, but we are positive that the membership will verify our statement as to the quality of his leadership.—W. O. W.)

The Suburban Stamp Club of Boston held a Christmas tree party Thursday evening, Dec. 15. It was a complete success with one hundred and twenty in attendance, by actual count. Sandwiches, coffee, cakes, cigars, etc., were enjoyed by all, and our own Sam Bailey performed with tricks of magic. We had five applications for membership, making a total of ten for December.

The club has outgrown its quarters in the Quincy House and beginning with Jan. 5, it will meet at the American House, 56 Hanover St., where it will have three large connecting rooms, all nicely furnished.

C. A. Davis, who has rendered splendid service as chairman of the entertainment committee has been nominated for the presidency of the club for 1928. I am personally glad of this, for his loyalty to the club in the past is an indication that it will progress still further under his direction.

The Suburban Stamp Club now has the three hundred membership goal within striking distance and it will no doubt be reached during the year to come.

ATLAS STAMP CO. (P. C. Smith) W. Somerville, Mass.

I have recently acquired a very choice collection of Department Stamps, consisting entirely of mint and used singles of all denominations. This, added to my large stock of these varieties, puts me in a position to furnish practically everything wanted. I can furnish the perfection or the good average copy, and prices throughout will be found to be most reasonable. Want Lists are requested with the usual references, if not already known to me.

I also hold a wonderful stock of the Postal issues and Revenues of the United States, and if you are looking for anything from the commonest to the great rarities, your want list is solicited.

I am always in the market to purchase at highest cash prices, scarce individual items or fine collections of United States Stamps.

Annual Report of the Director of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing

The Annual Report of the Director of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1927, has just been received. The booklet, consisting of forty-eight pages, gives a detailed resume of the activities of the Bureau, as well as a detailed list of the products which were turned out during the twelve months.

It is to be noted that the Post Office Department expended with the Bureau in payment of postage stamps $1,350,607.64. The cost of the Bureau's activities at the International Philatelic Exhibition held at New York amounted to $341.87. In all, just short of two hundred and thirty million sheets of stamps were produced, totaling nearly twenty-four billion stamps or an average of about two billion per month. The largest number of an individual item was in excess of eight billion 2-cent stamps in sheet form. The smallest item was twenty-five thousand, five hundred and ninety $5 stamps, showing that the use of this denomination is decreasing, rather than increasing. Over six million of the Sesqui-Centennial stamps were distributed, and more are to come. The 2-cent White Plains totaled 43,324,435.

The use of the higher denominations of the Postage Due series is evidently increasing, for this year five hundred ninety thousand six hundred 30c (the scarcest) reached postmasters. A detailed list of specimen stamps is given, but this does not mean that the stamps are overprinted "Specimens," but are specimen copies distributed to the Universal Postal Union.

The Canal Zone received a half-million 1-cent stamps, two million 2-cent, and quantities ranging from one hundred thousand to four hundred twenty thousand 2c in books, 3c, 10c, 17c and 20c. In excess of fifty-five million stamps went to the Philippines, of which eleven thousand, six hundred were of the 10 peso denomination. The list gives the number of pre-cancelled stamps furnished of each denomination.

Wine and Cordial stamps of the series of 1914 were distributed, although I was under the impression the use of these stamps was discontinued sometime back. There were over twenty million of the "Stock Transfer" varieties furnished the Treasury Department, in comparison with less than one-half million of the "Future Delivery." This would indicate that the Future Delivery, which are at present quite common, are more likely in the long run to be scarcer than the Stock Transfer varieties, which seem difficult to obtain. It is to be noted that nearly two hundred million of both the Documentary and Future Delivery type, were delivered to the Commissioner of Internal Revenue for destruction. Why, I cannot say.

Seventeen million pre-cancelled Playing Card stamps printed from the rotary press were distributed, while twice as many in unused condition, printed from the flat bed press were delivered to the Collector of Internal Revenue. The report is signed by Mr. A. W. Hall, Director.

Air Mail Notes

In accordance with previous announcement, the contract air mail route between Chicago and Cincinnati was established on December 17th, at which time the special octagonal cancellations generally used on the first day of such a route, were applied by the three offices of Chicago, Indianapolis and Cincinnati. Those that I have seen are in black, green, and magenta, being used from the three cities in the order named. In addition, Cincinnati applied a large concentric cancellation 2½" in diameter, showing an airplane in the center, and reading—"First Flight, U. S. Air Mail, Chicago to Cincinnati Route — Cincinnati the Queen City, Now Your Neighbor." I wish to thank Messrs. A. D. Fennel and O. C. Rittenhouse for first day cover.

The Second Assistant Postmaster General, Mr. Warren Irving Glover, predicts that within three years commercial airplanes in the United States will fly fifty thousand miles daily. At present, the total is 17,314 miles per day, with the prospect of an additional daily mileage within three months of 4,094 miles, making a total of 21,408 miles.

The length of existing routes on which air mail is carried is 9,000 miles and 2,047 miles more will be added within three months. During the month of November, 1927, planes in the contract air mail service traveled a total distance of 456,434 scheduled miles, carrying 141,079 pounds of mail, for which the contractors received compensation totaling $304,082.00.

2-Cent Coil

In further reference to the special 2-cent coil recently placed on sale by the Department, containing three thousand 2-cent rotary coil stamps, coiled sidewise, I am advised by Mr. A. D. Collins, the Philatelic Stamp Agent, that these individual stamps do not differ from the normal stamps from the smaller coils.

These, however, are wrapped upon a special card-board core, 1⅞" in diameter and the gum side is wrapped outwards.

Switzerland — Pro Juventute.—Pestalozzi, the old pedagogue of whom the Swiss are so proud, is to be the hero of two denominations of the forthcoming "Pro Juventute" series, viz., the 20 and 30c. Having exhausted the available range of "Arms" during recent years, it has been necessary for fresh subjects to be chosen, and we understand the 5c will have the effigy of a Swiss waif and the fourth value of the new set, the 10c, the picture of a young scholar in an Orphan School. The 5 + 5c are surface-printed and the 20 + 5c and 30 + 10c printed in taille-douce and, as already announced the stamps will be issued on December 1st, remain on sale at Swiss post offices until and including the last day of the month, and be valid for postal use until April 30, 1928.—Stamp Collecting.

Announcement

The 1928 Edition of the American Catalogue of Air Mail and First Day Covers is almost ready. The 1st Edition has been rewritten, rearranged and doubled in size. Two new Sections on Philippine Islands and Haitien Air Posts should greatly increase its usefulness.

Best of all the 1928 Edition will appear in an attractive Leather style Binding, and we can state, without fear of contradiction, that it is the most accurate and complete Air Mail Catalog of American Air Posts ever published.

CHARITY STAMPS AT NEWARK

Several thousand persons in Newark have viewed during the past week Newark's first exhibit of charity stamps. The collection, gathered and owned by William L. Kinkead, Treasurer of the New Jersey Tuberculosis League, Inc., a well-known philatelist, of Ridgewood, has been exhibited since Monday at the National Newark and Essex Banking Company in connection with the league's present campaign throughout northern New Jersey. Before coming to Newark, the stamps were shown in Paterson, and it is planned to exhibit them in Hackensack in the immediate future.

Included among the stamps shown were a large number issued for various forms of welfare and relief work by the Red Cross and kindred national war relief organizations. These stamps came from England, Scotland, France, Serbia, Greece, Portugal, Czechoslovakia, Siberia, Mexico, Dutch Indies, Esthonia, a multitude of French colonies, Siam and other nations.

The bulk of the exhibit, however, was composed of tuberculosis seals and stamps of various years, societies and nations. The earliest stamps in the collection were issued in 1862-4 by the United States Sanitary Commission and sold at the great "Sanitary Fairs" held in Boston and Springfield, Mass.; Chicago, New York, Brooklyn and other large cities throughout the northern section of the country. The charity stamp does not seem to have appeared again, according to Mr. Kinkead, until 1897, when the first postage stamps for the benefit of sufferers from tuberculosis were sold in New South Wales.

Einar Hoelbell, a Danish postal clerk, who is generally accredited with the origin of the Christmas Seal idea as this country knows it, did not get his idea from the New South Wales stamp but from early sanitary stamps, Mr. Kinkead said today. Captain Anderson, who knew Hoelbell well, had never heard of the New South Wales issue until Mr. Kinkead wrote him of it a few years ago. Denmark permitted the anti-tuberculosis seal to be used on Christmas mail first in 1904, and this use has come to be an integral part of Danish Christmas observance.

"While Einar Hoelbell cannot truthfully be called the originator of the charity stamp idea," Mr. Kinkead said, "its adoption as a means of fund raising in the United States was undoubtedly due to the influence of the Danish stamp which he originated. In 1906, Jacob Riis, New York's prominent writer and publicist, received a letter from his native land, Denmark, bearing one of the Christmas Seals. He was greatly impressed with its potentialities as a 'fund raiser' for tuberculosis work and wrote an article on it for The Outlook, which was read by a Miss Emily B. Bissell of Wilmington, Del. She organized the first Christmas Seal sale in America in 1907 to raise funds for a small tuberculosis sanatorium."

The exhibitor went on to explain the early relationship of the Red Cross with the National Tuberculosis Association. The Red Cross, he said, had formed an agreement with the anti-tuberculosis body in 1910, whereby the Red Cross gave its then more influential name and sufficient capital for financing the sale. The tuberculosis organization agreed to organize the sale and direct the expenditure of the funds raised. This partnership, Mr. Kinkead added, went on until 1919, with only the emblem of the older organization appearing on the seals. The seal in that year, however, contained in its design the familiar double-barred cross, now the emblem of international tuberculosis work.

The collection includes, in addition to specimens of every seal issued in this country, seals from twenty European countries which have issued this form of stamp between 1904 and this year. Sweden was the first to follow Denmark's example, issuing a seal in 1904. The Netherlands also printed an issue in December, 1904; Norway's came in 1907, as did that of the Danish West Indies.—New York Times.

LANSDOWNE (PA.) EXHIBIT

With a score of postage stamp collections valued at thousands of dollars on display, the Lansdowne Stamp Club opened its second annual exhibition in the Lansdowne, Pa., Bank and Trust Company's offices Friday, November 18.

All day stamp collectors and others filed past the glass-topped tables, wondering and admiring at the variety and value of the collections shown. A large majority of the stamp issuing countries of the world were represented in the collections. Awards of prizes were announced by Eugene Klein and George M. Emery, the judges, as follows:

Class 1—C. W. Brazer, United States collection, first; H. C. Hayes, United States collection, second. Class 2—Dr. F. E. Locy, Jamaica collection, first; C. W. Brazer, Canada, second. Class 3—Albert B. Maris, Latvia and Saar, first; Dr. J. Sinexon, Belgium, Austria, Denmark, France and Sweden, and Mrs. Mary G. Cook, Italy, tied for second. Class 4—Albert B. Maris, Congo and Liberia, first; John R. Huston, Egypt, second. Class 6—Dr. F. E. Locy, French Oceania, first. Class 7—Edward E. Meacham, British Colonies, first. Class 8—Frederick W. Pickard, collection of U. S. 90c 1869, first; Herbert C. Hayes, Cape of Good Hope triangles, second; Dr. James J. Waygood, Pennsylvania pre-cancels, third. Class 9 (For Juniors)—Robert Schelhorn, first. Class 10 (For Outsiders)—A. J. Squier, U. S. collection.

A collection of Hungarian postage stamps, containing many unique pieces and cancellations, was displayed by Mr. Klein, but was not entered in competition for the prizes. To each of the prize winners was awarded an engraved certificate. The grand prize for all-round excellence of the collection displayed was given to Mr. Brazer for his United States display.

The Lansdowne Stamp Club, composed of stamp collectors of Delaware County and vicinity, was formed several years ago and has rapidly increased in membership and prestige. Mrs. Cook is president, Dr. John B. Davis is vice-president, Robert H. Thomson is secretary and treasurer, and Dr. F. E. Locy is exchange manager. Approximately thirty collectors are now enrolled as members.

a stamp auction during the exhibition. Any inquiry pertaining to this auction should be addressed to Mr. Good.

Exhibition Seals

The Company has prepared advertising seals and would request their use on your philatelic correspondence. Seals may be obtained by writing to the Secretary.

Dealers' Booths

Space has been provided for 20 booths —each booth measuring approximately 7 x 10 to be rented for the term of the exhibition at $75.00 each, payable one-third with application, and balance on or before April 15th, 1928.

Space shall not be sublet without consent of The Midwestern Philatelic Exhibition Co., nor shall more than one dealer occupy one booth.

All exhibits shown in booths shall be appropriate to the exhibition and shall be subject to the approval of the Exhibition Committee.

Equipment of booths consists of a railing partition with counter front. Arrangements for furnishing booths can be made through the Chairman of the Hall Committee, or dealers may bring their own furnishings if they prefer. All firm name signs must be uniform, and to this end copy for same should be furnished the Hall Committee not later than May 1st. Approximate size of sign 4 ft. x 18 in. There will be no charge for the lettering of these signs.

The Official Catalogue

Giving detailed description of the various exhibits and other matter of interest to visitors at the exhibition will be issued just prior to the exhibition. The size of page will be 6 x 9.

Advertising space will be sold at the following rates—Preferred position (per page), $50.00; One page, $25.00; One-half page, $15.00; One-quarter page, $8.00. Payable—one-half with order, balance with copy for advertisement. Forms close April 1, 1928, at which time copy must be in our hands.

Minimum edition of 2000 copies is guaranteed.

Price of catalogue will be 25c plus postage. Order now.

Financing of Exhibition

No donations for this enterprise will be solicited or accepted. Instead we are asking all those who wish to help or take stock in the company. Stock is being sold for cash or on the partial payment plan, calling for a down payment of 30% and the balance in equal monthly installments, payable on or before May 1, 1928. Capital stock of the company $10,000.00, is divided into 1000 shares at $10.00 each.

After the Exhibition the Company will immediately liquidate its affairs, and return to the paid up stockholders the cash assets in proportion to the amount subscribed. While the Company is not making any guarantee or promise as to the amount to be returned, there is every indication at the present moment that the return will be a substantial one. On the back of this Prospectus you will find a subscription blank for the stock, which we trust you will fill out immediately, and mail to the Secretary of the Company.

CONTINENTAL RIBBED PAPER 1873-74

To begin with, these stamps come either horizontally or vertically ribbed.

Why this should be so, I do not know. The wire screening on which the pulp was run at the paper mills, and which undoubtedly was responsible for the ribbed paper, may have run horizontally in one machine and vertically in another.

A more likely theory is that the paper, after being manufactured, was cut in different ways, so that one sheet would show the horizontally ribbed variety and another the vertically ribbed.

Thirdly, it is possible that the sheets of paper were fed into the printing press in different ways, so that sometimes the stamps were printed perpendicularly to the ribbing, which would have produced the stamp on horizontally ribbed paper, and vice versa, producing stamps on vertically ribbed paper.

However, the plates on which these stamps were engraved were oblong, rather than square. If the paper was fed into the presses in sheets, as probably was the case, the sheets were probably cut oblong shape, and if so they would all be placed on the plates the same way. Therefore, the two varieties of ribbing would have been produced by the cutting of the paper into sheets rather than by the manner in which they were fed into the presses.

At any rate, the stamp designs show differences which undoubtedly are caused by the direction in which the ribbing runs, so this fact is of importance.

Now, what is ribbed paper.

I will try to define it briefly and then treat at length of the various physical characteristics.

The Continental Ribbed Paper is a paper which, when held between a strong light and the eye, so as to look directly through the stamp, generally shows alternate parallel lines of light and dark, and which, when held close to a strong light so that the eye can look transversely across the surface (either front or back), often, but not always, shows parallel corrugations, the ridges of which, on the printed surface of the stamp, appear to glisten in comparison with the furrows.

In copies strongly ribbed, such as the light olive-green shade on ribbed paper, the stamp has every appearance, when looking through it at a strong light, of being laid paper, the alternate parallel lines of light and dark being very strong and distinct, and from this extreme there is every variation down to copies which show the "laid" lines only when the stamp is held in a certain position somewhat below the level of the eye, as is the case with "vertical laid paper" and the "horizontal laid paper" of the 1861 issue, listed by Scott in both the general and specialized catalogues.

That's a pretty lengthy and detailed description, but if you'll study it carefully, you will gain a pretty good general idea of what the ribbed paper is like. Furthermore, I can absolutely prove the accuracy of every word in that definition to any Specialist in the country, who has an ordinary good pair of eyes, for fun, marbles or money, through hundreds of copies in my own collection.

Better than that, most general collectors that I have demonstrated this paper to, have been able to pick it out for themselves, with some degree of accuracy, after examining fifteen or twenty specimens in the manner set forth in my definition.

Not long ago, I demonstrated the ribbed paper to a friend who was befuddled on the subject, and a couple of weeks later he showed me three strongly ribbed copies of the seven cent vermilion with an aggregate catalogue valuation of $45, which he had picked up for a total of less than $5 from the books of a New York City "dealer-specialist."

Wiley has this to say, descriptive of the appearance of the ribbed paper:

"The ribs are either vertical or horizontal and are spaced 40 to the inch. They show on both sides of the paper, but are generally more distinct upon one side than the other. They are more plainly visible by reflected light than by transmitted light; that is, they are more distinct when the surface of the stamp is viewed directly than when the stamp is held 'to the light'."

The last sentence of the above statement is only true of some of the ribbed paper stamps as I have indicated in the foregoing. In many cases it is easier to see the ribbing by looking through the stamp at the light.

Until the student has become somewhat of an expert at picking out the ribbed papers, he should conduct his studies with a fairly strong desk lamp only and not attempt to learn about this paper by daylight. The desk light with a shade is best because of the protection afforded the eyes.

The stamp, for examination, should be held approximately three to four inches under the light and the eye should be about eight or nine inches distant from the light for best results.

This may seem rather close work, but if the lamp is so shaded that no direct rays can reach the eye this method of working can be used for years with no apparent bad effects.

Also, once the collector has really grasped the various characteristics of the printings on ribbed paper, he will be able to pick them by daylight or by ceiling lamps with a satisfactory degree of accuracy.

The characteristics detailed in this article are not the only ones we have to go on.

The colors of the stamps, texture of the paper, thickness and color of the paper, and appearance of the printed design all contribute to the collector's ability to distinguish the Continental ribbed papers from the National papers and from the Continental normal papers, double paper, silk paper, fibre paper, linen like paper and soft porus paper (the last similar to that later used by the American company).

When one realizes that the catalogue valuations for the ribbed paper vary from 25 cents for the three cent green to $17.50 for the twelve cent blackish-violet, the value of being able to distinguish this variety will be apparent to even the most hard-boiled of general collectors.

The next article will develop further characteristics of the ribbed paper variety which will aid the collector in picking it out.

STAMP MARKET GOSSIP

By "THE SEER OF THE STRAND."

My "Best Thing" of Last Month.—In accordance with my paragraph dealing with South West Africa in September, I have again to point out that the 2/6 value overprinted with the full name on the Union Pictorials is an exceedingly good stamp. This must not be misconstrued to mean the latest overprint from this Colony. The whole series has now appeared overprinted "S.W.A." only, and once again I advise all readers interested in South-West Africa to obtain this issue whilst they can be bought at a fraction over face value. For what it is worth, but having no authentic information on the subject, I give it that there is a fairly persistent rumour about town that another completely different set will be issued shortly. My last month's best thing has proved itself to be "One of the Best," and prices are soaring. I advise buying at any price under 60s the pair.

Irish Free State.—It is a long time since I referred to this most popular country, but I am going to make a little stamp from here, hitherto rather neglected, by "Best Thing of the Month." I allude to the 2½d Thom overprint in red, S.G. No. 37. This stamp, which is now catalogued at 10/-, mint, and 2/6 used, is a very scarce item, and although there were a good many about at one time, I have noticed recently a great shortage. I have also noticed one or two very "cute" buyers snapping them up at anything below S.G.'s quotation.

Whilst on the subject of Ireland, I wish to give readers a little warning. The 2/6, 5/- and 10/- values have been reprinted in sheets that show both types of the Saorstat overprint. By this, I mean S.G. types 5 and 11. In the matter of type 5, there is a very slight difference from S.G. Nos. 64. 65 and 66, but I am afraid some of these are being offered as the genuine first overprints. Discerning specialists may be able to tell the difference, but it is advisable when buying, to obtain the vendor's guarantee.

Montserrat.—In September I made reference to the 5d script of this little Colony. My prophecy has become an accomplished fact, and this stamp has surpassed the 5d Virgins at the time of writing. My readers may say "How is it that it is only quoted at 2/6 in S.G. catalogue?" The reply is that to the writer's knowledge, this stamp will be priced at least 10s in the next "Monthly." Even at this figure it is cheap, and I certainly advise all to secure a copy or two as I have not the least doubt it will shortly rise again.

Leeward Islands.—Regarding the 5d script of this Colony, there appears to be some doubt. On one side I have it that the stamp is still on sale over there, whilst on the other side I see offers to buy at anything up to 2/6 each. Until something authentic comes along, I am unable to advise readers as to what to do.

Transjordania.—An entirely new set for this Territory has made its appearance, and judging from all points of view, will be a very popular one. I am afraid, however, on account of recent discussions in high circles, the set is likely to be superseded shortly by another. This is rather vague, I admit, but in looking forward, it is possible to foretell, perhaps, that Transjordania may range along-side Egypt in being transferred from Part I. to Part II. of the catalogue. I certainly advise obtaining the complete set with as little delay as possible.

India.—It has always been a matter of surprise to me that the modern issues of India are so unpopular. It is, I suppose, really because there is an enormous postal business done in this Colony, and stamps are obtained at almost give away figures. It must, however, be pointed out that there are one or two low values, which on account of two quick changes, are extremely hard to obtain. The two quick changes were (1) change of watermark on old design and (2) change of design with new watermark. The following stamps are well worth procuring at reasonable figures:—S.G. 198, 199, 205 and 209. The last-named, especially, is likely to become a really scarce item in the near future.

Holland.—The recently issued Red Cross set of this country is likely to become rather scarce. I am informed from a reliable source that very few of these sets, now obsolete, were issued. The 3c plus 2c deep green appears to have been issued in considerably smaller quantities than any of the others. As Holland is a very popular country, I shall be surprised if this set does not rise in value shortly.

Turkey.—The 1927 Smyrna Exhibition set appears to be very reasonably priced, according to the latest quotations. I am of opinion that these will become very good items in the near future. Already obsolete and having had a short life, some of the values have not been seen in this country in used condition. In collecting I should be rather dubious about used specimens unless on original piece, as past experience from the direction whence they are likely to arrive makes one think.

BEST THING OF THE MONTH.

Irish Free State, 2½d., S.G. No. 37 (Mint or Used.)

THE "Z" GRILL

By ELLIOT PERRY

Grills of this family are called "Z," because when they were identified by William L. Stevenson he did not know which of the other families of grills they preceded or followed. Therefore he gave them a designation signifying "unknown" and selected the letter used in algebra for the third unknown. To avoid a name that might be taken as descriptive of the appearance of the grills he did not call them "X" or "Y." The very thing he tried to avoid, however, has come to pass and collectors and dealers have tried to find something on the grills that resembles the letter Z. No more perfect example of "barking up the wrong tree" could be imagined. The name "Z" has nothing whatever to do with the size, shape or appearance of the grills and it is doubtful if they bear any more resemblance to the letter Z than do any others of the pyramid grills.

If we could examine the pyramidal bosses on the surfaces of the rollers used to make the D, E and F grills through a microscope we would find very few true and perfect pyramids. Where the sides meet at the top of each pyramid we would be more apt to find a short ridge than a true point. The reason for this is that perfect pyramids could be produced only with extremely fine workmanship and carefully selected tools, cutting the surface of the roller exactly the right depth in each direction. Such extreme care was not necessary for the purpose in mind and there is ample proof it was not used.

The machinery used to cut the surface of the grill cylinders evidently was at least partly automatic and therefore an error in any part of a cylinder would be reproduced all over its surface. A slight difference in the angle of the cutting tools, or in the depth of the longitudinal grooves as compared with the grooves that were cut around the circumference of the grill cylinder, would result in imperfect pyramids—their bases would be oblong instead of square and/or their tips would be ridges instead of points. Any such error on the D, E and F rollers was so slight that the grills as seen on the stamps usually appear to have been impressed from perfect pyramids, but on the Z roller the error was so much greater that it was not lost in grilling the stamps and the tips of the pyramids as seen on the backs of the stamps appear as short ridges. All this of course refers to the body of the grilled area and not to outside rows of incomplete units. The latter usually appear as ridges, regardless of the roll from which they come.

On stamps bearing D, E and F grills, which are so clearly impressed that the ridges formed by the tips of the grill pyramids can be seen, these tiny ridges always extend vertically—that is, toward the top and bottom and parallel to the sides of the stamps. On the Z grills, however, the ridges are longer and more distinct, and always extend across the stamps, toward the sides and parallel to the top and bottom.

Our knowledge of the Z grills has not progressed very far in the years that have passed since Stevenson first wrote about them. Their position in the sequence of the various rollers is almost as much "unknown" now as it was then. His idea that the "Z" came at about the same time as the "D" is still as good a guess as any. It may have preceded or followed the "D" roller or have been contemporaneous with the "D" roll. What little evidence we have would seem to indicate the Z grills came early in the 1868 grill period rather than late. All denominations of the stamps found with the E grill (11 x 13) have also been found with the Z grill, except only the 15c, and altho there is always a possibility the 15c may be found, apparently the only reason for thinking the 15c with Z grill may exist is the close similarity in size between the Z and E grills and the fact that both of these are found only on the same denominations—up to the 12c.

The Z roller was also used to make many trial impressions or samples—essays. Many of these essays were perforated and gummed exactly like finished stamps, but for various reasons very few of them might be mistaken for issued stamps. Perhaps the best known are from the 12c 1861 plate, printed on various tinted papers. It is not certain whether unused 12c with Z grills on white paper are stamps or essays. All may be stamps, or all essays—or some stamps and others essays.

The Stevenson collection contained a used 1c with Z grill and he made mention of another. He also had a used 10c that bore a distinct double impression—two complete Z grills. The 1c and 10c came to the writer in the Stevenson collection nearly ten years ago and later passed into the B. K. Miller collection. They are now in the New York Public Library and cannot come back into the market. One other 10c—a used copy on which the grill is genuine, but not very strong—has been found. With only two copies each of the 1c and 10c known these Z grills must be classed among the rarest of rare stamps—not only in the United States, but in the world.

The 3c with Z grill is also a rare stamp. The writer has seen scarcely a dozen copies, including the few Stevenson had been able to find at a time when no one but him knew they existed. Used copies of the 12c are not nearly so rare, and unused copies also exist. The 2c with Z grill relatively to the others on which this grill occurs is quite a common stamp. Any unpicked lot of 50 or 100 Black Jacks supposed to be E grills would be almost certain to contain at least a few with Z grill, but the surest place to find one is in a U. S. or general collection, calmly occupying the place where Scott No. 84 ought to repose. Nine times out of ten—just about.

The Black Jack with Z grill is scarcer than with the E grill (11 x 13), but is not nearly so scarce as with the D grill (12 x 14). The commonest error made in connection with the grills is to mistake No. 85b for No. 84. This error can easily be avoided by noting the width of the grills. Give your millimeter scale a vacation and count the rows of grill points. Grill impressions aren't always full and deep, paper may shrink, and few grills will measure exactly so many full millimeters. But the Z grills are not known with more than 14 rows of complete grill units counting across the stamps sideways, while the D grills always have 15 rows counting from side to side.

Another common error is to mistake the Z grill for the E grill. If the stamp shows 18 rows of complete units counting from top to bottom it cannot be an E grill, but if the grill is only 17 rows it may be either D, Z or E. Then look at the back of the stamp for the horizontal ridges characteristic of impressions from the grill tips of the Z grill. Changing the angle of vision or looking across the stamp toward a strong light may help.

As each "family" of grills represents and comes from a different roller, or different state of a roller, we never find a grill of one family in pair with the grill of another family. Each sheet of A grills contained only A grills. The same holds true respecting the D, Z, E and F grills, and generally speaking is also true of the C grills. The C roller, however, was not entirely covered with grilling areas which could produce only perfect C grills and a few areas on the C roller sometimes produced stamps bearing a grill that corresponds in size and shape with the grill listed as "B."

It is extremely unlikely there ever was a "B" roller. Any roller covered with B grills—large grills measuring 18 x 15 millimeters, with the long dimension extending across the stamps—would be almost certain to defeat the object in mind when the grill-all-over (A) cylinder was changed. Unless very carefully centered on the stamps, B grills would extend beyond the stamp design either at the right side or the left and when the stamps were perforated the perforations would run partly through grilled paper and so weaken the paper where the grills occurred that the stamps would separate raggedly. The A roller was altered to produce the C grills purposely to overcome this same difficulty and it is hardly reasonable to suppose another roller so likely to produce the unsatisfactory results obtained from the A roller would have been made.

The B grills do not come from an intermediate state of the roller which first produced the A grills and later produced the C grills. The surface of the roller was changed from the A state to the C state without any intervening step.

The few B-like impressions occasionally produced by the C roller are abnormal varieties. (See note under No. 82 in the Scott catalog.) They have been in existence since 1867 and their genuineness is beyond question. Each impression of the roller which produced a few of these freaks also produced many normal C grills on the same stamp sheet at the same time. To question their genuineness is to question the genuineness of all the normal C grills. But these abnormal B grills consist partly of a normal C grill and partly of a fainter impression that unintentionally was allowed to remain on the roller when it was altered from grill-all-over to the C condition. state of the roller between A and C. They do not come from an intermediate

The subject of B grills has been mentioned so extensively here because it is necessary to consider whether or not the Z roller could have produced normal B grills. It has been claimed certain B grills were made by the Z roller. The abnormal or freak B grills all came from the C roller and there is no connection whatever between them and the Z roll. Neither is there any evidence to connect normal B grills with the Z roller. No B grills, genuine or otherwise, examined by the writer, agree with the characteristics of the Z grills.

The National Bank Note Company also used grills on the 1874-79 issues of Peru and the tall Postage Due stamps of that series (Scott Nos. 502 to 505), commonly occur with a grill having the "Z" characteristics but containing 12 by 18 rows of points. It is rather interesting that the steamship vignette in the upper part of these Peruvian Dues was copied from the 12c U. S. postage stamp of 1869—another issue printed and grilled by the National Bank Note Co.

PANAMA LINDBERGH STAMPS

(Clipping from H. Walk.)

The visit of Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh to Panama will be commemorated by a special issue of 45,000 postage stamps. They will be of the 2c and 5c denominations. One group of stamps will show the Spirit of St. Louis flying over the isthmus and the other the Lone Eagle landing in Panama.

AUSTRALIAN CMLTH. ITEMS

By FRANK HALLORAN.

The 1sh4d with multiple Small Crown A, bearing imprint of A. J. Mullet, was issued at Melbourne, Sept. 6, 1927.

The 4½d with Ash imprint multiple Small Crown A wmk. was issued at Sydney, Oct. 26, 1927.

The 1½d (Ash imprint) was issued in perf. 14 and 13½ x 12½ on Oct. 26, 1927.

The 9d (Ash imprint) single wmk. was also issued in Sydney at the end of October.

The new 1½d is from cleaned plates, which have been touched up, and shows a great improvement on recent printings.

1½c UNPERFORATED U. S.

The two varieties of 1½c imperfs., Scott Nos. 576 and 631, offer some interesting varieties of plate number, center, guide line, and arrow blocks. Those of 576 are entirely different from 631, lines, margins and plate number positions being in no way similar.

I offer a complete sheet of 400 of each of these varieties for $16.00. They are a good investment.

United States "Educators"

This is the name we give to a series of approval books designed especially for those who want to know more about the 19th Century issues of United States stamps and who are interested in filling as many as possible of those empty spaces with stamps that are presentable in appearance and correctly classified.

These "Educator" approval books have helped scores of collectors to find the missing varieties they were not so sure of identifying, and have further given them some idea of values as governed by condition. They are priced for what we think they are worth, perhaps twice catalog, or perhaps ¼ of catalog according to the desirability of the particular specimen.

SENIOR "EDUCATORS"

Are similarly arranged, but designed for those who want only fine copies and who are willing to pay for superior quality.

Both series of "Educators" represent all 19th Century issues with considerable completeness. Ask for any particular issue that interests you, or start with the 1847-51 booklet and work through the lot.

SPECIALIZED SELECTIONS

Made up to suit individual want lists, and include varieties of cancellation, of paper, of printing, of shade. Pairs, strips, blocks, covers; whatever your speciality our stock is at your service and should be of some use to even the most advanced specialist. [H2

The above were drawn and grouped before Dr. Evans began handling the bank note issue cancellations. These year dates have always been of interest to the great number of cancellation collectors. They find many that are apparently alike, only to discover on close application of a measure, compass or millimeter scale, that there are slight variances in the sizes of the cancellations.

For instance, I did not know that there was but this one Liberty Bell. Another has since arrived, this time in bright blue, and the top of the bell is quite different, the top being evidently the wooden part which was attached to the bell originally.

The tops of the figure 7 vary greatly. The 8 is a figure that is hard to cut into cork, and few of these are well cut, same applies to the 6 and the 9, as curves are hard to get a smooth round effect into the finished result, when cut into wood, or cork.

I do not recall having seen many references to the 2c Black Jackson of 1863. It has been my intention to give a few of my findings about this stamp, and here is a start.

Date of Issue.—From the information supplied by Mr. Tiffany, and Mr. Luff, we gather that this stamp was issued on July 1, 1863, as recorded in the U. S. Government Report of 1878, some fifteen years after its appearance. The stamp was approved by Act of Congress, March 3, 1863. This gave but four months to design the stamp, and have it approved, then to have the plates made, and a supply of the stamps printed for public service.

This is a fine record for speed in stamp manufacturing.

I have had access to probably 10,000 of these stamps on the cover, yet the earliest dated cover which I have secured is that of Aug. 7, 1863, used from Philadelphia, a city which was nice to us philatelists in that it generally supplied the year date in its postmarks. As a matter of philatelic record, I would appreciate the mention of an earlier date if any reader happens to have such a cover.

Usage.—In that Act of March 3, the need of this 2c denomination is urged for "Drop" letters. You know that a letter mailed in town to an address in that same town cost the regular rate of 3c prior to this time. After the advent of the 2c stamp, the rate was lowered to 2c. While this is mentioned as the prime purpose for the new value, it seems to me as though the greatest amount of cover has in its "Return" space the same flag on the earth so often seen on patriotic covers of Civil War time. It is printed entirely in red.

Sealed covers used within small towns are uncommon, the bulk of the sealed 2c rate covers come from New York and Philadelphia, and during this same period many folks sent their letters with a 3c stamp when the 2c would have sufficed. They perhaps had a 3c on hand, and no 2c available. Often covers to Canada have three 3c and a 2c, though the rate was only 10c. This meaning that the sender did not have a 1c stamp, and wasted a cent by using a 2c which was ready to be used.

Errors in dating stamps is not unlikely to happen. I have seen a 2c Black Jack postmarked in the year 1861, and believe that there are several such copies known. Have a 3c 1851 cover marked from New York City, May, '81, unmistakably. These error dates are interesting; but to date I canot see any fabulous values belonging with such items.

It took folks some time to really learn that they could send a sealed letter to an address in their home town for 2c instead of the old 3c rate. Same in 1851 when the rate for a letter with a stamp affixed was 3c, whilst if paid at end of quarter, each letter was at the 5c rate. An interesting cover was handed me by Mr. Olin H. Clark. It is postmarked from Buffalo, N. Y., with a "3" below the date—AUG. 14. This 3 is a very fine example of the instruction printed on this cover which reads,—"PRE-PAY—PRE-PAY, Is the order of the day." Will say more about Black Jacks later on.

PHILATELIC ODDS AND ENDS

By B. W. H. POOLE.

British Honduras—There is an interesting variety on the 5c King Edward VII stamps of British Honduras which, though known to some few specialists, seems to have escaped general attention. These King Edward type stamps were all printed by Messrs. De La Rue & Co., Ltd., in sheets of 120 arranged in two panes of 60 each placed side by side. One head-plate of 120 subjects—comprising the whole of the design with the exception of the name in the upper label and the value in the tablet at foot—served for all denominations bearing the portrait of King Edward. Separate duty-plates for the name and value were necessary for each individual denomination and these were of sixty subjects only (one pane) so that each sheet had to go under the printing press three times—one printing from the headplate and two from the duty-plate—before it was quite complete. The same duty-plates were used as had previously been employed in the production of the various Queen Victoria stamps.

On the fourth stamp in the top row of each pane of the 5c value there is a very interesting variety having a larger and thinner "C" and bigger dot below this letter than is the case of any of the other fifty-nine stamps. This was probably caused by some accident to this particular duty-plate making it necessary for the "C" and dot to be re-engraved by hand. The variety does not show on the 5c Queen's head stamps so that wh ever mishap occurred to mar the pl must have happened some time after t last printing of the Queen Victo stamps was made and prior to the fi printing of the King's head emission. occurs on all three varieties—the 5c w Crown CA watermark, the 5c with m tiple Crown CA watermark of 1904, and the 5c ultramarine issued in 1909.

Many minor changes have taken place in these stamps in the last few years, some of which must be considered as provisional in character. The new issue chronicles are now listing a new watermark for some values, perhaps these are the beginning of an entire new issue.

mud Masi.. The two lower values were engraved in blocks of six varieties and the 1 rupee in a block of four, and the types of each are all fairly easy to distinguish. They were all issued imperforate, perforated 12, and with zigzag roulette. The 1 abasi exists in blue as well as the more usual green but is found only imperforate in the former color. This value provides two very distinct shades of green, but the other denominations vary but slightly in hue. All were printed on a thin wove bond paper which sometimes shows letters or parts of letters of a papermaker's watermark—"Howard & Jones, London." These facts are all well known to the specialist, but we have never seen it mentioned that more than one impression of the plate of the 1 rupee—and possibly of the other values as well—was made on the same sheet of paper. In some cases one impression was upside down in relation to the others with the consequence that a so-called tete-beche variety may be found.

The Papua Rift—In a foot-note under the description of the 1907-10 issue of Papua the Scott catalogue says, "One stamp in each sheet has a white line across the upper part of the picture which is termed the rift in the clouds." This statement is not precisely accurate for while this "rift in the clouds" variety may be found upon the 1p, 2p, 2½p, 4p, 6p, and 1sh denominations it does not exist on the ½p. The stamps of this issue were all produced by lithography, a separate stone being required for the frame design of each value. One stone served for the vignette for all denominations with the exception of the ½p, and on this the 23rd stamp has a flaw extending in a semicircular direction across the upper portion of the picture which has been well named as a "rift in the clouds." A special stone was made for the central portion of the design of the ½p—the value to be issued first—as may be proved by the absence of this "rift" variety and the presence of other minor flaws not found in the other denominations. The most prominent of these is a big black spot under the second P of PAPUA on the 21st stamp in the sheet.

Old King Bomba—Every collector who is familiar with the portrait of Ferdinand II on the stamps of Sicily knows this monarch as "King Bomba," but few, probably, know how his majesty won this name. In a history of "Garibaldi's Defense of the Roman Republic," written by Mr. G. M. Trevelyan some years ago, we find the solution. The author explains that the king of Naples and Sicily, "Having by force and fraud recovered his absolute power on the mainland, was attempting to reduce the rebellious island (Sicily) by those methods of Turkish barbarism, which won him the cognomen of Bombo." Then in a foot-note Mr. Trevelyan further explains as follows: "Bomba means a shell. The actual occasion when he won the name was at the destruction of Messina by bombardment, accompanied by a massacre of the inhabitants without respect to age or sex, September 1-7, 1848. This was why he was called Bomba, and not, as a clerical writer of today tells us, en raison de son embonpoint."

I am pleased to state that already eleven collectors have signed up and joined my New Issue Service. A letter from one of them says: "I like the frank way you place this New Issue business before me, and am joining your service because I am satisfied that it will be what you claim for it — a prompt, efficient, deluxe Service."

To those who are willing to pay 32 cts. per shilling I recommend this service.

OUR HONOR CLUB

Theo Smith, Brooklyn, N. Y.
J. Wylie Richardson, Hibbing, Minn.

Our list of Honor Club members will be printed Jan. 30. Your application must be received by Jan. 18. "5 years for $5."

Fred. M. Smith writes us: "The old man is more interested in what is going on than the boy. I have missed the last two numbers and I do not want this to happen again for at least five years, so here is my check for $5." Many thanks, Mr. Smith.

We add to our list of members this week J. Wylie Richardson, school superintendent of Hibbing, Minn. Mr. Richardson considers the WEEKLY OK and looks forward to five years of real pleasure in his regular receipt of our publication.

THE MANAGING EDITOR.

A TURPIN PRICELIST

We have just received from F. B. Turpin, 353 Strand, London, Eng., a very comprehensive pricelist of 88 pages devoted to British Colonials, 1890 to 1927. If you are interested in these stamps, send for a copy, and get acquainted with Mr. Turpin's interesting prices.

United States Postage, Cancellations, Revenues

We list herewith several items of interest to the majority of collectors. In the case of Early Postage and Departments, the condition is far above average, every stamp a sound copy. Later issues of course are fine and with gum where unused. Copies can be supplied in almost all cases at lower or higher price according to condition desired. We solicit your specific wants in anything pertaining to the stamps of United States.

Written for MEKEEL'S WEEKLY.

THE CUBAN AIR MAIL

By HARRY E. HUBER.

For the purpose of speeding up mails between the United States and Cuba, a contract was signed July 19, 1927, between the U. S. P. O. Department and the Pan American Airways, Inc., for transporting by air, from Key West, Fla., to Habana, Cuba, "all first class mail reaching Key West, Florida, for Cuba, excepting registered articles, and except all articles addressed for delivery to the U. S. Naval Station, at Guantanamo, Cuba." A penalty clause specified that the first trip should be made within three months from the date of signing.

Although the contractor was not ready to start operations on October 19th, seven bags of mail (weighing 250 lbs.) were conveyed that day in a small hydroplane, the "Nina," belonging to the West Indian Aerial Express of the Dominican Republic (in December inaugurating a weekly air service between Port au Prince, Haiti, and San Juan, Porto Rico, via Santo Domingo City, D. R.). In this machine, Cy. Caldwell, pilot, took off from the Naval Station, Key West, Fla., at 8.07 a. m., October 19, 1927, and landed in Habana harbor, at 9.07 a. m., the 90 miles being covered in one hour.

There was no return flight from Habana that day, as the contract with the Cuban Government contained no penalty clause, and the inauguration of air mail service from the Cuban capital was deferred until the next week, when the contractor's tri-motored Fokker machines were in readiness.

Key West to Habana, Oct. 19, 1927.

First day letters from Key West, Fla., were machine cancelled "Key West, Fla." in a single lined circle, 21 mm. diameter, having the date in three lines in the center, "OCT 19—7 AM—1927," and a flag of six wavy lines to the right. The covers were additionally handstamped (in carmine or magenta) with an octagonal marking, 59 x 41 mm., displaying a winged insignia in the center (the date "OCT—19—1927" in three lines, being within the small circle between the wings), with a three lined inscription above "First Flight—Under New Contract—Key West—Havana." Below the insignia in three lines is "Foreign—Air Mail Route—Key West, Fla." On arrival at Habana these were backstamped with the special machine cancellation prepared for the first flight northward from Habana, this being a single lined circle, 20 mm., lettered around the inside, "Habana, Cuba, 1927," with the date in two lines in the center "OCT 19—10—AM," and to the right in flag formation, a two lined inscription "ler Viaje Habana-K. W.—Servicio Postal Aereo," over two wavy lines.

Habana to Key West, Oct. 29, 1927.

The first flight from Habana was scheduled for October 28th, and mail deposited for the first trip was so postmarked. However, due to the extremely high winds prevailing that day, and an eleven inch rainfall, the plane did not leave Habana until shortly before noon the next day, October 29th, reaching Key West at 1 p. m. and bringing the first air mail from Cuba to Key West.

Covers conveyed by this first flight were machine cancelled with the special Habana marking described above, with the date and hour in the circle "OCT 28—3—PM." Additionally, there was applied a handstamping, in carmine or purple, of two concentric circles (30 and 20 mm.) lettered between "* HABANA—CUBA * SERVICIO AEREO," with the date in the center in three lines, "OCT 28—1927—3—P.M.," and to the right, between two horizontal lines, "PRIMER VIAJE—HABANA—KEY WEST."

Letters from Key West to Habana are transported by air at the domestic letter rate of 2c, but a 5c charge is made on letters from Habana to Key West.

5c Air Mail Stamp Issued Nov. 1, 1927

As the special air mail stamp, 5c, which the Cuban Post Office Dept. prepared for this service, was not in readiness for issue until November 1st, 1927, first flight covers bear the 5c Calixto Garcia, 1925

Let The Public Be The Judge

Quite often in these columns has been discussed the question of the Original Gum. Do Collectors have to pay for the gum or for the stamps?

The Public will answer to this question with their bids, as in our next 143rd sale, we are offering a very fine Collection of British Colonies, very strong in unused stamps, especially in 20th Century. The Collector, a doctor by profession, has patiently, one by one with a camel brush removed all the gum from the stamps; this to protect his stamps, as in general through the heat or the cold, the gum damages the stamps.

Every stamp in finest and perfect condition, with a superb appearance, so do not fail to ask for a catalogue.

star watermarked, or others of the same series.

First day covers bearing the 5c air mail stamp are postmarked "Nov 1—3—PM," both the machine cancellation and the two concentric circle marking being used.

Subsequent to the first flight, however, the first line of the machine cancellation flag (i. e., "1er Viaje Habana-K.W.") was removed, and two wavy lines substituted; in the two concentric circle marking, the hour is omitted in the circle, and the date appears as "Nov—1—1927," while from the right portion, the first line "Primer Viaje" is omitted, leaving only "HABANA-KEY WEST."

The special 5c air mail stamp was designed by Senor Oscar Fonts Acosta, the printing plates were manufactured by the Security Bank Note Co. of Philadelphia, and the stamps were recess printed by the National Company of Graphic Arts, Habana, on star watermarked paper, single line perforated 12.

The design is in a horizontal oblong, measuring 36 x 21 mm., and shows a seaplane in flight over the Gulf of Mexico off the city of Habana. A portion of Avenida Antonio Maceo is shown, the Malecon (seawall), and in the distance, El Morro, with its lighthouse, guarding the narrow bottle-necked entrance to the harbor. Across the top is "Republica de Cuba—Servicio Aereo," in two lines; vertical panels at the sides contain fronded palms, and at the bottom, between large numerals of value (5) in the corners, is "Correos—Cinco Centavos" in two lines. The lettering and numerals (patterned after that on the current postage stamps) are colorless.

A better view of El Morro and the harbor entrance at Habana is shown on the 10c Entrega Immediata stamp, issued February 24, 1914.

El Morro, standing on a rocky eminence 100 feet above sea level, on the eastern side of the harbor entrance, was erected between 1589 and 1597, being partly hewn out of rock and partly constructed of solid blocks of rock. It commands the narrow entrance, which is barely 1,000 feet across, though inside the harbor expands to a length of 3 miles, and a width of about 1½ miles. Directly across from El Morro, on the western or city side, stands Castillo San Salvador de la Punta (San Salvador of the Point), which dates from 1659. From this point the magnificent boulevard, Avenida Antonio Maceo, extends along the shores of the Gulf of Habana's residential suburb of Vedado, it having been constructed during the days of the first American Occupation (1898-1902).

Nov. 1, 1927. Air mail stamp Seaplane over Gulf of Mexico off the city of Habana. Recess printed by National Company of Graphic Arts, Habana. Watermarked star. Perforated single line 12.

DEATH OF "UNCLE BOB" SHARP

We are informed by a clipping just at hand from Joel H. DuBose that "Uncle Bob," as he was familiarly known by his associates and a great friend of shut-ins, passed on about December 20. His funeral occurred on Dec. 23 at Atlanta, Ga. "Uncle Bob" had a great affection for his stamps. They were his constant companion and a great comfort when he realized the strain and stress of things temporal. Robert E. Sharp, of the "One Man Stamp Club," eccentric but friendly, will long be remembered.

GREECE No. 512

By P. J. DROSSOS, Athens, Greece.

I refer to the note, "that this stamp is only known with vertical perforation through the middle." Has anybody seen a copy not perforated? I have not. Further, has anyone in his possession a stamp of the same issue (which, however, is not listed in Scott's), 20 lepta on 20 lepta blue (Stanley Gibbons' 538a, Senf 260, Michel 223) as I consider it a stamp very difficult to find used and could perhaps trace from the postmark in what Greek province it was used at the time. Further, has anyone seen a Corfu issue, No. 533, but with a surcharge similar to that on Nos. 536-8 i.e., one thick line, instead of two thin ones.

Hejaz (Arabia)

This country has been one of our big sellers, and we undoubtedly have the best stock of these stamps in the New World. Care should be taken in buying, as counterfeits have been freely offered in the American market at bargain prices. Especially is this true of Nos. 22 and 23, fakes of which have been quoted at ridiculous figures. Please note there have been many price advances in the 1928 catalog and also that many numbers have been changed. For those who have not checked up or find trouble in placing, we give the 1927 cat. numbers thus ( ). All the following are fully guaranteed and you can rely on their being O. K. in every respect. The best service we can render our clients today is to protect them against spurious goods. Any of our clients having scarcer stamps of this country they want examined may submit to us if they like. Our charge will be the minimum for labor, time, etc., in checking them up. Anything else wanted please advise, errors, blocks, large panes and other material for the specialist can be supplied in most cases. * Means unused.

This is an almost complete offering of Hejaz stamps and the few not quoted we can often supply. Please bear in mind that Nos. 32 to 39, 49 and 50 seldom come centered and all surcharges on these stamps are likewise rarely centered. We will supply the best copies we can and our stock runs above the average, but those insisting on perfect centering will have to pay a premium for it as not one stamp in ten or twenty comes that way. At prices adv. copies will be supplied that will suit the average.

Santa Claus remembered us this year, through his amiable aid, Mr. LeGrand Payne, Indianapolis; a Columbian 2c stamped envelope bears the beautiful postmark in dark red, Santa Claus, Dec. 25, A. M., 1927, Ind. Stamps were not forgotten and Mr. Vernon Smith of Indianapolis had an envelope sent, bearing a star in stamps at one end and the postmark, Stamps, Dec. 25, 8 A. M., 1927, Ark., in the usual place.

The prospectus of the Midwestern Philatelic Exhibition to be held at Cleveland, Ohio, May 21 to May 26, 1928, by the Midwestern Philatelic Exhibition Company of that city indicates that competent hands are shaping the pretentious project. The exhibition will be held at the Hotel Cleveland and a sketch of the floor space is shown. The rules and regulations give particulars for intending exhibitors and it is noticed that there is space for twenty dealers' booths, about seven by ten feet. The rental price of a booth is $75 for the period of the exhibition. The admission charge will be 25c for adults and 15c for children under 16 years of age; and season tickets may be had for $1.50. The financing of the exhibition will be accomplished through the sale of stock of the exhibition company, consisting of one thousand shares at ten dollars each; and no donations will be accepted. There will be an official catalogue, and advertising seals have been prepared for distribution and may be had from the secretary. The prospectus proves that the managers have entered into the enterprise with an appreciation of its magnitude and the details of the development of the exhibition will be followed intently.

From Mr. Arthur W. Line, Dunkirk, N. Y., we have received a copy of the Dunkirk Evening Observer, Dec. 20, 1927, telling of the forced landing of two airplanes of the Buffalo-Cleveland service, as a consequence of the severe storm and bitter cold, just east of Dunkirk. The story tells of the devotion of Jack Little, the intrepid pilot, to his cargo of mail. By reason of the misadventure of the pilot, Dunkirk had the distinction of receiving the first west bound air mail on the new service. Under Little's direction, the sacks of mail were dragged through the field to a waiting automobile; and heeding the pilot's injunction to get the mail on a train as soon as possible, it was hurried to Dunkirk, where it was placed on a west bound train. Pilot Marsh, flying from Cleveland to Buffalo, came to earth with a frozen carburetor and the Buffalo mail also was hauled to Dunkirk, and put aboard the first train for Buffalo. It is to be added that the mail on the plane that left Cincinnati for Chicago got lost in a snow storm after leaving Indianapolis, between there and Chicago. Compelled to land, the pilot broke his plane in the darkness; and in due course the mail was transferred to another plane that reached Chicago, making a twenty-four-hour trip. Winter flying has its hazards, but the records of accomplishment by the pilots are a tribute to their resourcefulness and courage.

Mr. O. H. Hilding, Chicago, has just received from a correspondent in New Zealand a copy of the ½ penny green, current issue, from the top row with sheet margin, imperforate at top. It is said that two sheets of the stamp were found at Masterton, New Zealand, each with the top row of stamps imperforate at top, with the consequence that there are forty-eight of these varieties in existence. The advantage carried by the top margin in this instance is apparent.

In "Kitty," a recent work that has attained a place among the best sellers, and written by Warwick Deeping, there are several philatelic allusions and while they are not of paramount importance, yet they should be placed on record. Alex was a victim of paralysis as a consequence of his part in the world war and naturally was the object of solicitude, maternally and otherwise. He was confined to his room and the four walls became irksome for contemplation. The mother of Alex, and the doctor, were discussing the progress of their charge, and the doctor said that the patient should have diversions and interests that were "compatible with his condition" and in his wisdom he advised banjo lessons, since Alex had "musical hands" or the collecting of foreign stamps. Evidently, stamps prevailed over the banjo as a choice of interest because some pages later in the book, Leeper the man nurse, appears with the somewhat disconcerting remark that he thinks that his more or less grateful patient probably "is a little tired of sticking in stamps." However, we are pleased that the good doctor includes stamps in his materia medica.

Mr. Henry J. Freiberger, Bronx, New York, sends the following information: "In your issue of December 12th, Mr. G. C. Dudley complains of 'too late information of air mail first flights.' If Mr. Dudley will write either of the two gentlemen named below, he will receive mimeographed information relative to the important flights two or three weeks in advance: Wm. H. Conkling, Postmaster, Springfield, Ill., or B. F. Myers, Traffic Agent, U. S. Air Mail Service, Chicago, Ill." We appreciate Mr. Freiberger's attention and approve of his suggestion. Mr. Conkling's enthusiastic interest in the promotion of the aerial postal service is known and we have referred to the co-operation that has been promised us by Mr. Myers of Chicago.

It is difficult to obtain the news of first flights in time to relay it to readers so that they may plan to get covers. In consequence several of our subscribers have shown their disappointment and one of them intimates that the notices are withheld purposely in order that dealers may have no poaching on their preserves. The fact of the matter is that we cannot compete with the daily papers that tell of new flights and when we have particulars as soon as available, they are not always ready in time for distribution to our readers and subsequent action. Naturally, this circumstance is regretted but even when the use of the wire does not give the proper leeway, we are faced by an obstacle that cannot be removed. For instance, we have just succeeded in obtaining definite tidings of the trip of Captain Joe Donnellan, British Royal Air Force, from Chicago to all the capitals of the South American countries. It is reported to us that he has been authorized by the post office department to carry mail on the trip and that he will leave Chicago on the morning of January 1st, 1928, some time between the hours of 4:30 and 10:00 A. M. The first stop will be Atlanta, Georgia, from where he will proceed to Havana and then go to other Central American cities before making a circuit of the capitals of all the South American countries.

Professor H. H. Schroeder of Normal University, Illinois, is not only a philatelist of the first class but a lecturer of no ordinary merit, as audiences throughout the central states do not hesitate to testify. We are particularly pleased to see in a recent copy of the good old Daily Pantagraph and Bulletin of Bloomington, Ill., a double-column story of a philatelic lecture given by him before the Art Association at Russell gallery, Bloomington. Not alone is the report of the lecture one of great philatelic interest, but we are gratified as well by the inclusion of philately in the range of subjects in Professor Schroeder's reportoire. The auditors were intensely interested in the lecture and, incidentally, three collectors from Gibson City and Le Roy who had seen the announcement of the talk were in the audience.

The New York "Evening World" in referring to the probating of the will of Dr. Lilliendahl of New Jersey, for whose murder his wife and Willis Beach were sentenced recently, says that the entire estate with the exception of the Doctor's stamp collection goes to the widow. The collection of stamps is bequeathed to the little son, Alfred.

WANT LISTS

Collectors and dealers willing to pay about half catalogue prices for stamps, could avail themselves of our exceptional want list approval service. Our stock is fully comprehensive in all countries, Colonial and Foreign, old and new, with only good copies of common to rare stamps. A list of requirements, small or large, receives immediate attention with a prompt reply, which we also expect from our clients. The stamps are sent on approval with no obligation to purchase. What can be supplied is out-of-the-way and really scarce items often surprises new customers. All our stock is for sale with nothing put aside for a rise, but popular stamps cannot be supplied below current market prices. We have, and are willing to supply the stamps. Stock books containing complete selections of any country are available for important purchases, whilst smaller selections can be sent to those having more modest requirements. [eow1

NEW NEWFOUNDLAND STAMPS

By A. B. PERLIN.

(The proposed new issue for Newfoundland is attracting much attention. The following description of the various values is doubtless reliable and we reprint the article as of general interest from "Stamp Collecting". Frank F. Wills also sends us this information from the St. John's "Evening Telegram".—W. O. W.)

1c Green. Map of Newfoundland and the Labrador Peninsula, showing new boundary lines between Newfoundland-Labrador and the Province of Quebec.

The design clearly illustrates the comparative size of Newfoundland and its great dependency. Newfoundland is the tenth largest island in the world, with an area of 42,000 square miles, and Newfoundland-Labrador has an area of 110,000 squares miles. It is interesting to note that the 12c Confederation stamp of Canada illustrates for the first time on a Canadian map the correct boundary line in Labrador. Previous to the final judgment of the Privy Council, Canadian maps gave only the bare coast-line to Newfoundland. The stamp is upright in shape.

2c Red. S.S. "Caribou" with inscription "9 hours to Sydney, N. S."

The "Caribou" is a new steamer, specially built to contend with ice, and is employed by the Newfoundland Government Railway on the passenger, mail, and freight service between Port aux Basques, western terminus of the railway, to Sydney, the Canadian terminus. Shape is oblong.

3c Brown. Oblong with Portraits of Their Majesties the King and Queen in circular frames.

The Queen is on the left, and the portrait, which is a fine one, shows her smiling. His Majesty is in military uniform. Both portraits were approved by Their Majesties. A most attractive stamp.

4c Purple. Upright. Portrait of H.R.H. the Prince of Wales.

Three-quarter face, looking towards the left. The Prince is in military uniform and bareheaded. The Prince's crest also appears on the stamp.

5c Grey. Oblong. Express Train with inscription "Express crossing country."

The cross-country narrow gauge railway of Newfoundland was one of the greatest engineering feats of the last century. The railway traverses 600 miles, from St. John's, the eastern terminus, to Port aux Basques, at the western end, where connexion is made with s.s. "Caribou" for Canadian points. The journey from St. John's to Port aux Basques, including numerous stops en route, occupies twenty-nine hours.

6c Royal Blue. Oblong. View of Newfoundland Hotel.

This hotel was built by private enterprise in 1925-26. The Government, however, guaranteed a bond issue of 450,000 dollars in connexion with the financing of the hotel, which cost over a million dollars. This building was erected in furtherance of the Government's tourist policy. It compares favourably with the best hotels on any part of the American continent.

8c Lavender. Oblong. View of town of Heart's Content, with inscription "Heart's Content. First Transatlantic cable landed 1866."

Most of the cables despatched from Great Britain to Canada and the United States are relayed through the great Western Union offices in this Trinity Bay settlement, where Cyrus Field, after many failures, at last saw his efforts crowned with success.

9c Dark Green. Upright. View of Cabot Tower erected in 1897 in commemoration of Jean Cabot's discovery of Newfoundland four hundred years before.

The tower stands on Signal Hill, the great hill which guards the eastern side of the entrance to St. John's harbour. Remains of old French forts and rusty cannon still lie below the Cabot Tower, relics of the days when the French were, for a short time, masters of the capital of the Ancient Colony. It was on Signal Hill and the plains below that the British forces led by Colonel Amherst compelled the French invaders to surrender their last foothold in North America. This was in 1762. It was by Cabot Tower that Marconi flew his kites, and there received the first wireless message to cross the Atlantic. There, too, within the tower, some twenty years later, the first transatlantic wireless telephone conversation was held with press delegates on the R.M.S. "Victorian." This is not only a historic stamp, but is also of fine appearance.

10c Dark Purple. National War Memorial.

This fine monument was erected on the King's Beach, the very spot where in August, 1583, Sir Humphrey Gilbert took possession of the New Found Land in the name of Queen Elizabeth, thus laying the corner-stone of the great British Empire. The memorial was unveiled in 1924 by Earl Haig, who came specially from England for the ceremony. The colouring of the stamp will not, in my opinion, show it up to the best advantage.

12c Marone. Upright. The General Post Office at St. John's.

A very striking stamp.

15c Blue (not brown as previously reported). This stamp depicts the famous Vickers-Vimy aeroplane in which the late Sir John Alcock, with Sir Arthur Whitten Brown, accomplished the first non-stop transatlantic flight in 1919.

The aeroplane is shown just after rising from Lester's Field, St. John's, where it took off on the great adventure.

20c Grey-black (not greenish blue as reported). Oblong. Depicting the Colonial Buildings, St. John's.

This is the Parliament House of Newfoundland. Its peculiar form of architecture does not, I think, lend itself to the production of an attractive stamp. It strongly resembles a mausoleum, and has a tendency to lean towards the left.

24c Sepia (not royal blue). The Grand Falls, Newfoundland, Labrador.

This is a beautiful stamp, showing to excellent effect the great falls, greater even than Niagara, and which but few white men have ever seen. Those who have seen the Grand Falls have been astounded by the magnificence of the sight. An adventurous American student recently made the journey from the Labrador coast to the Falls and took some excellent motion pictures, which have created a sensation wherever they have been shown. He supplied the photograph used on this stamp. It is almost impossible to estimate the amount of power that may be developed by harnessing Grand Falls.

Service and New Issue Service For 1928

1928 promises to be an important year for the collector of British Colonials, and new issues are expected to show a decided increase. Don't miss them for many a current stamp becomes suddenly obsolete and the price takes a jump.

My agent mails new issues direct from the Crown Agents on date of issue. Send for circular including prices, and details.

Stamps as an Investment

By F. A. SPIELMAN.

Between the pages of an old Album recently purchased I found two old retail price lists, issued by Edwards, Peek & Co., Chicago, Ills., 1880-81. I quote just a few prices taken at random:—5c 1847, used, 7c, unused, 15c; 10c 1847, unused, 50c; 1851 complete set, $1.75; 24c 1869, unused, 50c; 30c 1869, unused, 60c; Executive Dept., complete, used, 60c; Navy Dept., complete used, $1.00; Justice Dept., complete, used, $1.25; Cape of Good Hope 4d triangle, 7c and so on through the list—does this answer the question "Stamps as an investment"

Perplexing Surcharges

R. O.—Roumelie Orientale, i.e., Eastern Roumelia. Stamps of Turkey were used here surcharged with these letters in 1880.

S.—Selangor. This letter, accompanied by a crescnt and star, forms an overprint which is the distinguishing mark of the first stamp used in the Native State of Selangor. The stamp so surcharged was the then current 2c of the Straits Settlements.

S.—Sheriff. An overprint found on certain of the early stamps of South Australia.

S. C.—Supreme Court. Also belongs to South Australia.

S. G.—Surveyor General. Another South Australian overprint.

S. M.—Stipendary Magistrate. Another South Australian overprint found on certain stamps used prior to 1874.

S. P.—Service Publique, i.e., Public Service. The distinguishing overprint of the Luxemburg official stamps of the period 1881-1908.

S. P. M.—St. Pierre and Miquelon. These letters were overprinted on certain French Colonial stamps used in these islands.

JUNIOR STAMP STUDIES

LYRE BIRD
New So. Wales A41
2sh 6d Green

New South Wales approves of showing to the world by means of her postage stamps that she has various animals peculiar to her native heath. Indeed it is surprising how many strange forms are found on the continent of Australia and nearby islands which have no living counterparts in other divisions of the world. On the Centennial issue of 1888 are represented three of these peculiar forms, the kangaroo, the emu and the lyre-bird. The latter has also been taken as the subject for the new 2s6d stamp issued not long since.

The lyre-birds are so called from the peculiar shape of the tail of the male bird. When this is erected, after the manner of the peacock, it has a striking resemblance to the lyre of the ancients. The tail consists of sixteen feathers, the two outermost being the ones that give the lyrate form by their curvature; the two central feathers are very long and narrow, while the remaining twelve look rather more like fern fronds with extremely narrow leaves than they do like feathers. As with the peacock and argus pheasant, only the male bird wears this adornment, the female having a long but ordinary shaped tail. In size the birds are somewhat smaller than domestic fowl and in color are a dull gray-brown.

Disappointment

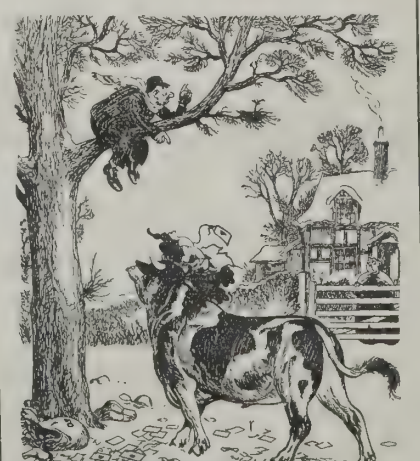
By ARTHUR COWDERY.

(Junior Cowdery writes us that he is not much of a poet but just the same we print his lines. His experience with a mixture is no doubt a frequent occurrence and after reading Arthur's lines our wisdom in tabooing mixture advertising seems justified.—W. O. W.)

You enter the house and slam the door,
Take off your hat, and maybe some more,
Grab your stamp book as never before,
For tight in your hand are stamps galore.

Then sort the packet of stamps you bought,
And look them over, engaged in thought,
Until at last you give a big snort—
Stamps in plenty, but none that you sought.

Thus ends the tale, the variety small,
You wish you hadn't bought them at all.



Village Postman: "Compliments of the season, Mrs. Jubbins, and the next time anyone sends you a red flannel petticoat you might ask 'em to wrap it up a bit better."—London Opinion.

Emil Seifert, Woodhaven, N. Y.

Emil is a live junior with a collection of about 1,100 vars. He sends us Christmas greetings and well wishes with a nice plea for our hobby and its educational features. He sends also a design in colors and writes: "Put some colors on your front page." Sorry, Emil, but not practical yet. We appreciate your great interest in the Junior Page. Emil is 14 years old.

The Naming of Colors

(Clipping from Geo. Kump.)

Geo. Kump, renewing his subscription, sends us the following color information. Persons interested in a color chart may profit by writing Stanley Gibbons of London. If any dealer nearer home has one—tell us.—W. O. W.)

It is impossible to give any real practical help in naming colors, without illustrations; but a few hints may be useful.

Azure is a soft sky-blue.
Bistre is a smoky, yellowish-brown.
Bottle-green is a dark "glassy" green.
Brick is a dull red.
Bronze denotes a metallic lustre.
Brown, a real dusky brown.
Buff, a dull brownish color.
Carmine, a bright full-hued red.
Chestnut, a full, rich, red-brown.
Chocolate, a dark brown with a purplish tinge.
Cobalt, a grayish sky-blue.
Crimson, deeper and duller than carmine.
Cyan-blue, a sky-blue.
Emerald-green a vivid light green.
Fawn, a pale warm brown.
Indigo, the darkest of the blues.
Lilac, a pale violet-blue.
Mauve, a brownish claret.
Myrtle, a dark green.
Olive, a yellowish green-brown.
Plum, a dark purple.
Salmon, a buff pink.
Scarlet, a bright red
Slate, a gray leaden shade.
Straw, a pale yellow
Ultramarine, a dark sea-blue.
Vermilion, a bright red.
Violet, between mauve and blue.
Mauve, between purple and violet.

"Country" Etymology

Poland. From the Slavonic pole meaning plain.

Portugal. Was named after the city Porto, meaning "harbor."

Turkey. The Turks were designated by the Arabs as "turkne" robbers.

Switzerland. Is a modification of the name Schwyz, the chief place of the well known old-Swiss canton of that name. Its name was derived from Switer, a guide.

Spain. Is the Phoenician for "Cony-land."

In Lighter Vein

A Lancashire youth walked up to counter in a certain post-office and ask for a three half-penny stamp. It a peared, however, that he had got t wrong counter for postage stamps, so t clerk said sarcastically, "Next counte can't you read?" The lad said nothi but went and bought the stamp, and ha ing affixed it to the letter, he returned where the clerk was sitting and ask "If I poast this letter to-night, will get to Lundon by to-morrow morning

"Certainly," replied the clerk.

"Well, thee's a liar, it won't, for going to Sheffield," replied the lad a quickly withdrew.

"Have you heard of the new order

"What new order?" eagerly asked reporter making a dive for his pencil.

"Why, that the Government is not ing to issue the postcards any longer."

"Is that so?" said the reporter, much interested, and this time pull out a great tab of soft paper and a stubby pencil.

"That's a fact."

Delighted that he had obtained sc news before the other papers, the porter asked in a whisper, "Where you get your information? What's reason?"

"Why simply because they are l enough already."

The door closed with a bang as reporter slid out.—Postage Stamp.

Collecting Hints

(From "Stamp Collecting Hints" issued of charge by T. D. Bottome, 2934 Shriver Indianapolis, Ind.)

What is the use of collecting stam What are they good for? and sim questions are best answered by sta that postage stamp collecting is a ho wherein the expense is really an inv ment that provides interesting relaxa from the daily routine, whether it work, study, or business responsibili

Stamp collecting is properly ter "Philately." A philatelist is one collects stamps.

The first postage stamp was the "p ny black" of Great Britain issued in 1 It was printed in sheets similar to t of the present time, but the sheets not perforated. The penny black is mitted to be ideal in artistic design up to the present time has had no r It is a desirable stamp to have in e collection.

The most valuable stamp is a plain looking one printed with ordi type and initialed with pen and ink, British Guiana 1c red issued in Found in England in 1873 among old papers and being in a damaged dition, it was sold to a young colle for a few shillings. Some years the collection containing this stamp sold for about $600. A few years this stamp was sold at an auction It was bought by Mr. Arthur Hin Buffalo, N. Y.; the price paid was $32,500. It is reported that $50,000 recently offered for the stamp.

As early as 1842 stamp collecting hobby was ridiculed by the British n papers. In 1862 the first English s catalogue was issued and the first s

ODDS AND ENDS:—

WE have received from E. B. Power the prospectus of a new issue service of British Colonial issues. Anyone who is interested in new issues will do well to write Mr. Power at 15 John St., N. Y. City, for a specimen copy.

THE Syracuse (N. Y.) Stamp Club made a Christmas gift of stamps, albums, stamp mounts, cards, etc., to the boys and girls of two local orphanages. The committee having the matter in charge consisted of Dr. L. P. Deming, A. A. Leve and Herbert Sylvester.

M. R. LAMPSON sends us the particulars of the second annual meeting of the Fresno Stamp Club, held Dec. 6. Nineteen members were present. Louis Gundelfinger told of his experiences during a recent European trip. We are glad to note the activities of this live stamp club.

IF any of our advertisers are unable to secure replies to letters sent Thos. Rebbein, 234 Mason St., Milwaukee, Wis., they will please communicate with the Acme Stamp Co., Box 672, Medford, Oregon.

WE are indebted to Herman W. Boers of Detroit, Mich., for two unique Christmas greetings. One comes from St. Nicholas, Pa., and the other from Santa Claus, Ind. Both are dated Dec 25 and are certainly very appropriate as tokens of Christmas good-will. It takes Mr. Boers to put over an original stunt like this. No wonder Detroit is on the map.

SEVERAL lists are at hand that will gladly be sent applicants: Washington Stamp News, a 16 pp. house organ, with news of real value (C. E. Nickles, 213 Seaton Pl., N. E., Wash., D. C.); Parker's Priced List, 8 pps., covering U. S. and foreign (E. T. Parker, Bethlehem, Pa.); "Stamp Collecting Hints and 1928 Price List," 16 pps. (T. D. Bottome, 2934 Shriver Av., Indplis., Ind.), and Bright and Son's (164 Strand, London, W. C. 2), price list of stamps and accessories. All are good and can be had for the asking.

WE are indebted to Warren G. Ogden for a copy of the Cornell University Bulletin for December. It contains a very appreciative sketch of the activities of our well known philatelist, Chas. Lathrop Pack. Through his generosity Cornell is to have the first professorship of Forest Soils.

THE New Orleans States of Dec. 15 has a column article on the "Yearly Stamp Bill." It is interesting but not philatelic enough to reprint. Thanks to S. D. Blake.

N. R. S. JOLY, who advertises in this issue, comes to us well recommended. His specialty is the Near East. Look up his advertisement.

EUGENE KLEIN, 200 So. 13 St., Philada., Pa., has a nice price list of stamp albums, packets, catalogs and supplies that he will send to any address upon request. Mr. Klein has a fine line of handbooks, including all the Mekeel books.

WE are indebted to Frank F. Wills for a clipping from St. John's Evening Telegram, giving the particulars of the new set of stamps ranging in values from 1c to 24c. We hope to illustrate this in an early issue. Mr. Wills writes that the 24c Caribou has just become obsolete.

ON Monday, Dec. 19th, the stamp collectors of New Castle, Pa., organized the "New Castle Stamp Club." The meeting was held in the rooms of J. R. Dunfee, Allen Bldg., Mill Street. There were eight present as charter members, The following officers were elected:—Pres., Harry G. Marshall; Vice-Pres., Fred Mattle; Sec., D. H. Hennon, and Treas., John Hitch. J. R. Dunfee was elected Sales Manager. He is also Sales Manager for the Sharon (Pa.) Stamp Club. Would like to hear from other secretaries.—D. H. Hennon, Sec., 618 W. North St., New Castle, Pa.

Our extremely large and comprehensive stock, as well as our services, are at the disposal of serious collectors. We feel that we can supply many items missing in most collections; thus we solicit your patronage and would welcome a visit.

ATLAS STAMP CO. (P. C. Smith) W. Somerville, Mass.

Early United States Covers

I have recently acquired a choice lot of early United States covers containing many varieties from the 3c 1861 up to and including such things as the 1857, 24c and 30c, the 5c Buffs and the like. Prices vary from fifteen cents to seven hundred and fifty dollars, and I'll be pleased to send selections to responsible collectors. If you will give me an idea of what you would like to see, I will be glad to pick out a selection likely to be of interest.

There is an unusually nice lot of the 3c 1851 and 1857, showing Railroad, Steamboat, and other odd and unusual cancellations. I also note one or two Confederate varieties, but unfortunately none of the rarities.

One cover unusually attractive, shows an 1857, 5c, 10c and 30c tied to the cover with a bright red postmark. If you are interested in early covers, I am confident there is something in the lot that you will want.

I am also in the market to purchase fine properties of early covers, as well as early mint blocks and singles. The scarcer 20th Century varieties are especially wanted, such as the higher denominations and inverts, and the part perforate items.

In each case, I insist upon very fine condition, for damaged stamps or soiled, unattractive covers do not meet the requirements of my clients.

United States

Washington Notes

As a result of our recent review in which we called our readers' attention to the fact that the Post Office Department had published a little booklet on stamps for distribution, numerous requests from all over the world have been received at Washington asking for this pamphlet.

It is a booklet that should be in the library of everyone interested in United States Stamps, for it fully describes all of the designs and gives further information of philatelic interest. Copies are still available for those who will write to the Division of Stamps % Third Assistant Postmaster General, Washington, D. C., and place in the lower left corner of the envelope, making the request "U.S.P.S."

During the last week of the year the Philatelic Agency has been closed taking Inventory, and no doubt their figures when available will show one of the most active years the agency has ever had.

At the present time, nothing new is contemplated, either in the way of regular or commemorative, or the production by means of the rotary press of varieties heretofore printed by the flat bed method.

As previously stated, the Valley Forge variety is the next in line, and a few letters addressed to the Postmaster suggesting such a stamp, will not be amiss.

Canal Zone

The new 5-cent blue rotary print showing portrait of Roosevelt and perforated 11 x 10½, has received the "Canal Zone" overprint. Mr. R. S. Carter has kindly sent me this stamp and states that they were placed on sale in the Zone on December 13th. With this value at hand, the stamps from the rotary press with the overprint now consist of perforated 10 2c and 10c, and perforated 11 x 10½ 1c and 5c.

Mr. Carter writes that he has been informed that no new rotary prints are expected in the immediate future.

Philippines

In the WEEKLY for October 10th, a statement was made by Mr. Frederick W. Allen that all of the pre-cancelled stamps from the Philippines which he had seen, had received extra cancellations, and that under the circumstances, they were most likely fakes. Mr. Walter Bruggmann kindly calls attention to the fact that this statement is not true, and evidently Mr. Allen had overlooked my previous reference to the pre-cancelled stamps from this island. They do not pre-cancel stamps and use them in the sense that pre-cancelled stamps are distributed in this country, but in the Philippines the pre-cancel takes the place of our perforated initials, and enable the firm to keep track of their stamps, thus preventing theft by employees. Such stamps always receive the usual cancellation when passing through the mail.

Mr. Bruggmann kindly sends me a complete set of these overprinted Philippine Stamps, and states that this is all that has been issued to date. Those that are overprinted "Manila, P. I." between horizontal lines consist of the 2c, 4c, 6c, 8c, 12c, 20c, 26c, 30c and 1 peso, and are used by Howard Lux Company, Rambler Shoe Company, and Bria Rovas, Inc. Those with the same over print, in addition to a capital "A" con sist of the 2c, 4c, 10c, 20c, 30c and peso, and are used by C. A. Alkan.

Those bearing the same overprint wit the letters "C.S." are used by the Can era Supp'y Company, and consist of th 2c, 4c, 30c and 1 peso.

The final series with the letter "H consist of the 2c, 4c, 8c, 6c, 10c, 20c, 3 and 1 peso, and are used by the H. Heacock Company.

All of the above stamps are perforate 11, with the exception of the first 1 pe stamp mentioned, which is the form perforated 10 variety.

Argentine.—Mr. R. Roberts repor that he has received copies of the ½ purple, 2c brown and 5c red, with ne watermark, A.P. sideways in centre of shell of like device, multiple all over.

Australia.—From the Victorian Phil telic Record we learn that there is strong possibility of a new Commonweal series to replace the present unsatisfa tory one. Although nothing definite is yet decided, it is regarded as almost ce tain that such a new series will be issu before the close of next year.—Sta Collecting.

Azores.—The Independence Co memoratives noted under Portugal ha been surcharged in these values for t in this colony: 2c, 3c, 4c, 5c, 6c, 15c, 2 32c, 40c, 96c, 1Esc50c and 4Esc50c. C ies have been received from the Eco m st Stamp Co., Mr. R. Roberts a Whitfield King & Co.

Bulgaria.—Mr. R. Roberts sends recently issued air post stamps for m tion. One is overprinted with device aeroplane in blue on the pictorial is of 4L brown, of 1925-26, and a defin type, with aeroplane in red in transve oval frame. The latter value is 6 le blue and red.

Cuba.—Whitfield King & Co. su mit for chronicle a new 5 centa stamp in blue with a view of an ae plane flying over the coast of Cuba. stamp is of oblong shape and bears two line inscription at the top "Rep lica De Cuba Servicio Aereo" and at base "Correos" with "Cinco Centav beneath. V. SCHWEDE, 107 Columbia St., SEATTLE, WASH.

French Colonies.—Whitfield King & Co. send us the following: The following new colours have been received:—Cameroons 15c blue and red, 20c red and sepia, 30c dark and light green, 45c violet and red-brown, 1fr sepia and magenta. Dahomey, Ivory Coast, Middle Congo, Oubangui, Tchad, Togo, Upper Volta, Wallis and Futuna, all 10c green. French Guinea 20c red and brown, 75c magenta and green. French Oceania 20c red and brown, 30c green. French Somali Coast 20c green and red, 30c green. French Soudan 15c brown and violet. Martinique 30c blue-green and green, 1fr red and green. New Caledonia 75c violet.

Italian Colonies.—Whitfield King & Co. advise that the 3 and 4 lire of the new type of Italian parcel post stamps have been overprinted "Eritrea" and "Libia" for use in these colonies.

Italy.—The new 30c blue and 60c rose stamps, same type as those mentioned, have been received by Whitfield King & Co., and they have replaced the provisionals issued a short time ago.

Jugo-Slavia.—We have just come across an interesting error in the Jugo-Slavia issue of June, 1919, surcharged on the Bosnia Military Post series 1916-17. It is the 30h orange stamp, but the small black design which blocks out the old Emperor's head is missing. This apparently is not catalogued in any catalogue that we have been able to find, and we think it worth mentioning. The copy we have seen was postally used, together with one or two other normal values on a complete registered cover.—Wright & Son.

Patiala State.—Whitfield King & Co. report that the 1a, 2a and 4a current issue of Indian stamps, have been surcharged "Patiala State Service" in two lines in black.

Persia.—The Economist Stamp Co. have received copies of the 1k blue, in the new series. The stamp is of larger size than the 1926 issue, but carries the same portrait as that design.

Portugal.—Copies of the new pictorial issue, engraved and printed by Messrs. De la Rue & Co. of London, have been shown to us by Whitfield King & Co., Mr. R. Roberts and the Economist Stamp Co. The values and designs are 2c brown (Goncalo Mendes da Maia); 3c blue (Castelo de Guimaraes); 4c orange (Goncalo Mendes da Maia); 5c sepia (Dr. Joao des Regras); 6c red-brown (Battle of Montigo); 15c sepia (Castelo de Guimares); 16c deep blue (Dr. Joao das Regras); 25c deep olive-green (Dr. Joao das Regras); 32c deep green (Battle of Montigo); 40c yellow-green (An Amazon of the Revolution); 48c carmine (Goncalo Mendes da Maia); 80c purple (Castelo de Guimaraes); 96c vermilion (Amazon of the Revolution); 1e60c steel-blue (Dr. Joao das Regras) and 4e50c olive-bistre (Dr. Joao Pinto Ribeiro). The central vignette is in black and the perforation is 14. They were for use on the 29th and 30th of November and December 1st and 2nd last.

South West Africa.—The South African Philatelist in its October issue gives us the following:—"Further values of postage due stamps have received the English and Afrikaans overprint. They are the 2d, 3d and 6d (old design, Pretoria printing), and 5d Transvaal. The 5d value is already obsolete. Only a small quantity was overprinted, and no re-issue is likely, as stocks of 5d Transvaal postage due stamps are now completely exhausted. Thus, after a long life (it outlived all the De La Rue printed Union dues), this stamp, overprinted and unoverprinted, has gone obsolete. The Transvaal Postal Department must have had a very large quantity printed, for the stamp remained on continuous issue for twenty years, and if it had not received various S. W. African overprints its life might have run on for another ten years.

UNCLASSIFIED ADLETS

Minimum two lines.

This column is for the use of our patrons who desire only a few lines of space. If you want to buy, sell, exchange, it is without doubt the best advertising medium in the world. It is impossible to guarantee advertisers in this department, and patrons must satisfy themselves as to the reliability of the parties with whom they desire to engage in business relations.

RATE.—30c per line, cash in advance. No display allowed. Six words (32 letters) to the line, including address. We offer 50 lines for $2.50, where cash is paid in advance. This space can be used at such times and in such quantities as may be desired.

WHEN ordering stamps write "As per advt. in MEKEEL'S"

The high value pictorials with the two-line overprint are rising rapidly in value, and will prove a fine investment. It is obvious that of some values only small quantities were overprinted. The 'wider spacing' variety, which did not occur on all sheets, is already very difficult to acquire."

Sudan.—Mr. R. Roberts has shown us the 2mils orange and chocolate, with the new S. G. multiple watermark.

Sweden.—Mr. R. Roberts sends for chronicle the 15 ore carmine, perf. 10 all round.

Switzerland.—Whitfield King & Co. and Mr. R. Roberts have shown us the 1927 Pro Juventute set of stamps, watermarked multiple crosses, except the 30c, which is on plain paper and of larger design. Values are 5 (+ 5c) purple and yellow on drab; 10 (+ 5c) green and brown on green; 20 (+ 5c) scarlet and 30 (+ 10c) black and blue. Two of the values bear the careworn features of Herr Pestalozzi, the Swiss Santa Claus, while the other two designs are of a Swiss waif and an orphan at school, respectively.

Union of South Africa.—The South African Philatelist prints the following interesting information:—"The new 2d postage due may be had in two shades, namely with the frame in pale mauve and in deep mauve. We understand that the new 3d due is ready for issue to post offices, and that its colours are blue and black. The 4d King's Head is again on sale at the Johannesburg P. O., although the triangulars may still be had on request."

NEW ISSUES AND NOTES

(Whitfield King's "Monthly Bulletin," Ipswich, Eng., 36c per year.)

ARGENTINA.—We have received the current 5 centavos scarlet stamp No. 284 with a new watermark, A.P., enclosed in a pear-shaped frame, the initials stand for "AHORRO POSTAL," and we are informed that this is a special watermarked paper previously used exclusively for the Postal Savings Bank stamps. Evidently the issue is a provisional one, but we are not informed as to whether other denominations will follow with this new watermark.

ESTONIA.—The War Memorial stamps have now been issued. The 5 marks stamp bears a view of the Estonian town Kuresaar (previously called Arensburg during the Russian occupation); the 10 marks shows the town of Dorpat (Tartu); the 12 marks represents a photograph of the Estonian Parliament at Reval; the 20 marks a view of the town of Narva, and the 40 marks a view of Reval (Tallinn). These stamps will be on sale if the stock holds out until December 19th, and will be valid for postage until January 18, 1928.

FEDERATED MALAY STATES.—The $1 stamp of the current issue has now appeared in a new colour, emerald and grey-green instead of green, the tablets containing the figure of value and the words "Federated Malay States" are printed in emerald green, the rest of the stamp in grey-green.

GIBRALTAR.—The £1 stamps on red paper have been unobtainable for some months. Now without any previous intimation a new £1 stamp has been issued of the same design, but printed in orange and black on white paper, script watermark.

GREECE.—A special set of stamps has been prepared to commemorate the centenary of the naval battle of Navarino, in which Admiral Codrington annihilated the combined Turkish and Egyptian fleets. Special festivities were held at Navarino on October 20th to celebrate the centenary of this historic battle, and we understand that two denominations of these stamps were placed on sale, 1dr 50lep and 5 drachmae, the former showing a picture of the Bay of Navarino where the naval battle took place, and the latter with a portrait of Lord Codrington. Our Athens correspondent kindly informs us that these two denominations were placed on sale at Pylos, near Navarino, on the anniversary date, but none of the series have thus far been issued to the Postal Authorities in Athens.

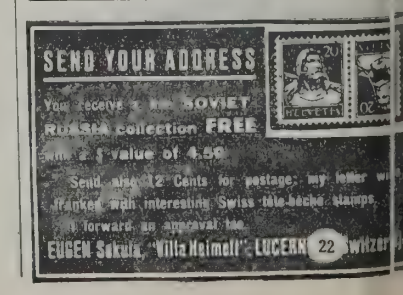
EMILY KING,

P. O. Box 753, Halifax, Nova Sc



It is expected, however, that they will be put on sale in the near future.

HOLLAND.—We have seen enlarged illustrations in correct colours of the new set of Child Welfare stamps, which will be put on sale on December 15th for one month only. There will be four values as follows:—2c + 2c lake and violet, Arms of Drente; 5c + 3c green and yellow, Arms of Groningen; 7½c + 3½c red and black, Arms of Limburg; 15c + 3c blue and brown, Arms of Overyssel. Only the postal value is shown on the stamps, the overcharge which goes to the Child Welfare Fund is not indicated.

IRISH FREE STATE.—In our recent importations of the 2/6, 5/- and 10/- stamps, we have discovered that quite a new printing of these three stamps has been made. It will be remembered that the first "Saorstat" overprint on these denominations showed the date with wide setting, which was the work of Messrs. Alex Thom & Co. In 1925 the overprinting was undertaken by the Government Printing Office, and the numerals "1922" were closer together. The new discovery we refer to shows the wide and the narrow setting of the date on the same sheet, the overprinting being rather badly done and more or less blurred and easily distinguishable from either of the two earlier printings, which are well printed and the spacing uniform over the entire sheet. On a complete sheet of the 2/6 stamps before us, we find that there are fourteen stamps with the narrow setting of the date and twenty-six with the wide setting. We have no information as to where the overprinting has been done, or how it is that the two varieties occur on the same sheet, but in view of the fact that the overprinting is rather badly executed, we think it must be a provisional printing, and in any case, even if they are of the current issue, we think that pairs showing the two varieties will be quite a good thing, as the new permanent high values may be expected at any time.

JAMAICA.—In a recent importation of stamps from this country we notice that the 2½d denomination is quite a new shade, pale blue instead of the very deep blue.

LEBANON REPUBLIC.—We have received the 15 piastres on 25 piastres stamp with the words "Republique Libanaise" above the value instead of below as was the case in the first printing. Our agent at Beyrout, in reply to an enquiry we sent him, states that the rumour recently circulated that a special issue of stamps is being prepared for the Jebel Druze is quite untrue.

LUXEMBOURG. — New Child Welfare stamps will be issued on December 1st bearing a portrait of H.R.H. Princess Elizabeth, the denominations being as follows:—10c + 5c, 50c + 10c, 75c+20c, 1 franc + 30c, 1½ francs + 50c. The sale of these stamps will be continued until January 15th, on which date they will be withdrawn from use and any remaining stock destroyed. The stamps will be available for both inland and foreign postage until June 30, 1928, after which they will be demonetised.

PALESTINE.—Just before the new pictorial issue was put on sale the 13 milliemes stamp of the previous overprinted issue was issued in quite a different shade of blue, the first printing was ultramarine, but the last is bright blue, and as we understand this latest shade was on sale for only a few weeks before the new issue appeared, it is likely to be quite a scarce stamp.

PORTUGAL.—A new set of pictorial stamps to commemorate the Independence of Portugal was issued on November 29th, and their use will be compulsory on November 29th, 30th, December 1st and 2nd. The denominations are as follows:—2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 15, 16, 25, 32, 40, 48, 80, 96 centavos, Esc. 1.60 and Esc. 4.50. Twelve denominations have been overprinted for the Azores.

SOUTH WEST AFRICA.—With further reference to the 5d Transvaal Postage Due stamps with the new Afrikaans overprint "Suidwes" instead of "Zuidwest," we are officially informed that only a very small quantity of these stamps were issued and that no more are obtainable.

TRANS-JORDAN.—We are officially informed that the whole of the remaining stock of the overprinted issue was destroyed on November 1st, the new stamps showing the portrait of His Highness the Amir Abdullah have now been issued.

TONGAN PERFORATIONS

By B. W. H. POOLE.

Several years ago quite a number of articles appeared on the subject of Tongan stamps, but one little point regarding the perforations of the handsome pictorial issue of 1897—a point which should be of interest to the specialist if not to the general collector—seems to have been quite overlooked. This attractive set of picture stamps was engraved and printed by Messrs. De La Rue & Co., of London, but as this concern had no combmachine that could be used for perforating stamps of these differing shapes and sizes, single-line machines were used. At least two machines, differing in the size of the holes made, but each having the same gauge of 14, were employed. The differences are quite easy to distinguish in the case of blocks of four or more. The holes made by one machine, which we will call "a," are not only larger, but are also more "ragged" or uneven than those punched by the second machine which we will differentiate at "b." The following is a list of the varieties we have seen but it is quite possible that specialists will find many other combinations:

½p deep blue (A)
1p red and black (B)
2p bistre and sepia (B)
2½p blue and black (B)
3p green and black (B)
4p violet and green (A x B)
5p orange and black (B)
6p vermilion (B x A)
7½p green and black (B)
10p carmine and black (A x B)
1sh brown and black (A x B)

Postage Stamps And Their Use As Illustrative Material

ROGER C. HACKETT, Bosse High School,
HENRY A. MEYER, Central High School,
Evansville, Indiana.

Introduction

It is the thesis of this article that postage stamps, because of their inexpensiveness, portability, ease of display, and great variety of historically interesting designs, can be used to advantage in classes in modern European and American history, and to a lesser extent in other history classes, to arouse, stimulate, and sustain pupil interest, to vivify drab facts, to correlate various fields of knowledge, and in general to illustrate the courses.

There has been remarkably little discussion of the use of postage stamps as illustrative material in history classes. None of the various manuals on the teaching of history and civics (Tryon, Johnson, Keatinge, Kendall and Stryker, Hinsdale, Wayland, Hall, Tuell, Knowlton, Klapper,) devote more than a casual mention to the subject, if they do that much, in their discussions of illustrative material. The same may be said for the reports of the various committees of the American Historical Association and the National Education Association on history teaching, and of the various works on the teaching of the high school subjects in general. Finally the periodical indexes and the indexes to the Historical Outlook itself reveal no material whatsoever on the subject.

Several reasons account for the foregoing and also for the failure of more teachers to use postage stamps as illustrative material. The chief reason may be ascribed to the general ignorance of postage stamps and of the fact that they do have a considerable educative value. In the second place, nearly all teachers have been stamp enthusiasts for a brief time during their "teens," or have had friends who were, and in consequence, many of them think of stamp collecting only as a harmless juvenile hobby in which it behooves them, as adults, to show no interest—or at least only a supercilious and superior interest! On the other hand some teachers have delved more deeply into philately (meaning literally, "love of stamps"), and they know it as an art or science (it has been called both) of great complexity and one incapable of being mastered or even adequately understood without considerable study. In the fourth place, teachers discount the value of stamps because of their small size. Finally, teachers have failed to use stamps in their classrooms because of the supposed rarity and expensiveness of so many of them, and because of their ignorance as to where they could be obtained.

All of these objections to the use of postage stamps, or reasons for their non-use, may be answered. In regard to the general ignorance of stamps, most people would be surprised to learn, that, since the time when Sir Rowland Hill first conceived the idea of adhesive stickers indicating prepaid postage, nearly ninety years ago, about 45,000 major varieties of stamps have been issued by the different governments of the world. Many of these stamps are rich in historical interest, definite evidence of which will be adduced hereinafter. In passing it may be noted that stamps are valuable as illustrative material in many other subjects besides history. In 1899, John N. Luff, a philatelist of recognized authority, delivered a lecture before the Brooklyn Institute of Arts and Sciences on "What Philately Teaches," and he touched on the following subjects: anthropology, archaeology, astronomy, biography, botany, economics, ethnology, geography, heraldry, history, mythology, and zoology.

In regard to the second objection that interest in postage stamps is unworthy of an adult, the names of the following well-known individuals who have shown such an interest may be mentioned: King George V, the Prince of Wales, Queen Elena of Italy, the Crown Prince of Sweden, Prince Hiroyasu of Japan, and Nicholas II, the martyred czar of Russia. Because of the number of its royal followers, stamp collecting is sometimes called "The King of Hobbies and the Hobby of Kings." Other prominent men interested in philately include Charles

MODERN Business Methods

Is it an advantage to you to have your orders filled promptly with carefully selected, undamaged stamps neatly placed on approval cards with the correct (and you can depend on this) catalogue number marked under each stamp or to have your inquiry for some stamp or for some information you need promptly and courteously answered?

If so, I invite correspondence, as this is a part of the service, which has permitted me rightly to use the slogan of "The House of Satisfaction"

Lathrop Pack, president of the American Forestry and Conservation Congress, Hon. E. R. Ackerman, M. C., and Hon. Joseph S. Freylinghuysen, ex-United States senator from New Jersey, William H. and H. J. Crocker, millionaire San Francisco bankers, Generals H. H. Bandholtz and Charles A. Coolidge (a cousin of the president and recently deceased), of the United States army, and Col. E. H. R. Green, son of the late Hetty Green. Henry J. Duveen, the famous New York art dealer and connoisseur who died a few years ago, was probably more interested in his valuable stamp collection than in the paintings he bought and sold. Many other well known "stamp men" who are no longer in the ranks of the living might also be mentioned.

It has been estimated that there are 1,000,000 people interested in stamp collecting in the United States, among whom are goodly numbers of doctors, lawyers, ministers, authors, teachers, actors, engineers, politicians, merchants, manufacturers, and army and navy officers. There are several national philatelic societies, the oldest of which, the American Philatelic Society, dates from 1886. It has had recognition as a "learned society" by the World Almanac and other publications. Local philatelic societies, most of which are branches of the national organizations, are found in all the larger cities. There have also been at various times local and national fraternal philatelic organizations with degrees, ritual, etc.

The various national societies have a total membership of over 10,000. Each has several officials who devote their entire time to the work of the society and who earn their living thereby. Each holds an annual convention and issues a monthly magazine and a yearbook. Periodically the chief philatelic association of some nation sponsors a great international exhibition of stamps and accessories, at which there are prizes for excellence in various classes. There have been some half dozen of these philatelic "world's fairs," the most recent of which was held in New York City October, 1926. Stamps valued at over $2,000,000 were there displayed in the Grand Central Palace. All this goes to show the dignity of philately and how far above the ordinary "juvenile hobby" idea it is.

The objection that philately is a very complex subject is easily met by the answer that its complexity does not have to obtrude in the mere use of stamps as illustrations. Numismatics, heraldry, and cartography — all subjects with some kinship to philately — are also complex, but that does not prevent a layman from gaining some understanding of them, or the calling of them into use in the history class. The different designs of postage stamps, which number about 4,000 (the same design, of course, often serves for many denominations), are usually the only thing of interest to teacher and pupil.

It is true that stamps suffer from th size, nearly all of them being less th one inch square — some, indeed, bei hardly a quarter that size — and t largest (Venezuela, 1903) being less th three inches square. Not all stamps, i cidentally, are rectangular. A number countries have issued triangular stam and one or more have issued circul rhombus, diamond shaped, and octago stamps. Liberia in 1909 issued a star which looked like a small book and whi consequently gave the illusion of bei in three dimensions. The small size stamps, regardless of their shape, usua necessitates individual examination, eith by passing specimens around the class by displaying them on the bulletin boa However, this has the compensating a vantages of arousing curiosity and for ing a close examination. Most stam also have the advantage of being fine engraved and of being printed in colo — many of them in several colors. A stamps have a flavor of age, distance, a officialdom about them which other illu trative devices usually lack. Stamps whi portray landscapes or seascapes also ha the advantage of showing a great deal a small space. However, the best answ to the size argument is the fact that t size of stamps may be increased as mu as the teacher desires thru the use of t Balopticon or some similar projecti machine.

Although some stamps, because of the extreme rarity, are almost fabulous expensive and great numbers of othe command prices in the hundreds and ev in the thousands of dollars, the gre

DURING the past year I have purchased and broken up some Fine Collections of 19th Century Foreign Stamps, some that you need to fill those empty spaces, British Colonies, Old Europe, South America, a fine assortment on hand. Send in your Want List with References, or Better yet, write for one of my Handy Want Check Lists.
CLEVELAND CADY, TENAFLY, N. J.

majority of them cost only a trifle. One hundred different stamps can be purchased for a few cents, a thousand for less than a dollar. Usually the more expensive stamps are not of interest in themselves as illustrative material in history. Oftentimes also an expensive stamp is exactly like an inexpensive one to the uninitiated, the difference being perhaps in the watermark, the perforation, the shade, the paper, or in some minutiae of the engraving.

Have You a Surplus of These?

We always want to buy for ready cash and at the top of the market anything fine in early U. S. stamps or covers. If you have a specialized collection of any stamps or series; a find of old correspondence; an accumulation of 3c '51s, '57s or '61s on or off cover; patriotic covers of the Civil War, either Confederate or Union, or of the Spanish American war; a few thousand Bank Note issues, even the common 2c and 3c stamps if there are enough to bother with.

Send them to us with your best cash price. Particularly if you have items you think are worth more than anyone else will pay, for that is just the kind we want. Our check or the stamps will come to you by return mail if you ask it.

Just now we are anxious to spend some real money for fine items, but don't want the culls at any price.

HOW COLLECT PLATE NUMBER STAMPS

By R. W. BECKER, Treas. Philatelic Plate Number Assn.

Every collector should give preference to the stamps of his own country. I know of no better hobby than the accumulation of the many thousands of varieties of U. S. postage stamps, and the mounting of a representative copy of each in an orderly manner in an album. You may not have the means to purchase every major variety of the early U. S., but you can start today and buy every variety sold at the Post Office and make up an attractive and interesting collection which can be sold at any time at face value or better.

The Bureau of Engraving and Printing at Washington places a number on the margin of every plate made, from which the postage stamps are printed. On sheets of 400 stamps printed by the flat bed presses, this number appears twice on each of the four sides. The top right-hand number always has an "F" prefix which does not appear on any of the other numbers. There are, therefore, two different top numbers; one with and one without the "F" prefix. This gives us the plate numbers in five different positions with respect to the stamps; the two top positions, right, left and bottom. These are usually collected in blox of six with the numbers on the margin opposite the middle stamp of the block.

Stamps printed on the rotary press in sheets of 400 have the plate number appearing only in the four corners. There are, therefore, only four positions to collect. These are usually collected in blox of four.

All stamps used by the Post Office Department can be obtained with the plate numbers attached, with the exception of the present rotary booklet panes and the coils from which the numbers have been trimmed off. Former issues of these have the plate numbers on the margin.

Plate number one was made by the Post Office Department about 1894. Today we have passed the 19,000 number, which appears on one of the recent "Lindbergh" stamps. Current issue stamps with plate numbers can be obtained at every Post Office and Sub-station. There are still some plate numbers in circulation below the 15,000 numbers. You can buy these at face value and thus avoid the dealer's profit.

It is safe to say that no P. O. receives all the plate numbers as issued. The best chance to get them all is to purchase from a large number of post offices. I visit many post offices and sub-stations and have many friends throughout the country who are buying these stamps at the local post office for me.

In order to improve the appearance of the collection, I keep only top and bottom plate numbers on the single copies, but take the rotaries in any position. As I get them, I trim the margin with the Plate Number down to about ¼" or 5/16" so that all stamps will have a uniform appearance. I then put them into a stock book with transparent pockets and assign one pocket to every twenty-five numbers. As I get them nearly complete, I mount them in loose-leaf albums. By the use of this stock book, I can very quickly find any number I want and insert any new number quickly into its proper place.

The best way to obtain all the plate numbers issued and in use, is to exchange with collectors in other communities, and the more collectors you know and the wider they are scattered throughout the country, the better your chances for success. With this object in view, the Philatelic Plate Number Association was organized and is steadily growing in numbers. Its members reside in nearly every state of the Union. The Association also distributes news to the members and assists them in many ways.

I started to collect stamps with plate numbers about five or six years ago, and now have over 11,000 different numbers. You can start to collect today, and start with any number you choose. You can easily get the numbers from 14,000 up. I know collectors who have started with numbers, 1, 5,000, 10,000, 12,000 and 14,000 respectively.

Get your friends and postal clerks to save the plate numbers for you. Trade the duplicates for the numbers you need. You can easily dispose of ten to fifteen copies of the same number. Invest as you collect. You can not lose in mint U. S. Stamps.

My next article will be "How I Mount My Plate Number Collection."

THE PANAMA STAMPS FOR LINDY

Just as we go to press, we receive clippings from the Star & Herald of Panama, Republic of Panama, of December 24, 1927, through the courtesy of our correspondent at Ancon, Canal Zone, Mr. A. W. French, that give a graphic account of the proposed special Lindbergh visit issue. We realize the interest and importance of this news which has a decided bearing on the editorial on the subject in this issue, which is invalidated by the later news, so far as its surmises as to the character of the issue is concerned.

SPECIAL ISSUE OF POSTAGE STAMPS WILL COMMEMORATE "LINDY'S" VISIT TO PANAMA

STAMPS TO DEPICT LONE EAGLE'S FLIGHT O'ER THE ISTHMUS AND HIS LANDING

Arrangements Already Made Whereby Stamps Will Be Printed By Panama Canal Press In Three Days And Will Probably Be In Circulation In Next Week—Entertainment Program Planned To Cover Six Days, One Day Being Assigned to Colon—Length Of Program Depends On Lindbergh's Stay Here

A special issue of postage stamps, an event reserved only for the most important national occasions, will commemorate the visit of America's Air Ambassador, Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh, to Panama next month.

The proposal for the special postage stamp issue was approved at yesterday's Cabinet meeting and, according to the present plans, the issue will consist of 300 000 two cent stamps for domestic service and for mail destined to countries of the Pan-American Postal Union, and 150,000 five cent stamps for the Universal Postal Union service. Regarding the quantity of stamps to be issued a final decision has not been reached yet; the proposal adopted by the Cabinet apparently contemplated an issue of 500,000 two cent stamps and 250,000 of the five cent denomination, but the Post-Office Department has decided to suggest a reduction to the first figures given and all tends to indicate that this suggestion will be accepted.

Post-office officials explained that the smaller figures would make the issue more important, giving greater value to the stamps in the future and would create greater interest among philatelists.

Different designs have been selected for the two denominations of the Lindbergh commemorative stamps; one will show the "Spirit of St. Louis" flying over the Isthmus, and the other the now world famous plane descending on the field at Matias Hernandez with the tower of Old Panama in the background. Both designs were made by Pallete Varas.

According to information obtained from the Post-office Department, arrangements have already been made

I HAVE NOW PREPARED A MAGNIFICENT NEW SERIES OF APPROVAL BOOKS OF NEWFOUNDLAND

No. 1.—1857-1862. Finest selected copies of early "pence issues", the unused are nearly all with gum, and are arranged by the printings on thick, medium and thin papers. All shades in stock are included, where possible in singles, pairs and blocks. In the rare carmine-vermilion there are copies of the 2d, 4d, 6d, 6½d, 8d, and 1/-, also a 4d on cover and bisection of the 8d on whole cover dated Sept. 4, 1860, and a superb horizontal half of a 1/- on half a cover, guaranteed by Stanley Gibbons and coming from the Leicester-Payne collection.
No. 2.—1860-1863. Finest selected. whereby these stamps will be printed by the Panama Canal Press at Mount Hope in three days and they will probably be put into circulation next week, that is a few days before Col. Lindbergh's arrival on the Isthmus. They will remain in circulation for a period of three months, which is considered sufficient for the consumption of the entire issue.

The cost of this special issue of stamps, which will be slightly smaller than those now in circulation, will be about $1,000 to be paid for entirely by the Post-office Department, which will obtain more than $9,000 from the sale of the entire issue.

It is understood that the proposal for the special stamp issue originated with a group of officials of the post-office departments of Panama and the Canal Zone, who worked jointly on the proposal finally approved by the Cabinet.

METROPOLITAN STAMP COMPANY
1482 BROADWAY NEW YORK CITY

THE MIDWESTERN PHILATELIC EXHIBITION

CLEVELAND, OHIO, MAY 21-26, 1928

By W. W. MACLAREN, Chmn. Publicity Com.

During a recent conversation with a leading New York dealer he made this statement. "I am thoroughly convinced that nothing promotes our hobby more than public stamp exhibitions."

"After the New York show last year, our business showed such tremendous gains that I started out to see if there wasn't some way by which similar exhibitions on a smaller scale could be held in various parts of the country. While I was mulling around, and getting nowhere, you fellows here in Cleveland solved the problem."

Back of this exhibition is a factor that must not be overlooked. Cleveland, the home of the Garfield-Perry Stamp Club, is located in the center of a territory within easy traveling distance, that embraces a number of cities in which philately is well organized. I refer to such cities as Detroit, Buffalo, Pittsburgh, Cincinnati, etc., etc., each with one or more live stamp Clubs.

Of even more importance is the very cordial feeling existing between the various clubs in this region. Many members of one club are associate members of others, and visits for the purpose of exhibiting collections, helping to celebrate an anniversary, or merely to make a friendly call, are common affairs.

The purpose of organized philately, as set forth in the constitution of nearly all societies and clubs is "the promotion of philately." Now, frankly, what do we do as organizations to "promote philately?" Is it not a fact, that the chief functions of our societies, their sales departments, official journals and annual conventions, are of interest only to members, and that these and minor activities fail utterly to reach the "non" and "ex" collector, or in fact, the "novice" and "junior?"

Our Clubs are a gathering place for collectors—we would be quite shocked if on some meeting night, say a dozen non-collectors showed up to get acquainted with our hobby—and we have a good social time, are entertained, and perhaps buy or sell a few stamps. But with rare exceptions, that is all we do, and not much of that is "promotion" work.

The Garfield-Perry Stamp Club, with associated Clubs, at present consisting of the Sharon Stamp Club, Sharon, Pa., the Philatelic Society of Pittsburgh, Pa., Rubber City Stamp Club, Akron, Ohio, Toledo Stamp Club, Toledo, Ohio, Detroit Philatelic Society, Detroit, Mich., Michigan Stamp Club, Detroit, Mich., Buffalo Stamp Club, Buffalo, N. Y., Mahoning Valley Stamp Club, Youngstown, Ohio, East Liverpool Stamp Club, East Liverpool, Ohio, Batavia Stamp Club, Batavia, N. Y., and McKinley Stamp

I am pleased to state that already eleven collectors have signed up and joined my New Issue Service. A letter from one of them says: "I like the frank way you place this New Issue business before me, and am joining your service because I am satisfied that it will be what you claim for it — a prompt, efficient, deluxe Service."

To those who are willing to pay 32 cts. per shilling I recommend this service.

Sevard's Twinkles

Now that the New Year is here, one wonders what we shall do with it. This being a presidential year, perhaps someone will inaugurate proceedings to knock the standard catalog off its hinges.

Adlerika himself divinates that the 5c New York should be classified as Palestine No. 1, in the new catalog

DID YOU EVER NOTICE THE DIFFERENCE BETWEEN THE AIRPLANES AS PICTURED ON THE INTERNATIONAL MACHINE SLOGANS AND THE UNIVERSAL MACHINE CUTS? THEY DIFFER, BUT EITHER SAVES TIME, AS ANYONE WILL EASILY OBSERVE.

A split guide line on the current 2c horizontal coil is an oddity as the split is about 2mm wide. The cause of this might be a ruler slipping, and rulers often slip, as witness The Private Life of Helen of Troy.

If we didn't think it tremendously facetious, we would moralize on the recent A.P.S. notice "Death of Applicant Pending."

We are informed that there were approximately 1,700,000,000 Christmas Anti-Tuberculosis seals printed this year, printing being done in three different plants. Differences in copies are noted, but subdivision into types is not expected.

THE FOLLOWING ANNUAL CHRISTMAS PASTERS HAVE BEEN SEEN: SAINT ANTHONY GUIDE; WHEAT RIDGE COLORADO LUTHERAN SANITARIUM.

The Die A 2c white envelope occurs about 80% on copies noted. This surely makes other dies much scarcer, altho Die H is common, and Die H2 much less common.

The new 1c booklet stamp with compound perfs. has been issued without eclat. And believe us, each stamp should have eclat, hence our fanfare. As Shakespeare says, "A tucket sounds."

Someone objects to our doctrinaire views as to the cheap and lowly varieties, when as stampdom only thrills to the croupier's call, and the dissonance of the whirling pellets of rarity. Fruits out of season are costly, and raspberries in winter are not without epicurean gustatorian comment. The famous Scotch album in which only one cent catalog stamps are placed with blank spaces for stamps found or accidentally acquired is not new, but as Mark Twain remarked, "The peach was once a bitter almond; cauliflower is nothing but cabbage with a college education." And as the prof poeted once in moments of vapid infection:

SPEND NOT YOUR WEARY STEPS IN PILGRIMAGE TO PLYMOUTH ROCK, BUT SEEK ANOTHER STONE TO MARK AND FOUND A DESTINY.

The 2c perf. 11 x 10½ in perfect condition is quite scarce, as it usually appears with one or two defections as to centering. The 2c horizontal coil over a period of five years' observance, is much scarcer in perfect condition than a White Plains stamp, which had so little use. The catalog from which we glean these stupendous figures, is now on the clothes press.

FIVE-YEAR HONOR CLUB

George W. Corwin, Bronxville, N. Y.
Walter S. Bull, Cortland, N. Y.

We have two new members for our Five Year Honor Club for New York State. They are George W. Corwin, Bronxville, N. Y., and Walter S. Bull, Cortland, N. Y. Mr. Bull has been with us for more than a score of years and to show that he is an old friend we quote from his letter:—

"I have around somewhere now a special number bearing a reproduction of the five pound Great Britain in orange on the cover, which was a monumental piece of philatelic work in those days, and which would be a credit to any publishers even today."

THE MIDWESTERN EXHIBITIO

Club, Canton, Ohio, are sponsors of t Midwestern Exhibition. Other Clu within the territory have been invited "join in," and several will doubtless soo be added to the above list.

The Clubs mentioned have a tot membership of over six hundred collec ors, many of them being well know thruout the country for the excellen of their collections, and their study ar research labors in philately. While the collectors alone could furnish materi that would make a first-class exhibitio it has been considered advisable to a cept exhibits from all parts of t United States and Canada.

Many prominent collectors in oth sections are offering to exhibit, and v believe that from the standpoint of qua ity, the Midwestern will compare favo ably with any exhibition held in th country. Details of the exhibition ha been published in the philatelic press, ar a copy of the prospectus will be maile to anyone desiring same upon applicatio to Otto F. Moses, Secy., 616 Hippodron Bldg., Cleveland, Ohio.

THE NEW CUBAN SET

By WM. H. AVERY.

The new commemorative set of Cuba will be put on sale on the 2nd day of Jan., 1928. It is a very beautiful set, worthy to take a page in every collection. They are printed in very attractive, artistic colors, in large oblong shape.

The 1 centavo value will be of green color, showing the bust of Thomas Estrada Palma, the first president of Cuba. The 2 centavo is in rose color, with the present chief, the General Geraldo Machado, in the center. The 5c value come in blue color, with view of the Morro Castle, the famous entrance to the Bay of Habana. The 8c value in chocolate color, with the Central station in the center, and the 10c value in brown color, will show the Presidential Palace. A new value, never before used in Cuba, will be the 13c stamp, with a tobacco plantation in view. The 20c value will be in the customary olive-green color, showing the National Treasury. The 30c value, which is another new and never before used denomination, will be in violet color, showing a sugar mill, the 50c value in faded rose color, with the Cathedral of Habana, and the 1 Peso value in black color, with the National Theatre.

My personal opinion is, that the set, or at least three or four values, will be sold out within the first hour, after they will be put on sale. The issue is very small, and the interest in these stamps seems to be enormous the world over.

I hope, dear reader, that you are one of the fortunate ones to secure at least one of these sets. It will not be many years before this set will be sold at ten times its present face value or over. It is a bit belated, but a very fine Christmas present to Philately.

LINDBERGH SOUVENIR COVERS

Compiled by C. E. NICKLES.

No world's hero ever before held the public attention for so long a time as has Colonel Lindbergh. The other day the flying wizard appeared before Congress, and the House of Representatives broke all records by passing a resolution with applause instead of votes.

(1.) An air mail cover actually carried by Lindy on the first flight over St. Louis-Chicago route on April 15, 1926.

(2.) National Capital to Golden Gate. Air mail cover mailed in Washington on Lindbergh Day and back-stamped San Francisco the following day. In the National Capital on one day and at the Pacific Coast on the next—record time—and all the way by air mail. This has the official cachet.

(3.) Special Flight, Washington to New York, June 11, 1927. This cover has the big official cancellation, "Lindbergh Day, Special Flight, Washington to New York."

(4.) First Day cover of Lindbergh air mail stamp from St. Louis, home of Lindbergh and the "Spirit of St. Louis," showing special cancellation authorized by the Department. This cachet reads: "LINDBERGH CELEBRATION, Spirit of St. Louis, St. Louis, Mo., June 18, 1927, USE AIR MAIL—IT SAVES TIME," and illustrates the plane.

(5.) First Day Cover from Little Falls, Minn., Lindy's boyhood home.

(6.) First Day Cover from Detroit, his birthplace.

(7.) First Day Cover from Washington.—Washington Stamp News.

ODDS AND ENDS:—

HERMAN W. BOERS has just pulled off another philatelic stunt. Its first day covers from Christmas, Fla., and Christmas, Ky. Did you ever hear tell of these places? The first day of course means "Jan. 1" and it brings genuine New Year's greetings. Thanks, Mr. Boers. The covers take their place in the editorial "Memory Book."

ON Sept. 23rd, Geo. H. Quintard of Norwalk, Conn., had the misfortune to lose his collection of precancelled stamps. His store was robbed and burned. He had no insurance unfortunately. Mr. Quintard would be glad to receive some duplicates from his precancel friends.

THE Managing Editor has been of the opinion that if any one was busy he certainly could qualify. However, he is losing faith in his swiftness, for a valued philatelic friend writes:—"I am awfully sorry that I can't take over any more, and I assure you that what I can do, I will do. Ye Gods! Heat treatment of steel, numerical integration, Cost Accountants, Taylor Society, the Ordnance Department, Topography, the Poetry Society, the American Legion, the Eugenics Society, bankruptcies and insolvencies, art work, engraving, printing?"

ON Jan. 5, Francis J. Gross, the Brooklyn dealer, leaves for the Florida coast where he will spend the next three months fishing.

WE have received from Herman W. Boers a letter that was supposed to go by airmail from Pelee Pointe to Leamington, Can. There is no distinctive air mail marking. On the face is the postmark "Scudder Ont De. 14-27" and on reverse "Leamington, Ont De 27-27." Who can help us out? Thanks, Mr. Boers, once again.

Hayti (W. I.)

This country is virtually a U. S. Protectorate and many U. S. collectors have added it to their albums. Many items are scarce and never will be cheaper than now.

EDITORIAL

The post office department announces that the contract for carrying the mail between Salt Lake City, Utah, and Great Falls, Montana, has been awarded to Alfred Frank of Salt Lake City on behalf of a coterie of business men of his city as well as himself.

From Mr. H. F. Kohr, one of the cogs in that great machine, the Kansas City Star, we have received a copy of L'Illustration, December, 1927, in which the French periodical presents six exquisitely impressed likenesses of the prospective new high values of France. The four artists, Rivel, Veresque, Rigal and Cheffer, whose work is shown, have achieved an artistic triumph, but the London Times says that so carefully is the work of preparation of the stamps being attended to that "it is unlikely that the new stamps of 3f, 5f, 10f and 20f, will be on sale to the public until late in the coming year." Some of the subjects are the Rheims Cathedral, the Arc de Triomphe, and the historic castle of Mont Saint Michel, according to the half-tones in L'Illustration. In this connection, we may mention that a clipping has been received from Mr. D. G. Bigelow on the subject of the impending issue. It is an editorial in the Milwaukee Journal of December 30, 1927, headed, "Make Every Stamp a Picture." It is well conceived and will bear reprinting elsewhere.

In a despatch sent by the Chicago Tribune Press Service to the Chicago Tribune dated Panama City, Jan. 3, 1928, the news is given that the New Year holidays were taken advantage of there to print one million special Lindbergh stamps which are to be sold to signalize the Colonel's arrival in Panama. We learn that they are printed in "special ink" and bear the date of his landing there. No philatelic news of this issue has reached us, but we suppose that the Lindbergh stamp mentioned is the 10c air mail with appropriate surcharge. The enterprise of the postal officers in Panama must be admitted, and it is likely that the method that they have taken to celebrate the occasion will not be looked at askant even by the philatelic purist. It had been remarked by a collector or two that it was somewhat surprising that none of the countries that the flying ambassador had visited had sought to memorialize his coming by some postal memento; and to him or them, the issue now made by Panama comes not unexpectedly.

In the issue of Jan. 2, 1928, reference was made to the find made by Mr. J. Lynn Avery of Long Beach, California, of certain Hawaiian Missionary stamps, and now, at our invitation, Mr. Avery sends the following particulars: "One of my friends, who calls on me occasionally at my office, and I were talking one day and I happened to mention the fact that I am a stamp collector, and he said that his sister's husband had been a collector in his college days, and that his sister still had the collection. I suggested to my friend that I would like to see the collection, which had been in a safety deposit box for a number of years, the brother-in-law having passed away several years before. The collection was shown to me and these Hawaiian Missionaries were in it, along with other Hawaiians, including Nos. 5 and 6, some triangular Capes, and a number of other early issues both U. S. and foreign. . . . I showed the stamps to Brewster C. Kenyon of this city, who is considered locally as an authority on Hawaiian Missionaries, and after checking them over most carefully, he pronounced them genuine, but suggested that they be submitted to Mr. C. F. Richards of New York, who is supposed to be an authority on these stamps; and Mr. Richards wrote that in his opinion, they were genuine. However, they are in a somewhat damaged condition, altho Mr. Kenyon tells me that it is difficult to find them otherwise than damaged, due to the thin paper on which they were printed. In his enthusiasm, Mr. Kenyon mentioned the discovery to a newspaper reporter; hence the clipping that I sent you. This brings the story down to date."

The story of Mr. Avery is an interesting one and we infer that the lady who owns the collection will dispose of it, if the Hawaiians meet every test, in order to assist in putting her son through college; and that Mr. Avery is loaning his good offices in the case. We have learned through the friendly interest of a correspondent that Mr. Avery is the assistant secretary of the Mutual Building and Loan Association of Long Beach, a leading institution of that section. He is an amateur who collects U. S. and revenues, and has a good representation of these favored issues. Too, he is president of the Long Beach Stamp Collectors' Club; and it was at a meeting of this organization that he showed the Hawaiians. No doubt there will be further details concerning the stamps, and it is needless to say that they will not be allowed to dwell in splendid isolation when once a final verdict is rendered on them that connotes genuineness.

A reader, Mr. Dana L. Dwight, New York, writes that he is anxious to have particulars of Carriedo, whose portrait appears first on the 26c violet-brown, Philippines, 1906; and having recourse to Major Palmer's valuable work on the stamps of the Philippines, we abstract the following biography: Francisco Carriedo died in 1743, and in his will directed that 10,000 pesos be used to provide the city of Manila with a water system with the stipulation that water be furnished free to the poor of the city for all time. Operations to fulfil the terms of the bequest were not started before 1880, when the original fund had grown to 180,000 pesos. The system was finished in July, 1882, or 139 years after the death of this good man. In this connection, it is becoming that we repeat what was said when the work, The Postal Issues of the Philippines, by F. L. Palmer, Major U. S. Army—retired, appeared with the imprimatur of J. M. Bartels Company, in 1912. It is a masterly review of the stamps in question and Major Palmer furnishes authentic information that reduces the complexities of some of the issues to easy understanding, so lucid are the descriptions of the postal changes and their stamp results.

An old-timer writes: "Do you know that your references to the names of those who flourished as working philatelists thirty, forty or even fifty years ago are most acceptable to some of us who remember the rollicking days of the past. Give us more of them; and now I want to hear something of the later career of John Milton Holt who was in the medical service of the army or navy." Our correspondent speaks further of Dr. Holt who is remembered as having labored manfully to establish a philatelic foundation through bequest and contribution that would ensure the publication of his stamp journal in perpetuity. He made a good start on his fund, but the frequent change of base necessitated by his professional duties in the service was a serious interruption of editorial duties. In 1892 as "a college boy," he acted as a New York correspondent for a stamp paper for a short time; after proving his worth as a lively chronicler of the doings of those days, he was soon forced to lay aside the work in justice to his professional studies. Years later, he made his journalistic venture which he was forced to abandon after a time; and his more or less altruistic undertaking came to an end. We do not know what became of any collections for the permanent fund, but we know that Dr. H squared everything with his conscien We regret that we cannot tell anyth about the later days of Dr. Holt.

CANADA'S CLASSIC 3d BEAVER

By H. S. SEAMAN, Winnipeg, Can.

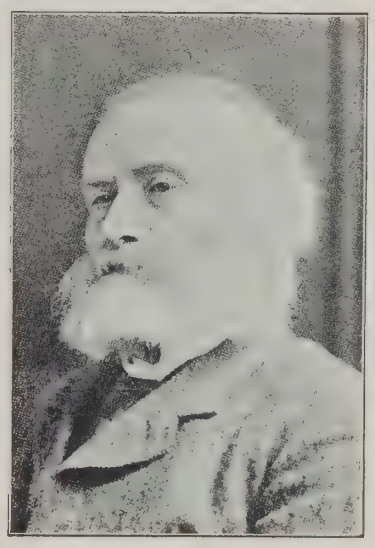
I do not recall ever having seen any authority quoted other than the plain statement that Sir Sandford Fleming did design the first Canadian Postage Stamp, viz.: "The Three Penny Beaver."

The available literature on the life of Sir Sandford Fleming is not large other than magazine or newspaper articles, with the exception of Dr. L. J. Burpee's splendid book, written, with the exception of the last chapter, during conversations with Sir Sandford. The following notes are gathered from various sources, but mostly from Dr. Burpee s work:

Sir Sandford Fleming was born at Kirkcaldy, Scotland, "The Lang Toun." His father was plain Andrew Greig Fleming — his mother's name Elizabeth Arnot.

His youth was principally spent associated with surveyors and civil engineers, and during his apprenticeship assisted in making survey across Fifeshire from Edinburgh to Perth, and from Perth to Dundee. He sailed April 24th, 1845, from Glasgow for Quebec on board the sailing ship "Brilliant," the passage money being £13/10s, and landed at Quebec on June 6th, after being forty-two days at sea.

His first occupation was secured at Peterboro, Ontario, and during his engagement with this firm he conceived the idea for a plan of the town of Peterboro; this completed, his next difficulty was how to get it lithographed; such work was not being done in Upper Canada at the time, but the young man had learned the art in Scotland, and having determined to do the work himself he proceeded to Toronto early in 1846, secured the materials necessary, returned to Peterboro and completed the work in due time. Newcastle was treated in the same way towards the latter part of 1846. In 1847 a plan of the town of Cobourg was put into existence. In 1849 he proceeded to Montreal for the purpose of securing a Commission as Provincial Land Surveyor. This certificate was issued to him the same date as the riot occurred in



SIR SANDFORD FLEMING. K.C.M.G., LL.D.
The designer and engraver of Canada's Classic the Three Penny Beaver

Montreal over the "Rebellion Losses Bill" on April 25, 1849. In 1852 he assisted in the completion of the survey of the City of Toronto and completed plan of that City.

That this young man was public spirited is evidenced by the fact that from June 20, 1849, when the first meeting of the Royal Canadian Institute was held, with only two in attendance, Mr. Fleming one of them, until 1899, when he had been one of the chief advocates, supporters and advisers, he completed his fifty years of continuous active association with that institution.

The one thing that is of vital interest to Philatelists generally, and of Canada in particular, is contained in the following paragraph, which is an excerpt from Dr. Burpee's Biography.

"In an old scrap-book at Winterholme, Fleming's home in Ottawa, a curious little relic of his industry as an artist and engraver over sixty odd years ago (this was written in 1915, and if it is still in existence it is now over seventy-five years old), is a faded proof of a Canadian Postage Stamp and beneath it is this note: 'This is the first proof from the copper-plate of the first Postage Stamp issued in Canada, designed by Fleming for the Post Master General, the Honorable James Morris, dated Toronto February, 1851'."

I wonder what some of our millionaire collectors of Canadian Postal issues would give for this item today were it on the market. Of proofs and essays it certainly would be the peer of anything extant.

Dr. Burpee has certainly performed a real service to Philately in incorporating in his work this illuminating paragraph because it is from an absolutely authentative source.

Fleming did a good work as a Civil Engineer in the survey of Ontario, Simcoe and Huron Railway. Surveying for the Intercolonial was almost exclusively his own work, and regarding the Canadian Pacific Railway, it is attributed to him as its Father. He was largely instrumental in creating the atmosphere which resulted in the all round the world British Cables Telegraph. It was Sir Sandford Fleming who first worked out and proposed Uniform Standard time for the world. He was not without honors—in 1880 he was made Chancellor of Queen's University over the heads of men, who, from political connections, might easily have secured the appointment, and in 1894 Her Majesty created him a Knight of the Order of St. Michael and St. George.

At his death on July 23, 1915, he was still Chancellor of Queen's University, Kingston, Ontario.

These are facts authentatively established in connection with the designer and engraver of Canada's Classic Three-Penny Beaver.

Costa Rica Lindbergh Stamp

We have received from Bernard Brodsky a clipping from the Baltimore Evening Sun, which states that the government of Costa Rica has authorized the issue of twenty thousand 10c stamps bearing the picture of an airplane and the name of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh. The issue will be dated January, 1928, and is in honor of the flyer's visit to that country.

Jaipur

A feudatory state in Rajputana, India, sometimes known as Jeypore. Some years ago various Indian stamps overprinted "RAJ—Service" in two lines were used in this state and were long supposed to be official stamps. It has since been proved that, though the stamps were employed by the Public Works Department of Jaipur, the overprint was intended rather as a precaution against theft than as a mark to distinguish them as an issue of the state, and it is therefore more of a private than of an official nature. Postage stamps proper were not introduced until 1904.

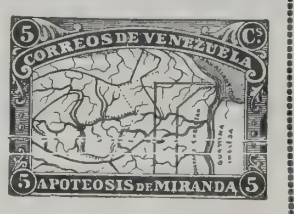
JUNIOR STAMP STUDIES



MIRANDA ISSUE
Venzuela A27
5, 10, 25, 50c, 1b

A reader asks: "What is the 'Apotheosis' of Miranda appearing on Venezuelan stamps?" The words 'Apoteosis de Miranda,' the deification of Miranda, explain the issue of this stamp. Francisco Miranda, born in 1754, was the first leader of the Revolution which constituted Venezuela as an independent state and was the first step toward the freedom of the whole South American continent. After fighting under Washington, in 1783, he raised the standard of liberty in the south. Twice he was unsuccessful. In 1810, a 'junta' of the citizens proclaimed Miranda as commander-in-chief and provisional president of the republic. He was defeated by the Spaniards, betrayed into the hands of the Spanish and died in prison.

The lines on the stamp are meant to illustrate a long standing dispute between Venezuela and Great Britain as to the boundary line between the former and British Guiana. In 1886, the United States, on the strength of the Monroe Doctrine, intervened with the offer of arbitration, which was refused by Great Britain. In 1895 this offer was renewed and again refused; thereupon, President Cleveland suggested to the Congress of the United States that a commission should be appointed to ascertain what was the true divisional line between the republic of Venezuela and British Guiana; this being done 'it will be the duty of the United States to resist by every means in its power, as a wilful aggression upon its rights and interests, the appropriation by Great Britain of any lands, which, after investigation we have determined by right to belong to Venezuela.' It was this statement of the President that threatened to lead to a rupture between the United States and Great Britain." We may add that the Miranda set and two postal cards were issued July 4, 1896, and were good for postage until November 4th.

To a Postage Stamp

O, little square of vivid hue,
Small symbol of strange Chance and Fate,
Equipped with governmental glue.

White envelopes and pink and blue
Impartially you decorate!
O little square of vivid hue.

You'll bring a bill, a billet-doux—
What destinies upon you wait!
Equipped with governmental glue.

And calmly unconcerned when you
Return a rhyme that's less than great,
O little square of vivid hue.

Subscriptions old you may renew,
Convey a heart, or make a date—
Equipped with governmental glue.

How can you mock the foolish who Must always send the word—too late—
O little square of vivid hue
Equipped with governmental glue?

Perplexing Surcharges

S. T.—Superintendent of Telegraphs. A surcharge found on several of the early stamps of South Australia.

S. U.—Sungei Ujong. These letters were overprinted on the ½a blue Indian stamp of 1865, and the Straits Settlements 2c stamps of 1868 for use in the Native State of Sungei Ujong.

T.—Treasurer. A South Australian overprint.

T. L.—Taufa 'ahau—Lavinia. These initials were overprinted on the 1d Tonga stamps in 1899 to mark the wedding of the King and Queen.

T. R.—Titles Registration. An overprint found on certain early South Australian stamps.

V.—Volunteers. Also found on early South Australian stamps.

V. A.—Valuator and Auctioneer. Another South Australian overprint.

W.—Waterworks. A surcharge found on some of the early stamps of South Australia.

Another Contest

On Jan. 30, we shall issue a nice special number and we want all our juniors to send in their first and second choice as to the best advertisement in that issue. We want you to not only name the best advertisements, but tell why you think so.

The Perfection Guide

We are inserting this item on this page because we want all our Juniors to see it, and we will take a chance upon the seniors reading.

We recommend that you obtain the "Perfection Guide" described and advertised elsewhere in this issue by the Hawkeye Stamp Co., Cedar Rapids, Ia. The price 15c is alright and the specimen sent us inspires this recommendation. The Guide is a very handy article and will prove a very valuable help to any collector.

Questions and Answers

Q.—Is it better to have stamps unused or used?

A.—The beginner will be wise to take stamps in either condition, as they come.

Q.—What is the rarest stamp in the world?

A.—There are several stamps of which only a single specimen of each is known; nothing can be rarer. The most highly prized of these unique specimens is the 1 cent black on magenta stamp issued in British Guiana in 1856.

Q.—How can I tell if a stamp is a forgery or not?

A.—Forgeries are sent not to worry us, but to make us wary. They are a bugbear, but not more so than in other collecting hobbies. It is a wise plan only to buy stamps from reputable firms that would scorn to sell forgeries or fakes. No concise rules can be given for the detection of forgeries, but if you study your stamps and get familiar with every detail of those you have, you will acquire the right detective instinct to query suspicious characters.

Q.—Must I collect every stamp that has a slight difference from the others of the same kind?

A.—Train your eye to see these differences, however slight, but it is a matter of choice whether you collect all possible minor varieties. The foundation of stamp collecting is the collecting of stamps differing in the broad sense of design, denomination, and colour, and by far the majority of collectors enjoy their hobby on these lines, without going deeply into microscopic and abstruse differences.—Guide to Stamp Collecting

"Caisse d'Amortissement" Stamps

The charity stamp has covered a multitude of strange uses, but novel occasions for such issues are still to be found. France has just struck a new note in this direction by overprinting three stamps to be sold at a supplement in aid of the sinking fund. They are ordinary postage stamps, but printed in distinctive colours, and overprinted "Caisse d'Amortissement" or simply "C.A." and the indication of the supplementary charge. Thus on the 40 centimes Sower type printed in blue, the supplement is 10 centimes, the 50c olive-green (Sower) sells for 25c extra, and the 1fr50 (Pasteur), printed in orange, sells for 5 centimes extra. In this way patriotic Frenchmen may pay more for their postage, if they like, to help the franc, but it looks as though the plan is conceived to get the contributions of stamp collectors for that purpose. The present stamps are only in the nature of a provisional issue, for a special design has been prepared for "Caisse d'Amortissement" stamps, bearing an allegory of industry, labour, and agriculture. This has been prepared by the medalist, Pierre Turin, who designed the official medal for the Exhibition of Decorative Arts two years ago.—Postage Stamp.

Instruccion

An inscription shown on some of the stamps of Venezuela intended for inland postage. Literally, the word means "instruction," and it is here used in the sense of "learning" or "scholastic instruction." These stamps were intended for both postal and fiscal purposes, and the revenue derived from their fiscal use was supposed to be applied for the direct benefit of the National Schools.

Junior Dictionary

Postzegel.—Found on the early stamps of Holland and those for the South African Republic. It is the Dutch equivalent for "postage stamp."

P. P.—A postmark frequently met with, especially on old letters. The letters are the initials of "Poste Payé," i.e. postage paid.

P. R.—A watermark found in many of the stamps of Roumania. The letters are for "Posta Romana," that is "Roumanian Post."

Precancelled.—Stamps sold by post office already obliterated as a convenience to business firms despatching postal matter in quantity.

Prekomurje—(Transmuria).—A surcharge on certain Hungarian stamps used by the Jugo-Slavs during the occupancy of a district on the left bank of the Mur River in the World War.

Premieres Gravures.—A term applied to the first printing of the U. S. stamps of 1861 to distinguish from the later printing, in which small modifications of design and color were made.

Preussen.—The German equivalent for Prussia as shown on the stamps for that state.

CORRESPONDENCE

the Editor:

As an example of what our Govern- nt is determined to do to safeguard future prestige of our postal issues, ake pleasure in forwarding herewith ranslation of a report published the instant in one of the Habana papers, result of a discovery made of various sons in the capital who were engaged the illegal sale of postage stamp is- s which had been ordered to be de- yed.

Very truly,
CAPT. J. D. SAGUE.

From the Diario De La Marina).

We hereby confirm the information lished day before yesterday regard- the discovery of the illegal sales of tage stamps which were ordered out circulation some time back.

The Comptroller General's Office ed to enforce in 1924 Presidential ree No. 579 of June 25th of the ie year, whereby the destruction of ain stamps valued at a total of 19,022.07 was ordered.

Messrs. Rafael A. Peña, José A. Pérez René Valdivieso, Post Office In- spectors, reported to the Instructional Judge of the First District, the result of investigations made by them by virtue of an order from Mr. Juan C. Zamora, Assistant Secretary of the Post Office Department, to the effect that on the afternoon of the 16th instant they followed Mr. José Romero Pereira and Mrs. Acosta y del Corral, who entered the house occupied by an American dealer in stamps, Mr. William H. Avery, at No. 11 Progreso Street, Habana, finding on his table a large number of sheets of postage stamps of the $1.00 denomination.

Upon being interrogated Mr. Avery declared that Mr. Pereira and Mrs. Corral had gone there to offer the sale of the stamps in question for the sum of $10,000.

They took possession of the stamps and had Mr. Pereira and Mrs. Corral arrested.

The inspectors' official report to the Court concludes by stating that they are of the opinion that the stamps found in the possession of Mr. Pereira, Second Official in the Auditing Department of the Comptroller General's office, and Mrs. Rosa Acosta del Corral, the widow of a former employee of the same department, were taken from packages which were under safekeep in said Government Office, by order of Mr. Pereira.

Valuable Aids For Philatelists

It is our belief that suitable accessories play a most important part in philately. For this reason we are marketing the following three articles:

A daylight lamp which furnishes a perfectly diffused blue-tint light from which all glare is eliminated, and which gives the same effect as daylight. It is the perfect light for color matching. The lamp is manufactured in five models, with a price range of $6.50 to $14.00.

A magnifying glass, eight power, manufactured by Steinheil, having a lense ¾ inch in diameter, which is so nearly achromatic and anastigmatic that it has proved itself far superior to any that we have examined. Some of the most prominent Collectors have purchased this magnifier from us. We are offering this glass at $12.00.

A tweezer with a very ingenuous patented locking device made of high grade nickel-plated steel. These are priced at 75c.

We shall be glad to furnish further particulars on request.

We have one of the largest and most complete stocks of stamps in the country. Thus, if others have failed to supply your wants, please give us an opportunity of serving you.

Early United States Covers

I have recently acquired a choice lot of early United States covers containing many varieties from the 3c 1861 up to and including such things as the 1857, 24c and 30c, the 5c Buffs and the like. Prices vary from fifteen cents to seven hundred and fifty dollars, and I'll be pleased to send selections to responsible collectors. If you will give me an idea of what you would like to see, I will be glad to pick out a selection likely to be of interest.

There is an unusually nice lot of the 3c 1851 and 1857, showing Railroad, Steamboat, and other odd and unusual cancellations. I also note one or two Confederate varieties, but unfortunately none of the rarities.

One cover unusually attractive, shows an 1857, 5c, 10c and 30c tied to the cover with a bright red postmark. If you are interested in early covers, I am confident there is something in the lot that you will want.

I am also in the market to purchase fine properties of early covers, as well as early mint blocks and singles. The scarcer 20th Century varieties are especially wanted, such as the higher denominations and inverts, and the part perforate items.

In each case, I insist upon very fine condition, for damaged stamps or soiled, unattractive covers do not meet the requirements of my clients.

Valley Forge Stamp

Washington is receiving numerous letters in favor of a Valley Forge Stamp, and the Reverend W. Herbert Burk, Pastor of the Washington Memorial Chapel, at Valley Forge, and President of the Valley Forge Historical Society, has become greatly interested in the subject and is endeavoring to have the Department see the advisability of issuing such a stamp. Senators Reed and Vare have taken the subject up with the Postmaster General, and it is to be hoped that such a stamp will appear. We have commemorated many events of vastly inferior importance, and this turning point in the revolution certainly should not be forgotten.

Mr. Malcolm H. Ganzer writes me that he is taking the subject up with the Norristown newspapers, as well as the Rotary, Kiwanis, and Lions Clubs. The same interests in Philadelphia have been appealed to. It is the only new stamp in prospect, although communications are being received to commemorate numerous events, such as—Battle of Brandywine; anniversary of the wounding of Lafayette; the Adoption of the Constitution at Kingston; Washington Crossing the Delaware; the Battle of Trenton, and others.

1901, 1c Invert

I am informed by one of our dealers that he recently acquired a copy of the 1c, 1901, inverted center, used on the entire cover.

On close inspection, this has been found to be a fake, although it had previously passed through the hands of a dealer supposedly posted.

This transaction brings to light a fine point in ethics. The dealer purchasing it, purchased other stamps at the same time, and when he returned it, the original seller refused to take it back unless the entire lot was returned, knowing that this would be impossible, as a part of the stamps had been sold. It pays the collector to purchase only from those of reliability, who will stand behind everything that they offer. We cannot guarantee that no more of a stamp will turn up, when we say that an item is probably unique, but certainly the genuineness of a stamp should be guaranteed without limit of time.

Air Mail Notes

Bids were opened on December 28th, at Washington, covering an air mail service between Salt Lake City, Utah, and Great Falls, Mont., via Pocatello, Idaho, Butte, and Helena, Mont. There were three bids running from $2.47½ to $3.00 per pound, Alfred Frank of Salt Lake City, being the low bidder.

Under date of December 30th, the Postmaster General announced that the contract had been awarded to Mr. Frank, who will use five monoplanes of American manufacture. Mr. Frank, it is stated, represents a group of Salt Lake City business men, as well as himself.

Under date of January 4th, the Information Service of the Post Office Department gave out the following:—

"Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh's flight from Washington, D. C., to Mexico City having demonstrated the feasibility and practicability of an air route connecting the United States with the republic of Mexico, Postmaster General New has decided to open negotiations with Mexican postal officials with a view to the establishment of an air mail route which will have for its Southern terminus the capital of Mexico.

According to plans now being formulated by the Postmaster General, it is proposed to establish an air mail route from New Orleans, La., to Brownsville, Texas, via Houston and Corpus Christi. This is the route taken by Colonel Lindbergh in his memoriable non-stop flight from the National Capital to Mexico City. With such a route in operation, it is the hope of the Postmaster General that the Mexican government will cooperate in the movement to establish an air mail route from Brownsville, Texas, to Mexico City, via Tampico, where the richest oil fields in Mexico are located.

An air mail route will be out in operation between Houston and Fort Worth, Texas, next month. Already, there is a route running from Dallas and Fort Worth to Chicago. By the various connections, mail from Mexico City which now takes six days to reach New York City, would be delivered by air mail in two days' time. Incidentally, the establishment of such a route would bring Mexico City over four hundred miles nearer New York City than if the mail were carried from Brownsville, via Houston, Dallas and Chicago to New York.

A letter leaving New York at 9 p. m. by air mail would leave Atlanta at 6.40 a. m., New Orleans at 12 m. and arrive at Brownsville at 7 p. m. It would be delivered in Mexico City the next afternoon if the route contemplated by the Post Office Department were established.

The Post Office Department was notified today by the Chamber of Commerce of Houston, Texas, that next week it will start a Good Will Tour by air from that city via Corpus Christi, Brownsville and Tampico. This trip will be undertaken in the interest of air mail. The Mayor of Houston, the city's Foreign Trade Relations Manager and outstanding citizens of both Corpus Christi and Brownsville will make the trip, stopping in Tampico and in Mexico City, which is to be the final destination of the tourists.

Canal Zone, Panama

Mr. R. S. Carter writes that the Panama Government has voted $10,000 to meet the expenses of Lindbergh's visi and that two new stamps will be issue to commemorate the event. The issue which was authorized on December 23r will consist of two stamps—a 2c and 5 one depicting the "Spirit of St. Louis flying across the Isthmus, and the othe the world famous plane descending on th field at Matias Hernandez, with a tow of old Panama in the background, co trasting the spirit of antiquity with th of the modern era. The stamps will b on sale for three months, and it is pr posed to issue 300,000 2-cent, and on half as many 5-cent.

The Post Office Department announc that arrangements have already bee made to print these stamps at the Pa ama Canal Press, Mt. Hope, Canal Zo to assure a prompt and excellent job.

On account of the difficulty exper enced in the tropical climates wi gummed stamps, it is probable that t present issue will appear without gum.

If the Canal Zone was still usi overprinted Panama stamps, no dou the stamps would receive a Canal Zo overprint. It is to be hoped that if t enthusiastic authorities in the Can Zone are in a position to issue a speci stamp, or rather surcharge some th they have on hand, that it will be done.

Argentine.—Copies of the ½c a 2c, current issue watermarked AP, a at hand from Whitfield King & Co.

Australian Commonwealth.—Mr. Roberts sends for chronicle the 4½ King George stamp in violet, small m tiple watermark.

Brazil.—Coffee Bi-Centenary Co memoratives.—Dr. Mario de Sanc writes us that on the 5th of Februa 1928, 3 stamps will be put into circul tion to commemorate the bi-centenary the coffee tree in Brazil. Values: 1 réis, green; 200 réis, carmine; 300 ré sepia.

The stamps are rectangular, and w measure 28½mm by 18½mm, and t design is the same for the three value in the centre the figure of a you woman in profile, symbol of the Nati with a twig of coffee in her left han the background will show a coffee pla tation; on the horizon the inscriptio "1727—1927" and the words "Sao Paul on the left a decorative frame with value in numbers and the word "ré in the same frame the word "Bi-C tenario do Cafeeiro" and "Brasil-C reio." The issue will be of 8,000,000—Philatelic Magazine.

French Morocco.—Mr. R. Roberts advises that a 50c slate-green, type as Scott's A12, has been issued. This is a new color for this value.

Greece.—Whitfield King & Co. sends us the following letter received from a correspondent in Athens in which the new Navarino stamps are discussed:

"I duly received your letters of the 17th and 30th November, enclosing cuttings from a periodical describing the new Navarino stamps.

Up to the time of writing there is no definite news as to when these stamps will be issued. On October 20th, two values were put on sale at Pylos, the 1½Dr and the 5Dr with the portrait of Admiral Codrington. A very few were sold, as on the day following they were withdrawn as the inscription on the latter was only 'Sir Codrington' instead of 'Sir Edward Codrington.' I have seen copies of both stamps with postmark of Pylos dated 20th October, but the execution is very poor indeed. It is curious that the illustrations you send me both show the 5Dr stamp with Admiral Codrington's portrait with the inscription as it should be, whereas the stamps have been printed with only 'Sir Codrington.' Further there is dissatisfaction in that the 5Dr value with the portrait of Admiral de Rigny shows him in civilian dress instead of in Admiral's uniform.

I am officially informed that the Postmaster General has requested the Ministry of Finance for authority to destroy all the stamps printed of the 5Dr values with the portraits of Codrington and de Rigny. The whole matter is now in abeyance and it is even possible that none at all will be issued, not even of the other values."

Honduras.—Whitfield King & Co. report two new items from this country. A 1c pale blue shows a view within a circular frame with the inscription "Carretora Del Sur" beneath. The 2c red is of a similar design, but pictures the "Ruinas de Copan" as a central view. Both stamps are of very crude workmanship, the lettering on one is hardly readable.

Luxemburg.—Mr. R. Roberts submits for chronicle copies of the new 1927 Charity issue. They are of the following values: 10 + 5c, blue-green; 50 + 10c, dark brown; 75 + 20c, orange; 1fr + 30c, carmine lake and 1½fr + 50c, blue. Each stamp bears the portrait of Princess Elizabeth with the centre vignette in grey-black.

Netherlands.—Copies of the 1927 Child Welfare stamps are at hand from Mr. Frederick D. Markee and Mr. R. Roberts. They are of the following values and shades: 2 + 2c, pink and violet mixture; 5 + 3c, green and yellow mixture; 7½ + 3½c, black and red mixture, and 15 + 3c, ultramarine and brown mixture. Mr. Roberts in describing the stamps states "the usual hideous design with inverted triangle at top and various more or less intelligible scratches and splodges in mixed colors reminiscent of a colored comic pictorial paper."

Nyasaland.—4/- Script is now on issue, but copies have not yet been received by us.—Philatelic Magazine.

Peru.—Whitfield King & Co. submits for chronicle a 2c, red and brown, Pro Tacna y Arica stamp with no circles around the figures of value.

St. Kitts.—Mr. R. Roberts has shown us the 2½p ultramarine, script watermark, now issued on ordinary paper. The chalky paper variety is likely to be an extremely scarce little stamp, Mr. Roberts writes, as printing it on chalky paper was an error of the printers. The requisition read "So many 2½d blue stamps, paper as before" and on referring to the previous paper the printer looked up the 2½p brown of the Tercentenary issue by mistake, as no blue unicolored stamps are now printed on the chalky surface paper.

Union of South Africa.—Mr. R. Roberts reports the 2p, mauve and black, postage due stamp in new type. The stamp is unwatermarked and locally printed in Pretoria.

"IT'S OUR BEST INVESTMENT"

January 3, 1927.

Dear Mr. Wylie:

We'll use a full page on January 30—our regular page, please. The page ad in October was so well set-up and kept us so very busy, with such excellent permanent results, that we look forward to another Special Number with much interest.

You have not asked about a renewal of our 5,000-line contract. Are you taking it for granted? We would not care to keep shop without the WEEKLY. Count us on your list. We shall use that much space anyway and probably a good deal more. It's our best investment.

Happy New Year to you and the WEEKLY.

Faithfully yours,
THE HOME OF THE POSTAGE STAMP,
J. AVERY WELLS.

STAMP NEWS IN BRIEF

BRITISH EMPIRE

AUSTRALIA.—From the Victorian Philatelic Record we learn that there is strong possibility of a new Commonwealth series to replace the present unsatisfactory one. Although nothing definite is as yet decided, it is regarded almost certain that such a new series will be issued before the close of next year.

Several Australian correspondents kindly send us the 1s4d stamp with Multiple watermark and Mullett imprint.

According to Mr. A. Albert the ½, 1½d, 4d, and 9d, are to be expected soon with the new Ash imprint.

He also informs us that, starting from next year, all the Kangaroo issue will be provided with the new watermark. As they are issued thus they seem to be for quite a short life.

CAYMAN ISLANDS.—The Rev. W. Iremonger shows us the 1925 printing of the 2½d, recently issued. It is perforated by a comb machine instead of single line, and the colour is dull blue instead of bright ultramarine.

The 1925 printing of the 2s is in a reddish purple very distinct from the deep blue tone of the first shade. The 1925 shade of the 3s is duller and rather redder than its predecessor.

CYPRUS.—Mr. T. Fitikides suggests that the designs of the new series will include the likeness of Zinon the Stoic, an historic Turkish mosque, and the salt lake of Larnaca and the Autocephalous Church.

FALKLAND ISLANDS.—From the Rev. W. G. Iremonger we receive specimens of new printings of several values. The ½d is in green as compared with yellow-green; the 1d tends more towards scarlet, the previous printing having a vermilion tone; the purple of the 2d is less reddish; and the blue of the 2½d is lighter and, by comparison, has less tendency towards ultramarine.

ST. KITTS-NEVIS.—The 1927 printing of the 2s is in a duller blue and brown purple than the earlier printing, while the paper, looked at from the back, appears of a rather greenish-blue, probably due to the yellow gum. Sheets of this value now have two plate numbers at bottom as in the recent printings of the 2½d, 3d and 6d (Rev. W. G. Iremonger).

SOUTH-WEST AFRICA.—Mr. J. Robertson sends us further particulars of the new S.W.A. set, viz.:—

There are three placings of the overprint. On the ½d, 1d, 6d, 1s3d, and values it is at the foot; on the 3d, 2s6d values it is towards the top left-hand corner, and on the remainder of the series just above the centre of the stamp, thus not interfering with the central designs.

In all cases the overprint is in black and has been applied by the Government Printer at Pretoria from type-set for The ½d, 1d and 6d are the first of the Pretoria printings of these values to be overprinted for use in this territory, thus giving one method of comparison between them and the London printings

TRANS-JORDAN.—We must admit the feeling of disappointment over the new portrait series. The design, though not in point of arrangement, lacks sufficient contrast to give it dignity. Possibly the omission of the horizontal lines of shading round the inner frame might have helped matters, but even then there is a marked lack of depth, particularly when the stamps are printed in the wrong and rather unpleasing colours of the 2 and 3 milliemes. In the deeper colours rather more contrast is secured and the general effect is better. In the result the set is merely "pretty" when it could so easily have been dignified. We do not forget the magnificent Emir Feisal stamp of Iraq.

OTHER COUNTRIES

ARGENTINA.—The recent discovery of sheets of the 5c current San Martin type (no dot below 5c) of stamps with the dot is quite interesting. These stamps occur in the same positions in the top and bottom halves of the sheet of

It is expected that this error will be corrected very soon. Mr. A. H. Davis shows us a complete sheet.

Mr. F. E. B. Metcalfe informs us that the 12c San Martin has again been put on sale, the P.O. Centenary stamp of this value being apparently no longer available. Mr. Davis shows us the 12c San Martin with very clear reversed impression of the design on the back.

BOLIVIA.—The following are the quantities authorised by official decree of the new printing of stamps in the current Arms type, which we believe is to be made by Messrs. Waterlow & Sons, Ltd. ½c, 100,000; 1c, 500,000; 2c, 500,000; 3c, 100,000; 4c, 100,000; 5c, 500,000; 10c, 500,000; 15c, 1,000,000; 20c, 300,000; 22½c, 100,000; 25c, 300,000; 30c, 100,000; 40c, 100,000; 50c, 300,000; 60c, 100,000; 1 bol, 200,000; 2 bol, 100,000; 3 bol, 50,000; 4 bol, 50,000; 5 bol, 50,000.

Messrs. Perkins, Bacon & Co., Ltd., kindly inform us that the plates of the ten values of the 1925 Centenary issue were destroyed on October 25th last, as certified by the Consul-General.

COLOMBIA.—Mr. A. J. Skevington kindly brings to our notice a forgery of the 1c red, of 1925, locally printed by Villaveces. The forgery is, if possible, of coarser workmanship than the original, the design is smaller and the perforation gauges 12. On enquiry, an official, high in the postal service, informed our correspondent that these forgeries were the work of a small printer in Bogota, who had applied for the contract to print the genuine stamps but had failed to secure it. He had then printed the forgeries and was disposing of them through various agencies, for postal use. The number of forgeries printed is stated to have been 12,000, of which 2 000 were sold. The forger could not have expected to make a big profit out of his work, the total face value of the printing being only about £20. He was sent to prison, but only stayed three months, when political "pull" secured his release.

CUBA.—Further information concerning the Pan-American Congress series is given us by Mr. F. F. de Cossio. These stamps, we are told, will be oblong in shape and will be printed by the Compania Nacional de Artes Gràficas y Libreria. They will show to the left a map of North America, to the right one of South America, while the centre will contain the following portraits and subjects:—

		Nos. printed.
1c	Thomas Estrada Palma,	1,000,000
2c	General Machado,	1,500,000
5c	The Castle of Morro,	500,000
8c	Railway Terminus,	125,000
10c	The Presidential Palace,	500,000
13c	A Tobacco Plantation,	250,000
20c	The Treasury Building,	250,000
30c	Sugar Plantation,	150,000
50c	The Cathedral at Havana,	100,000
1p	The National Opera House,	50,000

A new Air Post stamp, a five-cent denomination, showing a hydroplane in flight over what we take to be Havana. The printers will be as above, but the engraving on steel will be the work of the Security Bank Note Company of Philadelphia.

ESTONIA.—The new Charity stamps on sale from the 15th November for one month, and available for postage until the 15th January, 1928, are, according to L'Echo de la Timbrologie, of the following denominations and subjects:—5 + 5m Château of Kuresaare; 10 + 10m Cathedral at Dorpat; 12 + 12m View of Tallin; 20 + 20m Fortress of Norva; 40 + 40m View of Tallin.

GERMANY.—Mr. J. L. Riedel kindly informs us that the recently-issued I.A.A. stamps commemorate the opening of the Autumn Session of the International Labour Bureau in Berlin, this being the first time it has sat outside of Geneva. The letters I.A.A. themselves stand for Internationales Arbeits Amt (International Labour Bureau). Three thousand sheets of each of the three values were overprinted.

GRAND LEBANON.—We have received copies of the second printing of the 15p on 25p 1927 Provisional (S.G. No. 115) of this country. Both the overprinting and the surcharging have been done in one operation, instead of two as before, and the overprint "République Libanaise" now appears above the surcharge instead of below. The new setting is presumably to bring it into line with the remaining values of the set which have been printed from the first in one operation only.

HOLLAND.—Mr. Wimberley tells us that we were incorrect in stating that new Marine Insurance stamps are to be issued. Apparently there is a collector in Holland who is circulating inaccurate information to the philatelic press. He has not honoured us with his "news," but we apparently got hold of this incorrect item at a second or third remove.

NORWAY.—Current postage stamps are now receiving the addition of a hand-stamped "T" in a circle, when used as Postage Due stamps. Mr. Haag-Pedersen shows us the 15 öre with this mark in violet.

PORTUGAL.—The remainders of the Independence series have now been cremated. It is not likely that Portuguese dealers have laid down large stocks of this issue as they are heartily sick of Commemoratives, so we may expect these stamps to rise in value.

This year's Independence series will consist of 15 Portuguese stamps of a face value of 9$85, and 12 for Azores with a face value of 6$80. The designs include two spirited battle scenes, the portrait of an angry charwoman (?), and two other portraits of individuals of extremely depressing appearance, who have no doubt deserved well of their country.

VENEZUELA.—From Señor B. J. Blanco we receive a copy of the Gaceta Oficial dated August 30th last, approving the issue of 8,000,000 stamps, presumably of the current type, which are to be printed by Messrs. Waterlow & Son, Ltd. The quantities and values are as follows:—5c, 2,000,000; 10c, 500,000; 15c, 500,000; 25c, 2,750,000; 40c, 1,750,000; 3b, 300 000; 5b, 200,000.—Gibbons' Stamp Monthly.

PROOF OF THE VALUE OF CLASSICS

By CHARLES J. PHILLIPS.

In October last Mr. H. R. Harmer sold at auction a portion of the well known British Colonial collection of Mr. A. H. Dingwell.

Here again the value of old Classic Issues as an Investment, has been remarkably well proved.

Mr. Dingwell must have realized fully three times as much as his stamps cost him, and I am convinced that those who buy well selected copies at today's prices will find they have an investment well worth while in a very few years.

One thing I was specially glad to see in this fine auction sale and that was that my opinion of old Australian stamps as an Investment has been more than proved. For many years Australia has sold her best stamps to London, and over here to that great judge of these fine issues—Mr. Charles Lathrop Pack—now, as Australia is getting richer she is anxious to buy back her old stamps, and I have been able to buy to great advantage here and resell in Australia. The pity is that we have so few fine collections of old Australians in this country that little is offered either by private sale or by auction.

Here are a few of the prices realized and for reference I quote the present catalogue price, and for convenience I have reckoned the pound at $5.00.

Cat. No.		Catalogue.	Auction

France announces a series of pictorial stamps, to be issued soon. These stamps, bearing pictures of the Rheims cathedral, the Arc de Triomphe, and other like subjects, will replace some of the present issues, which carry portraits of distinguished Frenchmen. The new idea seems so good that Frenchmen think the end of the personal stamp has come.

In the days before the war, most European stamps bore likenesses of rulers, for then the monarchal idea was still flourishing. The obvious step when monarchies fell was to substitute pictures of national heroes. Many European countries did this, some substituting men famed in science and the arts; and even France took up the practice, discarding the female figure so long used. Of course, politics entered somewhat into the choice of the personages to be placed on the stamps, just as it has in this country for many years. Now, in France, politics has been eliminated and national landmarks are to replace personal portraits.

Why should it not be a good idea for the United States to copy this French departure? We certainly have the subjects—the Grand canyon, Niagara Falls, the Yellowstone geysers, Independence hall, the Washington monument and many other places would make an excellent appearance on stamps. These stamps would be more interesting than our present issues and the political juggling which goes on over stamp issues would be stopped.

One can see a certain value in placing on our stamps portraits of public men of the standing of Washington and Lincoln—men whose careers have stood the test of time. But the honor intended for such great characters is cheapened when the portrait of a president is put on a stamp for no better reason than that he happened to die while in office, and the party in control thinks that there is political capital in circulating his likeness. It becomes downright mortifying when the administration which he headed is later discovered to have been about the most disgraceful in our history, and everybody realizes that an oil derrick on the stamp would be more representative.—Milwaukee Journal (Editorial).

I have just purchased a collection of Twentieth Centur Stamps consisting of over 50,000 specimens. Every countr outside of the British Colonials is represented in very approach able completeness. Every stamp is unused and consequentl nearly every specimen has full gum.

Three or four big New York buyers are going to dig int this collection after which I shall be pleased to submit a hu dred pages at a time to Eastern buyers.

And for the first time that I can ever remember doing s I am selling this collection at

Written for MEKEEL'S WEEKLY

WEST INDIAN AERIAL EXPRESS

By HARRY E. HUBER.

Backed by the sugar interests of the Dominican Republic, the West Indian Aerial Express was organised at Barahona, D.R., on June 20, 1927, to operate a passenger, freight and mail air service between Porto Rico, the Dominican Republic, Haiti, and Cuba. Transportation between the three islands has become such a serious problem that only an air service will relieve the situation. Until very recently there was only a very irregular service by steamer, small and uncomfortable, between Porto Rico and the Dominican Republic, but in July, 1927, the New York & Porto Rico Steamship Co. extended their Porto Rico service, and inaugurated a regular weekly (overnight) service between San Juan, P. R., and Santo Domingo City, D.R. From the latter town it is possible to motor to Port au Prince, Haiti, but owing to the lack of adequate steamer service between Cuba and Porto Rico, those with business interests in these islands have had to travel via New York.

Next to Cuba, the island of Haiti-Santo Domingo is the largest, and one of the most mountainous in the West Indies. It lies between Cuba and Porto Rico, being separated from the former, to the west, by the Windward Passage (50 miles wide between Cape Maisi, Cuba, and Mole San Nicolas, Haiti), and from Porto Rico, at the east, by the Mona Passage (70 miles wide). The greatest length of the island is 407 miles, and extreme breadth 120 miles, with an area of 28,249 sq. miles. Haiti in the west occupies 10,204 sq. miles (2,050,000 population), and the Dominican Republic in the east, with 18,045 sq. miles, has a population of 894,665. Port au Prince, on the Gulf of Gonaives is the capital of Haiti, and Santo Domingo City, in a central position on the south coast, the capital of the Dominican Republic.

Porto Rico is 108 miles long, 40 miles wide, with a total area of 3,435 sq. miles, and a population of 1,299,809. San Juan, its capital, is on the north coast, towards the eastern end.

Cuba, lying directly south of Florida, is the nearest West Indian island of importance to the United States, and with its islands and bays has an area of 44,164 sq. miles, and a poulation of 3,123,400. Its width varies from 25 to 124 miles, and its greatest length, east and west, from Cape Maisi to Cape Antonio, is 760 miles. Habana (population 400,000), its capital, is situated on the north coast, near the western end, just across the straits of Florida from Key West, Fla. (90 miles), one of a long chain of islets stretching southwest from the mainland of the United States.

The air service of the West Indian Aerial Express was inaugurated in December, 1927, and for the present it will be weekly, between Port au Prince and San Juan, via Santo Domingo City. When extended westward to Santiago de Cuba (275 miles from Port au Prince), there will be two trips, weekly, of ten hours each, between Santiago de Cuba and San Juan, with stops at Port au Prince and Santo Domingo City. Within six months the Company plans to continue on to Habana (560 miles from Santiago de Cuba), and there connect with the U. S. air mail route, making possible a 24-hour mail service between New York and San Juan (3,000 miles) instead of five days as now required by steamer (1,400 miles).

The flying time from Santo Domingo City to San Juan (270 miles) is four hours, and to Port au Prince (185 miles) a trifle over two hours.

Port au Prince to Barahona and Santo Domingo City, D.R., July 18, 1927.

On July 18, 1927, in returning from a test flight made to Port au Prince, an air mail of 90 letters was carried to Barahona, D.R. (85 miles), and 473 letters to Santo Domingo City (100 miles further). Only the regular Haitian inland air mail letter rate of 50c de gourde (10c U. S. currency) was charged.

The postmark "Port au Prince, Haiti" within a single lined circle, 28mm, with the date in three lines in the center "18—JUIL—27," was applied to both the stamp and the cover. Alongside, and appearing partially on the postage stamp (50c de g. orange and black, President Borno) is the special marking 45 x 28mm in red (on Santo Domingo City covers), or blue (on Barahona covers), first used when the Port au Prince-Jeremie air service was inaugurated July 12, 1927.

The receiving postmark of "Santo Domingo, Rep. Dominicana" (within a double lined circle, 33mm) with date in the center in three lines "JUL—19—1927" appears in blue on both the face and back. The Barahona receiving mark, in green, a single lined circle, 25mm "Barahona, Republica Dominicana," with date in three lines "JUL—18—1927," and to the right, five horizontal lines, 45mm long, and spaced 4mm vertically, was applied to the face, and another, in red, appears on the back, similarly lettered, but with the circle measuring 29mm, and showing only the month and year "JUL—1927" (day omitted).

Confederate Provisional Hand Stamps

We have just secured, from a find, a quantity of the rare Confederate Provisional hand stamps listed in Scott's.

We have on hand at present some varieties of the "Atlanta" 10c, including several unlisted papers; also a very fine copy of the 5c type E1, surcharged 10c. We also have some nice "Milledgeville" covers, both 5c and 10c values, and both spacings of "Paid". We also have a few of the very rare "Tallbotton" hand stamps recently discovered, some of which are lsited in the addenda of Scott's catalogue.

We should be very pleased to quote prices or submit any of these on approval to interested parties.

the plane "Santa Maria," from Santo Domingo City to San Juan, P.R. (270 miles). Hundreds of letters were in the Santo Domingo City Post Office for dispatch by air, but all except 605 were held over for the formal inaugural flight.

The letters in this mail bear the lithographed 10c red-brown "Expreso" stamp, in the same design (47 x 21½mm) as the 10c blue, Entrega Especial, issued in 1925, except with "Expreso" substituted for "Entrega Especial" at the top. This stamp was patterned after the 10c blue, Special Delivery of the U. S. A. issued July 12, 1922. The 10c red-brown, Expreso, exists with the error "EEXPRESO" once in every twenty stamps, caused by the first "E" of "Entrega" not having been erased before transferring "Expreso" to the lithographic stone.

The postmark applied in blue-green to the stamps on these covers, is a single lined circle, 24mm, "Santo Domingo, Republica Dominicana," with date in the center, "DIC—2—1927," and to the right, five horizontal lines, 45mm long, and spaced vertically 4mm. There is also a special marking in blue-green, in three lines, "CORREO AEREO—POR AVION—"Santa Maria" (The greatest horizontal and vertical measurements of this marking are 59mm and 22mm respectively).

On receipt of this mail at San Juan, it received on the back the Duplex marking of that office, a single lined circle, 25mm, with "San Juan, P.R.," the date in two lines in the center "DEC 3—12.30 PM." and the year "1927" positioned between the circle, and the ellipse on end (with "1" inserted) at the right.

Santo Domingo City to Port au Prince, Haiti, December 6, 1927.

On the following Tuesday, December 6, 1927, the inaugural flight was made from Santo Domingo City to Port au Prince, Haiti (185 miles), and about 1,000 letters were carried by the "Santa Maria," piloted by B. L. Rowe.

These covers bear the 2c red Arms type (flat topped shield), of 1924, and the 10c blue "Entrega Especial" (plane in flight), 1920, both lithographed locally, and perforated 11½. The stamps were postmarked in blue-green, with a single lined circle, 24mm, "Santo Domingo, Republica Dominicana," with date in the center, in three lines, "DIC—5—1927," and five horizontal lines to the right, 45mm long, spaced 4mm vertically. There is another similar marking in the same color, without the horizontal lines at the right—the circle being smaller, 23½mm, with the same wording in smaller letters, and the date in larger type.

The special marking in blue-green, CORREO AEREO, etc., also appears in addition to one in blue, evidently supplied by the contractor, reading "WEST INDIAN AERIAL EXPRESS—INAUGURATION — REP. DOMINICAINE, CUBA, PTO. RICO, HAITI."

On receipt at Port au Prince, the covers were backstamped in black, "Port au Prince, Haiti," within a single lined circle, 27mm, "6—DEC—27," in the center, in three lines, and handstamped in blue with the AVION marking, from a steel die, brought into use, for inland air mails, in September, 1927 (two concentric circles, 33 and 28mm, with a wavy line between, enclosing an outline plane, and the word "AVION" below).

The envelope I received is one of those specially prepared for the first mail, autographed by the pilot "B. L. Rowe," and bears in the upper left corner, a three line imprint in black, "First Day Air Mail—Santo Domingo to Port au Prince, Haiti—Airplane Santa Maria."

Port au Prince to Santo Domingo City, December 13, 1927.

The first flight carrying mail, in regular service from Port au Prince, Haiti, was made Tuesday, December 13, 1927, when approximately 2,000 letters were dispatched east to Santo Domingo City and San Juan.

The air mail letter rate from Haiti to the Dominican Republic, Porto Rico, and Cuba, has tentatively been fixed at 60c de g. (12c U. S. currency), and while at present little if any time is saved in routing letters for the U. S. via San Juan, it is expected that when the service is extended to Santiago de Cuba, there will be a considerable saving, even though the mail does not go by air from Cuba to the United States.

To the first day covers, and stamps, was applied the usual single line circle (28mm) cancellation, "Port au Prince, Haiti" (the Port au Prince office has in concurrent use markers which measure 26, 27 and 28mm) with the date "13—DEC—27" in three lines in the center. In addition, there is the AVION marking from the steel die brought into use in September, 1927. At the left there is the contractor's marking, applied in blue, "WEST INDIAN AERIAL EXPRESS," etc., described above.

Letters addressed to Pittsburgh, via San Juan, P.R. (no backstampings were applied enroute) reached destination December 20, 1927, while those sent via Santo Domingo City (backstamped there in blue, "Santo Domingo, Rep. Dominicana," within a double lined circle, 33mm, with date "DIC—13—1927") did not arrive until December 28th.

Santo Domingo City to San Juan, P. R., December 13, 1927.

I have not seen any of the covers carried on the formal inaugural flight from Santo Domingo City to San Juan, P.R., on December 13, but presume the markings would be similar to those of the December 3rd flight, with the addition of the contractor's three line marking "WEST INDIAN AERIAL EXPRESS," etc.

San Juan, P.R., westward.

Information is lacking as to the air mail service westward from San Juan, P.R.—arrangements may not yet have been finalised.

DEPARTMENTS

More and more attention is being paid by collectors of U. S. stamps to the interesting series used for a time by the government departments. They are far scarcer than their list prices indicate, because for some years they were neglected. They seem now to be approaching a boom. Barring a few rarities, we have a very sound stock of these issues, specialized like other branches of our stock. Unused mint copies, used copies on or off cover, fancy and colored cancellations.

For beginners who want to fill these spaces at ⅓ of catalog; send your want list.

We Want to Buy Fine Single Items of Either United States or 19th Century Foreign. And, Collections, Finds, or Accumulations.

The above lot has but one item which is truly handsome, that being the brilliant red "M" on the 3c 1869. I have seen this on the later issue, 3c 1870, and it is also a stunning color combination. Am told that No. 2 is a precancel, it is in shiny jet black ink, and looks as though printed. No. 3 is a very clean cut letter, and looks nice on the cover. No. 7 has shown up rather frequently, but it is generally smudgy, though this copy was a very fine one. No. 11 is a very odd type of letter, and is easy to look at.

"Black Jacksons."—The last article on the stamp had to do with the "three dots," "other dots." Much is said of the random dots appearing on this 2c stamp. You will note that the extreme corners of these stamps often have dots clearly showing. Sometimes all four corners show dots, though these are distinctly uncommon. The bottom right corner has the dot far more often than its left corner. The top corners generally have dots.

An interesting variety is one with several dots in the margin at top right. One stamp has so many that they look not unlike a small bunch of grapes. It is a rarity, yet you may find it, and it is well worth hunting for, as it is a pretty addition to your collection of minor varieties, and is readily seen without a glass.

"Dot in the Hair."—On the left side of the stamp, in line with the eyebrow and about 2mm from left side of medallion you will frequently see a small round dot. The stamps with this are extremely common. I have before me as I write an unsevered complete India Proof sheet of 200 of the Plate No. 28 stamps. It is interesting to note that this Hair Dot is missing completely from all of the stamps in the first vertical row of the left pane, while all of the rest of the stamps in the sheet have this dot. So we see that one out of every 20 is without the dot from stamps printed from Plate No. 28.

These dots are presumably construction dots placed with mathematical precision on the sheet of steel (plate) before the rocking in of the transfer roll. They vary very slightly in the positions in which they appear in the wavy hair on various copies.

The same system of dots occurs on the Issue of 1869. You will frequently note

COLLECTORS CLUB VISITS PHILADELPHIA

By PHILIP H. WARD, JR.

On Tuesday evening, January 3rd, nine members of the Collectors Club of New York visited the Philadelphia Stamp Club at 1632 Arch Street. A substantial number of stamp members turned out to welcome President Linquist, together with Messrs. Barrett, Bartels, Currie, Konwiser, Pade, Steinway, and Toaspern. On their arrival, the delegation was the guest of Mr. Harry L. Jeferys at the University Club. Later in the evening, parts of three wonderful collections were exhibited by Messrs. Linquist, Steinway and Currie.

Mr. Linquist brought a few pages from his wonderfully fine specialized collection of Norway. Mr. Linquist has made more headway in plating the first stamp than any other collector, including the many enthusiasts living in Norway. Not only are the plate varieties shown in profusion, but he has a wonderful lot of cancellations on this stamp, together with pairs and strips. Mr. Linquist made a remark somewhat surprising, and that is that since he has specialized in Number 1, he has seen so many good sized strips that he has reached the conclusion that they are not near as rare as we have been led to believe in the past.

The second exhibit was made by Mr. Steinway, which consisted of a portion of his specialized collection of the stamps of Great Britain. This collection, which is possibly the finest of its kind in America, is rich in the early classes in singles, pairs, strips and blocks, in both used and unused condition. Mr. Steinway is a collector of the old school, who prefers the cancelled specimen to the mint copy. In so far as condition is concerned, he thinks with the collector of today, for throughout his stamps are practically 100% fine.

Mr. Currie brought with him a few pages of his general collection, which without a doubt is among the two or three finest now in existence in this country. The specialist of today is in the great majority and the general collector of years back is unfortunately passing. Mr. Currie covers the world, and collects in the printed album making an effort to fill every space. Those of us who had the privilege of inspecting his treasure, realize that he has met with wonderful success, in getting copies of most of the stamps, and this includes not only the common and scarcer stamps, but the rarities as well. His United States is practically complete with few exceptions, and in the case of the earlier issues, many of the rarer stamps are present in shades. A British Colony stood out supreme in British Guiana, and the Currie Collection contains of this country such outstanding pieces as several copies of the 1850 issue, the 1c and 4c of 1852, as well as the 4c of 1856. From that point, I do not recall a vacant space. His Canada were unusually fine, and I noticed but one stamp missing. Ceylon was almost complete, including magnificent copies of the 1857—4p, 8p, and 9p.

The Currie Collection is strong even in countries which are not popular with the average collector. For instance, his Colombia Republic is practically complete, and one who has endeavored to get together the early issues, well realizes that this is an endless task. To mention all of the unusual things would be to take the catalogue and probably cover every variety of the 19th Century to which the collection is devoted.

The Exhibit as a whole was well chosen, and the Philadelphia collectors present received a wonderful treat. It is to be hoped that a further visit from the Society will be arranged for next year.

After the Exhibit, refreshments were served in the Club room, and before leaving on the midnight train, Mr. Klein lead the Coffee Brigade, consisting of Messrs. Steinway, Currie, Bartels and Pade, to Broad Street Station, for a good cup of strong coffee. Messrs. Linquist, Konwiser, Toaspern, Barrett, and Clark desired more popular liquid refreshments, and followed the genial "P. M." elsewhere.

vertical lines running through the guide dot at about this same distance from the left side of the 3c blue locomotives (2mm) and near the bottoms of the stamps. By following this vertical line you will soon find the large dot. In addition the 1869's have horizontal guide lines—for example, it is not uncommon to find the 12c green with a horizontal line running in from the left side so far that it touches the bow of the boat, making it appear as though the boat were being towed by a hawser connected to a boat ahead which is out of the picture.

"Guide Lines."—In Black Jacks these lines are numerous. They doubtless wore away appreciably during the wear of the plate in its printing, as my Proof Sheet of 200 shows these lines very clearly. A clear early impression on a mint block or strip shows some very interesting faint lines running both directions on the single stamp, especially if the stamp be from a top or bottom row of the plate. The corner stamps are especially interesting, for here the lines run in a more heavily cut and darker way. These lines run through the corner guide dots which shows that they were of use in making the plates.

Accidental lines, caused probably by using a gritty substance in cleaning up the finished plate, are not unusual. These show running both vertically and horizontally, and you will find some pretty minor varieties here with a little searching. Off centered stamps show th scratch lines better than well cente copies. Often six or eight fine thin li are to be counted between the stamps their white margins.

One stamp has two short scratches rectly above its center, in the marg These lines run down from the top l and are a couple of mms in length, a they may be readily seen without a gla They look like double accent marks.

"Cracked Plates."—It is difficult determine at times whether a crack plate causes the mark, or a scratch. scratch generally takes a definite cou and the edges of the scratch mark fairly smooth and even, while a crack not of uniform color and width, and edges under a glass are somewhat ragg Of these irregular markings which shall consider as Cracked Plates, ha gathered in but three copies, and th must be very scarce from my small cumulation combed from many thous copies of the stamp.

THE PRECANCEL REVIEW

By FREDERICK W. ALLEN, 405 Oak St., S.E., Minneapolis, Minn.

Alhambra, Calif. | San Francisco, California | DALLAS TEX.

Part I.—The Illustrations

Alhambra, Calif.—This town is a newcomer to the ranks. Probably the demand for precancels is limited to circular mail, for I have seen only the current 1½c.

San Francisco, Calif.—At last casts aside the plate which is so well known to the precancel specialist. One of the mysteries of the precancel game has been the retention of this plate for the work at such an important office, when it produced a large proportion of faulty impressions and contained many places where the type was scarred and broken. The new style, illustrated above, is a decided improvement, and is distinctive in that no other city has ever precancelled in identical type as this. The 12 and 13c were the first two specimens to reach me with the new overprint.

Dallas, Tex.—This overprint reaches me on the 1½c coil. Although it appears to be typeset, it is not being a Bureau print of entirely different style from anything in that field. How do you like it?

Part II.—Bureau Printed Precancels

Interest in this branch continues to be the marked feature of the hobby. Prices on the 1916 Experimentals rule high, with spirited bidding at auction reflecting the keen demand. The 3c New Orleans fetched $25.00 at a recent sale and some of the Springfields as high as $5.00 each.

New York is now using the 2c coil, which permits collectors to display a full set of the coils. It is hard to understand why neither New York or Chicago have requested the 7, 8 and 9c, when so many other offices have done so.

Newark, N. J.—Supplies of the values above the 2c have been in stock for many months, but evidently were being kept in storage until all of the locally printed stock was exhausted. They are now being released to the relief of the Bureau Print collector. The 7c preceded the others by a month. I have not seen the 6c, but the balance up to the 10c have come to hand. The 3c coil was added to stock in December.

Camden, N. J.—Ordered in October, the 1½c and 2c coils. These should be fairly hard to secure.

Huntington, W. Va., is another new Bureau user. The 1½c coil was sent to that office in November. A specimen at hand shows the style to be that portrayed by the Dallas illustration.

Oakland, Calif., also gets the 1½c coil, as well as Dallas, Tex. Both orders were placed in October.

Port Washington, Wis., is added to the list of small Wisconsin towns which are using the Bureau coils for circular mail. Don't pass up Port Washingtons if they are creased through the center, for like Milton 1½c, they are folded over the edge of the circular to hold it together.

Denver, Colo., is now out with the 7c and 8c in the new perforation.

Cleveland adds the 5c coil to the series, completing it to that denomination. In the perforated all around stamps, the 7c and 8c exist with the perf. 10 and compound perforations. Naturally the former perf. will command a high premium when its true scarcity becomes ap-

For two or three weeks I've left the number of subscribers to my New Issue Service of British Colonials at eleven. A big New York collector told me he's tired of seeing eleven — either fish or cut bait. So now I'm pleased to say it's up to 19. I want no pikers —no 10% fiends—no centering cranks—no philatelic nuisances of any kind. I do want honest-to-goodness collectors who wish a new issue service of Br. Colonials that is, positively, almost perfect. 32c to the 1/-.

NEW OPPOSES COMMEMORATIVE
(Clipping from Jos. Cadek.)

Postmaster General New is opposed to ne issuance of a special stamp commemorating the one hundred and fiftieth nniversary of the founding of the Govrnment of the State of New York. Demands for the issuance of special stamps ave reached the stage where they are nuisance, he asserted, and every mail rings in importunities for a special amp of this or that kind.

Senator Wagner of New York yesterday proposed a joint resolution for a pecial stamp for New York, and while Ir. New said the matter was one for ongress to determine he could not approve it.

"In the last few days," he said, "I ave received a number of letters proesting against our liberality in the isuance of stamps to New York. No ne can say that we have not given the tate its full share. If we complied with ne-half the requests for special stamps hat are received here we would have othing but special stamps."

parent on these two items.

Dallas, Tex., Bureaus with the 10 perforation are worth holding, for only a limited number were issued.

Harrisburg, Pa., cancelled its order for the 3, 4, 5, 6 and 10c values a year ago. Now the 3c has been reordered and should be in circulation at the time of writing.

Memphis, Tenn., received the 8c in November. It is going to be fairly hard to procure judging from the scarcity of most Memphis Bureaus.

Omaha, Nebr., orders the 7c, leaving only the 9c remaining to complete the set to 10c.

Beverly Hills, Calif., 1½c coil, ordered in November, is one that we will all be eager to see. It marks the first usage of precancels for this office.

San Diego is another California office to receive an initial shipment of Bureau Prints. Again it is the 1½c coil.

Brockton, Mass., is a prolific precancel user, so the 1½c Bureau coil should not be elusive.

Frenchtown, N. J., will provide further interest for the Bureau fan, now that it has added the 3c coil to stock.

USERS OF THE CHINA CATALOG

By THEODORE SIDDALL

(1.)—An apology is due for having published the catalog with so many typographical errors. Most are trifling but the following should be corrected:—

On p. 5, No. 14b, the value should read "12," (candareens).

On p. 6, No. 19c, the space between the Chinese word and value should read "3½ mm." And probably all values in the set may be found with the 3½ mm. space.

On p. 7, No. 40b (the first one) should read "40ab" in the list and under the cut.

On p. 11, the legend should be under the cut.

On p. 12, the battered letters in the paragraph at foot are "Later."

On p. 22, the value of Tibet No. 5 should be "2½ annas on 10c."

On p. 33, the date of issue of the Foochow stamps should be "1895-98."

On p. 35, No. 12, the color should be "brown."

On p. 45, the denomination of No. 44 should be "½ cent" and of No. 45, "1 cent."

(2.)—Complaints have been made because this edition does not give any prices for the rarities. Quite a proper complaint, but first there must be found somebody who knows the prices. I do not know them, nor what they may be a month or a year hence. It is better to leave them out than to print prices that are not prices. Any price that might be printed for a stamp that has not been on the market in several years and might not be on the market in the next five years would be the merest guess. If you know anything about Chinese stamps, your guess is as good as mine; if you do not, what would be the use of guessing? Most collectors are not interested in the prices of the rarities, they not being either buyers or sellers. If those who are interested either as buyers or sellers of the unpriced varieties will send me their want-lists, I will send them priced offers of these rarities, when they are available; so that I venture to say that these lists will give a better idea of the value of these stamps than a list of guesses at the prices of stamps that perhaps never were in stock. Read at the foot of page 37.

(3.)—Criticism is also offered because the very numerous varieties of unperforated pairs and strips are omitt These are mostly rare, and only inter a few collectors. Paragraph 2 cov these also.

(4.)—The catalog also omits the S kiang official stamps, which are mer the ordinary stamps perforated w Chinese characters meaning "for offi use." But as anybody can make th out of the ordinary stamps, with a i it did not seem worth while to incl them. I will sell any I have of the "c cial" Sinkiang stamps at half the u price of the ordinary kinds. Here i good place to mention that, as the h value Sinkiang stamps are used on p cels, which are liable to get rubbed wh en route for 1,000 miles or so on can back, the perforations are not as perf as on stamps that are unused, or c celled to order.

(5.)—The prices in the catalog given in U.S.A. money, and as there no money there less than one cent, tha the lowest price in the catalog, althou there are inaccuracies, such as betw Nos. 232 and 233, where 232 is wo fifty times as much as 233, yet neither worth two cents. The list of sets ta care of such cases as this.

How Can We Prove Up The 24c Continental?

EVIDENCE OFFERED BY MANY DEALERS AND EXPERTS NOT CONVINCING TO THOSE FAMILIAR WITH INTRICACIES OF PAPER AND PRINTINGS OF THE VARIOUS BANK NOTE COMPANY PRODUCTIONS.

By WARNER BATES, 184 State St., Albany, N. Y.

This is a divergence from the subject of the Ribbed Papers of the Continental Printings, a serial which I am writing for MEKEEL'S at this time, but the subject seems timely and therein is my excuse for wandering from the principal theme.

Elliott Perry writes:

"I am reading your series on Continental Ribbed Papers with interest. I have never thought these accidents, or due solely to some freak of paper manufacture, as so many other writers in the past have claimed. The fifteen cent ribbed, for instance, does not match with any other Continental fifteen cent on regular paper, but obviously comes from a separate and distinct printing.

"There is one remark you make, however, which does not agree with any evidence known to me. In speaking of imprints you say:—'Inasmuch as the National plates used by the Continental Company would logically have been used during the spring of 1873, when the contract changed hands, this adds evidence that the Ribbed Paper was not the first Continental emission—'

Is there any evidence any National Plates were used by the Continental Company, except National plates Nos. 21, 22 and 23, the 24c, 30c and 90c? According to Luff, the Continental Company did not use any of these plates in 1873, but made the first use of them in 1874, when they printed and delivered 190,000 of the 30c, and 197,000 of the 90c. Their only printing of the 24c was in 1875—365,000 stamps, but there were 192,500 more 30c stamps printed and delivered by them in 1876. Luff lists the 24c, 30c and 90c on ribbed paper, but questions the 24c and 90c, and it would seem that both of these were first printed too late to catch the Ribbed paper, if the Ribbed paper stamps were all printed before 1874."

First of all let me admit the error of my remarks regarding the use of National plates by the Continental Company, which Mr. Perry quotes.

Frankly, I don't know just how I came to write the paragraph Mr. Perry quotes. It was a slip of the typewriter or of the mental faculties perhaps. As a matter of fact, I caught it in reading over my carbon copy when I started to write the second article in the series, but the copy was then already on the press and it was too late to retract it.

Luff, of course, brings out quite clearly that the Continental Company made new plates for all printings, except the 24c, 30c and 90c.

My statement that Plate No. 136 was the twelfth Three Cent Green plate made by the Continental people was due to the same erroneous line of reasoning. I was assuming for the moment that the Continental Company used National plates Nos. 1, 5, 7, 8, 9, 10 and 11, instead of making their own plates with corresponding numbers, and therefore I was counting from Continental Plate No. 14 on, instead of No. 1, Plate No. 136, according to Luff, is the nineteenth, and not the twelfth Continental Three Cent Green plate. Mr. Perry also picks me up on this slip. He goes on to say:

"I have never seen the 24c, 30c or 90c on what I would call Ribbed paper, as in Vertically Ribbed Paper of the 15c, but had hoped (but not believed) that the 24c might turn up, as it would prove some of the Continental 24c printed and delivered were actually issued to the public. It has always seemed to me the 24c probably was printed too late.

Furthermore, I make Plate No. 136 the 19th plate of the Three Cent Continental, not the twelfth as you have it. According to Luff, the 15c was printed in 1873, but not in 1874. Roughly speaking, Plates Nos. 1 to 31 are the first Continental group, and then come the Department stamps, No. 136, at the earliest, is in the second group of Continental plates made for the general issues.

Referring to the National plates, I find only 26 plates of the Three Cent covering a period of three years. Yet if Continental Plate No. 136 was used as early as November, 1873, the plate numbers indicate about nineteen Continental Three Cent plates used during a period of only six or seven months."

The writer has not stated that the Three Cent Green stamps on Ribbed paper were all printed before the end of 1873, although that is a possibility.

What I did attempt to prove in the first article of the series was that "the probable use of the Ribbed paper by the Continental Bank Note Company was for only a few months, either all in 1873, or partly in 1873 and partly early in 1874."

I will state positively, however, that there is every evidence that the use of the Ribbed paper was discontinued before the fall of 1874 and I know of no evidence to indicate that it was ever used again.

So much for that, and the reader will note that it leaves open the possibility of the 30c and 90c being found on Ribbed paper inasmuch as, according to Luff, both varieties were printed from National Plates by the Continental Company in 1874.

Inasmuch as the 24c was not printed until 1875, I do not think there is a possibility of this stamp ever turning up on Ribbed Paper.

Speculation Regarding 24c Continental

For years one expert after another has been bringing forward new methods of proving up the 24c "Continental" stamps in his own collection or stock. This is particularly true of dealers who occasionally break forth in the philatelic press.

What seems to be the most accepted line of reasoning is that any 24c on paper showing silk fibres must be Continental.

I have no desire to quarrel with these gentlemen, nor have I any axes to grind. In fact, I do not collect the 24c denomination—do not own a single copy.

I merely want to point out here, for the protection of collectors who may be considering the purchase of 24c "Continentals" at goodly sums, that a 24c printed on paper showing silk or other thread fibres is not necessarily a Continental product.

Another writer recently quoted in MEKEEL'S stated that the chief distinguishing factor in determining a 24c Continental print was that the paper was strikingly white and very brittle, and that it was always found with very tiny fragments of silk thread in the same color as the stamp. He also said that sometimes these silk threads were very difficult to see and it is almost always necessary to use a powerful glass to reveal them.

This gentleman may be entirely right—I might examine his "24c printings on silk paper" and agree with him instantly that they were unquestionably Continental printings. My decision would depend upon whether the paper was National paper showing silk fibres, or Continental paper showing silk fibres.

Speaking for the Three Cent Green, and this should prove equally true of other denominations printed during the same period, there are two distinctly different kinds of fibre thread paper, one used by the National and the other by the Continental people, and the Continental people apparently also used the same silk fibre paper as that used by its predecessor, making in all three different printings on two different kinds of silk paper.

These may be heretofore unrecorded facts for all I know—do not remember ever having seen such a statement in print before—if so, it's time United States collectors in general should be given the truth—it may save some of their good money.

The late Continental Silk paper (that is, the silk paper used by the Continental Company which differs from the one used by the National) is a paper well impregnated with the silk fibres.

The fibres (in Three Cent Green examples), when viewed under a strong glass, seem to be black in color. They are generally very short, measuring from about one-quarter of a milimetre to half a milimetre or slightly more in length.

Generally the fibres, as they lie imbedded in the paper, are straight, but occasionally one is curved. In a typical example, forty to sixty of these tiny fibres can be counted on the back surface of the stamp.

The fibres can often, but not always, be distinguished on the face of the stamp, in the colorless portions, where they are not covered up by the printing, especially in the margins.

The paper, although perhaps somewhat whiter than some other Continental printings, is not what I would call strikingly white. Neither would I call it very brittle. It is, however, a firm, hard snappy paper, as a rule.

Looking through the stamp at a strong light, the paper is seen to be woven, and rather coarsely woven. It has, in this respect, somewhat the characteristics of Linenlike Paper.

Silk paper examples examined of the two cent vermilion, six cent pink and ten cent brown show the same black fibres, so I do not find any evidence of fibre being used of the same color as the stamp in this particular Paper.

As my own collection of the Three Cent Green on this type of Silk Fibre Paper numbers between 100 and 200 specimens (shades, printing, plate varieties and cancellations) I would assume that it is fairly representative of the variety. Practically every specimen runs true to the foregoing description, and I would here make the statement that, in my humble opinion, a 24c would have to show at least scores of tiny black fibres and generally correspond with the other points mentioned to be unquestionably a Continental Printing on Silk Fibre Paper.

The reference to the Lindbergh celebration stamps of Panama was somewhat mixed in this column last week, in consequence of misreading data that had been hurriedly prepared by our informant. Through the courtesy of Mr. A. W. French, Ancon, C. Z., we have had further particulars of the Panama issue and following description from the Star and Herald of Panama, R. P., December 30, 1927, is appended:

"The special postage stamp issue to commemorate Lindbergh's visit will soon be on sale, it was announced. The dies are now being made and it is said that the Panama Canal Printery at Mount Hope has undertaken to print the entire issue and make delivery within three days. As soon as the stamps are received by the Panamanian postal authorities they will be placed on sale at the different post offices throughout the Republic, but special arrangements are being made to distinguish the stamps used on the day of Lindbergh's arrival, so as to give them greater value for philatelists. The stamps sold in Panama City on the day of the Lone Eagle's arrival will be postmarked with a special cancellation stamp having the legend "Post Office Dept., Panama (the date) Lindbergh's arrival in Panama," and as a further distinguishing mark, a special ink will be used. During the day before and after the arrival of the aviator, stamps sold in this city as well as in the provincial capitals, will be postmarked with a stamp carrying the name of the post office and the inscription "National Post Office Department—In honor of Lindbergh."

In the special correspondence in the Chicago Tribune of January 9th, describing Lindbergh's reception in Costa Rica, an interesting reference to stamps is found. After the flyer had been presented with a superb placque, the Colonel was the recipient from Postmaster Padilla of the first or imprimatur sheet of special Lindbergh stamps. Moreover, we read that he was given a collection of all the issues of Costa Rica, from the first issue to the latest stamp in honor of Lindbergh. We hope that this collection included the first two imperforates with wide margins. Just how much interest Colonel Lindbergh has in philately, we do not know, but there is no doubt but that he is aware of the activity and enthusiasm of a host of collectors, not a few of whom he knows personally and has a friendly regard for. It is not improbable that he has a soft spot for stamps, in consequence.

Mr. Henry A. Meyer, Evansville, Indiana, writes: "In the WEEKLY of December 12th, Mr. Smith chronicles the 3pf of Germany in the new light shade inclining toward olive. When I was over there the past summer, I used many of the new shade on cards, but did not happen to have one of the original shade with me; therefore, I did not notice the difference, and did not preserve even one unused copy for myself. I did not realize that a new shade had appeared until I returned home and happened to compare the stamps on a card that I had sent home with some of the original shade. If it had been a rare error, I suppose it would have slipped through my fingers in the same fashion." Mr. Meyer was intent upon his ruling passion, philately, during his extensive travels abroad and in consequence has many little incidents to relate.

The following interesting letter has come from Mr. Delf Norona, Beckley, West Virginia, whose stamp studies have attracted favorable attention and who, incidentally, is the official reporter for the tenth judicial circuit: "I notice Mr. Ash's claim in the January 2nd issue that a Cuban cancellation used from 1855 through the years, including the 1914 map issue, probably had the longest life of any cancellation employed in any country. As an ardent specialist of the stamps of Cuba, I want to challenge his claim to the extent that the Kingston 'A-01' obliterant was in use from 1858 to 1885, a period of 27 years. Furthermore, after its use was discontinued in Jamaica, with true British thoroughness, it was returned to the London post office and there it was used occasionally, at least, as a cancellation for some time, as I have a British post card, used in 1903, with this cancellation. However, as the philatelic student must be extremely careful about his statements, I must say that several of these 'A-01' obliterators were sent out to Jamaica and several types of 'A-01's' exist; and it is possible that this identical obliteration was not the same one sent out in 1858 to Jamaica. Now, here is a claim for the longest lived stamp. The one shilling stamp of Jamaica, Queen's head, was in use from November 23, 1860, to August 2, 1912, with various changes in color and watermark, of course. However, the original printing plate was in constant use for that period, 51 years, 8 months and 10 days, as is proved by a printing flaw on one of the stamps in the plate. Now, who will come forward and challenge this stamp as being the longest lived issue in the world, and used at that for a genuine postal need?" Here we have a worthy companion for the "grand old stamp" of New South Wales, the five pence, type of the 1855 issue, whose usage over a period of fifty years makes it an honored specimen.

From Mr. R. R. Walker, Richmond, Virginia, there has been received the following readable study of post office names: "I saw the note in the issue of December 12th on peculiar names taken from a postal guide of one hundred years ago. Your attention may be called to the fact that of the sixteen offices named as in Virginia, in the list, one, Falling Waters, is a good office in West Virginia (then Virginia), Burks Garden, Chalk Level, London Bridge, Overalls and Seven Mile Ford are still offices in Virginia. In addition to the ones mentioned, there are many peculiar names in Virginia, of which the following are samples: Harryhogan, Harry Smith, Cripple Creek, Chase City, Lightfoot, Hardware, Ax, Pistol, Ka, Pumpkin, Round Hill, Hightown, Crabbottom, Long Shoal, Long Spur, Coffee, Tea, Peapatch, Pounding Mill, Horsepen, Bearwallow, Monk, Uno, Ino and Igo; and each of these places probably has a reason for its peculiar name. For instance, on the N. & W. R. R., about fifteen miles east of Petersburg, Va., there is a small town called Disputanta, so named because the people would not agree on any other name." Another reader, given to statistics, sends memoranda showing that Pennsylvania, takes the lead in number of offices within the state, with 2,924, followed by Kentucky with 2,637; Texas, New York and Virginia are bunched in the 2,200's. Illinois has the largest number of postal routes, 2,629, with a mileage of 71,033; and Kentucky with 2,531 routes falls below Texas in mileage of 65,056. These figures are based on the fiscal year of 1926.

A clipping has come from Professor Frederick S. Eaton, "the stampless cover" devotee of New Haven, Conn., taken from the Technical News Bulletin, telling that at the request of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing, experimental work has been done to determine the effect on the adhesive quality of stamps as a consequence of contact with the various ingredients "used as separator sheets in books of stamps." It has been shown by the tests that the sticking qualities of stamps may be weakened through the use of certain grade of paraffin paper. "Although the stamps adhere temporarily to ordinary cellophane, a special, moisture-proof cellophane seems to offer possibilities for that purpose." The enterprise of the postal authorities in seeking to overcome what has perhaps been cited as an objection is commendable, and it is possible that a new variety of "waxed paper" will appear in booklets of the future.

MISCELLANY

THE newspapers have described the special issue of Costa Rica in honor of Lindbergh as numbering 20,000, and as having the name of Lindbergh with date, 1928, in one corner, and an airplane in the other.

MR. A. W. LINE, Dunkirk, N. Y., has shown us a copy of the Author & Journalist containing an article by John Pirhalla, Jr., entitled, "Writing For Philately." Mr. Pirhalla lists about all of the American publication and incidentally incorporates in his review some interesting philatelic particulars.

THE following officers were elected to serve the Chicago Philatelic Society for 1928: President, B. L. Voorhees; Vice-President, W. N. Emerson; Secretary, J. A. Zalud; Treasurer, C. F. Mann, and Messrs. Boehm, Henman, Howle, Rech and Severn were named as additional directors. The annual banquet of the society is slated for February 16th at the Brevoort Hotel.

THE Furniture City Stamp Club Bulletin, is a folio devoted to the interests of the club, edited by Roland Goodman, under the sponsorship of J. W. Van Brook of the Y. M. C. A., Grand Rapids, Michigan, is the Furniture City, if you have to know.

MR. A. F. MERELL, San Francisco, sends a clipping from the Examiner of his city, in the form of an Associated Press dispatch that says that Suzanne Lenglen not alone is interested in collecting with a penchant for air-mail issues, but that her father, as well, is decidedly smitten and is collecting "British stamps." Moreover, the explanation is made that her former manager, Baldwin Baldwin of California, has spent twenty thousand dollars for air mail covers, and that he does his stamp buying in Paris, under the tutelage of Suzanne, who attends to the bargaining and translating in behalf of Mr. Baldwin.

THE Postmark, published by the Springfield, Illinois, postmaster, still proclaiming the merits of the air mail service; and it has succeeded in making its city the largest user of the accommodation, size considered, in the country, we believe.

THE Chicago Precancel Club has attained a membership of one hundred and its meetings are lively and well attended; and out-of-town enthusiasts are often present.

PHILATELIC MASONRY

By RUSSELL A. COWLES.

Masonry and philately are both universal in character and, as such, furnish a most interesting and unexplored field for the philatelist who attempts to trace the connections between them. The masonic philatelist finds three separate fields in which to devote his attention. On certain stamps there appear typical insignia, notably those of Malta, which contain, on the newer issues, certain masonic symbols of the higher degrees. Whether this fact is a mere coincidence or not is hard to say, since many symbols are universal and their use is not confined to any particular group or time.

Cancellations furnish another interesting aspect of the subject. In the old days before the use of the modern cancelling machine the postmaster used make-shift devices, many times merely a piece of wood or cork which he whittled according to his own fancy or imagination. If he happened to be a member of the masonic fraternity the design naturally took that trend and we have possibly twenty or so of these different designs recorded. Very few can be assigned to any particular town and only in a few cases is it definitely known where they originated. The 1861 issue furnishes the greatest number of these designs with a few on 1851 issues and some even as late as 1879.

From a universal standpoint the large number of masons who appear in portrait on postage stamps is probably of greatest interest. In the early and tumultuous days when this country was fighting for its very existence, and in the subsequent days of its birth and construction as a nation, many of America's "great men" appeared. Several of these men who appear on postage stamps were masons.

America's greatest citizen and its greatest mason, George Washington, appears on the current two cent stamp as well as on a large number of the older and obsolete issues. Next to George Washington probably the most common picture appearing on the U. S. postage stamps is that of Benjamin Franklin, likewise a mason and one of the "founders" of this country. Since a number of presidents appear on postage stamps it might be well to consider those who were masons. James Monroe appears on the current 10c orange, Andrew Jackson appears on the 3c purple 1890 issue as well as earlier issues. William McKinley has his portrait on the current 7c black. James A. Garfield appears on the 6c red-orange current issue. Theodore Roosevelt appears on the 5c blue and Warren G. Harding on the 1½c brown current issue. All of these presidents were masons. Lincoln, whose portrait appears on several issues, while not a mason is known to have petitioned an Illinois lodge for admission only a very short time before his premature death.

Henry Clay, likewise a mason, is found on the 15c 1890 issue, as well as that great American patriot Alexander Hamilton, who appears on the 30c 1870-71 issue. The White Plains issue of 1926 is also a representation of Alexander Hamilton's Battery. John Marshall, chief justice of the U. S. supreme court, also a mason, appears on the $5 green 1894 issue. Livingstone, a mason, has his portrait on the 1c green Louisiana Purchase issue. Charles A. Lindbergh, whose epoch making flight across the Atlantic caused him to be honored with a special 10c blue air mail issue, was also made a mason only a short while before his successful flight.

Outside of United States freemasonry has its greatest following in Great Britain and the English royal family is well represented in masonry as well as on the postage stamps of Great Britain and its colonies. King Edward was a mason, and before his succession to the throne was grand master of masons in England. The present Prince of Wales is a mason as well as the Duke of Connaught. Another famous English mason appears on postage stamps but it was reserved for another country to so honor him. Lord Byron, the famous English poet, was a great lover of liberty and in commemoration of the aid and service he had rendered, Greece issued a special series of two stamps in 1924 on the 100th anniversary of his unsuccessful attempt to aid the Greeks in overthrowing Turkish rule.

The present portrait series of the German Republic contains several of Germany"s famous men, several of whom were masons. Frederick the Great, whom several authorities claim as the father of Scottish Rite freemasonry, appears on the 10pf of that issue. With him is Goethe and Schiller, two of Germany's poets, appearing on the 3pf and 5pf respectively. Beethoven, and of the greatest of musicians, appears on the 20pf and Lessing, the great novelist, appears on the 30pf of that issue.

Austria also has issued a series of postage stamps in 1922 with portraits of its "greatest." Among these will be

Kansas City Roulette

Early in December, 1914, the postmaster of Kansas City had on hand a number of imperforate sheets of the then current 1c and 2c stamps which he had ordered for the use of the National Bank of Commerce of that city. The bank suddenly stopped using imperforate stamps and having no other outlet for them, and thinking them hardly sufficient to return to Washington, the postmaster caused the remaining sheets to be rouletted at his office so that they would be in such shape that they could be conveniently handled at the stamp window. Altogether 93,600 1c and 69,200 2c stamps were rouletted in this manner.

A Junior Suggestion

By ROBERT SMUTNY (8).

A year ago I started to save stamps. I am 8 years old and have about 5,500 stamps. The Junior page I like, and get lots of help from it, but I read the other parts also. When the grown-ups mention some stamps, like the 2d, 4d St. Helena, 6d Gambia, 2s and 2s 6d Dominica and others, I wish they would please put Scott's number beside it so we Juniors would know just of which stamp they are speaking. Mother would let me buy some, but wants me to get the right ones, and this number would help. Seven boys I know save stamps. I wish there was a stamp club near me. I am enclosing my answer to the new contest. I like the contests, they make one remember.

The Stamp Album

Many beginners start on too grand a scale, and kill their interest at the outset. To put a small collection into a huge album is as silly as to use a haystack for a pincushion. If you are out to collect stamps, then stamps are the things which to concentrate both your time and your money. The object of a stamp album is to assist you in the formation of a collection, to make your stamps, when you have got them, easy of access for reference and study.

The more ponderous and cumbersome your album the less frequently you will go to it in search of pleasure and recreation, and if you take a huge album to school, it will make your play-box a burden to you.

A small collection will be full of interest in a compact, cheap album, or even in a plain exercise book, if neatly and cleanly arranged. Later on, when the collection begins to bulge the covers, you will find a new pleasure in transferring the stamps to more commodious premises. But we have a lot to learn before then, and the chief thing we shall require is patience, for a collection of anything is not got together without steady persevering effort.—Guide to Stamp Collecting.

"Country" Etymology

Sweden. In the vernacular language Sverige, is constructed from Svea-Rike, which signifies Svenen Empire.

Wurtemberg. From Wirtemberg, a castle not far from Stuttgart, on the red mountains.

England. Land of the Angles, those Germans from the district of the present Schleswig-Holstein, who came to England together with the Saxons under their leaders Hengist and Horsa, a short time after the downfall of the Roman Empire.

Finland. Land of the Finns. The name of the Finns is the Gothic translation of their peculiar name soumalist, swamp men, from Souma swamp, moor.

—Ill. Briefmarken Jour.—Am. Jour. Phil.

Indus Uterque Serviet Uni

The motto shown upon the Jamaica stamps of the Arms type issued since 1903. The phrase is rather condensed and a bit cryptic but the interpretation put upon it in the island is:—"Let each of the Indies serve one master," an allusion apparently to the fact that there are dominions under the British flag in both the East Indies and the West Indies.

JUNIOR STAMP STUDIES

Palace of Minerva
Guatemala, A31
1902, 6c

Cabrera became President of Guatemala in 1899, and we have his name on the 1902 six centavo value in the minutest inscription to be found on a stamp. It is also on the facade of the Palace of Minerva and reads: "Manuel Estrada Cabrera, Presidente de la Republica a la Juventud Estudiosa," a part of which means presumably that President Cabrera has dedicated this structure to studious youth. Minerva was the ancient patroness of learning, and as the city of Guatemala possesses a university, a national library, schools of art, medicine, engineering and agriculture, a conservatory of music, with several evening technical schools, the palace of Minerva is quite appropriate.

Rahway Stamp Club

By PAUL C. HOWARD, Pres.

This month is the 2nd anniversary of a stamp Club in the Y. M. C. A., at Rahway, N. J., which was started in January, 1926. We have a club of boys whose ages range from 10 to 15. We would like to communicate with other clubs and receive suggestions as to how to run our meetings, and interesting topic to take up. Would those who communicate with us please send letters to 166 Central Av.

Questions and Answers

Q.—I bought a packet of stamps recently, and in it there were some stamps postmarked, but they had still all the gum on the back, and do not appear to have been stuck on letters. What are they?

A.—In some countries, in order to cater for the demand for used stamps for collections, the post office obligingly postmarks stamps in sheets. Such stamps are described as postmarked to order. It is not always possible to say whether stamps have been postmarked to order or really used.

Q.—How should I go about valuing my collection?

A.—Value it as something precious, to be taken care of, studied, and turned to for recreative interest, but not to be parted from for lucre.

Q.—Can you advise me what country I ought to specialise in?

A.—No collector should specialise until he has a fair general knowledge of stamps. In choosing a country to specialise in, one must be guided by inclination and opportunity. In your general collecting you have perchance been more attracted to the stamps of one country than another; some country is consequently better represented there, and provides a good start for specialising. In any case, you have to make your own choice.—Guide to Stamp Collecting.

Mormon Stamps

Bogus labels issued some years ago purporting to be a series of stamps for the use of the Mormons in Utah. These labels bear a portrait of Brigham Young and are inscribed "Utah Postage." There are three values—two, five and eight cents, respectively.

K. K. K.

These letters, placed in triangular arrangement on the Philippine insurgent stamps, were the initials of the first three words of the famous or infamous "Katipunan" society, a secret organization formed upon Masonic usage for patriotic purposes. It was the instigator of the various rebellions against the Spaniards and the power behind the so-called "Aguinaldo Government," its symbolism—a triangle enclosing a sun and three stars—appearing on the stamps as well. Its full name was Kataas-taasang Kalagayan Katipunan Nang Manga Anac Nang Bayan or "Sovereign Worshipful Association of the Sons of the Country."

Junior Dictionary

Prince Edward Island.—An island situated in the Gulf of St. Lawrence. Stamps were first issued on January 1, 1861, and these special stamps were superseded by the general issue for Canada on July 1, 1873.

Principaute De Monaco.—Found on the stamps of Monaco, i.e., "Principality of Monaco."

Printed Both Sides.—Errors upon which the design is shown on the back as well as upon the face.

Printed Matter, Stamps For.—Stamps issued for use on newspapers and printed matter only.

Printing.—Various methods of printing employed in the production of postage stamps.

Printings.—Separate editions of the same stamp or stamps issued at different periods.

Prince Henry Issue.—A special set of stamps issued in Portugal in 1894 to commemorate the 500th anniversary of the birth of Prince Henry the Navigator.

Printer's Waste.—A term sometimes applied to errors and freaks in postage stamps which may reasonably be suspected of having become circulated by more or less illegitimate means.

Prir.—An overprint shown on certain Iceland stamps issued in 1897. The first letter is not a true "p" but a Saxon letter signifying "th." The whole word means "three."

Prisoners' Letters.—Letters mailed by prisoners of war, which are not as a rule franked with stamps but bear some indication of the fact that they are from prisoners.

Private Stamps.—Issued by private individuals or societies, with official sanction, and recognized by the Government of the countries in which they appear as having proper franking power within certain specified limits. Instances may be found in the private stamps for Civilian Rifle Clubs issued in Portugal, and the stamp issued by Senor Duro in Spain in 1881.

Saving Money

(From "Stamp Collecting Hints" issued free of charge by T. D. Bottome, 2934 Shriver Ave., Indianapolis, Ind.)

In beginning a collection of stamps, it will be found that many of them may be obtained at a very moderate cost, and by steadily collecting, one can invest as little or as much money in stamps as may be desired, which may be considered a good method of saving money. A good collection may be valuable beyond expectations in a surprisingly short time.

Stamps have been proved a safer investment than government bonds. Not only safer but a more profitable investment. For instance, German bonds were believed to be safe and desirable as an investment before the world war, but during the war their value failed and they became worthless.

No doubt you will be somewhat surprised to find that during almost a ten-year period of time that the stamps have increased in value about 100 per

ent. If the prewar German bonds had emained good they would have earned bout 40 per cent. in the same time.

The increase in the value of the stamps f other countries may be found in a imilar manner. It may be interesting to now that on a general average the tamps of nearly all countries have about loubled in value during any ten-year eriod, and in some instances the increase as been 300 per cent. or more.

The truth of these statements is a evelation to those who have been prejuiced to stamp collecting for no reason hatever excepting that perhaps it may eem to them to be a sort of child's play nd unworthy of serious thought. But side from the investment point of view he stamp collector obtains a splendid eturn in the recreation and charm of ollecting. Nevertheless it is an interestng hobby that may unwittingly become splendid investment. We have a true ecord of a school boy who began colecting in 1860 and kept accurate account of all his stamp purchases, which ad totaled about $350 up to 1896, when e sold his collection to the well known tamp dealers, Stanley Gibbons, Ltd., of ondon, England, who paid him $15,000 n cash.

I Polska Wystawa Marek

This inscription means "First Polish Stamp Exhibition." The exhibition in uestion was held at Warsaw in May, 919, and was organized by the Polish Minister of Posts and Telegraphs. The tamps bearing this inscription were sold t a small premium above face value, the xtra amount being donated to the Polish Red Cross.

Japanese Consular Offices

For many years the Japanese mainained local post offices at many towns n China and Corea, these usually being nder the supervision of the resident onsul. The stamps used in these offices were the ordinary issues of Japan overprinted at the base with minute native characters. The offices in China are still n existence but surcharged stamps for se in Corea were discontinued in 1901, nd shortly afterwards the Corean posal service was entirely merged with that of Japan.

In Lighter Vein

A provincial post-office recently had placed along the whole front of its counter a piece of wire netting raised just enough to allow small parcels, etc., to be pushed under it. This gave the local wits an opportunity of chaffing the officials by facetious allusions to the Zoo, but even a postal worm will turn at last.

The other evening a smart youth strolled in, and, after surveying the recent addition to the appointments of the place, he turned with a grin to the young lady behind the counter.

"What time do the animals feed, miss?"

"Not just yet, I'm afraid," replied the lady, sweetly; "but if you're hungry you can start now," and she placed a handful of nuts on the counter before the smart young man, who pinched himself in the swing door in his hurry to get away from the laughter of those present.

A gentleman living in a rural part of Lancashire sent his coachman to a neighbouring village for five shillings-worth of penny stamps.

After a time, John returned from his tramp of two miles.

His face wore a self-satisfied look when he came into his employer's presence.

"Got the stamps, John?"

"Yes, sir," the man replied, handing over a batch of half-penny stamps.

"I said penny stamps, John, and you've got half-penny ones."

"Yes, sir," and the smile widened. "I asked for five shillings-worth of stamps, and the post-master says, 'Half-penny or penny?' 'Do you sell half-penny stamps?' I asked. 'Yes,' said he. 'Well,' says I, 'if you can buy stamps for a half-penny, what's the use of payin' a penny?' An' I bought the half-penny stamps, sir."—Postage Stamp.

noted the following masons: Hayden, Mozart, and Beethoven, all great composers, apear on the 2½, 5, and 7½ K respectively. Even in Italy we have the portrait of that great Italian patriot and mason, Mazzini, appearing on a special commemorative issue in 1922. Another great Italian patriot and mason, Garabaldi, has been honored by the little country of San Marino with a special issue of stamps in 1924.

Within the last few months has appeared a special American Legion issue of two values in France. On these stamps are the portraits of George Washington, already mentioned, and that of Marquis de Lafayette who rendered such great services to this country during the Revolution. During that period Lafayette was made a mason in one of the military lodges of the Continental Army.

During the decline and fall of Spanish rule in the new world a great number of men in various countries arose to guide the people in their flight for freedom from Spanish oppression. It is rather difficult to trace any masonic connections of these men since greatest secrecy was preserved during those times. However, we do have definite information of one group of masons in the Philippines who strove to break the Spanish yoke. Among these is the ill-fated Jose Rizal who appears on the 2c green of the Philippines. Rizal was the backbone of the Philippine revolution and because of his influence was summarily court martialed and shot by the Spanish governor when the opportunity presented itself.

This short article is not intended to be complete and undoubtedly a masonic connection can be traced to a large number of other men appearing on postage stamps of all countries. To the philatelic mason this subject will present great interest and certainly deserves great attention.—American Philatelist.

STAMPS AND ACCESSORIES

Our extremely large and comprehensive stock, as well as our services, are at the disposal of serious collectors. We feel that we can supply many items missing in most collections, ranging from the commoner stamps to the great rarities; thus we solicit your patronage and would welcome a visit.

Furthermore, it is our belief that suitable accessories play a most important part in philately, and for this reason we are marketing the following two articles:

A daylight lamp which furnishes a perfectly diffused blue-tint light from which all glare is eliminated, and which gives the same effect as daylight. It is the perfect light for color matching. The lamp is manufactured in five models, with a price range of $6.50 to $14.00.

A magnifying glass, eight power, manufactured by Steinheil, which is so nearly achromatic and anastigmatic that it has proved itself far superior to any that we have examined. Some of the most prominent Collectors have purchased this magnifier from us. We are offering this glass at $12.00.

WANT TO BUY

The demand for fine United States stamps is so great that it is difficult to keep my stock in such condition that I can continue to state that I offer my clients the opportunity of picking from the finest assortment of 19th and 20th Century United States Postage and Revenue stamps in the hands of any professional.

I am in the market at all times to purchase at highest cash prices anything fine or unusual in the way of general issues, Departments, Postage Dues, Newspapers, and Revenues.

While I prefer the superb mint specimen in a single or block of four, nevertheless, I especially want fine early covers, as well as unusual combinations. If there is a rare United States item, and it is in fine condition, I am likely to be interested.

In the way of Revenues — I have several clients who are interested in completing their series of inverted centers, and I desire to purchase one or more copies of all of these several varieties, including the common as well as the rare.

Want lists are solicited, at prices ranging from 50% to full catalogue, depending entirely upon condition and rarity. If it is an United States variety, I am likely to have it.

U.S. Postage Stamps at 50% Off

Nearly all early U. S. in average condition on my approval books at fifty percent. off Scott's cat., excepting a very few such as 5c, 10c '47, 90c '69, etc. If you are not a condition crank, I am sure you will find these books just the thing. I have $5000 worth of early U. S. am going to close out at this big discount, so let me know the numbers in cat. you need, and I will make up a book especially for you, with as many of your wants included as possible.

I do not care to send out lots at this disc. unless you have at least $20.00 to spend on your collection. The profit on these goods at 50 off is not great, and unless I can sell at least $20 from a book I cannot afford to tie up the selection.

CHRONICLE OF NEW ISSUES AND VARIETIES

The chronicle of United States is edited by PHILIP H. WARD, JR., Box 4216, Germantown, Phila., Pa., who will also be pleased to pass on oddities and varieties of all U. S. stamps from 1900 to date. The foreign chronicle is edited by PERCY C. SMITH, 75 Electric Ave., West Somerville, Mass. Correspondents will please be careful to send their matter to the right address.

Washington Notes

The Postmaster General has not, as yet, approved the issuing of a stamp to commemorate the Encampment at Valley Forge, but it is hoped that this will receive his favorable consideration and final approval. Numerous letters are reaching the Third Assistant Postmaster General, and it is hoped that more communications from interested parties will be addressed him upon the subject. As previously mentioned, the Senators from Pennsylvania are in favor of such a variety, and they have so informed the proper authorities.

Mr. Merritt C. Huse, president of the Kiwanis Club, of Philadelphia, advises me that they have addressed the Department favorably upon the subject. Get out your history and read of these things, and I believe it will be finally conceded that the event is well worthy of commemoration.

Our stamps so far this last year or so have commemorated battles of the Revolution, and one commemorating an Encampment, possibly showing Washington in prayer, would be a new departure.

English papers are carrying news to the effect that the Lindbergh stamp is shortly to be superseded by a new stamp. There is no basis of fact for this statement, for at the present time the Department is not even considering the subject.

No new stamps are expected in the immediate future, and while numerous suggestions are being received, no favorable action has been taken.

1½c Rotary Variety

Mr. C. H. Sauers has submitted a curiosity namely—a block of the current 1½c Rotary Print, in which one entire stamp is almost blotted out by means of a smear. This smear was either caused by a thumb or by a piece of rag touching the plate and then being pressed on the sheet. An inspection of the smear leads one to believe that it was impressed by something that had just touched the wet plate. It is not sufficiently distinct to be classified as a double print, but is a curious variety, nevertheless.

Air Mail Notes

Postmaster General New announced on January 5th that, effective February 1, 1928, air mail service over the route from Chicago, Ill., to Dallas, Texas, will be changed to a night schedule, connecting with the route from Dallas to Galveston, Texas, via Fort Worth and Houston, and with the route from Dallas to San Antonio, via Fort Worth, Waco, Austin and San Antonio, which latter routes are to begin operation on February 6th. Complete schedules will be announced later.

The southbound plane will leave Chicago in the evening on receipt of mail from the transcontinental plane which leaves New York at 12.15 p. m. daily. This will make possible air mail delivery to Dallas and Fort Worth early the following forenoon, and at the other Texas air mail points in the forenoon or early afternoon of the day following dispatch from New York City. The northbound planes will leave the Texas terminals in the late afternoon or evening, arriving in Chicago for early morning delivery with direct connection with air mail routes to St. Paul, Minneapolis, and Detroit. Connection will also be made with the eastbound transcontinental plane at Chicago due to arrive at the New York terminal in the late afternoon.

Under date of January 7th, the Second Assistant Postmaster General announced that effective with the northbound trip leaving Dallas at 6.57 p. m., and the southbound trip leaving Chicago at 8 p. m. on February 1st, the schedule on C. A. M. No. 3, will be changed so that the Dallas plane reaches Chicago 7.30 a. m. the following morning, and the Chicago plane will reach Dallas on 8.33 a. m. of the following day.

Argentine.—Air Stamps.—Mr. A. H. Davis writes, under date of November 22nd: 'The Latecoere Co. inaugurated to-day the South American section of the air mail route as far as Natal (Brazil), and in this connection the Argentine postal authorities have in preparation a special set of aviation stamps of the following values:—For Europe and Africa: 18c, 36c, 54c, 72c, 90c, 1.08, 1.26, 1.80, 3.60. For Brazil: 5c, 10c, 15c, 20c, 25c, 30c, 35c, 50c, and 1 peso."—Philatelic Magazine.

Ecuador.—Mr. R. Roberts sends us for chronicle the 3c sepia, 4c deep green, and the 5c carmine stamps of 1926 issue with the surcharge "Quito," a railway train and "1926" and the word "Esmeraldo." The 3c is in red while the other two values are in black. Mr. Roberts further informs us that stamps are also found with the overprint inverted. The surcharge is poorly done and is very indistinct.

Finland.—Mr. Oscar Hill advises that this country has issued its first Commemorative stamp which is to celebrate its 10th anniversary as a Republic. Mr. Hill writes that he received a letter on Jan. 4th, franked with this stamp, which is of 2 mark value. It is blue on a white background with the Finnish Court of Arms in the centre while at the top is "Suomi" and at the base "Finland." At the right side is the date Dec. 6, 1927, while at the left is Dec. 6, 1917.

Leeward Islands.—Apropos of our recent forecast of the intended discontinuance of the 5d denomination, Mr. L. W. Brummitt shows us a new shade of the current stamp (Script wmk.), viz., purple and greenish-yellow (instead of purple and olive-green).—Stamp Collecting.

Luxemburg.—Mr. W. T. Wilson reports the appearance of two provisionals. The 40c orange and the 75c deep blue, of the design as A12, have been surcharged "35" and "60" respectively in black.

Norway.—Ibsen Stamp.—Further to the note in our issue of May 14th last, the Observer states that a special Ibsen stamp will be issued on the occasion of the Ibsen centenary, bearing his portrait and his signature. The first idea was to issue the stamps on January 1 next, but owing to certain difficulties they will not now be seen till the end of February.—Philatelic Magazine.

Paraguay.—Whitfield King & Co. have shown us the 1 peso, bright green, picturing Pedro Juan Cabailero in the centre with the surcharge "c" in the upper right corner in black. Also a new 2.50 pesos in pale brown bearing the likeness of Fulgencio Yegros.

Peru.—Mr. R. Roberts reports the appearance of 50c violet, issue of 1924, with the surcharge "Servicio Aereo" in two lines in black.

THE BR. SOLOMON ISLANDS

The Solomon Islands, where natives are reported to have massacred British officials and a group of native police, have long had the blackest reputations because of the ferocity of their inhabitants, according to a bulletin from the Washington, D. C., headquarters of the National Geographic Society.

"The islands were given their present name by their Spanish discoverer because of their supposed richness in gold," says the bulletin. But the gold turned out to be worthless iron pyrites, and a subsequent French visitor called them, "The Land of Assassins."

A Dark, Kinky-Haired Race

"Civilization and Christianity have never made any marked impress on the Solomon Islanders. British law has been observed to a certain extent because of fear; but little time elapses in any of the island communities without a murder.

"The natives are Melanesians, much blacker than the light colored Polynesians of Samoa and the Marquesas. The typical Solomon Islander has kinky, black hair, but in many cases it has been covered with a lime paste made from coral until it has been bleached to a pinkish tan. Many of the men have sinister expressions and they seem to have a veritable instinct to kill. As one visitor phrased their attitude: every stranger is an enemy, and it is of course a virtue to kill enemies.

"There has been no cohesion among the people. In the old days head-hunting was their chief combined occupation and sport of the adult males. Any near-by village was a fair source of heads. If a more ambitious expedition was desired the warriors climbed into their war canoes, visited a neighboring island, and if successful came back with their boats loaded with the heads of men, women and children. These were hung up in the community 'club house' or in the canoe houses.

Irresistible Desire to Kill

"British control has about put an end to head-hunting, but the desire to kill remains and crops out in miscellaneous murders. The favorite method of attack has always been to spring upon the victim from behind and finish him off before he knows what is afoot. The first rule of conduct a newly arrived white man learns in the Solomons is never to allow a native to walk behind him. Instances are on record where trusted natives have begged their white benefactor not to walk in front of them while on the trail. The temptation to strike, the assert, is almost irresistible.

"The Solomons, 900 miles northeast of Australia, are among the most remote of the Pacific Islands, yet save for the Laccadrones, and perhaps the Marshalls, they were the earliest found by Europeans. They were discovered strangely, from Peru, when adventurers, thirsting for more gold, heard rumors of a continent close by to the west. The expedition under Medana, sailed in 1567, and managed like the expedition of Magellan, to cross the vast Pacific without finding any of the many important islands. In the Solomons they had numerous brushes with the natives, and a number of the voyagers were killed.

Islands Lost for Two Centuries

"After Medana's two ships returned to New Spain, the Solomons were lost for two centuries, being rediscovered by a French expedition in 1767.

"Great Britain established a protectorate over the southern islands of the Solomon group in 1893. In 1899 an agreement between Great Britain and Germany gave the two large northern islands, Bougainville and Buka, to the latter country. Since the World War these former German possessions have been administered by Australia.

"The total area of the Solomon Islands is about 16,000 square miles. The population is approximately 200,000 natives and a mere handful of whites and Asiatics."

BLOCKS OF UNITED STATES

By SHARTO.

The writer, who is interested in blocks of U. S. postage stamps, has been much concerned by the great increase in their value, as indicated by the 1928 edition of Scott's Specialized Catalogue.

This branch of Philately has gained many adherents among U. S. collectors during the last ten years, especially among the more advanced in that specialty, who, having acquired practically everything in single stamps, are reaching out for more material to enhance and beautify their collections.

Some fifteen years or so ago, there was sold at auction a collection of U. S. which had been about forty years in the making, and which included a number of blocks of the earlier issues which brought record prices for that period.

For comparison of values between that time and the present, the writer has compiled a list of the prices catalogued at the sale mentioned, which were compiled as four times or more of the price of a single stamp (there being then no published catalogue of blocks), and the prices indicated in the present catalogue.

This list comprises 42 items of pairs and blocks from 1847 to 1869 inclusive, and includes blocks larger than four at two, or three times the present list price of a block of four, regardless of the fact that in many instances a block larger than four of a desirable item is really worth much more than that ratio of value.

A short computation shows the increase in value of the items listed to be a little more than nine hundred and forty per cent, which would be considered a good profit on any commodity as a fifteen-year investment.

DECEMBER SUBSCRIPTION CONTEST

The returns for December are very gratifying, a distinct increase in entries being noticeable. The fine co-operative extended is very gratifying. W. W. Betts, the Johnson Stamp Co. and the Ancher Stamp Co. are the leaders for the month, with A. R. Perry and H. A. Keigwin tied with 14. We are particularly pleased with the 12 new subscriptions sent in by Norman Shepard. The following sent in ten or more subscriptions during the month of December:—

REMINISCENCES OF LONG AGO

Mr. Frederic Breitfuss.

By CHAS. J. PHILLIPS.

I think that very few of the present day American collectors can know anything about the late Mr. Frederic Breitfuss of St. Petersburg, Russia, and yet only some twenty years ago he was considered to have the third largest general collection in the world, ranking after Ferrary of Paris, and Tapling of London, and before the period that the Worthington collection had attained the position it had in later years when it was dispersed.

As Breitfuss is so little known here I think a few particulars of his life and of his collection should prove of interest.

Frederic Breitfuss was born Sept. 16, 1851, and commenced collecting stamps when at school, about 1865.

In 1872 he entered a business house in Marseilles, and there bought several collections which had been pawned by French officers on leaving Marseilles in 1870 to go and fight in the Franco-German war. Breitfuss told me that these collections were sealed up, and the pawnbrokers would sell them only unopened; only one of these turned out a real bargain.

In December, 1873, Breitfuss moved to London and remained there about two years. While there Dr. Viner persuaded him to join the London Philatelic Society (now The Royal). There he met the then leading collectors, such as Judge Philbrick, V. de Ysasi, M. de Johannis, Sir D. Cooper, T. K. Tapling, etc.

Mr. Breitfuss told me many interesting anecdotes of those days. He stated that about 1874, Senf sent him the first copy he ever saw of a circular Moldavia —the 27p. As the copy was not pretty, he sent it to Sir Daniel Cooper at $12.50, who kept it. Mr. Philbrick, at the next meeting of the Society, on hearing of this, said "Oh, if stamp collectors will pay such prices, collecting will be impossible, and that will be the end of Philately! !"

In 1875 Mr. Breitfuss moved to Odessa and met a few collectors there and added to his already great collection.

In 1877 he left Odessa and returned home to St. Petersburg.

The father of Mr. Breitfuss was the Court jeweller, and had much influence, which he used to obtain stamps for his son. He also made him some good presents—for instance, in 1866 he ordered from Herr Ernst Paul Wuttig, of Leipzig, all stamps he could supply at 10 silbergroschen (about 25 cents) each and under, and received a large parcel; among them were the British Guiana 1862 typeset 1c and 2c.

Breitfuss bought many collections and added the cream of these to his own.

Among the most famous of these were the collections of Prince Galitzin-Ostermann, for which he gave $7,500.00 in 1887 and the famous collection of Mr. Theodor Notthaft, director of the Russian-Chinese and International Banks, which he bought in 1898 for over $35,000.

Breitfuss collected on the broadest lines of general collecting. He included essays, trials, proofs, issued stamps, both unused and used, forged stamps used postally, errors, stamps on covers, bisected stamps used for a portion of their original value. Also envelopes, postcards, Locals, etc. He also specialized in stamps that could be plated, such as New South Wales, Tasmania, Victoria, Nevis, British Guiana, Mauritius, etc., etc.

In European countries he had wonderful specialized collections of Switzerland, France, German States, etc., etc.

About twenty-five years ago it appeared likely that the Breitfuss collection would be purchased intact and given to the Russian nation. At this period one of his good friends and a great client of my old firm, was the late Grand Duke Alexis Michaelovitch. His Highness intimated to Mr. Breitfuss his wish to purchase his collection and to give it to the nation, placing it, under the charge of Mr. Breitfuss, in one of the great museums of St. Petersburg. Unfortunately the Grand Duke died before this arrangement could be carried out. A little later on some collectors in Russia approached Mr. Breitfuss and offered him $165,000 for his collection; this however, was declined.

Early in 1907 Breitfuss wrote to me and asked if my firm would care to purchase his famous collection.

In May, 1907, I went to St. Petersburg accompanied by the late G. Hamilton Smith, and spent ten days in making a thorough valuation.

We found that Breitfuss valued his envelopes, postcards, and locals at such high figures that there was no chance of coming to terms on these, also Breitfuss decided to keep a few countries of little commercial value, such as the Central American group, as he wished to have a few books to keep up his interest in Philately.

With these exceptions I bought the whole of this great general collection contained in seventy large volumes mostly crammed full almost to the point of bursting the backs.

Mr. Breitfuss had the habit of marking on the hinge of almost every stamp he bought separately, price paid and date from whom he bought it.

I made a number of notes of these prices as I think there is much interest in showing where famous stamps came from and prices paid.

Switzerland—Zurich, 4rp mint pair bought in 1881 for $20.00.

Saxony—Error, ½ngr in blue, from Dr. Kloss in 1879 for $15.00.

New Zealand—Colonial print, 1s green on blue, unused, from J. W. Palmer in 1873 for $2.50.

About 1874 Breitfuss wrote Mr. Bassett Hull and asked him to send him all dated copies of old New Zealands in exchange for Russian Locals. In due time he got a nice parcel all at one penny each. In these Breitfuss found a penny brown, perforated and watermarked N Z. This copy was dated July, 1873, and is the only dated copy of which I have any record.

Victoria—5sh blue on yellow, mint from J. B. Moens in 1881 for $7.00.

Spain—1865, 12c rose and blue, a mint horizontal pair, one stamp having the frame inverted. This unique piece was sold by J. B. Moens in 1882 for $1.25. Probably the inverted frame was not noticed.

Turks Island—2½d on 1sh prune, a block of nine from Stanley Gibbons in 1881 cost $1.50. 2½d on 1sh blue, strip of three with the rare type from Dr. Viner for $0.50. 1879, 1sh prune, unused from Pemberton Wilson & Co. in 188 for $0.50.

Nevis—Engraved 4d uncut mint sheet of 12 types, Moens, Oct., 1883, $3.00. Lithographed 6d uncut mint sheet of 1 types, Jan., 1885, from Schmidt de Wilde for $6.00.

St. Vincent—5sh Star, unused, Whitfield King & Co., 1881, $2.00. 4d on 1s vermilion, Dr. Viner, $2.50.

Western Australia — 2d Indian-red used, from J. W. Parker, 1870, $0.60. 2d error in color of 6d used and dated Jan 28, 1879, from Stanley Gibbons, $10.00.

MELANGE:—

A MOST pretentious pricelist has been received from the New York Stamp Co., 135 W. 42 St., N. Y. City. It lists a great variety of stamps arranged in sets, over 2,500 being offered. A fine assortment of albums and other accessories help to make up a pricelist which should be in the hands of every collector. A specimen will be sent on request.

THE Fort Worth (Tex.) Stamp Club was reorganized this fall and is now known as the Fort Worth Stamp & Coin Club. We meet in the reception rooms of the dental parlors of Dr. F. Merrill, our Treasurer, at 1010½ Main St. Our next meeting will be on January 20, and every second Friday thereafter. I am president of the Club and any correspondence for me for the Club should be addressed to me at the address given at the head of this letter. Visitors are always welcome.—CLYDE W. PARKER, Box 338, Stock Yards Sta.

IN renewing his subscription our friend Herman W. Boers informs us that should he be deprived of the WEEKLY he would feel much the same as a pump without a handle. Those of us who live in the city are sufficiently acquainted with country ways to appreciate the force of this comparison. Mr. Boers sends us a news item which we use elsewhere.

E. H. WILSON of the Witch City Stamp Co., 195 Essex St., Salem, Mass., can get no replies to letters sent J. A. M. Vallette, Casa Grande, Ariz. Interested parties should write Mr. Wilson.

LAST week we published information relative to some stamp office robberies on Nassau St. J. A. Galbraith informs us that his office was twice entered, his stock badly disarranged and much of his better class material stolen. As we go to press there have been no arrests.

THE Wayne Stamp Society of Detroit has elected the following officers for 1928:—President, A. C. Butzen; Vice-President, George Bauer; Secretary, H. Fritz; Treasurer, Alex. M. Doig; Auction Manager, Clyde Jackson; Publicity, Herman W. Boers. This society meets every Thursday evening in the new Recreation Community Bldg., Fairview and Canfield Sts., Detroit, Mich.

THE Michigan Stamp Club of Detroit is making plans and preparations for the annual banquet to be held in March. Pres. Chas. Brisley has appointed the following committee:—Harry C. Carter, Chairman, Karl Koslowski and Horace Hartwell. It promises to be the biggest yet pulled off, and is always looked forward to as a good time. Of course the ladies will be there.—HERMAN W. BOERS.

50c gray, dated 3 May, 1891, from Theodor Buhl, $75.00.

Saxony—1850, 3pf red, mint, from Dauth of Frankfurt in June, 1881, $2.50.

Roumania—Sept., 1877, block of four stamps used, postmarked FOLTICENI 18 Nov., 1879. Three stamps were the 10c blue, one the error 5c blue. From Moens, Nov., 1880, cost $1.00.

New Caledonia—1859, Two sheets of the 50 types of the 10c from Moens, 1887, $21.25 each.

Tuscany—60cr unused from Dauth, 1881, $20.00. 3 lire, full gum, from Moens, $30.00.

The above are most of the special stamps of which I happened to make a record of the prices.

I have records of many stamps in this famous collection, and I note a few that may be of interest to American collectors.

United States—1847, 5c, unused block of six. 1857, 24c red-lilac, two copies unused. Breitfuss told me that he got one of these in 1880 from the Post Office Department in St. Petersburg. The Aug., 1861, were not known to Breitfuss as a separate issue, but he had some of them, mixed with the later issue, as shades, among them a superb 30c red-orange.

U. S. 1867, grill all over, a mint pair bought from Moens for $1.50.

In German State stamps on covers he had a wonderful lot of rarities, such as Lubeck, Bergedorf, Oldenburg, etc. I think an outstanding cover was a Baden franked with Landpost, four of 1kr, one 3kr, and three 12kr, also another rare item in Baden, was a cover franked with half a 12kr, used as a 6kr rate.

I sold many rare stamps of the F. W. Ayer collection, especially British North American and British Guiana, to the St. Petersburg banker, Mr. T. Notthafft, and as Breitfuss bought the Notthafft collections two years after the owner's death—I had many of the rare items from that collection on sale a second time. Through our then agent in the United States—Mr. Eustace B. Power—we resold many of these stamps back to Americans, especially to the late G. H. Worthington, the Hon. E. R. Ackerman and Mr. F Herman.—Philatelic Classics.

STAMP MARKET GOSSIP

By "THE SEER OF THE STRAND."

The "Best Things" of 1927.—Readers will remember that in my notes of December, 1926, I made reference to the many "good" things I had advocated during that year. I am not going to worry now about what has transpired during 1927, but will content myself with saying that I have again "touched lucky." Without exception, my prognostications have borne fruit, and it only remains for me to finish up the year with some more of the right sort. Before doing so, however, I may be forgiven, perhaps, for again alluding to my "Best Thing" of October— the 2/6 value of South West Africa, bi-lingual overprint on Union. I mentioned this also in my opening remarks of November, and again have to say that this stamp is still on the upgrade. To-day's market value of the pair is 60/-, and it will assuredly soar to a higher figure. The 10/- denomination is also on the increase, and I value this pair to-day at £4 10s.

South-West Africa again reminds me that I have another "rod-in-pickle" here. I am going to inflict another pair from this most popular country on my readers as my "Best Thing of the Month." This is the new 5d Postage due, overprinted "Suidwes" on the Transvaal due of that value. I understand there were only 20 sheets of this value printed, then the supply ran out. Eighteen of these sheets were sent to dealers in this country, and the remaining two fell into the hands of local dealers. There are no more likely to be printed as this is the last of the Transvaal 5d dues, which have done duty for many years in the Union of South Africa. We may expect an entirely new issue very shortly.

St. Vincent.—There are two stamps of this little Colony which I think are well worth acquiring. They are the 6d value, M.C.A., S.G. No. 114, and the 3d blue, script, S.G. No. 134. The former has just been issued with the script wmk., and the obsolete stamp is certain to rise in value very shortly. The latter stamp is, to my mind, much underpriced in current catalogues. It is quite a good little item and the quotation does not do it justice. It will certainly make headway in the near future.

Mauritius.—A little whisper has reached me that the 10 rupees will shortly be issued with the script watermark. When one stops to think what happened at the time the 5 rupees of this Colony changed to the script, one can judge what will happen when the 10 rupees changes. I strongly advise all interested to acquire the various papers and dies whilst prices are low. In passing, I should like to mention that the value of the 10 rupees, blue-green, with olive back, is worth every penny of its catalogue quotation. The emerald throughout Die I, should turn out to be a very good stamp.

Bermuda.—The 1/- value, jet-black on olive S.G. 51a, is exceedingly difficult to obtain in used condition. This stamp had a very short life, and I have no qualms in recommending readers to obtain it in either mint or used condition, as it is certain to rise in price shortly.

Malta.—It is a long time since I referred to this Colony, but recent price lists have tempted me to mention one of the "POSTAGE" overprints as being offered at the present time at a much lower figure than the issue warrants. I allude to the 2/6 value, which, in my opinion, will soon be just as scarce as the 2/-. There was never a large number of this denomination about, and those of us who regularly patronise a New Issue Service, know what we had to pay at that time. Shortage of cash in certain quarters is, to my personal knowledge, the only reason for this 2/6 value being offered at a low figure, and I advise all readers to take full advantage.

Newfoundland.—It may not be generally known that a completely new issue for our oldest Colony is in course of preparation. Such being the case, it behooves us to fill up our "blanks" whilst we have the opportunity of doing so at low rates. Newfoundland is a very popular country with philatelists, and its present pictorial issue has not had a long life, so "fill 'em up" and help along the Xmas cheer.

Irish Free State.—I note the 10d Thom, S.G. 43, still on the up-grade. On enquiry from one of our leading I.F.S. specialists, I find this stamp a very elusive item, and am assured that the catalogue quotation of 20/- mint and 5/- mint will soon be amended.

St. Helena.—Now that the 4d value has a catalogue quotation, I advise all readers interested to make sure they have a few copies of this stamp. One-and-six, to my mind, is a very low figure for it, and I should not be surprised to see this greatly increased within the next month or two.

New Zealand.—The 4d mauve, of the Dunedin Exhibition set, S.G. 538, is a greatly undercatalogued stamp. I know one or two very keen judges of the London market, who are buying all they can get at this figure. In fact, I was told by one of these gentlemen that he would be willing to pay much more if he could obtain them in blocks. Whilst knowing there is a big field here for specialism in the way of minor varieties, etc., I also know that speculation comes into the question in no mean way.

BEST THING OF THE MONTH.

South-West Africa, 5d, Postage Due on Transvaal. "SUIDES" overprint. (in pair with "South-West Africa.")

THE NEW NEWFOUNDLAND SET

The set of stamps pictured above is one of the handsomest ever issued. Indeed it is hard to believe that the year 1928 will see a prettier one. We have already described this set, but we take the opportunity of recording the several designs:—

1c, Map of Newfoundland
2c, S.S. Caribou
3c, King and Queen
4c, Prince of Wales
5c, Express Train
6c, Newfoundland Hotel
8c, Town of Heart's Content

12c, St. John's Post Office
15c, Vickers-Vimy Airplane
20c, Colonial Bdgs., St. John's
30c, Grand Falls

Confederate Provisional Hand Stamps

We have just secured, from a find, a quantity of the rare Confederate Provisional hand stamps listed in Scott's.

We have on hand at present some varieties of the "Atlanta" 10c. including several unlisted papers; also a very fine copy of the 5c type E1, surcharged 10c. We also have some nice "Milledgeville" covers, both 5c and 10c values, and both spacings of "Paid". We also have a few of the very rare "Tailbotton" hand stamps recently discovered, some of which are lsited in the addenda of Scott's catalogue.

We should be very pleased to quote prices or submit any of these on approval to interested parties.

MINIATURE MASTER—PIECES !

To prove to the French Government what could be done in the way of producing beautiful Postage Stamps worthy of the French artistic reputation, the leading Touring Club in France recently organized a competition for artistic labels in the size of Postage Stamps, with views of the beauty spots of France. The result has been a most beautiful set of labels, gummed and perforated in Postage Stamp form.

While in no sense Postage Stamps, they are well worthy of the attention of Stamp Collectors by reason of their beauty.

I can supply a variety of views in various colours, representing the most famous parts of France.

IOLE DIONE 1429 33rd Ave. South, Seattle, Washington

U. S. No. 3999

When revenues became necessary to help finance the Spanish-American War in 1898, postage and newspaper stamps had to be quickly surcharged pending the printing of regular revenues.

The $5.00 dark blue Newspaper stamp was surcharged sidewise "Int. Rev. $5 Documentary", some reading upwards and some downwards.

I offer the reading upwards variety, being Scott's No. 3999, as follows:—

Fine unused copies $7.00
Fine used copies $4.50

Very few of these were printed and used and I believe either condition is a good buy. Of course, they are returnable, if unsatisfactory.

The Continental Ribbed Paper U.S. Issue 1873-74

NEW LIGHT ON AN INTERESTING MINOR VARIETY PRODUCED BY THE CONTINENTAL BANK NOTE COMPANY DURING EARLY DAYS OF ITS CONTRACT FOR PRINTING UNITED STATES POSTAGE AND OFFICIAL ADHESIVES

By WARNER BATES, 184 State St., Albany, N. Y.

PART III

The texture, thickness and color of the paper itself are all factors which aid the collector in readily detecting the ribbed paper used by the Continental Banknote Company.

In a previous article, the writer attempted to prove that the ribbed paper was used by the Continental people only in the latter part of 1873, or possibly in the latter months of seventy-three and the early months of seventy-four, indicating that this ribbed effect was caused by the paper-manufacturing process rather than by accident, such as worn cloth rolls or rough press boards.

An effort has also been made to show the reader how to detect ribbed paper for himself, either by holding the stamp between the eye and the light so that he can look directly through it, or by holding it so that the eye can glance transversely across the surface of the stamp, either front or back.

We will now examine other characteristics of the paper itself—texture, thickness and color.

This entire series is based on the writer's own collection of the Three Cent Green only, but, in general, the remarks apply to other denominations of the Continental emissions printed during 1873.

Thickness of the Ribbed Paper

H. L. Wiley, in his work on "The Three Cent Green," gives some interesting tables showing the thickness of the various issues of the Bank Note Company, measured with micrometers.

Of the stamps examined, 83 per cent. of the National printings ranged between twenty-five and thirty ten thousandths of an inch; Continental, 83 per cent. between .0025 and .0030; Continental Ribbed, 83 per cent. between .0025 and .0028; American, 85 per cent. between .0030 and .0036, and American Re-engraved, 77 per cent. between .0030 and .0036.

These figures indicate that the Ribbed papers are slightly thinner than the average, but to the eye they appear thicker. The reason for this optical illusion is undoubtedly that the ribbed paper is more closely woven and more opaque than most other papers of the Continental and other printings.

Hold the average Continental paper between the light and the eye, and you will see hundreds of alternating light and dark spots or specks. This is the woven effect. Look at the light through an ordinary linen handkerchief and you will get a somewhat similar effect.

Hold a ribbed paper example between the light and the eye and you will likewise get something of this cloth-like effect, but if you will examine it carefully you will see that this effect is not so pronounced as in other paper varieties.

It is my belief that this minute difference is due to the method in which the ribbed paper was produced. Evidence points to the fact that the paper pulp was run onto a screen of parallel wires, producing the ribbed or laid effect. This would result in the pulp being laid more thickly where it squeezed downward between the wires, and therefore made the paper throughout more opaque than normal, even if the micrometers show it to be no thicker.

Being more opaque than normal, the printing does not show through so clearly on the reverse side of the stamp as it does in other papers, which gives the ribbed paper, when viewed from the back, the appearance of being whiter.

Other forms of paper generally, although not always, have the appearance on the back (speaking of the Three Cent Green) of being slightly yellowish, grayish or greenish, but rarely do any other papers show the dead white of the ribbed papers, both horizontally and vertically ribbed.

Now this quality of being more firmly

HURRAH FOR UNCLE SAM ! !

The United States Government has published a fifty-four page book entitled A Description of United States Postage Stamps and Postal Cards Issued by the Post Office Department from July 1, 1847, to December 31, 1927. As the title indicates, it contains a description of all U. S. postage stamps ever issued. It gives the dates of issue of most of them and a great abundance of other information of interest to a stamp collector. You can't imagine how much philatelic information Uncle Sam has packed into this book.

Unused U. S. stamps offer one of the best kinds of investments. When you have a few spare shekels to invest, you of course want to know what the Philatelic Agency has to offer you at face value. The current list of stamps available will be found in each issue of Washington Stamp News, published monthly. Having the up-to-date list always at hand is worth the cost of a subscription. In addition WSN offers you a lot of information about new U. S. stamps and air mail routes.

Here's a bargain for you. Send $1.00 for a year's subscription to Washington Stamp News and I'll send you Free the book described above and my pamphlet describing the Philatelic Agency. I Guarantee that you'll be satisfied. If you are not, just send back the book and I'll refund your dollar, plus your postage. You can't lose.

J. O. MOORE, INC. Hammondsport, N. Y.

pressed and not coarsely woven also gives the ribbed paper, viewed from the back of the stamp, an appearance of evenness of texture that other papers do not have.

In other words, you have here a paper that is more firm, compact and opaque than the average Continental paper. But don't look for a paper that is smooth or polished, because ribbed corrugations generally show quite clearly when looking transversely across the reverse surface of the stamp.

Corrugations Show on Back of Stamp

A word or two regarding the corrugations which can generally be seen when looking transversely across the reverse side of a ribbed paper copy.

In pronounced examples these tiny hills and valleys show rather clearly, but in the horizontally ribbed paper they rarely run straight across the stamp as though "ruled off"—instead they are just a trifle curved and irregular, just as real hills and valleys would show on a contour map.

To say it another way, the ribbed paper has the appearance of being slightly "crinkled." If the reader wishes to get a better conception of my meaning, he might examine a piece of crepe paper—the corrugations of the ribbed paper, looking either at or through the stamp, generally look somewhat like the corrugations of crepe paper.

What has just been said, however, is generally more true of the horizontally ribbed paper than of the vertically ribbed. In the latter paper, the corrugations seem straighter and more continuous.

Likewise, in the vertically ribbed paper, the ribbing is usually more pronounced, either looking through the stamp or across its surface.

The reason for the two foregoing facts probably has to do with the effect of the printing process upon the ribbing of the paper.

Put a magnifying glass on some ribbed paper examples and you will find that the lines of the design, generally speaking, are laid on more thickly than printings on most other papers. That is to say, the lines of printing are usually heavier and lack sharpness of detail. There is a tendency for the printed lines to merge with each other and often the horizontal lines of shading in the oval back of Washington's head merge so that this appears to be a solid mass of color. (Not true, however, of the olive-green printings on horizontally ribbed paper.)

This is an important fact and is one more indication that the ribbed paper is a distinct paper variety. Not only does the paper itself show distinct characteristics, but impressions on it generally are different from impressions on most other papers of the period in question.

Probably the reason for this peculiarity of impression is the same as has been stated before—that the ribbed paper is a firmer, more compact and opaque paper than normal—therefore, the ink was not so much absorbed or soaked into the paper—it remained where it was placed on the surface of the paper, and some lines of engraving had a tendency to run together or merge.

Yet the ribbed paper was not essentially polished or calendared, so that the ink did not have a tendency to run irregularly, producing "scraggly" or blurred lines of engraving, as is the case with American Hard Paper. The lines of printing of the ribbed paper stamps are firm and regular, but generally heavier and more pronounced than normal. Examined under a glass they appear to stand up above the surface of the paper as does the engraving on a business or calling card.

In this article I have emphasized the appearance of the ribbed corrugations on the reverse side of the stamp, but right here I want to remind the reader that the ribbing can often be seen on the surface as well as the back of the stamp.

Where this is the case, the reader will find that looking at the light, transversely across the printed surface of the stamp, the ribs will apparently glisten. This is because the light strikes the ridges leaving the valleys slightly in shadow.

Now for one more point of difference between the ribbed and other paper printings.

Wiley measured seventeen copies of the vertically ribbed, and 104 copies of the horizontally ribbed paper, and found the length and breadth of the printed designs different from the printings on other papers. He says in conclusion:

"The . . . summary indicates that all vertically ribbed stamps are .990 of an inch or more in length and .780 of an inch or less in width, and that all horizontally ribbed stamps are .990" or less in length, and .780" or more in width.

ROBBERIES IN NEW YORK

Either in the evening of January 3rd, or early in the morning of January 4th, the office of Mr. Percy G. Doane, in the Tribune Building, 154 Nassau Street, New York, was entered through the transom and the safe cabinet robbed of some 400 lots of United States stamps. The loss suffered by Mr. Doane was somewhere in the neighborhood of $2,000.00.

The man suspected is about 5 feet, 6 inches tall, weighs about 140 pounds, is from 30 to 32 years of age, has dark hair and suffers from bad teeth. He wears a Fedora hat and a brown overcoat, and has an aversion to shaving. It is suspected that he operates with one or two confederates, and dealers should watch carefully for this man as he may have come on from other towns in which stamp dealers have been heavy losers through illegal entry.

The same day the shop of Mr. Max Ohlman was entered and a considerable amount of stuff stolen. The shop of Mr. J. A. Galbraith was broken into early in December and some material stolen, and again a couple of days following the Doane and Ohlman robberies, Mr. Galbraith lost two books of United States stamps, etc., and the same day an attempt was made to rob the shop of the Chambers Stamp Company.

Part of the loot had already been sold to two unsuspecting members of the stamp fraternity in New York. A great deal of the stuff can be identified, so dealers should be most careful in purchasing stamps from unknown sources, particularly when United States and British Colonies are offered in bulk lots without much regard to value. It is probable that the thieves will confine themselves to New York until the available places for robbing have been exhausted.

The greatest danger which stamp dealers have to face is while there is a market for stolen stamps by dishonest dealers, the robberies are bound to continue. While the suspected thief is evidently a bungling amateur, if the field is rich and the disposal of loot easy, he will probably get a skilled confederate to continue.

The Directors of the A.S.D.A. call particular attention to the severe penalties for buying stolen property and urge that great care be taken in dealing with unknown parties. Should any A.S.D.A. be a party to knowingly buying stolen stamps, the Association will bend every effort toward securing the utmost limit of punishment. We feel sure we have no traitors within our ranks.

A NOTABLE COURTESY

DON JOSE CASTENER OF THE PHILIPPINES PAYS A MARKED TRIBUTE TO OUR PAPER

Don Jose Castener, Vice Pres. of the Philippines Philatelic Association, has written a very courteous and fraternal letter to the WEEKLY, which we take pleasure in reproducing. It was presented to Mr. Percy A. Hill, our Philippines correspondent, and as it was written in Spanish, Mr. Hill very kindly translated it as follows:—

MANILA, Dec. 12, 1927.

Distinguished Sir,

Kindly excuse me for not writing in English as I am 63 years of age, and as my friend Mr. Hill knows, it is somewhat late for me to take up the study.

At the suggestion of your compatriot and my friend Mr. Percy A. Hill, I have the pleasure to send you the philatelic menu of our banquet given in this city to the Director of Posts, Don Jose Topacio, and a photograph of the "stamp diploma" given to him, in appreciation of the many attentions he has afforded philatelists.

I also take pleasure in sending you a postcard of the Spanish cruiser "Blas de Lezo" which visited the city, and was the first Spanish warship to visit the Islands since 1898, also various news clippings relative to this, and the three stamps of which I was the author (designer), and which they did me the honor to accept, the Madrid-Manila Air-Mail surcharge, the Legislative Palace, and the Spanish Charity Fund—the "Blas de Lezo."

The latter stamp is of private character for funds for the widows and orphans of the Spanish community, but which was allowed to bear cancellations during the stay of the cruiser in port, by the courtesy of the Director of Posts, provided it was accompanied by regular postage.

There is also the design of the new Postage Due stamp now being printed in the United States, and expected here about April, 1928. (There are 7 values, 4-6-8-10-12-16 and 20 centavos printed in carmine.)

Remaining at your orders, your servant, q.b.s.m., etc.,
JOSE CASTENER.

There are some paragraphs in Mr. Hill's letter to us that will prove readable and we quote herewith:—

"While I have no doubt you are filled up with association notices, it might be a good idea to note this one. There are some 4,000 active collectors here, a good association, and many prospective MEKEEL readers, as the greater majority understand English. There are already quite a number of MEKEEL subscribers, which might be augmented. We use Scott as a medium as the dollar is just double the peso for computing values.

In relation to Sr. Casteñer, he is one of the most indefatigable philatelists, considering his age (63) I have ever seen. Added to this is no mean ability in making up the designs for the three stamps on the back of the card.

And in speaking of Commemoratives, the one made by Sr. Casteñer in 24 hours is only a private stamp gotten up for charity and in honor of the first Spanish warship to visit Manila, since their flag came down in 1898. They were able to collect quite a sum for the widows and orphans, and the postal authorities allowed cancellation during the stay of the cruiser, provided ordinary postage was used. As these stamps only cost two centavos, or one cent, and caused the government no trouble of printing, they served the immediate purpose. Of course they are not for collectible purposes. The idea regarding these was good."

The banquet of the local society tendered Sr. Jose Topacio, Director of Posts and Telegraphs of the Philippines Ids., was a notable event. A photograph sent us pictures three cakes on the guest table (1) 1854 Isabella Stamp, (2) Seal of the society, and (3) The Legislative stamp. Another photograph shows the "stamp" diploma given Sr. Topacio as a mark of esteem.

The Charity label referred to in this correspondence is shown herewith. It pictures the Spanish cruiser Blas de Lezo.

For two or three weeks I've left the number of subscribers to my New Issue Service of British Colonials at eleven. A big New York collector told me he's tired of seeing eleven — either fish or cut bait. So now I'm pleased to say it's up to 19. I want no pikers —no 10% fiends—no centering cranks—no philatelic nuisances of any kind. I do want honest-to-goodness collectors who wish a new issue service of Br. Colonials that is, positively, almost perfect. 32c to the 1/-.

NOW, HERE IS SOMETHING TO PONDER OVER

You collectors of old U. S. know there are a dozen or more dealers' adv. in this issue who have the stamps you need, but how cheap are they? I offer a few real bargains, all are average copies, not junk or damaged; neither are they gems, or I could not price them this way. Just fair copies for man who is filling up his collection without fuss or heavy expense: New York 1845, $20.00; 1847, 5c, $4.00; 1847, 10c, $12.50; 1851, 5c, $20.00; 1857, 24c, $6; 1857, 30c, $7.50; 1857, 90c unused, very good, $30.00; 1861, 5c, No. 67, $10.00; No. 67a, $12.50; No. 67b, $15.00; 1868, 5c, $6.00; 24c, $12.00; 90c (scarce), $20.00; 1869, 90c, good average copy, $20.00; very nice, $24.00; superb, $37.50.

I send anything on approval to reliable people, make yourself known and tell me you have reasonable sum to invest, and I will serve you to the best of my ability, and I have been interested in stamps for 45 years. I carry a very good stock in Conf. States, including pairs, strips, covers, etc. In British N. A. I have some real bargains, and a number of rarities, on and off cover. I am not stocking up on B. N. A., rather think I'll close out this line and stick to U. S. and Conf., so you who are interested in Canada, N. F., N. S., N. B., P. E. I. and B. C. better mail me a list of those you need, I may save you money. Large stock of den curios, lists 10c; no stamp lists, only sell these by approvals or want lists.

YOUNGSTOWN (PA.) STAMP CLUB

By CORNEL KMENTT, Sec.

The Mahoning Valley Stamp Club of Youngstown, Ohio, held its annual meeting Jan. 13, at the new office of the Ohio Savings and Loan Co., 17 East Boardman St. The president, Perry G. Parker, gave a review of the activities of the past year, dwelling particularly on the club's share in the preliminary work to be done in connection with the great Midwestern Stamp Exhibition, to be held May 21 to 26, at Cleveland.

The Sec.-Treas., Mr. Kmentt, reported a gain of six members, which brought the membership up to thirty-three. Mr. Kmentt further reported cash on hand as well as a bank balance.

The officers for the ensuing year are:—Pres., Fred Guersch; Vice-Pres., Howard C. Buttermore; Sec.-Treas., Cornel Kmentt, 217 So. Portland Av.; Asst. Sec., Mrs. Ruth R. Eurich; Directors: Perry G. Parker and Dr. Arthur C. Tidd.

NOTES FROM THE PHILIPPINES

By PERCY A. HILL.

At a banquet our Philatelic Association gave to the Director of Posts, he informed us that he had just sent to the U. S. for 2,900,000 stamps of a new design for postage dues. These are of seven values, and the design is a Filipino boy about to post a letter. The colors and denominations will be sent later. This is the only territory under the U. S. flag that lacks the postage dues which were discontinued about 1906.

There is to hand here a little work entitled, "Stamps of the Philippines, 1854-1899," printed about a month ago, and containing some good data as to the numbers issued of the early varieties, 1854-1864, together with much material drawn from old records of the Spanish Postal Administration dealing with Philippine stamps. It would be of benefit to readers of the WEEKLY to boil down a great deal of the data contained therein. There is also another work in contemplation by Don Juan Mencarini, who intends to bring all issues, with officials, etc., up to date. The author of the first work alluded to is Sr. Jose E. Marco.

In reference to the notes in a recent issue doubting the 2-4-6-12-20-30 and 1p precancelled MANILA, P. I., these are perfectly genuine, and are the only ones used here. In addition there are some which bear an "H" below, standing for the jewelry firm of Heacock, as well as others, with letters denoting firms. Precancels will become too complicated, as well as expensive (except as a sideline like match and medicine stamps), if this keeps up.

An Australian paper says: "Canberra commemorative stamps cancelled with the Canberra postmark on May 9 are becoming much sought after by philatelists. The P.M.G. (Mr. Gibson) has received requests from stamp collectors to cancel some more. As the cancellation die has been destroyed, he is unable to comply.

Still more rare are Canberra stamps pricked with the letters O S, which indicates on service, and which are used for Governmental postage.

Each Federal member is presented with 60 stamps a week for official correspondence, and on the week of the opening ceremony members obtained their issue in commemorative stamps.

A postal official said yesterday that he had not seen one letter with a Canberra O.S. stamp on it!"

From Hong Kong comes the following:—"A copy of the China, 1912, with the Shanghai overprint inverted, has just been found. Very little is known of this error. It was first discovered in 1913, when a well known local collector unearthed a couple of copies from amongst some hundreds of used current $1 stamps. He saw that most of them had been used at Canton and immediately went there to see if he could find more. The only information the Post Master there could give him was that he had noticed that the overprint was upside down on a few of the $1 stamps and that the last had been sold over the counter ten days before. A round of the stamp dealers also failed to bring to light any more of these errors. He quietly continued his search for some time, refraining from announcing his discovery for fear the forgers would get to work, but he died without finding another copy.

The present specimen was found by a collector here among some stamps offered on an approval sheet last May. He paid the magnificent sum of $3 for it. Since then the stamp has been examined by the foremost experts on Chinese stamps and declared to be genuine. Thus the credit for this find must be given to Hong-Kong. The owner is a keen collector and is highly elated over his luck."

P.S.—Supplementary to my letter of a few days ago. I am sending herewith the denomination and numbers of the new Philippine postage dues now printing in Washington:—4c, 1,000,000; 6c, 250,000; 8c, 500,000; 10c, 250,000; 12c, 400,000; 16c, 250,000 and 20c, 250,000; Total 2,900,000.

CAPT. HENRY HECHLER

Philately has lost a staunch devotee in the death of Henry Hechler of Halifax, N. S., which occurred Saturday, Jan. 15. His name has been a household word with Canadian philatelists, and he had a world acquaintanceship. J. D. Cox sends us this clipping from the Halifax Chronicle:—

"The death occurred Saturday morning of Capt. Henry Hechler, one of the best known men of Halifax, after a fatal illness of two weeks, though for six months previously his health had not been as good as usual. Capt. Hechler, who came to Halifax when but a lad, was born in 1853, and was in business in Halifax for about half a century, having retired five or six years ago. He was an outstanding philatelist and numismatist and dealer, and his collection was conceded to be perhaps the best in Eastern Canada. In fact it is reported that on his retirement from business the deceased received over $30,000 for but part of the collection.

Capt. Hechler was elected an alderman of the city in 1876, and served for three years as representative of his ward. He was for very many years in the 63rd Rifles—now the Halifax Rifles—and rose to the rank of Capt., which he held on retirement. He was an officer of the Halifax Battalion which went to the West in service in the Riel Rebellion, and during the Great War was censor at the detention camps at MacNab's Island, Melville Island and Amherst. He was a member of the Royal British Veterans' Society and of the N. S. Stamp Club, and different philatelic organizations.

Captain Hechler was a former officer of the 63rd Regiment, Halifax Rifles, and was on the retired list at the time of his death. He will be borne to the cemetery upon a gun carriage."

AIRMAIL ROUTES 21 AND 22, FEB. 6

By HENRY O. MEISEL.

The first flight of airmail on C.A.M. 21 and C.A.M. 22 will be made February 6, and collectors desiring first flight covers should mail them to postmasters at scheduled stops in time to receive the special first flight cancellation. Route C.A.M. 21 will operate between Dallas and Galveston, with stops at Fort Worth and Houston. Route C.A.M. 22 will operate between Dallas and San Antonio, with stops at Fort Worth, Waco and Austin. All first flight covers sent by collectors will receive special attention.

NUMBER 706

Just as we go to press a letter sent by air mail from Alaska arrives with the application of Frederick C. Schiller, Fairbanks, Alaska, president of the Arctic Philatelic Society. It is really worth the trouble of stopping the press and changing the forms in order to make Mr. Schiller a member of the Honor Club.

UNLISTED PRECANCELS

The Chicago Precancel Club has agreed to assume the responsibility of acting as a clearing house for New Issues for the forthcoming 1929 Precancel Catalog. It has appointed Arthur C. Bates, Fred Raff and Adolph Gunesch on the committee. All sendings are to be forwarded to Mr. Arthur C. Bates, chairman, 50 E. Grand Ave., Chicago, Ill. Mr. Gloeb of Omaha who formerly did this work is assisting the Editor in preparing copy for the printer.

Remember if you have unlisted varieties to send them to Mr. Bates for listing. The actual specimens must be submitted. Items submitted will be returned as soon as possible. If sent registered, they will be returned registered.

The Catalog is not a money-making proposition. It is dedicated to a great hobby, and one that lives and thrives because its adherents are blessed with an abundance of altruistic co-operation. All new listings should reach Mr. Bates by March first, so do your checking early.

The Telfer Collection of Early Canadians

I have much pleasure in announcing that I have just purchased the famous collection of early Canadian stamps, formed during many years past, by Mr. Eugene Telfer of Detroit.

Here is a case in which I have helped very largely to build up the collection and in all such cases, I am glad to have the opportunity of buying back from my clients such groups of early stamps as may suit me for my own stock.

This purchase comprises all the issues of the Province of Canada, 1851 to 1864 inclusive.

Mr. Telfer felt that he had gone as far as he possibly could in these old issues as he was hardly able to add anything to his very extensive collection and he has decided to specialize in the issues of the Dominion of Canada, commencing March, 1868, and in this group it is his idea to highly specialize the cancellations of the "small cent" issue, in which there is still very much to be learnt.

The collection is arranged in a series of Oriel Albums, beautifully written up, and all varieties carefully noted. In each value, we have, first, essays and proofs and color trials, the latter being shown both with and without "Specimen" where the owner could obtain them. Following these, we have the unused stamps, used stamps in singles, pairs, strips and blocks, and with all kinds of cancellations, then stamps on cover in numerous varieties. To give some general idea of the scope of this collection, I give a brief list of a few of the more important stamps in the early issues.

1851 Laid Papers

The 3d. Fine unused with part gum. This stamp, which I find getting quite scarce, was a favorite of Mr. Telfer's. In used he had 21 singles, 9 pairs, and several on covers, and 3 double transfers.

The 6d on laid paper, consist of 2 unused, 20 singles used, 4 pairs, and a number on covers.

The rare 12d is represented by 3 copies on the laid paper, all used, one of them being a margin stamp from the right hand side of the sheet and one having a green cancellation. The proofs of this value are exceptionally fine, some of them being very scarce, both die and plate proofs.

1852-1857 Wove Papers

There are several hundred of the 3d on the different kinds of papers, including 2 blocks of 4, several strips of 3 and 4, a very large number of pairs and some 20 double transfers.

On cover, there are a considerable number of singles and pairs in all varieties.

The unused 3d include several pairs and some brilliant singles.

The "Numeral" cancellations are a very representative lot, with a number of rare towns.

The "ribbed" paper are also exceptionally fine in singles, pairs, stamps on cover, and so on.

Thin Wove Paper

The 6d on the thin wove paper has always been a rare stamp. It apparently immediately followed after the laid paper and is very much in the color of the laid but a few sheets must have been printed on a real wove paper. These rare stamps that are catalogued by Gibbons at £12 and £15 each are well worth it when no trace of the laid line appears. In the collection, I have 7 singles, 2 pairs and 1 on cover .

Medium Hard Wove Paper

Here I have in the unused, a single and horizontal pair, and in the used, 19 singles and 2 on covers.

Thick Hard Wove Paper

A very fine unused and 13 singles and 2 on covers.

Very Thick Soft Wove Paper

One unused, 10 singles and 1 on cover.

1855 Thin Wove Paper

In the 10d unused there are 3 singles and a vertical pair, and in the used, 25 singles, a horizontal strip of 3, 8 transfer varieties, and 2 superb copies on cover.

1855 Medium Wove Paper

The 10d, superb unused with original gum, 12 singles, used, and 2 transfer varieties.

1857 Thick Hard Wove Paper

The 10d unused, fine, 5 singles, used, and 1 superb on cover.

June 1857

In the 7½d green there are 6 unused, mostly with full gum and fine margins, and this rare stamp, used, is a really wonderful lot, consisting of 18 singles and two of the finest copies on covers I have ever seen.

August 1858

The ½d rose, unused, consists of 3 singles and 2 pairs and, used, 17 singles, 3 pairs, and on cover, 2 singles and a block of 4, the latter being, I should think, almost unique.

In the rare variety of this stamp on ribbed paper, there are 3 of the vertically ribbed, and three of the horizontally ribbed, one of the latter being unused with gum.

1858-59 Perf. 12

The ½d rose, unused, 3 copies and, used, 18 singles, a pair and 1 on cover.

The 3d, 2 unused, 16 singles, 2 pairs, and 6 on cover.

The rare 6d purple is a beautiful lot consisting of 3 unused, 6 used, and a superb copy on cover.

The first issue of the "Cents" that, extending from July, 1859, to August, 1864, is highly specialized in all varieties of shade and cancellation, and Mr. Telfer made special efforts to get unusual pieces, such as rare combinations on covers, and blocks, which he found exceedingly rare and bought whenever he had the opportunity. Space will only permit me to mention a few things throughout this section.

July 1859, 1c rose-red

An unused block of 4, mint, and 2 pairs imperf. In the used, an outstanding piece is a very rare block of 8, and there are a large number of strips.

5c red

In the unused, a block of 4 and a number of pairs and strips and singles.

In the used, blocks of 4, 6 and 8, many re-entries, and a strong lot of cancellations. Throughout this issue special attention has been paid to "Numerals" in four circles, which are very complete including many of great rarity, such as those in bright green and in red.

An outstanding item in the 5c is a vertical pair imperf. on original cover, well tied on, and cancelled in blue, "Whitby, August 11, 1863."

10 cents

We have first of all, a fine page of unused—many shades—nearly all with full gum.

Outstanding pieces are the 10c real black-brown perfectly centered and with full gum, a horizontal strip of three on cover, tied on, and about 12 singles and several copies on cover. All the other shades of the 10c are represented by a vast number of copies on and off covers, many scarce cancellations and some fine pairs and strips.

12½c green

In the unused there are 3 pairs and a considerable number of singles. Also, we have here a pair and a block of 4 of the very rare imperf. stamps, a block being very seldom met with. In the used there are 2 blocks of 4, one being on cover, and a large number of pairs and combinations on cover.

17c blue

The unused include 20 singles, with several of the slate-blue, a very fine single imperf., and a unique block of four imperf., a very rare item, also several double transfers. The used include two very rare blocks, each of 4, and one of 6, and a number of pairs and stamps on cover.

I should be very happy to send selections from this collection to any client known to me or against usual references.

The whole collection is now remounted in my small approval books.

CORNERSTONE POSTAGE STAMP

On January 11, the 171st anniversar of the birth of its founder, Alexande Hamilton, the Bank of New York an Trust Company laid the cornerstone o its new 32 story building, which is bein erected at the northeast corner of Wal and William Streets in New York City on the site occupied by the bank sinc 1796.

It will be of interest to stamp collect ors to learn that among a lot of interest ing items contained in the copper bo was a complete set of current unuse United States postage stamps. Ther was also various coins minted in 192 copies of the day's newspapers on ra paper, photographs and a copy of "We by Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh.

The set of stamps included all the cur rent values from ½ cent and up, the vari ous Special Delivery stamps, Specia Handling, and of course the airmails, in cluding the Lindbergh stamp. Also las year's commemoratives.

That there were no "straight edges was seen to by a philatelist, Mr. A. E Pade, who is connected with the For eign Department of the Bank. M Pade had the honor of procuring an arranging the stamps which were mounte like on an album page. It is to be hope that there may be stamp collectors pres ent among those of the next generatio when at some future date, maybe 50 o 100 years from now, these stamps wi again see daylight. Perhaps the preser day stamps by that time will be so rar that this little lot will be considered real "find."

Or perhaps they won't even us stamps any more and smile at the funn little stickers people had to use in th olden days in order to send a lette Possibly they won't write letters an more either. Who knows?

ARGENTINE REPUBLIC, 1926

The set of four stamps issued in th Argentine in 1926 to commemorate th Centenary of the Post Office are not fo permanent use, but will be replaced b the 1924-5 type when supplies are ex hausted. The 5c and 25c values ar already obsolete and the 5c (No. 345 recently re-issued in place of the fir named denomination is printed from ne plates. There are two of these, each o 200 subjects, and both contained erro with period below the "c" like the 192 series, when first issued. On one pla there were four of these errors and o the other eight, but both plates have no been corrected. Error impressions fro the two plates can be distinguished b the paper. The stamps from the pla with four errors were printed on a thic white paper, while impressions from th plate with eight errors were on a thi transparent paper.

The 5c stamp with portrait of Gener Justo Jose de Urquiza issued in 192 was, by mistake, printed on the "larg sun" paper of 1921 and is listed in Sco under No. 303. It was priced in 192 at $1.50, but is now unpriced. My co respondent, Mr. A. H. Davis, tells m there were only three sheets of 100 eac of this variety. One sheet of 100 re poses in the album of a millionaire co lector and at least 50 were used on pa cels from Buenos Aires to the interio which leaves 150 stamps unaccounte for. It is quite a rare stamp and the fe copies that have changed hands in Ar gentina have realized about $25.00 apiec —Philatelic Opinion.

DECEPTIVE "BARGAIN" OFFERS

There is a tendency for dealers to offer stamps at a small fraction of catalog as special bargains when they possibly have only one or two copies in stock. We desire to know how common this practise is, and we shall consider it a favor if our subscribers will keep us informed of "bargain" offers that are deceptive. Let this apply to transactions of the future, rather than the past, and we will deal at once with offending advertisers.

JOSE RIZAL HONORED

(Clipping from H. Walk.)

MANILA, Dec. 31—Thirty-one years ago today Jose Rizal, Filipino idealist and writer, met his death before a Spanish firing squad on Bagumbayan field.

Today on this same field, now known as the Luneta and located near the heart of the present-day Manila, throngs gathered to pay tribute to the memory of their martyred hero.

In hundreds of villages near and far, native Filipino orators described the life and works of this man whose stature has grown through the years. From the date of his death, they declared, true aspirations of the Filipino people burst into flower as never before.

Rizal Day is the outstanding holiday of the year in the Philippine Islands. It is a day observed in a variety of ways. There is a moment of reverent silence; there are speeches; there are bands, dances, dramatic performances, public shows of all sorts. Organizations of every sort band together for parades in Manila and other towns. — Chicago American.

COMMUNICATION

TO THE EDITOR:

I was much interested in the article by Edgar Sheffield Brightman in the WEEKLY as reprinted from Zion's Herald. I wonder how many of your readers know the status of the man whose views they were reading. Professor Brightman is one of the most outstanding teachers of philosophy in America today. He occupies the Borden Parker Bowne chair of philosophy in Boston University, and is the author of numerous works on his subject. He teaches personalistic philosophy, which leans somewhat toward the doctrines of Kant, and which vigorously opposes the mechanistic views of Friedrich Nietzsche, John Dewey and Bertrand Russell. I pass this on to you, not with the intention of lending eclat to the article itself, which is unnecessary; but with the purpose of pointing out the fact that some of the masterminds of our age take our beloved bits of paper seriously.

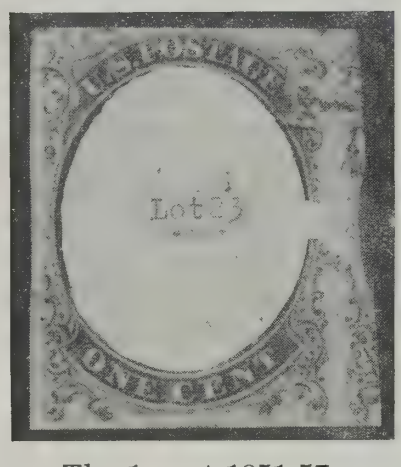
AUCTION
EARLY UNITED STATES



On Friday Evening, FEBRUARY 24TH, my 18th auction sale of postage stamps will be held and will comprise an unusually fine assortment of early United States issues. The main portion of the stamps to be offered are the property of a well-known Californian collector and these include what is probably the finest lot of the 3 cents 1851-57 known west of Chicago.

The 1 cent 1851-57 are also strongly represented and in this section some wonderfully attractive items will be noted. There are nearly 500 lots of U. S. and the foreign items are in keeping with the general high tone of this sale. In this section British North America is strongly featured.

ILLUSTRATED CATALOGUE

The catalogue of this sale is illustrated with TWELVE full pages of half-tone pictures showing the more important United States and foreign items—an innovation it is hoped will help mail bidders in forming an exact idea of the appearance of these particular stamps.

The catalogue is now ready and has been mailed to all collectors on my regular list. Other bidders desiring a copy may have one free for the asking.

EXCHANGE---INDIANS AND STAMP NUTS

In the old days, barter was used with considerable success by Indians. It so happens that postage stamps lend themselves to exchange. We have built up a system of exchanging stamps by having the collector send us his duplicates and we offer a net purchase credit which he may accept or reject for his stamps. Perhaps you can find a means of dispossing of some of your holdings under one of the following suggested heads:

1. Send us your precancels. Take your credit in U. S. or Foreign Postage, Air Mails, First Day Covers or other precancels from approvals or lists.
2. Send us your current or older U. S. postage accumulations. Take your credit in U. S. or Foreign Postage, Air Mails, First Day Covers or precancels.
3. Send us your foreign duplicates. Take your credit in any of the above.
4. Send us your Air Mail or First Day Covers. Take your credit in any of the above.

We'll make an offer on anything you send. The offer is for your acceptance or rejection. A selection accompanies the offer. You may as well clean house now as later. We can use anything.

Don't write us first, just send the stamps. We can't make an offer until we see them.

THE AUCTION SALE—MAIL BIDS

By VICTOR W. ROTNEM.

The auction sale has long been a popular marketing device for the selling and buying of postage stamps. There is a certain psychological lure and fascination in the auction method. At a certain time and place, certain property is sold to the highest bidder. The bargain element, the competitive element and the attraction of buying at the price which the buyer sets himself are ingredients lacking in the ordinary counter or approval book sale. At a certain moment a piece of merchandise is offered for highest cash price that is bid. Bang, goes the auctioneer's hammer and the title to the merchandise changes ownership.

The auction sale of postage stamps has the added feature of mail bidding. Since collectors or dealer buyers are scattered about in different parts of the country catalogs are printed which describe the lots of stamps and bidders may enter their bids by mail, listing the highest price per lot which they are willing to pay. In order to add an additional feature of chance, the price is started on the floor at a reasonable advance over the next to the highest mail bid. Then those attending the sale in person may bid against the high mail bidder. Suppose, for example, that the bids from mail bidders on a 5c U. S. 1847 in fine condition are as follows: $3.50, $3.80, $5.80, $6.20, $7.40, $8.10. The mail bidder who bids $8.10 has spoilt all the bids from $3.50 to $7.40 inclusive. However, the auctioneer starts the price at $7.50. If there is no bid from the floor, the bidder who was willing to pay $8.10, buys at $7.60. If there is a floor bidder in competition he will bid $7.60. The dealer bids $7.70 for the mail bidders; the floor bidder says $7.80, the dealer $7.90, the floor bidder says $8.00, the dealer says $8.10 for the mail bidder. The floor bidder sticks and says $8.20, and so he wins against the high mail bidder. Perhaps, however, there are floor competitors,—they must keep on until one remains. If two or three are keen for the stamp, they may bid until they wear the others out.

The mail bidder is an important factor in any auction sale. He is represented by the auction dealer who is handling the sale. The mail bids usually buy the bulk of the material, and as they become experienced they learn to gauge their bids with a fair degree of certainty.

There is a fear on the part of some mail bidders that they will obtain more stamps than they can pay for. This can be prevented by asking the dealer to buy not more than a certain amount for you. Merely place on your bid sheet the notation, "Do not buy over $25 (or any amount you wish) for me at this sale."

It should always be remembered that an auction sale is a strictly cash proposition. Floor bidders must pay for their lots at once after the sale. Mail bidders agree to pay within three days (as a rule) after the receipt of their lots. This privilege is extended to those who are favorably known to the dealer; otherwise cash deposits or cash in advance of lots are required.

Auction lots, as a rule, are carefully described. Lots in error may be returned promptly and adjusted in most auction sales.

Most auction houses permit inspection of lots by mail bidders if charges are paid both ways by the bidder, and if there is time for inspection before the sale.

It is a universal rule that on lots that are purchased, the forwarding charges are paid by the bidder. The dealer is acting for you as a buyer, and you must pay forwarding charges. In Europe many auction houses charge the bidder a commission for service, but this is not the American custom. (French 17½%; Belgium and Swiss 10%.)

LINDBERGH STAMPS FOR CUB

We have just received particulars an issue of Cuba in honor of Lindbergl visit to that republic, just as we go press. Concerning the new stamp, d tails have been sent by Mr. E. M. A which are based evidently on a sta ment of El Comercio of Havana, dat January 12th. The report is that a ha million stamps of the design and val of the present 5c airmail, blue, Cut will be printed in red, and surcharged black, "Lindbergh-Enero 1928," in hon of the Colonel's visit. Naturally, the stamps will be for use on air mail excl sively. It may be added that the ne Cuban set is much in demand and that is not obtainable yet at many offices all the denominations. In fact, the has been sold out at one office.

LEAP YEAR INTERVAL

Was leap year skipped from four eight years at one time, and if so, b tween what years was the eight-ye period?

J.K.

The last time there was an interval eight years between leap years w from 1896 to 1904. The next time w be from 2096 to 2104. The reason that century years, such as 1800, 190 etc., are not leap years unless they a exactly divisible by 400. Thus t year 2000 will be a leap year, while 19 and 2100 are not leap years.—Clippin

How Can We Prove Up The 24c Continental?

EVIDENCE OFFERED BY MANY DEALERS AND EXPERTS NOT CONVINCING TO THOSE FAMILIAR WITH INTRICACIES OF PAPER AND PRINTINGS OF THE VARIOUS BANK NOTE COMPANY PRODUCTIONS.

By WARNER BATES, 184 State St., Albany, N. Y.

The Evidence of Dated Copies

This particular Silk Fibre Paper, being considerably scarcer than the Ribbed Paper, the writer naturally has not located as many dated copies. In fact he has but five.

The first is a cover cancelled with the greenish-black postmark and cancellation of Franklinville, N. Y., with letter dated February 17, 1877 (Postmark Feb. 19).

Number two is an off cover copy bearing date, April 9, 1877 (year-dated postmark).

Number three is precancelled on piece of cover with pen postmarking, "Irondale, N. Y., Apr. 14, '77."

Number four is piece of cover with a 3c stamp postmark of Hartford, Wis. Apr. 18, 1877.

Number five is a cover, the stamp tied with New York (City) postmark (May 30 P. M.) and Station 5 cancellation with penmarked notation on end of flap of cover—May 4, 1877.

These dated copies, although few in number, indicate rather clearly that the use of the silk fibre paper I am describing was during the early part of 1877, and I am inclined to think from the evidence that the printing and delivery of these stamps (at least, so far as the Three Cent Green is concerned) was during the first few months of that year only.

The next paper used by the Continental Company for the Three Cent Green and I believe all other denominations printed at that time) was a paper I term the Late Linenlike.

This is a distinct paper and will be dealt with fully in later articles. I merely desire to mention here that all my other reference copies of the Three Cent Green to 1877 (including copies dated in August and October, 1877), and up to about the middle of 1878, are on the Late Linenlike Paper.

The paper used prior to the Silk Fibre paper just described was the Continental Straw Fibre paper and my reference copies of this paper are all dated 1876.

According to Luff, the only Continental printing of the 24c was in 1875, which would seem, in my opinion, to preclude the possibility of this denomination coming on the particular silk fibre paper just described. If the copies of the 24c existing which show silk fibres are on the earlier Silk Fibre paper they may be either National or Continental, and I do not think there would be any proof that they were the latter.

The one distinctive paper that I feel sure of as being an 1875 issue (from which conclusive proof in my reference collection) is the Double Paper and, as I will attempt to show at another time, this paper seems to have been issued and used during the early part of 1875.

Therefore, it would seem to me, that any copies of the 24c which may turn up on double paper might very well be considered Continental printing.

24c Double Paper—National or Continental?

Mr. Luff records having seen the six and twenty-four cent stamps of the National issue on double paper.

So far as the twenty-four cent is concerned, I cannot see how one would determine that the printing on double paper was executed by the National Company, and not the Continental, inasmuch as the Continental Company used the National plate without alteration.

The only convincing statement made by Mr. Luff in this connection is that the "National Double Paper" he examined showed the stamp printed on the thicker of the two layers of paper, with the thin layer of paper used for backing. In all of my Three Cent Green Double Paper examples, the printing seems to be on the thin layer, with the thick paper used for backing. However, inasmuch as neither layer is at all thick, considered by itself, this does not seem very positive proof that the 24c on Double Paper recorded by Luff was a National and not a Continental printing.

As to the six cent Luff records, that would seem to be a different story. He says he has seen it on an original cover cancelled Nov. 1, 1870. I should very much like to examine this particular cover.

We have the evidence of the Specialized Catalogue that the Thirty Cent comes on Double Paper, and in the case of this stamp it is listed as a Continental printing. Inasmuch as no secret mark was engraved on the Thirty Cent either, I wonder what the cataloguers go on in designating any double paper copy they may have examined as a Continental printing instead of National.

Mr. Luff's record shows that the 30c was not printed during 1875, whereas my Three Cent Green dated reference copies on the Double Paper are all dated 1875. However, the 30c was printed during 1874, and inasmuch as my reference copies were all used during the early part of 1875, it is quite possible that the Continental Company may have been using Double Paper the latter part of 1874, and early part of 1875, and this may have been early enough to catch some of the 1874 printings of the 30c.

National Paper with Silk Fibres

Now back to the consideration of 24c examples on paper showing silk fibres.

Earlier in this article, I said that in passing on such a stamp my decision as to whether it was National or Continental would depend upon whether the paper was National paper showing silk fibres, or Continental paper showing silk fibres.

I have tried to describe thoroughly the characteristics of the Continental Silk Fibre paper.

The National Silk Fibre paper is a different story.

The Three Cent Nationals that I have on this paper are on a hard, rather thin, snappy paper of about the same texture as most National papers. It is a firm, closely woven paper. I would say it is somewhat whiter than the Continental Silk Fibre paper I have already described, but still I would not call it "strikingly white."

Each stamp of this National Silk Fibre paper shows from one to two bright red threads, and in addition, from one to three or four black or dark brown threads.

The red threads are usually curved and from one-half to one millimetre long. The black threads are generally shorter and straight.

Inasmuch as all the fibres of both colors together in the National paper do not exceed five or six in any of the examples I have seen, whereas the Continental Silk Fibre paper I have previously described invariably shows scores of fibres scattered all through the paper, I feel certain that the two papers are entirely different. Also, the Continental Silk Fibre paper never seems to show fibres of any color other than black, whereas all National examples show the red fibre in addition to the black.

A fact that at first might seem confusing is that this identical National Silk Fibre paper is found with Three Cent Green prints showing the secret mark, which must therefore be Continental printings.

However, a little study explains this satisfactorily. All the Continental printings that I have observed on paper showing the red fibres and identical with the National Silk Fibre Paper are of a light yellow-green shade.

All Continental Silk Fibre paper printings showing scores of tiny black fibres only instead of five or six red and black

EDITORIAL

The following notice has been sent out by the Post Office Department: "The Department has no intention of bringing out a new issue of air mail stamps. Foreign philatelic agencies, according to information received at the Department, have been circulating reports to the effect that there would be a new issue of the twenty-cent, twenty-five cent, fifty-cent, and one dollar air mail stamps now on sale by the Department. Postmaster General New announced that there is no truth in such a report, and that the Department has no thought of issuing any new air mail stamps. It is entirely satisfied with the present air mail stamps, the Postmaster General declared."

In his chronicle, Mr. Philip H. Ward, Jr., says that the proposal that a stamp be issued to commemorate the trying days at Valley Forge has been gaining momentum. Individuals and organizations have allied themselves in an effort to successfully promote the issue. From an occasional correspondent who is in the thick of things at Washington, and to whom we have been indebted in the past for news of important postal developments, a letter has been received that intimates that the suggestion that this stamp be prepared has struck the popular fancy. Although at the time he wrote the department had not committed itself, there is some reason for the belief that such a stamp will be forthcoming in due time. As is known, many other subjects for commemorative stamp treatment have been presented and the correspondence that is being received reveals the extent to which the idea of special stamps has grown in a popular sense. Indeed, the discriminatory powers of the department must be put to many a test in view of this circumstance, but we are inclined to the opinion that the department may be relied upon to conserve the best traditions of its history. It is known that the Postmaser General realizes that the commemorative issues have a place in familiarizing the public with the early history of the nations; and that he is actuated by a wish to recognize the mission of the special stamps.

In a recent issue an allusion was made to Dr. John Milton Holt, and we have heard from Mr. Fred E. Farnham, Chicago, to the effect that Mr. Farnham met Dr. Holt, who was then a major in the Medical Corps, in 1915, at the Presidio, San Francisco. Later, Dr. Holt went to Cleveland, and from there he went down south as an officer in the U. S. Public Health Service. Mr. Farnham thinks that the records of the marine service would reveal the subsequent history of Dr. Holt.

Mr. W. R. Ware, Stuttgart, Arkansas, writes: "In the issue for October 31, 1927, there is an article by Geo. B Sloane, entitled, 'An Early Precancel,' and the following particulars may be of interest to those who read the article. William E. Woodruff was the founder of the Arkansas Gazette, Arkansas' oldest and largest newspaper, and the fifth newspaper founded west of the Mississippi River. This was on Saturday, November 20, 1918, at Arkansas Post, which was then the capital of the Territory of Arkansas. In 1821, when the capital of the Territory was moved to Little Rock, Woodruff moved his paper also, and printed his first number from the new place on December 29, 1821. The circulation of the paper was 500 in 1829, and had increased to 2,000 by 1836. The letter referred to was printed more than likely on the press of this paper, and as Woodruff's printing activities occupied probably only part of his time, no doubt he had other lines, among which may have been acting as agent for various tax-payers."

We have been shown by Mr. Max Golding, Chicago, a card that was issued by the German government, which was in use only one day, December 1, 1927. The postal was issued to commemorate the one hundredth anniversary of the establishing of the first letterpost station in that country in 1827. The stamps on the card, which was sent to Mr. Golding by air mail, have a cancellation which reads: Hundertjahrfeier des Briefpostamts, Berlin C 2, and shows the design of the original station. It seems that this cancellation was not used on letters, but only on this officially printed card, on the reverse of which is pictured in colors, the mail carrier as he appeared one hundred years ago.

Something should have been said before of the references to collecting in Louis Bromfield's book which, when published six months ago, caused so much comment. In this best seller, "A Good Woman." Mr. Bromfield speaks of stamps in several places. For instance, coming from a woman's club meeting, Mrs. Downes finds on the table at home a letter from her son Philip, a missionary in a remote section of Africa, which she recognizes as coming from him by the handwriting and "by the outlandish stamp of Zanzibar," which would be another specimen for the collection of her brother Elmer. Elmer was a pump manufacturer and a dyspeptic who was a cheerless individual, and who did not seem to take stamps with a smile. In another situation, the sister removes the stamp for Elmer before burning the letter, conjuring up thin spots before the eyes of the real collector.

From Mr. P. J. Drossos, Athens, Greece, the following particulars have been received: "I am enclosing herewith the 1½ and 5drs, which are two values of the Navarino set of the five to appear that were placed on sale at Pylos (Navarino) on the day of the festivities there, as I have already informed you, at the time. The other three values (a 4drs and two other 5drs) are now ready as well as the first two values; and will soon be put on sale throughout Greece. You will note that the wording, 'Sir Codrington' of course is not correct, and there have been rumours afloat that this has been corrected, and that the stamps of this type to be on sale will read, 'Sir Edward Codrington.' In such case, the enclosed stamp will be a rare one, in fact, a veritable rarity if the quantity sold at Navarino was only two thousand copies. I have not been able to ascertain the quantity that was sold there, but it cannot exceed four or five thousand stamps." The portrait of Sir Codrington is on the bi-colored brown and gray, 5drs.

Details of recent developments postally in Germany have been received from Mr. G. Arkenberg, Hannover, who says that a new issue of the German officials, Dienstmarke, and large numerals in center, is appearing; and at the time of writing, December 15th, he had seen the 3pf brown; 8pf green; 15pf light red, and 20pf blue. The old surcharged Dienstmarken remain in use until the supply on hand is exhausted. He says that the surcharged stamps of October 27th, "I.A.A.-10-15-1927" in box (Internationale Arbeiter-Aussehuss) had a postal currency only from October 10th to 15th, 1927; and that the last sale of them to stamp collectors was in Berlin, November 30, 1927. Mr. Arkenberg reports that after the first of February, 1928, the Rentenpfennig series, with the large numerals, 3, 5, 10, 20 and 50pf; the 10 and 20pf, Stephans stamps and the Rhineland series, 5, 10 and 20pf adhesives and 5pf card are no longer valid for postage. The larger values of the Rentenpfennig (100pfg) and the Stephans (60 and 80pf) will circulate for a longer period, because of the quantity of them on hand. The sale of the Hindenburgh stamp will cease February 1, 1928, but it will qualify postally until April 30, 1928; and the same is to be said of the Hindenburg postal card, with his chirography inscription.

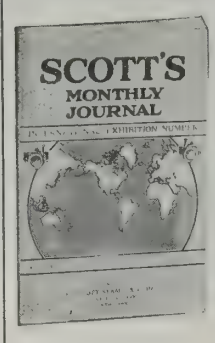
The stamp robberies that have breported have been most exasperating as well as costly to the victims, and r must be had from these outrages. gratifying to learn that the Amer Stamp Dealers Association is wor on the cases.



FOR COLLECTORS ONLY

If stamp collecting is your hobby, you want Scott's Monthly Journal. In it every form of collecting, from the most closely defined type of specialization to the enthusiastic activities of the junior, are comprehensively covered.

Editorially, the serious, interested collector, no matter what his age or degree of advancement, will find the Journal all that he could ask for.

As an accessory to the Catalogues in the important business of listing stamps as they appear, the Journal stands alone, for, as the Standard and Specialized U. S. Catalogues list annually, the Journal, as their supplement, lists the new issues month by month as they appear.

As an economy, the active collector cannot afford not to subscribe. For each month there appear in this magazine alone, special bargains of every sort, which, even if only partially taken advantage of, repay the subscription price many times over.

Twelve issues—one year—one dollar.

TERMS OF SALE.—Cash in advance with order, but any items found unsatisfactory may be returned and money will be refunded. Send a supplementary list with order as it is impossible to have every item in stock at all times. We supply first class copies only. Unused stamps are in mint condition and used copies have fine postmarks.

WANT LISTS.—We give special attention to want lists. Just let us know what your wants are and we shall be glad to submit on approval all we can supply or get for you.

Offers A Page of Opportunities!

I have just secured the complete SPECIALIZED UNITED STATES COLLECTION of a prominent western collector, including the issues from 1847 to 1869 incls. Practically all of the minor varieties, a beautiful showing of cancellations, numerous pairs, strips and some blocks, as well as a superb lot of stamps on Original Covers, are included, and the stamps have now all been priced up for sale. The lot prices up to a total of more than $45,000.00, which will give some idea of the amount of fine material I am offering.

Prices, by the way, are most moderate when the uniformly fine condition of the stamps is taken into consideration.

I am prepared to submit ON APPROVAL, to collectors known to me, or to new customers furnishing satisfactory references, selections of any stamp or group, of covers, of cancellations, or general selections.

Let me know your wants and I feel sure I can submit something of interest.

NOTE.—The stamps in this collection are ALL USED (excepting the '57 and '69 Re-issue sets and a few miscellaneous pieces).

Below I am offering a few items selected at random. ALL ARE IN FINE CONDITION, AND MONEY WILL BE IMMEDIATELY REFUNDED ON ANY ORDER WHICH IS NOT ENTIRELY SATISFACTORY FOR ANY REASON WHATEVER, provided stamps are returned no longer than 3 days after receipt.

PUBLIC AUCTION SALES

I hold public stamp Auction Sales once a month, and will gladly send catalogues of each Sale to prospective buyers. Ask to have your name placed on my regular mailing list. Next Sale will be on JANUARY 31st. Catalogues have been mailed to my regular list.

About Buying Stamps

I am always in the market to buy ANYTHING IN U. S. STAMPS, single copies or covers, wholesale lots, and especially collections. Large and fine collections are especially wanted at any time and I am prepared to pay SPOT CASH for desirable lots.

I solicit also consignments and entire collections to be sold thru my PUBLIC AUCTION SALES. The average collection will realize more (net) when sold at auction, than in any other way, and my experience of over 20 years in this line enables me to offer you a service second to none! Scores of clients for whom I have handled consignments or collections at auction during the past twenty years will testify of their complete satisfaction. If you contemplate selling, either outright for cash, or at auction, let me hear from you. Perhaps I can give some helpful advice as to the best method, which depends largely on what sort of a collection you have.

I am prepared to make liberal cash advances on properties I handle at auction, when desired, but please note I do not make any advances on small consignments and I do not solicit consignments for Auction which are valued at less than $100.00 NET.

Foreign Stamps

While I make no attempt to keep a complete stock of Foreign stamps, I always have a lot on hand and right now have ready a large number of "books by countries" to submit on approval. These books include the best copy of everything I have in stock at the time they are made up and they are marked at very moderate NET prices. Let me know what countries or group you are interested in and I'll be glad to submit a selection "on approval." You will find many bargains, as the stamps are all priced on basis of cost, without regard to the replacement values.

DEATH OF KARL A. PEMBER

We learn with great regret of the death of Karl A. Pember of Woodstock, Vt., which took place at Tucson, Ariz., on Wednesday, Jan. 11. Mr. Pember had evidently gone to the western country for his health. His name has frequently appeared in the WEEKLY as both collector and dealer. We are unable to give an extended account of his philatelic activities, but we reprint the following which appeared in a Boston paper:—

The funeral of Karl A. Pember, clerk of Windsor, Vt., county court, and state ornithologist, who died at Tucson, Ariz., last Wednesday, will be held Wednesday at 10.30 o'clock at St. James Church, Woodstock, Vt., where Mr. Pember was a communicant. The Rev. Lawrence Amor will conduct the services.

Mr. Pember was well known throughout New England because of his active interest in wild bird life and his collection in the county court house at Woodstock has attracted thousands of visitors from throughout the country. He was considered an authority on falcons, and several specimens are included in the huge collection of birds and eggs.

In his capacity as clerk of the county court, Mr. Pember had a wide range of acquaintances among New England lawyers, including many Boston men.

1928 LEAP YEAR CANCELLATIONS

By HERMAN W. BOERS.

Within the last few years the collecting of cancellations has become more of a pastime than ever before. One reads of many post offices that have peculiar names. Of late I have written several articles advising interested parties to write for these post office cancellations, and the recent holiday season has brought out many new collectors.

We had cancellations of Christmas, Fla., Dec. 25, 1927, and Christmas, Ky., Jan. 1, 1928. Did you ever before hear of Christmas on January 1? There is St. Nicholas, Pa., Stamps, Ark., Santa Claus, Ind., Christmas, Ariz., and Santa, Idaho. If one looks up a postal guide many hundreds of curious names or post offices will be found by the cancellation collector.

I have before me a clipping taken from MEKEEL'S WEEKLY, March 16, 1912, in regard to a leap year cancellation in which I wrote the editor:—"You are no doubt a collector of stamps and have a nice collection—I hope so. Did it ever occur to you that it is only once in four years you can collect a leap year cancellation on an envelope? I enclose two, and you may put these in your book with my compliments. Tell your readers to get busy and watch for them next time. It is great to be crazy."

To this letter the editor replied in the WEEKLY as follows:—"The editor is compelled to admit the soft impeachment. He collects varieties of this kind, especially when as in Mr. Boers' case they come his way with the senders' compliments. Forthwith we shall add the Feb. 29 postmark and admit the force of Mr. Boers' contention that it is great to be crazy."

This article is for those who do not think of this as leap year, and who are cancellation collectors. There is plenty of material to select from. May I mention postmarks from every capital city in the U. S. and its colonies that bears presidents' names, railroad and rural mail cancellations, fourth class postoffices using colored cancellations, and many of the latter have peculiar names. You can select from a postal guide or parcel post directory the unique and out-of-the-way post offices, and the result will be a collection of cancellations that will give you "a glorious feeling" when you exhibit them to friends not familiar with stamp collecting.

This quest for leap year cancellations may be supplemented by cancellations from Canada and other countries, including Mexico and South and Central America. Write to the postmasters early and indicate that you want a Feb. 29 cancellation, enclosing addressed envelopes and sufficient money for return postage upon the same.

To those who do not care to go to the trouble of writing postmasters, I would advise the looking at all mail received between March 1 and 10, and especially by large firms. The best way to preserve the cancellations is upon the entire cover, but many collect them 2 x 4 and arrange them by states. I hope that this year will see a larger interest than ever before in leap year cancellations, and that we may hear through the columns of the WEEKLY of collectors' experiences.

SEEN AND HEARD:—

THE Managing Editor was greatly pleased a few days ago in having a call from Ashley C. LeDuc of Red Lion, Pa. Mr. LeDuc was formerly located in the town of Danvers nearby, and he was revisiting the scenes of his former activities. Mr. LeDuc has just completed our 1927 Index and has done a good piece of work. The Index will be published in an early February issue.

HERMAN W. BOERS sends us three clippings from local Detroit papers. One consists of a full account of the last meeting of the Wayne Stamp Society, with special reference to a stamp exhibition soon to be held by the club. Another announces an address by H. E. Haring of the U. S. Bureau of Standards on "Chromium Plating." Mr. Haring developed the process now used by the government for chromium surfacing the plates used for printing postage stamps. The third clipping is from a local German paper and gives a story of the Wayne Club meeting.

WE have just learned through Edward H. Sprangers of the death of Edward Ludwig, of the Ludwig Stamp Co., 21 S. 18 St., Philadelphia, Pa. He passed away on Nov. 16, of last year, of heart trouble. We are advised that Mrs. Ludwig will carry on the business for the present.

EDW. W. SMITH, A.P.S. 1657, has invented a plan to overcome poor gum or lack of gum. A letter at hand shows the stamp "tied" to the envelope with two staples top and bottom. This must be a joke. Anyway the P. O. dept. won't take very kindly to the innovation.

I AM very glad to write you that my gift to our library, of MEKEEL'S, has been of much pleasure to me, as we now have a Stamp & Coin Club organized, which is growing in interest and members, and bids fair to be prosperous. We have twenty-three members on the roll, and more in view.—WM. H. SEWARD, Johnson City, N. Y.

M. OHLMAN, the N. Y. dealer, can render assistance to anyone who may wish to take out insurance on stamps. If interested write him.

J. T. CHASE sends us a clipping of the copyrighted cartoon "Life's Darkest Moment." We thank Mr. Chase for his courtesy, but the cartoon has been previously recorded by us.

ON Jan. 9, at the rooms of the Brooklyn Stamp Club, the following officers were installed for the year 1928:—Pres., R. M. Osborne; Vice-Pres., Monroe Rosenblatt; Sec'y, George W. Wagener; Treas., Wm. J. Coleman; Fin. Sec'y, John J. O'Mara; Sales Manager, Gustave H. Fabian. Board of Governors:—Gilmore E. Martin, Dr. Albert P. Singer, Albert Meyer, Wm. Wulff. Delegates to U. S. Societies:—R. M. Osborne, Wm. J. Coleman and George W. Wagener, Alternate.

ELSEWHERE in this issue W. T. Wilson of Birmingham, England, has an advertisement that describes some artistic labels recently produced by the leading touring club in France, and designed to show the French Government what can be done in the way of issuing beautiful postage stamps. Mr. Wilson has submitted a sheet for our examination, and we find twenty different designs, including the Eiffel Tower, Arc de Triomphe, Notre Dame, Rheims Cathedral, Mont St. Michel, Versailles Palace, Carcasonne, Strasbourg, etc., etc. The designs are beautifully engraved and the labels are printed in green with good effect. As Mr. Wilson says, these are without doubt the most effective attempt at making attractive designs that has ever been made.

The above offerings will give collectors a slight idea of my enormous stock of modern British colonials. I have no hesitancy in suggesting that this is the most valuabl stock of modern British Colonials in the world. I do not claim to have a complete stock - no dealer has — neither do I lay claim to any percentage of completeness. Th reason for this is simple:—My stamps are here to be sold, and my prices are fixed accordingly. While I cannot guarantee you always to supply everything you want, chance are that you are missing many an opportunity by not getting in touch with me — rarities and other elusive stamps of the less recognized class are daily passing through m hands. It should be remembered that I sell a great many stamps that never are featured in my advts. — and among them are undoubtedly many of those that you have bee looking for. When you buy from me, you buy from a real Stock — not from a job lot, consisting principally of a few recent speculative small stamps.

HOW CAN WE PROVE UP THE 24c CONTINENTAL?

fibres are of deeper shades, running from dark green to dark bluish-green.

My reference collection indicates that the Continental printings in the yellow-green shades were early printings, possibly in 1873, prior to the Ribbed paper emissions.

Therefore, you have the probability that the Continental people either took over from the National concern a left-over quantity of the paper showing red silk fibres, or perhaps secured a supply of the same paper from the same paper manufacturers.

Therefore, you have obviously an early and late Continental printing on paper with silk fibres, each distinct from the other.

Considering the fact that the early Continental Silk Fibre Paper is identical with the National Silk Fibre Paper, plus the fact that the Continental Company printed the 24c stamp from the National plates, I would say positively that the finding of a few red and black silk fibres in the paper of any 24c would not thereof that it was a Continental printing.

Also, inasmuch as the only Continental printing of the 24c recorded by Luff occurred in 1875, whereas the evidence of my reference collection indicates rather conclusively that the later Continental Silk Fibre Paper was used in 1877, I doubt where the 24c will ever be found on his later paper.

Check List

National

3c green, on paper showing a few red and black threads.

Continental

3c light yellow-green, on paper showing few red and black threads—early.

3c light green, green, bluish-green and dark bluish-green on paper filled with scores of tiny black threads—late (probably 1877).

Sevard's Twinkles

Mr. M. D. Baldwin, Grand Rapids, Mich., has shown us a neat cover bearing three Australian stamps, but canceled by a Universal type A machine "Honolulu, Hawaii" and we agree with the Lulu part of this. The cover is single line handstamped PACKET BOAT, which all means that the Australian steward heard of Waikiki and lei and poi and the Jap sake served at the Dillinghams. These uklele playing boat stewards!

Mr. Joseph Steinmetz, Philadelphia, was out hunting again and shot a 22c meter in season. In the official catalog of meters this is a Type E (Pitney-Bowes) New York City, Permit 230, machine 5088, with slug date. Oddly sufficient, the color of the die impression agrees favorably with the color of our 22c stamp when in a block of eleven. We suppose it was another one of those darn dividends in a registered return receipt requested (4 R's) envelope. These meter things aren't so common that one can get asthma over them. Either.

Mr. M. J. Fenster, who used to tell time by the Colgate clock on the other side of the river, and now of Elmira, N. Y., sent us a triple cancelled envelope, the last surcharge being the Hudson Terminal Station's "Held for Postage." This handstamp oval has an escalloped edge on it. In our list of despatch marks, we have many single line, double line and otherwise fanciful shapes for marks, but the Hudson Terminal oval is in its own class. In fact, we have never been able to get the Dewey system working on despatch marks, outside of a few Universal "Return to Writer" machines.

"I DO NOT SEND FIRST FOR I HAVE 40 DUBIOUS OUTSTANDING DEBTS IN U. S. A." OUTSTANDING? FULL FORTY FATHOMS DEEP THY DEBTS DO LIE, YO HO AND A BOX OF SMITH BROTHERS.

The chap who advertises that post cards go straight into the waste paper basket is a marvel. We've been trying it without landing gear or joy stick, and by jingo! ours always go crooked. That's one thing we'll have to practice. You can never judge an order by the paper it's written on. But that reminds us that our analysis showed that about 75% of the 1c Jefferson post cards sold never are sent.

"Grand Central Station" in a 29mm R.M.S. with "Transit" is another Christmas gift. We have added a few "Transfer Clerks" and "Transits" to our list since the silk galluses were acquired.

We are wondering how soon it will be that Lindbergh cajoles a few Air Mail issues out of the Central American Republics. We sincerely hope so and glad of it. I don't believe there is an envious soul in this good land of ours for that boy's success, and if we get the 5c Air Mail post card, and I hope we do, may it further glorify the achievements of Lindy. Alexander the Great did an obituary when he had no more worlds to conquer, Caesar got it in the neck when he precancelled his stamps S. P. O. R., and poor Louis the Quince who watermarked his revenues, "L'Etat, c'est moi" lies with the Hesperus, but Lindy—Lindy will cease his Air Mail pioneering only when there is no air mail to carry. The old Hindoo, who, if he had but two loaves of bread, would sell one to buy hyacinths to save his soul, has in us a counterpart. If you have a spare ten cents, and wish a votive stamp to pledge to the success of our wings, buy an Air Mail stamp.

HARRISCO

Wise---

Wise dealers and collectors know that substantial profit and pleasing investment result from the purchase of a good collection at a bargain price. Better grade stamps can be acquired in this way at an unusually low cost, and stamp dollars can be soundly invested.

In our negotiations in the stamp market, we often obtain excellent, bona-fide collections at advantageous prices. These we sell rapidly, always intact and on a small margin of profit, in accordance with our established policy.

Every collection sold is accompanied by our guarantee of satisfaction or money back. The following are offered for the first time:

British Colonials

--- at ¼th Catalogue!

This collection contains over 3,750 varieties of British Colonials (including a few Great Britain), mostly of the better grade and cataloguing up to ten or fifteen dollars each. Every stamp is in good condition. Twentieth century issues are well represented with beautiful mint stamps and shilling values.

The collection is particularly strong in stamps cataloguing from 50c to $5 each, while most of the very cheap varieties are conspicuous by their absence. Space prevents mention of more than a few of the many good things therein:

Bahamas No. 5 ($12.50); Barbados No. 68 ($9); British Guiana Nos. 47 ($6), 68, 69 and many later issues.
Canada Nos. 4, 5e; mint Jubilee high values (Cat. $27) and scarce 8c registered ($7.50).
Cape of Good Hope Nos. 2 superb ($7), 5, 6, 45, etc.
Ceylon Nos. 4, 56, 137, 138a, 139, 153, 154, 176, 197 and many others, both mint and used.
Gibraltar Nos. 13 ($7.50), 54 ($8), 85 ($20). Gold Coast Nos. 25, 33, 79. Grenada No. 26 ($10).
Jamaica Nos. 15 ($7), 87 ($15); Lagos Nos. 27a ($12), 32, 33 all mint.
Malta Nos. 4 ($12), 60, 61 ($18), 64 ($15), 128 and 129 ($10), mint.
Many hard-to-get St. Helena, St. Lucia, Turks and Caicos, Virgin Islands and others of the British West Indies.

The total catalogue value is approximately $2,800.00—all of which is in fine-conditioned stamps.

We do not believe this collection could be duplicated at retail—stamp for stamp—at a cent less than fifteen hundred dollars. It will prove a very desirable purchase for either the enterprising dealer, or for the collector who wishes to add substantially to his British Colonial possessions without paying retail prices.

Price, $675.00
(With our money-back guarantee)

French Colonials

A Boston collector of the old school made and owned this collection. He confined his activities almost entirely to pre-war colonies, and a right good job he did.

The collection contains about 2,000 varieties of better grade stamps. Recent colonies (such as Alaouites, Lebanon, Syria, Castellorizo, etc.) are not included.

An interesting comparison can be made between this collection and the average packet of 2000 French Colonials. The packet catalogues less than $150 and sells for $60-$75 net. This collection has a total catalogue value of about $850—an average of nearly 15c a stamp. Moreover, there are no individual stamps cataloguing over ten or fifteen dollars, and no speculative issues.

Among other good things, you will find:

French Offices well represented. Such colonies as Guinea, including Nos. 14, 45-47, 63-79; Dahomey 1906-07 complete, with the scarce Nos. 25 ($7.00), 29-31 ($13.50); Ivory Coast No. 49 ($15.00); Mauritania 1906 complete; large Obock and Somali Coast; Senegal 1906 complete, and so on.

Every page of the collection is profuse with worthwhile stamps, both in condition and investment soundness. Further description is unnecessary—the collection is bound to please even the most critical buyer.

Price, $225.00
(About ¼th Catalog)

Terms

Cash orders (with collection shipped under our usual guarantee of satisfaction or money back) will receive preference. If any collection is not sold within ten days, however, we will gladly send it on approval to persons known to us or furnishing references.

JUNIOR STAMP STUDIES

Pyramid and Sphinx
Egypt A21
3 Milliemes

The Pyramid and Sphinx. Who would not know what country they represented, even if the name were lacking? Here is a stamp design that is truly characteristic and wholly appropriate, for of all the ancient glories and wonders of Egypt, the pyramids and the sphinx are the best known to the world at large. As monuments they are unique, and the pyramids were named first, by the ancient Greeks, among the seven wonders of the world.

Egypt has some seventy-five pyramids. The one which concerns us is at Ghizeh, and is the most important of all for it contains the Great Pyramid and the Sphinx, both of which can be taken in the same view as they are only a few hundred yards apart. The Great Pyramid bears the name of Cheops, a king of the Fourth Dynasty, who ruled about 3,000 years before Christ, and who apparently constructed it for his tomb. It is built of solid masonry, huge blocks of red granite having been brought from across the Nile.

The Sphinx is even more of a mystery than the pyramids. Hewn out of the solid rock, to which masonry has been added in places to complete the form, it has faced the rising sun for at least seven milleniums. Some ascribe it to Chephren, but others claim for it a greater antiquity. It is of the usual form, the crouching body of a lion with a human head. The total length is some 170 feet and the height is 66 feet. It was buried in the desert sand for ages with the exception of the head. The sand was cleared away from in front of the figure in 1816 and a small temple found between the fore legs and against the chest. Inscriptions found indicate that it was to serve as a guardian of the necropolis near the pyramids, the sphinx form being considered a favorite one for the sun-god Ra to assume.

One of the Pharaohs

Through the kindness of N. H. Bikhor of the Royal Stamp Co., N. Y. City, we are able to illustrate this week the new set of stamps just issued by Egypt in honor of the Statistical Congress. The set consists of three values: 5, 10 and 15 milliemes, and the stamps bear the head of one of the well-known Pharaohs, who reigned in Egypt for thirty-six years. The set is very handsome.

Boy Scout Troop Stamp Club

Boy Scout Troop, No. 12, of Dorchester, Mass., has formed a stamp club. With the encouragement and approval of their Scout Master the club started off with a "bang." Out of 30 boys present, a large majority showed a lively interest in stamps, starting with a membership of 12, and have elected as President, Herbert Seegal, 19 Nottingham St., Dorchester, Mass., and Secretary Treasurer, Edward Blume. Would like to correspond with other Boy Scout Stamp clubs.

Building A Collection

How to Buy—No. 1

By GEO. TODD.

There are different ways of buying stamps. Many dealers advertise bargains in stamp papers, boys magazines, circulars, and house organs. To those who do not know what a house organ is, it may be explained that it is a regularly issued pamphlet or paper sent out by a stamp firm to advertise that firm's stamps, but it also frequently contains reading matter and "tips" on the stamp market. When you buy stamps by the above method, be sure to compare prices, so that you know you are really getting a bargain.

Many buy stamps by the approval method, where you can see what you are getting for your money, but don't let your purchases be influenced by dazzling colors, so that you buy what you really don't want. Make sure also that stamps are not priced higher than catalog so as to allow big discounts.

Some boys buy from their home-town dealer, but if it is just a small shop, prices are apt to be high, especially if the dealer has to depend on stamps for a living. Sometimes, you may come in contact with an older collector who will be willing to sell you his duplicates at a very low price.

If you have a set with but one or two stamps lacking, you can usually obtain this stamp by sending a want list to a dealer.

"Country" Etymology

Gibraltar. Named from Arabic Gebrelal Tarak "mountain of Tarak" after the Arabian general who landed in Europe in 711.

Great Britain. Possibly from the Phoenician Baratamak meaning "Land of the Fin."

Panama.—Was the name of an Indian village. Later on it was changed to the city, the province and the isthmus. —Ill. Briefmarken Jour.—Am. Jour. Phil.

Junior Items

—We have a clipping from Dav Bernstein in which the Postmaster Ge eral states that the Department is n planning to issue any new denominatio of airmail stamps.

—Dale B. Walker would like to kn how he can distinguish the types of t 2c U. S. postage stamps from 1914 1919. The advice we give Dale will useful to our other juniors. Write o of the standard dealers and ask for set of these stamps and have them pr erly designated. You will thus be a to study the stamps and note the diff ences. They are not so expensive as be beyond the reach of the avera junior.

A Good Way to Collect Precans

y GEO. W. HAWSE, Winchester, Va.

Geo. is cute! He writes a nice little story bosting precans and at the end gives his name ar address and asks for correspondents. We ta for the advertising at once and Geo. is me fortunate than some professionals.—W. OW.)

Do you collect precancels? No United Stes collection is complete without them. Some people collect a certain ste or city, others collect certain denominations, issues, etc., but here is the w/ I do.

realized when I started collecting precacels that I could never acquire a comple general collection, so I decided to ccect one stamp from each city. I bught a good notebook at a stationery st'e and titled each page with a differ- state. As I am trying to get only or stamp from each city, I buy the low-pred ones, but, naturally, I get many dlicates, some being worth more than th ones that I have already mounted inmy album, so I substitute the more vaiable ones for the less valuable ones. Tis when I open my album a page of corful stamps greets my eye. A pretty shwing indeed.

You might not even look at a precance now, but a precancel will certainly attact you, so why not start that precacel collection now?

ny boy collector who collects precacels like I do, and who wishes to trle different cities, may address me at Winchester, Virginia.

Principaute De Trinidad.—The inscption on certain bogus stamps, issued n 894, purporting to be an issue for the Pncipality of Trinidad. The stamps shw a view of an island with a pleasure yat in the foreground, and they were isued by an adventurer named Harden Hickley, who posed for a time as Prince Jaes I of Trinidad. He annexed, to hiown satisfaction at any rate, the little ist of this name, which is situated about 50miles from the coast of Brazil, and wse ownership was once the subject ona dispute between the governments of th country and Great Britain. The isla is nothing but a barren, uninhabited rc, and the scheme of foisting these lals on stamp collectors was quite unsuessful. It is said that Hinckley lost al his money in the venture, and soon afrwards committed suicide at a hotel inTexas.

Private Telegraph Stamps.—Issued byvarious private telegraph companies in Great Britain for the prepayment of tegraphic messages before the various lirs were taken over by the Government.

Pro Combattenti.—An overprint or inscription shown on various stamps issul in San Marino in 1918 meaning literlly: "for the troops." The stamps wre sold at a premium over their postal vale, the extra amount being devoted to a pecial fund in connection with the Italan Red Cross.

"Now, I want to know how long it will be before I get an answer to this?" demanded a young lady, with a tell-tale blsh, as she approached a young man ing certain post-office the other day, hoing in her hand a letter addressed to her lover.

"That depends," said the playful official reflectively. "If he's in gaol, they on let 'em write once a month, and in some places only once a quarter. If he's del broke, he'll have to wait until he earns the price of a stamp, and I have no data on which to base an opinion of his earning capacity. If he's ill in bed, he may feel delicate about dictating his real sentiments to a cold disinterested person, and if it's scarlet fever they won't let him write at all. Then again, if he's got a new sweetheart—"

She didn't wait for him to complete the catalogue of contingencies.—Postage Stmp.

THE MALAY TIGER

The tiger has found great favour with the designers of the postage stamps used by the Federated Malay States both before and after federation. The first "tiger" issues of Negri Sembilan, Pahang, Perak, Selangor and Sungei Ujong, current in the early nineties, present a half-length portrait of the animal springing forth from a thicket of tall grass. If this portion of the design of these stamps had been printed in natural colours, it would have shown how beautifully the tiger's striped coat harmonises with the dark green and brown and yellow grasses and reeds of his habitat. The subsequent "tiger" issues for the individual States, made about 1896, display, in a simple, effective frame, a fine head study of this fierce yet handsome beast, in which the artist has caught very well the typical "tiger" expression, with flattened ears, baleful eyes and snarling jaws—an expression not unfamiliar in our own domestic tabby in the presence of a mischievous dog. The design for the lower values of the general issue for the Federated States consists chiefly of a full-length picture of the creature bounding with that wonderful, noiseless spring into comparatively open country.

The popularity of the tiger with the Malay stamp designers is due, in a sense, to his unpopularity with the inhabitants of that part of the world, in whose lives, from geographical causes, he plays a prominent and often a too active part. The Malay Peninsula is almost entirely a region of jungle, which stretches west and east from the central mountain range down to the very edge of the sea. Here and there along the coast and in the interior, Eastern and Western civilisation has cleared considerable tracts on which to erect towns and villages and lay out plantations; but always one dwells in the shadow of the jungle. In the jungle itself dwells My Lord the Tiger, who disputes with the Indian elephant the kingship of the Asiatic Wild.

The Malay tiger has not such a terrible reputation as his northern kinsman, the Bengal maneater; but for all that he takes his yearly toll of lonely travelers and unwary villagers and unprotected cattle. He is an ever-present menace. It is largely on his account that the Malays construct their houses high up on a series of piles, preferably over water. Even on small islands off the coast the fear of him persists, for he has been known to swim narrow belts of sea.

Once upon a time, and not so very long ago, the tiger used to make up for his depredations by providing the natives with amusement, though this was involuntary on his part. He used to be trapped and liberated in large arenas, round which the populace gathered to watch him bait the sadang, the lordly Malay buffalo, much as Englishmen in days gone by looked on at the sport of bull-baiting. Usually the tiger got the better of his adversary; but at times the sadang's long horns got home in a vital spot.

The tiger being such a feature of Malay life, and the nearest haunt of the lion being in the Nilgiri Hills in India, it seems strange that the town of Singapore should be so called, for "Singapore" means "the City of the Lion." Perhaps the lion referred to, however, is the British Lion.—Gibbons Stamp Monthly.

hat is, the vertically ribbed stamps are most invariably longer than any normal amp not on ribbed paper, and that er 80 per cent. of the horizontally bbed stamps are wider than normal ecimens not on ribbed paper."

Check over some ribbed paper copies comparison with stamps on other paers roughly with a millimetre scale and ou will find Wiley was right—the deigns on the horizontally ribbed paper m about one-half millimetre wider, and te designs on the vertically ribbed paers about one-half millimetre longer tan designs printed on other papers.

The present article has been concerned ith an examination into the minutiae of tcture and color of the paper and apparance of the printed design of stamps c ribbed paper. To some, all this detil will appear wearisome, but the dealer c student who wants to be able accurely and rapidly to pick ribbed papers c well afford to study it. Also, each ad every one of the details mentioned lp to establish the ribbed paper as a dtinct and legitimate paper variety and n an accident.

Let me make clear that not every detil or characteristic mentioned will be fnd to be true of each and every rbed paper stamp examined. But the s dent will find, as he gets into the subjt, that these different details check on eh other in determining whether a stmp is on ribbed paper or not, and tlrefore it is helpful to be familiar with a the various characteristics and peculirities of the paper and of the printings o this paper.

In my humble opinion, Messrs. Luff ad Clark should again list the ribbed paer in the Standard Catalogue under th Continental Bank Note Company's pntings. It has fully as much standing as a distinct variety as the laid paper lied in the 1861 and 1862-66 issues—infact, it is a more distinct variety and n so elusive to the eye as this earlier lai paper, in many instances. Likewise, th ribbed paper is a distinct variet and easier to pick than the "paper wh silk fibres" listed under the Continental printings.

Certainly, if the Scott Company will n list ribbed paper, it should at least remove or correct the following paragph which appears at the end of the Cntinental listings:

"Almost all of the stamps of the Continental Bank Note Company printing, including the Department stamps and some of the newspaper stamps may be found upon a paper which shows more or less of the characteristics of a ribbed paper."

The above is an erroneous statement. These stamps are found (at least most of the values) on a true ribbed paper, and the catalogue should so state.

The Specialized Catalogue lists Ribbed Paper definitely, and thereby disagrees with the statement in the Standard Catalogue.

While on this subject, let me point out that, in my opinion, the Specialized Catalogue is in error in listing the 2 cent vermilion and the 5 cent blue of the 1875 printings on Ribbed Paper.

As was shown in my first article, the Continental Company undoubtedly printed on the Ribbed Paper only in 1873 or, at the longest, in 1873, and the early part of 1874, and I have never seen the slightest evidence that this paper was used in 1875.

The American Hard Paper, which was probably used in 1880, or possibly in 1879-80, has an appearance on the back slightly like the ribbed paper, and many collectors and dealers have confused the two. Wiley, for instance, in his early work, described this American Hard Paper as the "Two-One Ribbed Paper," but he corrected his error in a subsequent article.

I believe that the cataloguers, in listing the 1875 printings on Ribbed Paper have confused the 2 cent Vermilion and 5c Blue printings on American Hard Paper with the Continental emissions and I hope these two listings will be removed from the next edition of the Specialized Catalogue.

The next article in this series will treat of the different shades of the Three Cent Green printings on both Horizontally and Vertically Ribbed paper.

ADDITIONAL AIR MAIL SERVICE

Effective with February 6, 1928, Air Mail Service will be inaugurated on two new routes to be known as C.A.M. 21 and C.A.M. 22.

C.A.M. Route 21 will operate on a round trip basis daily between Dallas, Texas, and Galveston, Texas, with intermediate stops at Fort Worth, Texas, and Houston, Texas.

C.A.M. Route 22 will operate on a round trip basis daily between Dallas Texas, and San Antonio, Texas, with intermediate stops at Fort Worth, Texas, Waco, Texas, Austin, Texas, and later on the flight will be extended to Laredo, Texas; sufficient advance notice will be given when the effective date of the extension from San Antonio to Laredo has been decided upon.

The Postmasters at the above mentioned offices will be furnished with first flight cancellation stamps, and the offices of Dallas and Forth Worth will have individual first flight cancellation stamps for both C.A.M. 21 and C.A.M. 22, and if you desire to avail yourself of the opportunity to forward some first flight covers over these routes on the initial date, it is suggested that you send them as soon as possible to the various postmasters mentioned heretofore in this letter, giving such directions for dispatching as you feel consistent with their duties on initial flight occasions, which always means the handling of many thousands of individual pieces.

It is further suggested that you arrange the address on your envelopes so as to permit the placing of the first flight cancellation stamp size 2" x 3" on the front in a neat and legible manner.

Sincerely yours,

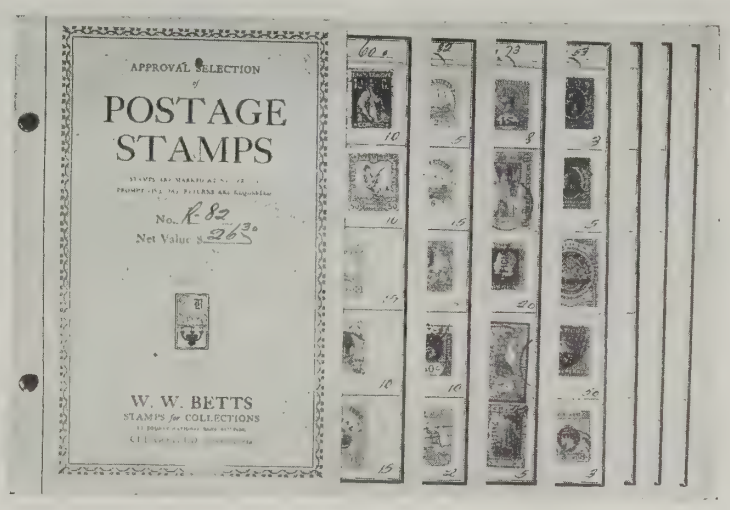
B. F. MYERS.

Traffic Agent, Air Mail Service, Chicago, Jan. 19, 1928.

NOTE:—Many have made inquiry as to whether or not a special cancellation will be used by offices between Chicago and Dallas when night flying becomes effective on that route February 1st. In connection with same, you are advised that the night flying on that route is simply a change of schedule and not new service and therefore no special cancellation will be used.

Our Approval Department

THERE'S a wonderful distinction in the approval selections that go out from here. We know of no others that so well provide the freedom of inspection and wide choice of varieties from which to choose. Each book is a group of sheets assembled for your own specific collection—a collection in itself—to be compared and checked against your own.



A Regular Collection Itself in one of these New Approval Books

If you collect stamps of the 20th century you will be delighted with this service. Write for your favorite country or let us send you a general selection. Kindly give references.

United States Desired

At the recent Hurd Sale, I was the largest purchaser by far, in value, and took between a fourth and fifth of the sale. If superb rare things only are considered, I possibly purchased about 65%.

I simply mention this fact, to show that I am in the market to purchase fine United States stamps at the highest market prices. Most of the finest things in the way of United States items that have come upon the market in the last two to three years have passed through my hands, and this is not a boast or an exaggeration. It is my desire to impress upon the collector or dealer with rare single items or collections the fact that I am interested in anything out of the ordinary. In each case, I insist on condition of the finest, for average or poor specimens are not desired on any basis, nor am I after the commoner stamps which catalogue a few dollars or less.

I especially desire fine early mint blocks and singles, unusual covers, and any of the rarities of 20th Century, either in singles or blocks. I require fine mint Departments in blocks, even the commoner varieties. Newspaper blocks are wanted, and in the way of revenues, anything rare. Not interested in minor shifts and the like, but want rare individual items and blocks.

Anything but envelopes, Match, Medicine and Telegraph stamps.

Those that are interested in adding to their collection, I take pleasure in announcing that I have a wonderful stock of all issues, and am pleased to receive want lists of requirements from responsible collectors. Stamps are priced in accordance with condition and rarity, and in writing state whether the finest are desired, or whether good average copies which run about 50% discount are wanted.

10 Cent 1847 Large Block

During October, I had the pleasure of describing in this column, the wonderful block of fourteen, and strip of ten of the ten 10c 1847 which was found on a piece of ragged cover. I was unable at that time to state as to what city used this, but have recently come into possession of a portion of the cover, from which the stamps were removed, and find that the package was mailed from "Cleveland, Ohio, June 7, 1851," and was addressed to a New England point, as previously stated. As this is, no doubt, the outstanding United States item now in existence, it was thought that this information should be made a matter of record.

Washington Notes

Under date of January 12th, the Postmaster General announced that side-wise coils of three thousand stamps of the 1½c denomination are available. These are similar to the large 2c coils recently placed on sale, and while the stamps are identical with the smaller coils, in this case the gum side is wrapped outward. They are especially made for certain affixing machines now upon the market.

As a result of numerous reports in foreign papers to the effect that higher denomination air mail stamps would be available, the Department has been receiving quite a few letters relative to the issue of such varieties.

The demand has been sufficient to warrant the Postmaster General in announcing that there is no truth in such a report, and that the Department has no thought of issuing any new air mail stamps, either of new denominations, or new stamps to replace those in current use. The Postmaster General stated that the Department is entirely satisfied with the present issue of airmail varieties.

United States Values

Mr. Willis M. Pott has gone to considerable trouble and compared the catalogue prices of 20th century United States stamps from 1923 to 1928 inclusive. During this period of five years, it is found that unused singles have advanced 98%, whereas mint blocks have advanced 91%. Used singles have taken an increase of 82%, whereas used blocks have advanced 85%.

If we consider the advance of the last catalogue over the present one, we find that unused singles go forward 43% and blocks 37%. Used singles increase 28% and blocks 30%. This data certainly is a strong argument in behalf of collecting as an investment. Recent auction prices show that there is a constant demand for 20th Century United States stamps, and it is nothing unusual to see the dealer in the auction room buy the majority of the stamps at prices ranging from 75% to 100% or more of catalogue. The greatest increases are in the perf. 10 issues, which are still attractive at prevailing prices. The 50c, which could have been purchased a few years back at one or two dollars, is beginning to approach $50.00. Numerous other stamps here and there are good buys, and one collecting 20th Century United States in superb condition is making no mistake.

Belgium. — The "Three men in a boat" Charity stamps of this country have been issued and copies have been shown us by Whitfield King & Co. Each stamp bears the word "Caritas" at the base and the name "Belgique" vertically at the left with "Belgie" in the same manner at the right. The figures of value are in the upper right corner with the added value in the lower left. Values and shades are 25c + 10c chocolate; 35c + 10c green; 60c + 10c violet; 1fr-75c + 25c blue and 5fr + 1fr purple magenta.

Egypt. — The set of three values known as the Statistical Congress commemorative issue has been received from Mr. R. Roberts. They were issued December 28th last, and bear the head of one of the well known Pharaohs of old, Amenhotep III, son of Thothmes IV. The values are a 5m brown, 10m red and 15m blue, large format, perf. 13½, watermarked crown, crescent and star, as before.

Finland. — The two values of the commemorative stamps issued for the tenth anniversary of the Finnish Independence have been received from Mr. Oscar Hill and Whitfield King & Co. They are 1½m purple and 2m blue.

Germany.—Copies of the 3pfg brown and 5pfg green in the new Official series have been received from Whitfield King & Co.

MARKET NOTES AND NEWS

By "CALABAR".

Gibraltar. — The abrupt appearance of the new £1 of this Colony has provided a fitting close to an especially active year, so far as modern Colonials are concerned. Whilst creating something of a sensation, it was not, however, entirely a bolt from the blue, for readers will recall that last October Whitfield King reported that "in a recent requisition sent to Gibraltar we included a quantity of the £1 denomination, and to our great surprise we are informed by the Postmaster that no more £1 stamps are available. We are not informed whether this denomination is to be discontinued or whether a further printing is being made, but as usual with Gibraltar postage stamps, changes are made so suddenly and without any notice that it is just likely this denomination may be withdrawn or that a new issue is contemplated. One of our correspondents in Gibraltar informs us that in place of the £1 denomination two 10/- stamps are now being used, and that local dealers have all been taken by surprise. There are practically no stocks locally." However, I fancy a good many people were caught lacking the old £1 on red paper—which, by the way, dealers are already offering to buy for around twice face. According to all signs this should turn out quite a good stamp. A copy of the new £1 seems well worth seizing on, inasmuch as a new set for this very popular little Colony is now under consideration, if not already decided on.

St. Helena.—At the time of writing the 15/- script is more or less off the market. Apparently holders are waiting to see what figure it will settle down at before unloading. So far I have seen only one offer in the London journals, viz., at 55/-. In the WEEKLY recently it was offered at $5.75—if I remember rightly—but by now this figure is of course obsolete.

Turks & Caicos. — It may be of interest to know that the entire current series (¼d to 3/-) was obtainable at Grand Turk up to at least 19th November, rumours, Catalogue quotations, etc., to the contrary.

Catalogue Changes.—New alterations to Gibbons 1928 Catalogue,—

Barbados, 3/- 1916	35/- 35/-
Leewards, 5d script	Delete prices
Montserrat, 5d script	Delete price
1/- script	1/4
St. Helena, 4d MCA 1922/23	1/6

(The above does not of course include all new changes, only the more important ones.)

THE PERSONNEL OF OUR FIVE YEAR HONOR CLUB

A Striking Tribute to the Stability of the World's Greatest Philatelic Publication

Every once in a while some stamp paper is bold enough to claim the distinction of being the one and only great paper. We should not be over-modest in our own behalf, and to substantiate a self-evident truth in many quarters, we list below no fewer than 705 subscribers who during the past four years have taken out five-year subscriptions to MEKEEL'S WEEKLY STAMP NEWS. There has been no cheapening in price and no premiums of any kind have been offered, and withal many messages of cheer and good-will have accompanied the remittances. What paper of any kind, published anywhere in the world, can claim any such record as this? We have published names and addresses with the expectation that honorable dealers will observe the ethics of the trade and refrain from sending out unsolicited approval selections. Price lists mailed will no doubt be read and publishers of stamp papers are invited to mail specimen copies.

We are very pleased to welcome to the Honor Club R. A. Dambach, Evans City, Pa., and Lewis F. Gifford, Oak Park, Ill. Their remittances were accompanied by kind words for the WEEKLY, which we certainly appreciate.

We have received from F. O. Ohlund, ex-president of the Suburban Stamp Club of Boston, the application of H. W. Rand of Winthrop, Mass. Mr. Ohlund continues actively at work in promoting the welfare of the WEEKLY and has a large number of subscriptions to his credit.

Simon A. Kuhn, Pittsburgh, Pa., in making his application, writes us that he has been upon our mailing list for the past thirty years and has kept his file from the first copy to the present. Such loyalty upon the part of our subscribers is a splendid testimonial to our paper.

We also add to the membership list this week the name of George Underwood, Jr., who is associated with the Auburn Converting Co. of Auburn, N. Y. Mr. Underwood wants to be relieved from the bother of expiration notices and we are very pleased to accommodate him. He writes:—"I get a bigger kick from your paper today than ever before."

As we go to press, the applications of Edward D. Cobb and Henry A. Kiehl are noted.

OUR HONOR CLUB

A subscriber, renewing for one year, puts it right up to us good and hard. We quote from his letter:—"What's the advantage of being on your Honor Roll that you make so much fuss about? Certainly paying five years in advance is no honor to a subscriber but rather nice for the publisher. Does a fellow get six or more years' subscription for five dollars or what? I really want to know where the 'honor' is in sending $5."

The "advantage" in joining Our Honor Club is that you have no more worrying about the expiration number and we also have no more worrying about it either.

So far as the "honor" is concerned, it is all ours. We call it "Our Honor Club" and thus far over 700 of our subscribers have honored us by joining it. You call it, sir, "rather nice"? This is much too tame a word of appreciation. We call it superbly magnificent that such a large number of our subscribers should honor us in this manner.

No other publication in all the wide world can claim a club of this kind. It is unique and there are many yet to enter who will add their contribution to the honor represented in "Our Honor Club."

SAN MARINO AND ITS NEW STAMPS

By M. A. JAMIESON.

In accordance with the decision arrived at during the Postal Convention in May, 1877, the Republic of San Marino issued distinctive postage stamps of her own in August of that year. During the intervening fifty years, the stamps of this small State have been engraved and printed in Italy. It is therefore interesting to learn that just half a century after the inauguration of special postage stamps for San Marino, the execution of two new issues has been entrusted to a British firm, Messrs. Bradbury, Wilkinson and Co., of London and New Malden.

The first of these two sets of stamps is to commemorate the unveiling of the cenotaph at San Marino, erected to the memory of the Sammarinese War Volonteers. The designs, by Professor Enrico Federici, show some buildings rising on the left of stone terraces, in the centre of which is the monument to the Sammarinese Volonteers.

It might be here mentioned that as soon as Italy entered the Great War, the majority of the San Marino population offered their services and served in the ranks of the Italian army. In addition, the people of San Marino equipped and supported two Red Cross hospitals, which rendered valuable services throughout the War, and General Diaz, Commander-in-Chief of the Italian troops, saw fit to record this fact in Italian Army orders after the severe battles on the Piave front, where the San Marino hospitals were actively engaged.

The series, which will be a limited one, comprises three values, 50 centesimi mauve, 1 lire 25 centesimi blue, 10 lire grey.

The stamps, which are being produced by the recess process, are 44 by 28 millimetres in size and will be printed on special unwatermarked paper, with perforation of standard size, in sheets of fifty.

These stamps will be on sale in San Marino on the 25th September, when the cenotaph will be unveiled in the presence of members of the Government and many distinguished visitors, including some high Italian officials.

The other stamps now being prepared by Messrs. Bradbury, Wilkinson and Co., are to commemorate the seventh centenary of the death of St. Francis d'Assisi, whose connection with the Republic had a very marked influence on the freedom of the inhabitants of this small State during the troublesome times of the Middle Ages.

The Republic of San Marino was founded in the fourth century by a religious stonemason called Marinus, who had crossed the Adriatic from Dalmatia, and he hoped to escape the persecutions of the Christians under the Roman Emperors Dioclotian and Maximian by seeking refuge upon the Mount Titano, and in the remote solitude of its summit he founded a Christian Hermitage.

The words of this humble preacher attracted many pilgrims and his good works were rewarded when the owner of the land surrounding the mountain made a free gift to him of the territory, which has ever since remained the independent State of San Marino.

A cross was erected bearing the word "Libertas," which inscription has remained through all the intervening years as the motto of the Republic of which Marinus was the founder.

Eight hundred years later it was due to a large extent to the ideals of St. Francis d'Assisi that various ecclesiastical orders settled on Mount Titano, which he himself had visited in the twelfth century, and his teachings were probably responsible for the continued independence of the inhabitants, at a time when the rest of Italy was under domestic or foreign servility.

This series of stamps comprises four values: 50 centesimi red, 1.25 lire blue, 2.50 lire brown, and 5.00 lire violet.

The 50 centesimi and the 1.50 lire show the Church of Capucini in San Marino, and the 2.50 lire and the 5.00 lire represent the death of St. Francis d'Assisi, with two monks standing on the left.

The stamps, which are being produced by the recess process, are 44 by 28 millimetres in size and will be printed on special unwatermarked paper, with perforation of standard size, in sheets of fifty. These stamps will be on sale in San Marino by the middle of October, 1927.—Postage Stamp.

I have just purchased a collection of Twentieth Century Stamps consisting of over 50,000 specimens. Every country outside of the British Colonials is represented in very approachable completeness. Every stamp is unused and consequently nearly every specimen has full gum.

Three or four big New York buyers are going to dig into this collection after which I shall be pleased to submit a hundred pages at a time to Eastern buyers.

And for the first time that I can ever remember doing so I am selling this collection at Collectors who are very advanced in Twentieth Century can probably find some of their wants by sending me Scott numbers of the stamps wanted.

Postage Stamps And Their Use As Illustrative Material

ROGER C. HACKETT, Bosse High School, HENRY A. MEYER, Central High School, Evansville, Indiana.

Scope of Philately

Before passing to the subject of specific stamps, which may be used as illustrative material and how they may be used, it may not come amiss to consider the scope of philately and its various ramifications.

Nearly one thousand stamp-issuing independent countries, colonies, protectorates, states, provinces, and cities and several big commercial companies (British South Africa Company, Pacific Steam Navigation Company, and the Mozambique Company) are listed in the index of the standard American stamp catalogue. Many of these would prove total strangers to the "man in the street" and probably not many historians and geographers could "spot" all of them. Perhaps a majority of the following would be unknown to most people: Aitutaki, Antigua, Azerbaijan, Bamra, Barwani, Benin, Berati, Bergedorf, Bhopal, Bhore, Bundi, Bussahir, Cabo Gracios a Dios, Campeche, Carniola, Cauca, Cayman Islands, Chachapoyas, Chamba, Charkhari, Chita, Coamo, Cracow, Cundinamarca, Curacao, Cuzco, Deccan, Dedeagh, Diego Suarez, Durazzo, Duttia, Ekaterinodar, Elobey, Emory, Erseka, Faridkot, Fernando Po, Gabon, Gambia, Grand Comoro Islands, Griqualand, Guadeloupe, Gwalior, Heligoland, Hoi Hao, Honda, Jaffa, Jaipur, Jammu, Janina, Jhalawar, Kashmir, Kedah, Kelantan, Kenya, Kionga, Lagos, Lourenzo Marques, Macao, Majunga, Maldive Islands, Manizales, Modena, Moheli, Moldavia, Montserrat, Moquegua, Mytilene, Nabha, Nanking, Nauru, Negri Sembilan, Nepal, Nevis, Nicaria, Nisiros, Niue, Nossi Be, Nowanuggur, Nyassa, Obock, Oil Rivers Protectorate, Oldenburg, Orcha, Packhoi, Pahang, Paita, Papua, Patiala, Perak, Pisco, Piura, Ponta Delgada, Pristina, Quelimane, Romagna, Rouad, St. Pierre and Miquelon, Santander, Sarawak, Scarpanto, Scinde, Stellaland, Sungei Ujong, Surinam, Swazieland, Szegedin, Tanganyika, Tchong King, Temesvar, Tete, Thrace, Thurn and Taxis, Timor, Tolima, Travancore, Trengganu, Tumaco, Ubangi, Uganda, Wallachia, Wallis and Futuna Islands, and Wenden.

It was mentioned that the teacher would be interested in all probability only in the designs of the various stamps in using them for illustrative material. However, the professional philatelist is interested not only in such obvious differences between stamps as those of design, size, denomination, and color, but also in differences in paper, watermark, gum, and perforation (size, kind, or lack of any). Many stamps have embossings, overprints, perforated letters or designs, and advertisements on the back and these are always of interest. Some stamps were printed tete-beche (that is, one stamp of a vertical pair upside down in relation to the other) and such stamps are highly prized. The cancellations or postmarks (varieties of ink, or of punches or perforations, designs, dates, and places) shown on stamps are also of interest to many. Some collectors also have a fancy for stamps used in blocks and strips, for stamps on the original envelopes, and for odd combinations of stamps used on one envelope, while all collectors are keen for stamps unlike the normal kind ("errors"), for provisional or temporary stamps, and for fractions of stamps used on the original envelope to denote payment of postage amounting to only a fraction of the face value of the stamp. Nearly all such "errors" and "provisionals" are rare, while bi-sected or tri-sected stamps used on the original envelope are exceeding rare.

Many collectors are interested in the way the stamps were printed—whether they were engraved or lithographed, and if the former, whether they were printed from a rotary or flat press—and in the size and arrangement of the sheets. In the early days of postage stamps in some countries every stamp on a plate was separately engraved, which meant that all differed in minor details. It thus is possible to reconstruct the plate if one be given a sufficient quantity of the stamps to work with. "Plating" has become one of the most fascinating bypaths of philately. In reconstructing a plate, plate numbers, control letters, guide lines and arrows, all of which appear in some sheet margins, are frequently of value. Some of the early stamps issued in Great Britain were quite easy to plate (if no attention is paid to the plate number appearing on each stamp) inasmuch as each of the 240 stamps on a sheet had a different permutation of letters in the lower corners, ranging, according to the special scheme, from A-A to T-L. Some of the issues had letters in all four corners, those in the upper corners being the same as those in the lower corners, but reversed. Many illustrated monographs have been published explaining in detail just how to plate certain stamps.

Enough has been said to indicate the remarkably wide range of interest of the real student of stamps and the myriads of varieties of stamps in existence. The philatelic historian's interest is even more catholic. In regard to any issue of

We have just secured, from a find, a quantity of the rare Confederate Provisional hand stamps listed in Scott's.

We have on hand at present some varieties of the "Atlanta" 10c. including several unlisted papers; also a very fine copy of the 5c type E1. surcharged 10c. We also have some nice "Milledgeville" covers, both 5c and 10c values, and both spacings of "Paid". We also have a few of the very rare "Tallbotton" hand stamps recently discovered. some of which are lsited in the addenda of Scott's catalogue.

We should be very pleased to quote prices or submit any of these on approval to interested parties.

stamps, and indeed in regard of any single stamp, he seeks data on such points as the postage rates to various parts of the world and the means of transporting the mails at the time of issue; the cause or occasion for the issue; the men in charge of the postal department at the time; the general design wanted, the essays (i.e., proposed designs) submitted and die and plate proof impressions in various colors thereof; the method of selecting the particular design chosen; the name and personal and professional data concerning the successful designer and engraver; by whom, when, how, and under what business arrangement the stamps were printed; when and where the issue was put on sale; when the issue was exhausted, withdrawn from sale, or reprinted; whether the stamps ever lost their postal value, and if so why; the number of stamps printed and sold; whether any were ever stolen from post offices, collectors, or dealers; the final disposition made of the dies and plates; fluctuations in the catalogue and auction value of the stamps; the names of specialists in the stamps or of prominent people who have owned them if they are rare; forgeries and their history; and a great many more things besides. Of course, he is also interested in the stamps themselves—the designs and their significance, perforations, paper, gum, watermarks, etc.

The philatelic historian, who pursues his interest sometimes as a vocation, but more often as an avocation, bases his work on such original sources as official records, documents, letters, bulletins, proclamations, contracts, memoranda, and personal conversations, and on such secondary sources as books, newspaper notices, and periodical articles. He is guided in his synthesis by the same rules of evidence that the orthodox historian uses, even though he may never have heard of historiography, or the works thereon of Bernheim, Langlois and Seignobos, and others. To be sure his problems of missing links and interpretation and evaluation of evidence, are not as difficult or as important as those of the orthodox historian, but he has such problems nevertheless.

The philatelic historian has not suffered from a lack of subjects or problems. Every country and colony in the world which has issued stamps has at least one sizable monograph devoted to its postal emissions. The most important countries have dozens of them. Oftentimes monographs are devoted to a single issue of stamps and sometimes even to a single stamp! The more authoritative monographs, such as those published by the Royal Philatelic Society of London, are often very elaborate productions, lavishly illustrated, and cost as much as fifteen or twenty dollars each.

The extent of philatelic journalism also offers evidence of the magnitude of the interest in philately and philatelic history. Practically every important country and colony in the world has its stamp magazines. Literally thousands upon thousands of periodicals devoted wholly or in part to postage stamps have been published in the United States alone —many of which, incidentally, never got beyond the initial "Volume one, Number one," while many others have been mere juvenile efforts or stamp-dealer house organs. Numerous stamp journals and news reviews in Europe are well established and of superior quality, whereas in the United State there are but few stamp periodicals of long life and recognized merit. Only two outstanding weeklies are in the field, while the good monthlies and quarterlies can be counted on one's fingers. Practically all philatelic papers the world over, are published on a weekly or monthly basis, only a handful appearing fortnightly, semi-monthly, bi-monthly, or quarterly. Only one daily stamp paper has ever been attempted. It was published in St. Louis and suspended publication after about three hundred issues had appeared.

Besides monographs and stamp periodicals, philatelic literature boasts innumerable price lists and advertising circulars, check lists, catalogues, albums, glossaries, "beginners' guides," and descriptions of postal systems, and also a number of books of cartoons, short stories, poems, dramas, and reminiscences, all with the postage stamp as the central theme. Philately is recognized by the encyclopaedias, the Britannica (11th ed.) devoting nearly two columns to the subject. The tenth edition contained a still longer article on philately and was illustrated besides.

The 26th Earl of Crawford (1847-1913), a renowned orientalist and astronomer, devoted the last years of his life to the making of a complete collection of everything in print on the subject of philately, and at his death he don his magnificent philatelic library, we ing many tons, to the British Mus where it now reposes.

There are some three hundred viduals in the United States who r their living entirely by dealing in po stamps, and in addition there are p ably twice as many who deal in st as a sideline or as an avocation. A n ber of fortunes of several hundred t sand dollars each have been mad dealing in stamps. Some of the l dealers have formed corporations investments upwards of a million do Such companies employ large staff experts, clerks, stenographers, bookk ers, and sometimes even traveling s men! Practically all stamp dealer both a mail order and a counter busi In some European cities there are air stamp markets or bourses. Th Paris, held every Sunday near Champs Elysees, is the best known. dealers hold periodical auctions (bi in person, by proxy, and by mail), having held over 2,000 sales altog Among the well known stamp au firms in New York City is one cond by J. C. Morgenthau, whose brother United States ambassador to Turke der Wilson. Probably the best k American stamp company, howeve the Scott Stamp and Coin Compa New York City, by virtue of the that it publishes an annual cata containing illustrations and descri of all the postage stamps of the v (except United States stamps, th production of which is forbiden by together with what it considers the ket price for good used and unused ies. It is the only American catal although most foreign countries boa several.

It may be noted here that many

HURRAH FOR UNCLE SAM ! !

The United States Government has published a fifty-four page book entitled A Description of United States Postage Stamps and Postal Cards Issued by the Post Office Department from July 1, 1847, to December 31, 1927. As the title indicates, it contains a description of all U. S. postage stamps ever issued. It gives the dates of issue of most of them and a great abundance of other information of interest to a stamp collector. You can't imagine how much philatelic information Uncle Sam has packed into this book.

Unused U. S. stamps offer one of the best kinds of investments. When you have a few spare shekels to invest, you of course want to know what the Philatelic Agency has to offer you at face value. The current list of stamps available will be found in each issue of Washington Stamp News, published monthly. Having the up-to-date list always at hand is worth the cost of a subscription. In addition WSN offers you a lot of information about new U. S. stamps and air mail routes.

Here's a bargain for you. Send $1.00 for a year's subscription to Washington Stamp News and I'll send you Free the book described above and my pamphlet describing the Philatelic Agency. I Guarantee that you'll be satisfied. If you are not, just send back the book and I'll refund your dollar, plus your postage. You can't lose.

GENERAL COLLECTORS

Your Want Lists Solicited.

When your collection reaches the age where the "boy-trade" dealer can do nothing more for you, get in touch with me for some real philatelic material.

Approval selections and want list filling are my specialties. No books entirely of very cheap stamps, and no extreme rarities in stock, but I am supplying some of the biggest collectors right along.

BERNARD E. CHARTER

elements, including that of the United States, have gone into the business of supplying philatelists with perfect copies of unused stamps at face value. There is a special "Philatelic Stamp Agency" in the Washington post office. It has been estimated (Roper, United States Post Office, Funk & Wagnalls, 1917, p. 338) that $250,000 is spent every year in United States post offices for unused stamps which go into collections. This is clear gain for the national treasury, as the stamps perform no service, and it is in itself enough to indicate the importance of philately.

United States "Educators"

This is the name we give to a series of approval books designed especially for those who want to know more about the 19th Century issues of United States stamps and who are interested in filling as many as possible of those empty spaces with stamps that are presentable in appearance and correctly classified.

These "Educator" approval books have helped scores of collectors to find the missing varieties they were not so sure of identifying, and have further given them some idea of values as governed by condition. They are priced for what we think they are worth, perhaps twice catalog, or perhaps ¼ of catalog according to the desirability of the particular specimen.

SENIOR "EDUCATORS"

Are similarly arranged, but designed for those who want only fine copies and who are willing to pay for superior quality.

Both series of "Educators" represent all 19th Century issues with considerable completeness. Ask for any particular issue that interests you, or start with the 1847-51 booklet and work through the lot.

SPECIALIZED SELECTIONS

Made up to suit individual want lists, and include varieties of cancellation, of paper, of printing, of shade. Pairs, strips, blocks, covers; whatever your speciality our stock is at your service and should be of some use to even the most advanced specialist. [H2

The above are some of the hearts that tend to make collecting of cancellations popular. These frequently come on covers dated around St. Valentine's Day—Feb. 14th. The top row shows all hearts, while the second row is made up of cancellations which came to me in neat, clean cut cancellations. I like to see a clearly struck cancel, even if it is not to be classed among the unusual and rare cancellations. Many cancellations come in that are not clear, and these I have to pass by, for I cannot well draw anything that I cannot see, and be sure of in my own mind. When a small part of a cancellation is not on the stamp, and this cancel happens to be symmetrical, I justifiably draw in the small missing portion; but when over a half of it is gone, there is not enough to make a drawing of, and I have to recognize it is something unusual; but not to be drawn till another comes in of this same design to complete the cancellation properly.

New York City used a great many four pointed stars, or star forms, in their killers in the period where this 3c 1861 stamp did postal duty. I once saved up a lot of these covers, and think that I had above 50 differing varieties of this one design.

The fourth one shown here is doubtless from Boston, and I think there was one of similar type, that was some smaller, from this same town. No. 5 is quite out of the general run of N. Y. City cancellations.

2c Black Jackson.—To continue: It is noticeable that a city, New York for example, did not use the same killer on its mail carried by a 2c stamp, that it did on mail carried by the 3c stamp. On BJ's you will find many designs hit in red that never have appeared in items sent me, or in the many thousands of covers that I have seen bearing the 3c denomination. There is the red buzz saw, the thin red stars of entirely different shape from those used on the black killers which hit the 3c stamps, then there is a fan shape killer in blue, which is not uncommon on BJ's, yet rarely, if ever, found on the 3c stamp. This is so on many of the larger cities, which leads me to believe that about all of the unsealed, and circular matter of all kinds

THE PRECANCEL REVIEW

By FREDERICK W. ALLEN, 405 Oak St. S. E., Minneapolis, Minn.

MANILA	MANILA	MANILA
P. I.	P. I.	P. I.

The Precancels of Manila, P. I.

It is with a great deal of pleasure that I am able to announce that the status of these interesting varieties has been definitely established. Both Dr. F. W. Meyer of the Philippine Baptist Mission of Capiz, and Mr. Walter Bruggman of Manila, have written me at length concerning them.

It had been reasonable to assume that the overprintings illustrated were more of the nature of controls than precancels, when an examination of all copies that have passed through the mails show an additional postal marking applied after the stamps were affixed to parcels. The real value in the use of precancels lies in the fact that they pass through the postoffice without recancelling, thus saving the time of the postoffice employees. Therefore it is hard to understand why the stamps are recancelled when they pass through the Manila postoffice. Perhaps Dr. Meyer strikes the reason when he states "About that extra cancellation? Our mail clerks out here will do anything; if they do not see the regular three concentric circle cancellation on a stamp, unused or precancelled as the case may be, on goes that horrible overprint. Such at least is proved by the mail which I have received."

Mr. Bruggman forwards specimens of each type used together with a list of firms having permission to use these precancels. I am much indebted to him for his complete summary which follows:

Type I. "Manila—P. I." in two lines. Used by: Howard Lux Co., Rambler Shoe Co., Brias Roxas. Denominations: 2, 4, 6, 8, 12, 20, 26, 30 centavos; 1 peso.

Type II. (Illustrated) "A—Manila—P. I." in three lines. Used by: C. A. Alkan. Denominations: 2, 4, 10, 2[illegible] centavos; 1 peso.

Type III. (Illustrated) "H—M[illegible]—P. I." in three lines. Used by: Hracock Co. Denominations: 2, 4, 10, 20, 30 centavos; 1 peso.

Type IV. (Illustrated) 'C S—M[illegible]—P. I." in three lines. Used by: Camara Supply Co. Denomination 4, 10, 20, 30 centavos; 1 peso.

GREEK AIR MAIL
By P. J. DROSSOS.

The Greek air mail set of four v (2, 3, 5 and 10drs.) has not been logued in any of the 1928 catalogue doubt owing to the fact that the st were printed by the Italian Air Co., which carries on the air mail se between Brindisi and Constantinople Athens. The stamps may be bo only from the P. O. in Athens.

No doubt this set will be catalo and priced in the 1929 catalogues, the facts as mentioned have been pr to the public. The December issu "Aero Field," No. 7, page 155, states this set has now been recognized as cial, in all air mail circles. The nu issued of the set was 100,000, but more than 20,000 have been released circulation up to now. The air service was begun in June, 1926. B the issue of these stamps, in Oct 1926, all letters leaving Athens Brindisi and Constantinople bore a cial cachet, "Surtaxe Aerienne Perc Numerarie," as the extra mail fee paid over the counter at the P. O cash. Up to May, 1927, all letters marked with a special cachet, Avion," but since straight and regist letters bear a different postmark to used on the ordinary mail.

Mails are carried on all stretches, Brindisi to Constantinople, and versa, except on the stretch, Const nople to Athens, as the mail from key to Central Europe, etc., takes route over Belgrade and Vienna.

Athens, December, 1927.

24 LANGUAGES--- A SINGLE SENTENCE

WASHINGTON, Jan. 27—Who would like to speak 24 languages?

Who would like to converse with equal ease in Japanese, Arabic and Hungarian?

Read then: "The ugly thug loafed at a amask-covered table on the cafe balcony Wednesday eating goulash and drinking hot chocolate with a half-caste brunette in a kimono-sleeved, lemon yellow gown and a crimson angora wool shwl, while he deciphered a code notation from a canny smuggler of silk cargos on the back of the paper menu."

He who reads that sentence aloud has spoken words taken over from 24 languages," says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C., headquarters of the National Geographic Society.

The language sources of that unusual sentence are: Ugly, Danish; thug, Hindu; loafed, German; cafe, brunette; menu, French; balcony, Italian; damask, Syrian; covered, table, code, notation, Latin; Wednesday, drinking, hot, half, Scandinavian; eating, with, yellow, wool, Sanskrit; goulash, Hungarian; chocolate, Mexican; caste, Portuguese; lemon, shwl, Persian; kimono, Japanese; sloped, back, Anglo-Saxon; gown, Celtic crimson, deciphered, Arabic; angora, Turkish; while, Greek; canny, Scotch or Icandic; silk, Chinese; cargo, Spanish; smuggler, Dutch; paper, Egyptian.

The Sanskrit words in the many-tongued sentences are the words Noah probably shipped on board the Ark, since they antedate the Greek."

METROPOLITAN STAMP COMPANY
1482 BROADWAY NEW YORK CITY

THE GREEK 10 AND 25DR, 1913

By P. J. DROSSOS, Athens, Greece.

Both of these values, Nos. 1034 and 1035, were very little used, naturally, during the years 1913 on, as the drachma was at par and the face values of these stamps was $2 and $5 respectively. Further, the new provinces where these stamps were used had, with the exception of Salonica, scarcely any use for such high values. The quantity issued of each stamp was 50,000.

During the year 1916, Russia began bringing pressure to bear on Greece to grant the Peninsula of Mount Athos in Macedonia, which is practically inhabited only by monks, an autonomous government. Everything was got ready as regard decrees, maps, etc., including stamps.

The 1913 War set and some P. D. values were surcharged with the Greek wording, "IERA KINOTIS AGIOU OROUS," which means, "Holy Community of Agion Oros" (in Greek, Mount Athos is called "The Holy Mountain"). About 50,000 sets of the 2 (1021a), 3, 5, 10, 20, 25, 30, 40 and 50 lepta; and perhaps not more than 5,000 of the drachma values were surcharged. There being no 1 lepta in stock any more, 25,000 of the 25 drs. was surcharged additionally, "Valid for 1 lepton." Thus the stock of the 25 drs. was completely used up and with the exception of a few sheets (as mentioned lower down), the 10 drs. was also completely used up.

What remained of this issue was used by being surcharged for the 1923 Revolution Issue. The P. D. values which were surcharged are: 651, 662-4, 666-673, or twelve values. However, the issue was never put in use, as with the downfall of the Russian Empire, Greece was freed from her obligations, luckily, and these stamps became useless and were either destroyed or are in the Government archives. Personally, I have seen a few of the Postage Due sets. Once, therefore, as shown above, the original issue was only 50,000, and 30,000 of the 25 drs. were used up for the above issue and it is clear why these two stamps are so rare.

The few (perhaps 5 or 6 sheets of 50) of the 10 drs. No. 1034 were also surcharged in 1923 with the imprint "Espanastasis," but owing to the small quantity, the stamps were not put on sale but returned by the P. O. It will be remembered that the 5 dr. of Crete of the 1920 issue, No. 63, of which there were a few sheets in stock, were also surcharged "Espanastasis Valid for 50 lepta" at the time and not used for the same reason.

To Users of Oriel Albums

I have 28 Blue Oriel Album binders in practically unused condition, numbered from 16 to 44, inclusive. They housed the large XX Century collection I am now breaking up. I offer the whole 28 as one lot at the cut rate of

$125.00

They have no leaves, of course, but these can be secured without trouble. The bindings are dark blue. Boxed and sent by Xpress, paid, on receipt of check. Only one set, of course.

POT POURRI:—

WE have received from E. J. Meehan, a clipping from the New York Evening Post of Jan. 20, which illustrates the five new French stamps under the caption "French Post Office Turns to Art." The illustrations are large and very attractive.

THE Fresno Bee of Jan. 15, states that M. R. Lampson of that city addressed recently the Commercial Travelers Luncheon Club, taking for his subject "Philately."

IN the New York Times of Sunday, Jan. 2, was a lengthy article dealing with excessive specialism in stamp collecting. The writer took considerable space in describing the activities of the New York auction dealers. Clipping from L. V. Beardsley.

WE are indebted to Herbert Johnson, Haddonfield, N. J., for an "Overland Mail" clipping from the Philadelphia Forward.

MILTON T. MAUCK has favored us with a copy of his "Air Mail and First Day Cover List, No. 9." It is a superb production and we recommend it to our readers with great satisfaction. It has 48 pps. and cover, and is printed in red and blue, and very freely illustrated—indeed the illustrations are a challenge to the artistic. You will be lucky to get a copy as advertised elsewhere.

GREAT interest is being shown in the Butler (Pa.) Philatelic Society. Election of officers was held Jan. 18, and the following officers were elected: Pres., V. K. Oestvling; Vice-Pres., R. B. F. Regal; Sec., T. Robert Vogeley; Treas., Ed. L. Smith. Would like to hear from other clubs.—T. ROBERT VOGELEY, Sec., 628 Walker Ave., Butler, Pa.

J. F. DUHAMEL of Washington, D. C., is spreading the good news of Philately by an occasional lecture before gatherings of various kinds, and especially junior clubs. More of this kind of work should be done.

THE Board of Directors of the Long Beach (Cal.) Stamp Club, at their first meeting, elected the following officers to serve the Club for the year 1928: J. Lynn Avery, Pres.; Felix M. Lindgren, Vice-Pres. and Auct.; Carlton L. Benson, Sec.; Roy G. Webb, Treas.; and Arthur C. Scott, Lib.

THE annual banquet of the Washington Philatelic Society will be held in the Lee House, Wednesday, Feb. 29, the subscription being two dollars per plate for each member or guest. Advance reservations may be secured from the chairman of the banquet committee, James F. Duhamel (900 F St., N. W.), or any Wednesday night at the society headquarters.

THE New York Precancel Club celebrated on Friday evening, February 3, its first anniversary at its meeting place, 6th floor, 35 West 33rd St., New York. President Willcox announced the launching at that time of the new Exchange Department of the Club under the management of R. J. Beck. The Hoovers held a 900-item auction and refreshments in honor of the special occasion were served. Every precancel collector in or about New York City is invited to come and see how a live Precancel Club is run.—N. R. HOOVER.

"YOUR paper is two or three weeks old when I get it here in Fairbanks, Ont., but it looks good whenever the mail gets in. I lost one copy when the steamer Northwestern hit the rocks, on Dec. 12. 2,000 sacks of mail went down with her, carrying lots of our Christmas presents to Davy Jones locker. I will be your most northern subscriber, I know, as we are 1,500 miles further north than Boston."—F. C. SCHILLER, Honor Club Member and Pres. of the Arctic Philatelic Society.

HEJAZ

The Land of Pilgrimage

The Sheik Says—

"Hejaz is not the latest wriggle in Oriental music. It's a country — a large and dusty Arabian land, bordered on the west by the Red Sea. Our eastern regions lie in the desert, whose hot and sterile sands merciful Allah has sprinkled with fertile green oases.

"Woe to man, that he has not the stomach of a camel! Along the parched trails of the interior, thousands of our nomadic people move from one watering spot to another, with their tents and cattle and beasts of burden, their wives and their children.

"Water, in fact, is the greatest need here. Wherever our people have found it in abundance they have settled and become agricultural, raising dates, barley, wheat, fruits, camels, sheep, donkeys and horses — not so much for export or commerce as for their own use.

"One thing we never raise, however, is the absurd awning-clad lover with which your American movies persistently misrepresent Arabia. Lover-sheiks do not exist in this land, and the Arabian date is confined to the palm tree. Trust them not, those movie makers: those sinful dogs of infidels, those low-born oysters, wicked nincompoops and blasphemers of the ancient holy land of pilgrimage.

"For Hejaz, as perhaps you know, is the Holy Land of Islam, just as Palestine is the Holy Land of Christianity. Here lie the holy cities of Mecca and Medina, birth and burial places of Mohammed, greatest prophet of Allah. Faithful Mohammedans (more than two hundred million strong!) are pledged to make a pilgrimage to Mecca at least once during their lifetime, to visit the great Mosque of Mohammed, there to kiss the sacred black stone embedded in the walls of the Kaaba shrine.

"Think of that! Ever since the prophet died, pilgrims have been coming here. We have the original tourist trade—in business since June 7th, 632. As many as two hundred thousand of the faithful have made this pilgrimage in a single year, bless my moneybags!

"From these perpetual visitations our country derived its name, 'El Hejaz,' which means in English 'the Land of Pilgrimage.' Blessed be Allah, who honored our desert with His greatest prophet, and filled our air with the clink and tinkle of coins in pilgrim pockets . . .

"Along our western border lies the country of Nejd, whose King is now King of Hejaz, and whose rule makes the two lands one. He reigns with supreme power, under the watchful eye of Great Britain. His name is Abdul Aziz ibn Abdur-Rahman al Faisal al Saud — his mother said a mouthful."

Had the sheik been a philatelist, he could have told you some interesting things about the stamps of Hejaz. They are large and colorful, mysterious, totally "different," covered with complicated Arabic inscriptions, fascinating to look at, worthwhile to own, and increasingly popular with collectors. For several years they have been ballooning in the catalog; they are expected to go higher in the future. This is King Faisal's fault: his conquest put an end to Hejaz as a stamp-issuing country in 1926 — a fact of pertinent interest if you are a philatelist-investor.

LINDBERGH AND PHILATELY

By ALLAN M. THATCHER.

Little has been written of the connection between Lindbergh and stamp collecting, yet it is a very close connection indeed. The collector of air mail stamps, plate numbers, precancels, first-day covers, first and special flights, and air mail covers in general, all have been at to add to their collection because of the issuance of the Lindbergh air mail stamp. But he who makes a collection of Lindbergh stamps and covers comprising some or all of these branches the one who receives the greatest pleasure. His collection holds a fascinating interest for himself and everyone else for who is not interested in the "Flying Colonel?"

The lure of the chase is there with its charm and the glorious triumph when that elusive cover is finally "landed," like a great sea monster with whom the fisherman has battled for hours and conquered at last, worn out, but victorious. Value is not lacking, either. Only five or ten of some covers exist, and lucky are they who can secure these rarities. No Lindbergh covers are over two years old, and so they are not impossible to secure, but the time to get them is now, for before long they will be unobtainable at any price. Even now many are very scarce, yet this should not discourage us, but rather serve to make us strive the harder to secure the missing ones.

As most of us already know Lindbergh carried the mail between St. Louis and Chicago, when Contract Route number two was inaugurated on April 1926. (Covers from St. Louis to Springfield were carried by Pilot Love, a friend of Lindbergh.) Naturally these possess an exceptional interest for the collector of Lindbergh covers. Some of these were autographed, and fortunate are those who have one in their collection.

The next cover in our album will be dated over a year later, during which time Lindbergh will have electrified the world by his trans-Atlantic flight, and aroused the admiration of all the people of the earth, not only because of his superb flight, but also on account of his simple and modest manners in the presence of European royalty. The date is June 11, 1927, the day the hero returned to Washington. The covers are two, one from the U. S. S. Memphis, the ship nat brought Lindbergh home, and one ent by air to New York City, bearing ne official cachet authorized for use on Lindbergh Day" in Washington.

On this same day Lindbergh was pre-ented with the first copy of the new amp issued in his honor, and depicting ne other half of "We." On June 18th, ne stamp was first placed on sale in our cities, viz., Washington, Detroit, St. ouis, and Little Falls, Minn. These rst-day covers will naturally occupy a ominent place in our album. A few her June 18th covers exist because amps were bought and sent from other ties. These are very rare in most ses, as few were prepared.

Other post offices soon received their upplies of the new stamp and first-day overs from various cities deserve a place our collection. These, too, are scarce nd very hard to find.

On July 20th Lindbergh started his ur of the country under the auspices f the Guggenheim Fund. He left New ork City, not to return until three onths and three days later, after hav-g visited 85 cities in 48 states, and fly-g over 22,000 miles without mishap. It our ambition, as collectors of Lind-rgh covers, to secure a cover from ch of these 85 cities, cancelled with e date of his arrival. It is a tremen-us task and one that will require our most efforts, but the thrill of getting e we lack will more than compensate for our labors.

Many of these cities used official or mi-official cancels, and this greatly en-nces the attraction and beauty of these vers, especially since they exist, in me cases, in several different colors. s far as I know there is no complete llection of these in existence. I, my-lf, have all but nineteen, and would be terested in hearing from others who ve large collections.

Lindbergh's trip to Mexico, Central merica, and other southern countries is ing eagerly followed by everyone, es-cially by the Lindbergh cover collect-s. It is almost impossible to obtain covers from these countries with the date of his arrival, but those who do secure a few have something of great value and interest. Several of these countries have just issued special Lindbergh stamps which will make a fine addition to our collection.

And so you see the tremendous possibilities of a Lindbergh collection. It is intensely interesting, and the covers possess a wonderful historic value, to say nothing of their money value. But I am not collecting them on account of their money value, I am collecting them because of my admiration for Lindbergh and my love of stamps. Viva Lindbergh!

UIHLEIN'S MUSEUM GIFT

(The Milwaukee "Journal" of Tuesday, Jan. 24, contained the announcement of the gift of a very valuable stamp collection to the Public Museum of that city. We are indebted to C. S. Leinbach for the following clipping, which will be of more than ordinary interest. This gift by Mr. Uihlein is a most public-spirited one, and the philatelists of Milwaukee may well be proud of this addition to the attractions of the Museum.—W. O. W.)

William J. Uihlein, 717 Shepard Av., one of the most zealous and widely known stamp collectors in the country, placed his entire collection at the disposal of the public museum Monday.

The only other collection so complete or valuable is that at Washington, D. C., in the National museum, Dr. S. A. Barrett, director of the public museum, said Tuesday. He made no estimate of the financial value.

Some idea of the collection's size can be gained from the exhibition case which will be 48 feet long and will hold approximately 3,600 stamps. Dr. Barrett stated that the case would not be ready for at least four months.

Mr. Uihlein has been a life long collector of stamps. His collection contains some of the earliest stamps in existence.

The Uihlein collection's value has been estimated at between $150,000 and $200,000. One rare page of the collection is valued at $2,710.

Argentine Republic

There have been so many changes in the 20th stamps of this popular South American country few have been in use very long. Most collectors miss some of these items and we advise filling in before the scarcity of many of them is fully realized. Very few cost any money as yet. This sign (*) means unused, others used.

EDITORIAL

The special stamps issued by Panama in honor of Lindbergh's visit were received just too late for attention in this column last week. The stamps were sent under date of January 9, 1928, by Mr. A. W. French, who says that they were prepared in the newspaper office of the Star & Herald in Panama, from the designs of a Panama artist. Stamps to the number of 300,000 of the 2c red, and 150,000 of the 5c blue were printed at the Panama Canal Press, Mt. Hope, under supervision of the Canal Zone and Republic of Panama postal officers on bank note paper; and they were not gummed owing to the lack of facilities for the purpose. The plates were zinc etched in the plant of the Star & Herald, as mentioned. While the artist's designs must have made a good showing on paper, yet they did not loan themselves well to reduction to the area of a stamp, especially in the case of the 2c. The 5c shows the map of Panama with airplane with the inscription underneath, "Homenaje a Lindbergh". (Homage to Lindbergh); and the 2c is somewhat crowded with detail with the plane and scenery in the center of the upright rectangle and the Lindbergh inscription below is not easily discernible. However, the stamp is surcharged in two lines in black, "Homenaje a Lindbergh," for easy identification. The stamps were made in a hurry and this fact coupled with their process of manufacture must be taken into consideration in any critical estimate of the issue, which is printed on safety paper, that is, lined and tinted paper.

Under date of January 19th, the newspaper announcement is made from Washington that the Representative of the twelfth Indiana district, David Hogg, introduced a bill in the House of Representative under the provisions of which the postmaster general would be authorized to issue a special two-cent stamp in commemoration of the sesquicentennial of the exploit of George Rogers Clark in winning the Northwest Territory. The clipping was sent in by Mr. E. W. Datermann of Vincennes, Indiana, who says that the celebration to be held in his old city in commemoration of Clark's victory at Vincennes in February, 1779, will be national in scope. Too, Mr. Datermann quotes from an editorial in the Washington, D. C., Post: "George Rogers Clark, the 25-year-old Lindbergh of the revolutionary war whose victory over the British at Vincennes, Ind., in February, 1779, forever ended England's dominion over the west, is to be fittingly remembered on the 150th anniversary of the capture of Fort Sackville, at Vincennes, on the banks of the Wabash."

The newspapers have been carrying notices of the Cuban special Lindbergh stamps, consisting of five thousand (as some of the reports read) of the five cent air mail printed in red with the surcharge in black, "Lindbergh, January, 1928," as Anglicized. The effect of this advertising has caused inquiries to be received from some who, while not stamp collectors, are interested in air mail stamps. In this connection it is noticed that in Chicago a society has been organized with a membership of some thirty men; and among them are those whose affiliation with philately is only secured by the air mail issues.

A letter to the editor of the New York Times from Mr. Malcolm H. Ganser, Norristown, Pa., is published in that paper, in which Mr. Ganser seeks to enlist support of the proposal to issue a stamp to commemorate the Valley Forge Encampment. This celebration has begun and, the plan suggested by the writer provides for an issue of a two cent stamp to be placed on sale between now and June 18, 1928, the 150th anniversary of the evacuation of the camp by Washington. Mr. Ganser says: "It might as well be said, however, that the department is never particularly anxious to make these special issues, but if sufficient public interest is manifested, and the outstanding character of the event is impressed on the Postmaster General, he can be induced to create the issue." Consequently, Mr. Ganser advises that those in favor of the issue notify the department.

Mr. K. C. Park of the Lansing State Journal, Lansing, Michigan, has sent us literature issued by the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, Washington, that stresses the need for postal legislation that would revise the present rates. The present postal rates according to the committee in charge of the movement are inequitable in some respects. As Mr. Park says, "the 'fractionals' may not always be with us" as it is evident that much attention will be given to the question of revision; and it is possible that the "fractionals" will be doomed by some turn of the wheel.

In the Chicago "Daily News," John Gunther, of its foreign service staff has an interesting story of the secretly printed stamps of Macedonia, with illustrations of five of the labels, one of which shows a map of this country that does not exist in a political sense. There is a revolutionary post office, but the stickers on the envelopes, which are smuggled in by hand, bear no denomination; and it is said that the finishing touch given by a stamp on a letter appeals to the loyal Macedonians.

In a letter that came from Mr. P. J. Drossos, Athens, Greece, he says that the occasion that was commemorated by the three new Egyptian stamps was the Statistical Congress that opened at Cairo on December 29, 1927. As is known, the three values, 5m brown, 10 red and 15 milliemes blue are stamps of striking appearance that represent, according to Mr. Drossos, an old statue of King Amenhotep III (1411-1375 B.C.), who was the first king of Egypt to take a census of the country. The total number of sets issued is 202,000, plus 100,000 stamps of the 5m, and the postal validity of the issue will cease on April 1, 1928, indicating that their life will be the proverbial short and merry one. Egypt is almost too forward in a philatelic sense and though a cradle of antiquity certainly has new ideas.

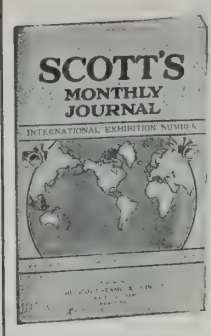
The recent robberies in New York and those that have been reported from other cities have forcibly brought to mind the growth of offenses against dealers. Comments based on the necessity of eternal vigilance on the part of dealers and other stamp handlers in a public sense were made in these columns from time to time, and it is now incumbent on all of us to realize that the happy-go-lucky method of stamp treatment is passing. We have the privilege of quoting an active police worker who has some idea of philately and who was asked about the robberies. Here is the essence of his remarks. The stamp thief works alone, no doubt, although he may have the co-operation of those who may survey the lay of the land for proposed forays. Still, if it is sensed that easy money results from the lone worker's thefts, he may become the nucleus of a gang that as they realize the possibilities of stamps will become the more finished in their operations. Yet, the leading spirit in the band has some idea of stamp usage. The difficulty that is serious in disposing of stamp loot has been depended on to make robbery risky, but it is likely that organized effort in selling the hot stuff may have overcome the obstacle to some degree. As preventive measures against further depredations, it would seem that "fences," if there are such, be smoked out. Stamps should guarded in the way that anything eas convertible into money should, because their portability; they may repres much value in small volume. Punit measures for the guilty, if caught, a requirement of course; and as it is long lane that has no turning, it is o a question of time, if the thefts persisted in, before a crook or two is the toils. Our informant says that speaks in a broad sense and does attempt to cover the isolated instance.



FOR COLLECTORS ONLY

If stamp collecting is your hobby, you want Scott's Monthly Journal. In it every form of collecting, from the most closely defined type of specialization to the enthusiastic activities of the junior, are comprehensively covered.

Editorially, the serious, interested collector, no matter what his age or degree of advancement, will find the Journal all that he could ask for.

As an accessory to the Catalogues in the important business of listing stamps as they appear, the Journal stands alone, for, as the Standard and Specialized U. S. Catalogues list annually, the Journal, as their supplement, lists the new issues month by month as they appear.

As an economy, the active collector cannot afford not to subscribe. For each month there appear in this magazine alone, special bargains of every sort, which, even if only partially taken advantage of, repay the subscription price many times over.

THE LINDBERGH PANAMAS

We are indebted to the Canal Zone Stamp Co., Emil Mizrahi and Jos. A. Stemetz, for courtesies in connection with the new commemoratives just issued by Panama. The stamps were first placed on sale on Jan. 9. The 2c is in carmine and the 5c is in blue, in the two designs illustrated elsewhere in the WEEKLY. The covers submitted by the Canal Zone Stamp Co. and Emil Mizrahi bear carmine cancellation, but the Steinhart cover shows the cancellation in green purple. In addition to the regular circular marking is the following in diagonal: "National Postage in Honor of Lindbergh."

STAMP MARKET TIPS

By "THE SEER OF NASSAU STREET."
(DR. CARROL ASHBROOK JACOBS.)

The "Best Things" of 1927.—My faithful readers will recall that I predicted certain rises at the beginning of last year, and I am glad to say that every one of my market tips proved lucky for those who took advantage of them. To touch briefly—it may be remembered that last May, I advocated buying the 4d Script of St. Vincent, in the new scarlet color. Almost before my advice was in the press, the color was abruptly changed, and everyone knows the sensational soaring of this stamp—a pair in Mr. Morganthau's recent sale fetched $22.50. For 1928 I am going to advocate certain stamps which, in my opinion, are bound to soar.

Malta.—It may not be generally known that the design of the 10s current issue has given some offense and is due for an immediate change. I understand on reliable information that the authorities of the Irish Free State have protested the design as, despite the inscription, the stamp is generally taken in Ireland to represent St. Patrick. I would advise my readers to "fill the gap" without delay.

Hong Kong.—Despite the sharp rise in the 18c Script, I counsel immediate purchase, up to double catalog or more. A whisper has reached me that an eminent specialist in Darien, Conn., discovered certain errors in a sheet of this stamp, and at once issued orders to buy up the issue so far as possible. It will be recalled that a small block in the last Voorhees' sale made the astonishing price of $11.30—and the end is not yet. Look to it, brethren!

Bahamas.—I am able to state on authoritative information that the 4s Script in green and carmine, issued in December, is very shortly to change both paper and colors. A half-dozen of this stamp will prove an excellent investment; indeed, I confidently predict that it will run the 10s Waterlow Nauru a close second in rarity. While I mention Nauru, I must caution my readers against buying the dark De La Rue print for the Waterlow, as I was recently offered two such copies in Nassau Street, with full guarantees, etc., and more of them appear to be coming out.

For my Best Thing of the Month, I am going to present to you the 500 Rupee Mauritius just issued. I have it most reliably that within a month this stamp will be withdrawn, and urge my readers to lay by a sheet of it without delay.

THE PLUMRIDGE AUCTIONS

Elsewhere in this issue is an advertisement of the forthcoming auction sales of Plumridge & Co., London. The famous collection of E. H. Collins, formerly treasurer of the Royal Philatelic Society, is to be sold, and it is considered one of the finest ever put upon the market. We are glad to have the firm back with us after an absence of several months.

U. S. 3c 1861 For The Specialist

We have just brought to light an original unpicked lot of this stamp, over 20,000 of them. A casual examination shows the lot to be rich in colored, odd and town cancellations, and about 10% to 15% grilled. These should not be confused with the so-called "unpicked" lots occasionally offered of this stamp, as these came from an old stamp collector, not a modern philatelist, and hence are guaranteed absolutely unpicked in all senses of the word. While they last we offer them at $25.00 per 1,000 just as they run. Cash with order unless you are known to us. [35c

Chang on New China Issues

Those Chinese circles which fear that Marshal Chang Tso-lin, Peking's dictator, will proclaim himself as the first Emperor of a new dynasty, and those circles which fear that he will not do so, are alike interested in the announcement that new postage stamps are being engraved bearing the marshal's likeness. They will be in denominations of 1, 4 and 10 cents, and $1. The likeness has been approved by the marshal himself.

Nyassa

By HENRY MAYFIELD, JR.

A very pretty set is the Postage Due Set of Nyassa. Although the set was speculative, it looks very attractive in the album. It is claimed that some were sent to Nyassa, but for the most part they were sent direct to dealers.

The stamps are triangular in shape up, an upright oval in the center. Across the bottoms are the words, "Companhia do Nyassa." On the right side is the inscription "A Receber," and on the left "Porteado."

In the oval on the first two values is a picture of a giraffe and palm trees taken from the regular 1921 issue. On the 2 and 3c is the picture of a zebra. The boat of Vasco da Gama is shown on the 5c, 6c, and 10c, while da Gama's portrait is shown on the 20c and 50c. All the last center designs were also taken from the regular 1921 issue.

Common Stamps

Don't despise the common stamps. Many of the specimens now judged to be of great value were once regarded as common. It is never possible to foretell exactly which stamps are likely to be valuable. It is only possible to guess that this stamp will have but a short life, and that one will not be much used. Our primary interest is in stamps, not exclusively in rare stamps. The market values may vary from a farthing to a fortune apiece, but a stamp's a stamp for a' that.

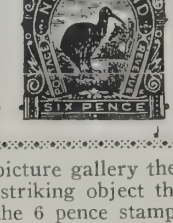
It need not matter to the young collector whether his stamps are likely to yield a big return by way of investment. Rather is it better for him to get the fullest pleasure out of present possession, by learning all he can about them, by arranging them nicely, and by striving always after more stamps and more knowledge.

Knowledge of stamps begins with the common varieties. It is easier far to get a useful acquaintance with the rarer stamps by thoroughly studying the common ones in our own collections. If you have more than a nodding acquaintance with the Tom, Dick, and Harry stamps, which, having been used in large numbers, are within everybody's reach, you will readily "spot" some out-of-the-ordinary variety when you see one, and will know how to look it up in your catalogues.

The eye-practice that is necessary for the appreciation of shades and colour varieties comes from the study of the common stamps, and it is only by much familiarity with such stamps that colors become memorised. Such stamps are equally good material for training the eye to observe differences of detail.

All who would extract the best fun and interest from stamps will lay the foundations of their collections with the common stamps. None but the gilt-edged fop would look with contempt upon the 15 centimes French and the 10 pfennige German et hoc genus omne in the schoolboy collection. For on these common but solid foundation stones have been erected some of the most important works in philately.—Guide to Stamp Collecting.

JUNIOR STAMP STUDIES



THE APTERYX
New Zealand A26
1898-1908, 6d

In New Zealand's picture gallery there is probably no more striking object than the one depicted on the 6 pence stamp—the famous apteryx, the wingless and tailless bird. It was first described in 1813, but it was not until 1851 that a living specimen was brought to England, where it excited much curiosity or it is the diminutive survivor of an ancient family of which the giant moa, standing eleven feet high, was the largest.

The native Maoris call the bird the kiwi, or more generally kiwi-kiwi in imitation of its call. It is nocturnal in its habits and this penetrating cry is heard in the evening or early morning, while throughout the day the bird is rolled up in a ball, asleep. In size the kiwi is not far from our domestic fowls, but unlike them, the hen bird is larger than the cock. This curious fact is partly accounted for by the extraordinary size of the egg, whose section measures about five inches by three inches and which is almost one-quarter the bulk of the hen's body. Generally but one egg is laid annually, in a depression in the ground, and the hatching is done entirely by the cock. When the young one breaks the shell it is well grown, well feathered and able to look out for itself. But the main peculiarity of the kiwi is in its form. A round body with no visible wings or tail, massive legs and feet, and a very long curved bill. To be sure their anatomy show rudimentary wings and tail, but these appendages have practically disappeared through ages of disuse. This loss of flight-power is compensated for by the massive legs and great strength of the feet which enables them to run very swiftly.

"Country" Etymology

France. Empire of the Franks, the free.

Germany. (Deutchland). The old high German dintic, thindisks, "related to the tribe to the people" (diot and thinda). At one time our ancesters called themselves thus in contradiction to the inhabitants of the Roman Empire whom they called Welsh (Wales, Galen and Gauls) as foreign to themselves. Hence Germany (Deutchland) the "land of the Germans"—(Deutche). —Ill. Briefmarken Jour.—Am. Jour. Phil.

Interisland

This inscription appears upon most of the type-set 1c, 2c and 5c stamps for the Hawaiian Islands which were used for internal postage from 1859 until 1866.

How to Buy—No. 2

Older juniors can try auction sales. By asking for the catalogues of various auction sales which you see advertised, it is possible to compare them and buy stamps which are otherwise unobtainable. Combination lots, that is, lots containing several countries, can be obtained at good discounts from catalogue. Rare stamps bring much higher prices, often over the catalogue value.

If you live in a seaport town, you have plenty of opportunity for obtaining stamps free. Foreign consuls, steamship agencies, import and export firms, banks and oriental rug merchants receive foreign mail, and most of them will allow you to have the stamps. By obtaining stamps by this method, you manage to keep up with the current issues and provisionals and commemorative sets at little cost to you at all. Newspapers sometimes receive letters from foreign correspondents, and if you don't know what to ask, write a letter to the managing editor, and he'll probably be glad to give you the stamps.

"M.W. B." on Gt. Britain

"I have a copy of Great Britain surcharged M.W.B. Will you please tell me, through the Junior Department, what dependency or private company this is from?"—M. D. RUBIN.

"The initials on the stamp, I have no doubt, are the initials of some firm in England, a number of large users of stamps are allowed to stamp their initials across the stamp to prevent their pilfering in the offices, and this must be one of these. They have no value for any kind."—C. J. P.

Trinidad and Tobago

By HENRY MAYFIELD, JR.

The simplest stamp issued by a British Colony in the twentieth century is the Red Cross Stamp from Trinidad and Tobago. (Scott's No. 51, $7.50.) This stamp was allowed to pay postage for one day only, on September 18, 19[illegible].

The stamp is unwatermarked and perforated 12. It is printed in red and allowed to be used as a half penny stamp.

D.—We keep those we can't sell.

C.—Quite! You don't give them away. I fancied it. I wish to purchase one.

D.—One? Which?

C.—Oh, a blue one to go with my boudoir scheme.

D.—We have several.

C.—How much?

D.—All prices, from a fraction of a penny up to £2,000.

C.—Dear me. Avaricious?

D.—No. Maur-itius

C.—Someone must have sent a Dreadnought as a valentine.

D.—On the contrary, it frank on the letter.

C.—Frank! Positively candid—a love letter! My wife writes reams and reams but that writer must have suffered from scribbling-itch, and badly too.

D.—Not unduly prolix! it only cost him or her twopence.

C.—And you ask but £2,000: sale is doubtless—kindly indicate the direction of the bargain-basement.

D.—We have others.

C.—What about that one there?

D.—You mean the Kashmir?

C.—No, No, laddie, the Shah with the Nankeen motif.

D—I don't get you.

C.—I'm here to see that you don

Private Perforations.—Applied to perforate stamps unofficially as a matter of private convenience in separating labels one from the other. The varieties most frequently met with are those made in the United States by various concerns for use in the coil machine of different patterns.

Patina.—This is a city of Turkey and its name with certain Turkish character is found on Turkish stamps that are overprinted to commemorate a visit of the Sultan to Rumelia in 1910.

Pro Fondazione Studio Lire 5.—The inscription on a set of "charity stamps" issued in Fiume in 1919. It may be freely translated as "5 lire for the Benefit of the Educational Fund." This fund was for the assistance of students in Fiume who were studying in Italy. The stamps were good for postage at their face value, but all were sold at 51 advance over face.

Pro Juventute.—A Latin inscription meaning "for youth" which heads certain Swiss stamps issued by Switzerland. The excess price above the postal value is given to the "Pour la Jeunesse" institution of the Swiss Public Utility Society to aid in its fight against tuberculosis among children. The stamps are for interior use only, but were recognized by a few nearby countries.

CINCINNATI COLLECTORS CLUB

CINCINNATI, Jan. 20.

My dear MEKEEL'S:

You should have been down to the meeting last night. It was great. The turnout was fine and there were a lot of new faces I didn't know. The meeting was postponed a few minutes due to the fact that one member had just gotten a set of Cuban Anniversaries and Newfoundlands, and everybody was more interested in looking at them than hearing minutes. After John Cost, the vice-president, had pounded on the table with his fist, and ruined the varnish, for fifteen minutes, someone looking at the stamps remarked that there was a lot of noise going on in the room. Well anyway the meeting got to order and was speedily disposed of. No one could think of any new or old business because of worrying over the prizes to be given later.

The first game was trying to guess what country some stamps pasted on cards came from. There were parts of stamps missing. Whoever furnished those sure had a bunch of bad ones. Then we were each handed a list of questions composed by Elmer Pierce. His motto is "Better Prizes and Harder Questions." The funny part of it is they were all simple enough questions (all on U. S.) like, is U. S. Postage or United States Postage on the 5c Ericcson. There was some awful wild guessing. Some lad who answered more right than anyone else got a U. S. 5c red error in a block. Elmer P. was going to give $10.00 to anyone who answered every one correctly. Even Doc., you know Doc., said what the heck kind of questions are these and with a supercilious air, laid them down and said, "We'll let the youngsters try these. Well, it was great.

Yours truly,
JAY BEE.

STAMPS AND ACCESSORIES

Our extremely large and comprehensive stock, as well as our services, are at the disposal of serious collectors. We feel that we can supply many items missing in most collections, ranging from the commoner stamps to the great rarities; thus we solicit your patronage and would welcome a visit.

Furthermore, it is our belief that suitable accessories play a most important part in philately, and for this reason we are marketing the following two articles:

A daylight lamp which furnishes a perfectly diffused blue-tint light from which all glare is eliminated, and which gives the same effect as daylight. It is the perfect light for color matching. The lamp is manufactured in five models, with a price range of $6.50 to $14.00.

A magnifying glass, eight power, manufactured by Steinheil, which is so nearly achromatic and anastigmatic that it has proved itself far superior to any that we have examined. Some of the most prominent Collectors have purchased this magnifier from us. We are offering this glass at $12.00.

"BATTLE OF MONMOUTH" STAMP

We are indebted to E. J. Meehan and C. J. Preisendorfer for clippings from New York papers giving the particulars of a proposed movement to issue a stamp to commemorate the anniversary of the battle of Monmouth. The clippings vary a little in their text, but the following gives the particulars:—

FREEHOLD, N. J., Jan. 23.—Congressman Harold Hoffman of the Third District said today he would endeavor to gain Federal recognition through a commemorative postage stamp of the Battle of Monmouth, the 150th anniversary of which will be celebrated here next year.

Mr. Hoffman would have Molly Pitcher, heroine of the battle, the central feature of the stamp.

United States Desired

At the recent Hurd Sale, I was the largest purchaser by far, in value, and took between a fourth and fifth of the sale. If superb rare things only are considered, I possibly purchased about 65%.

I simply mention this fact, to show that I am in the market to purchase fine United States stamps at the highest market prices. Most of the finest things in the way of United States items that have come upon the market in the last two to three years have passed through my hands, and this is not a boast or an exaggeration. It is my desire to impress upon the collector or dealer with rare single items or collections the fact that I am interested in anything out of the ordinary. In each case, I insist on condition of the finest, for average or poor specimens are not desired on any basis, nor am I after the commoner stamps which catalogue a few dollars or less.

I especially desire fine early mint blocks and singles, unusual covers, and any of the rarities of 20th Century, either in singles or blocks. I require fine mint Departments in blocks, even the commoner varieties. Newspaper blocks are wanted, and in the way of revenues, anything rare. Not interested in minor shifts and the like, but want rare individual items and blocks.

Anything but envelopes, Match, Medicine and Telegraph stamps.

Those that are interested in adding to their collection, I take pleasure in announcing that I have a wonderful stock of all issues, and am pleased to receive want lists of requirements from responsible collectors. Stamps are priced in accordance with condition and rarity, and in writing state whether the finest are desired, or whether good average copies which run about 50% discount are wanted.

Valley Forge Stamp

While the Department has received upward of fifty suggestions for new stamps during the last six months, nevertheless, so far the greatest demand seems to be for the Valley Forge variety. Collectors, as well as interested societies throughout the country, have brought to the attention of the Department the advisability of commemorating this event. It will be recalled that when Washington with his army went into encampment at Valley Forge, that we had reached a point of discouragement when there was every likelihood of the Revolution terminating. While located at this point, about twenty miles from Philadelphia, Von Stuben arrived in America, and began the training of the Continental Army in accordance with European practices. It was here that word was received that Franklin had induced the French Government to enter the conflict, in behalf of the Colonies. When the spring opened, a new army was ready to meet the enemy, and from that point on, victory followed victory, with few exceptions.

On June 19th, the corner-stone of a Memorial Cathedral, with a seating capacity for five thousand persons, will be laid. This will be non-sectarian, and all will be asked to participate in the event.

It is curious to note that a state of the size and importance of Pennsylvania has never had one of its sons represented on the stamps of the nation.

True, Franklin spent most of his life in Pennsylvania, but he was born in Massachusetts. No scene of Pennsylvania importance has appeared on any stamp with the exception of the Sesqui-Centennial variety, which was really of national importance, rather than a State event. I sincerely trust that the Postmaster General will finally decide to issue such a stamp. It would be most appropriate to have the famous scene of Washington kneeling in prayer, and show some of the well-known soldier huts in the background. It would be different from any variety ever issued, and while commemorating a revolutionary event, would bring forward the finer aspects of the occasion, rather than the actual fighting.

Air Mail Stamps

Stamp Collecting, the English publication, mentions that they are informed that a new stamp replacing the Lindbergh variety has been issued. They are entirely in error, for no such stamp has appeared, nor does the Department contemplate making any changes at this time.

The two varieties are poorly li graphed, and in the case of the 2- it was necessary to surcharge it, in o to convey to the public the reason the issuing of the variety. This is charged—"Homenaje a Lindbergh," w translated means—Homage to Lindbe Both stamps are printed on the sa paper used in printing bank checks, 2-cent being on the paper known as change Safety Paper" in salmon, w the 5-cent is printed on green "Ca Safety Paper." They show the u ruled lines in color, together with trade mark of the manufacturer—h blocks will be available showing the plete trade-mark.

Mr. R. S. Carter, as well as master Gerald D. Bliss, kindly sends day covers, together with the info tion given.

Costa Rica.—Mr. Frederick D. kee has shown us the 12c carmine stamp, the 1923 issue, No. 123, with surcharge of an airplane and "Lindb enero 1928" in two lines. Also the "10" has been overprinted over the ures of the original value. Mr. Ma advises that his correspondent states only 20 000 were issued, and that were sold out in a few minutes afte sale opened. Lindbergh Day covers only the regular San José postmar purple ink, dated Jan. 7, 1928.

Nyasaland Protectorate. — Mr. Roberts reports the appearance of 4sh carmine and black, script waterm Panama.—We are indebted to Harry Leonard for copies of new i issued in commemoration of the vis Col. Lindbergh. A 2c red on rose, turing an airplane in the centre wi two-line overprint in black "Homen Lindbergh" and a No. 5 stamp, blu green, with a map of the country fo central part with a view of the Spir St. Louis above. At the top is the of the country in two lines, while a base is "Centesimos de Balboa" al two lines. Figures of value are in lower corner and above the inscri at the base is "Homenaje a Lindbe The cover bears the date of "E 1928" with the added "Llegada L bergh, Panama."

Portugal.—Mr. R. Roberts sub for chronicle copies of the follo values of the Comoes set with the charge of a red cross and "Porte F 1928": 15c green, 16c plum, 25c m 40c ultramarine; 1E 20c red-brown 2E sage-green.

St. Kitts.—I have just received that last year's printing of the 2½d script, which is on chalky paper, is obsolete, the new printing of this being on ordinary paper. The c paper variety should turn out qu good stamp, as only a very limited tity was printed. Incidentally, the printing is in an entirely different s from the first script 2½d; the was pale bright blue, whilst the fo is ultramarine. Blocks of four o chalky paper 2½d are well worth se on, if still obtainable cheaply.—CAL.

STAMP NOTES AND NEWS

ELGIUM.—The new Charity stamps we issued on December 15th, five de- nominations as follows, 25 + 10 centimes, 35+ 10 centimes, 60 + 10 centimes, 1fr 75 + 25 centimes and 5 francs + 1 franc.

ULGARIA.—Two Air Posts stamps ve been issued, 1 on 6 levas and 4 e.s, by overprinting No. 191 and 192 nour catalogue with an aeroplane de- n. There is a suspicion of specula- ri attached to the issue of these stamps, bn as a certain proportion of the issue w sold over the counters of the Bul- garian Post Offices they must take their bles in our catalogue. We understand th only a few aerial mail flights were mle, when the service was suspended ng to lack of support.

INLAND.—Two new stamps have been sued to celebrate the ten years inde- bendence of Finland, 1½ marks violet, an 2 marks blue; both are of the same lesgn showing a crowned Lion holding a word in one of his claws. The stamps ar dated "19.VI.XII.17" on the left side ar "19.VI.XII.27" on the right.

RANCE.—We have seen illustrations sh the proposed pictorial designs for the ne high value stamps, 2, 3, 5, 10 and 20 fr cs. The stamps should prove very attractive, as they represent historical an picturesque features of France, in- luding Rheims Cathedral and the Arc le Triomphe. We are informed that the stamps will not be ready before next October!

RENCH COLONIES.—A new 3 francs tamp has been introduced in twenty- eight Colonies, also a Fr.1.05 for Guiana and 65c for Guadeloupe, Congo, Mar- nique, Gaboon and Oceania.

IECHTENSTEIN.—This small Principal- ity has during the past summer suffered ver much indeed from the heavy inun- dations of the river Rhine, which crosses the country. A great deal of assistance has been rendered by the Federation, the nations and the population, but the dam- age caused has been so great that it has ee decided to issue a special set of tamps to be sold at a premium, this re ium going towards the relief fund. Fo denominations will be issued, prob- bly early next month, 5 + 5 rappen, 0 10 rappen, 20 + 10 rappen and 30 + ppen.

LXEMBOURG.—Two new provisional tamps were issued on December 15th, 5 n 40 centimes orange, and 60 on 75 entimes blue, on type 10 in our 1928 atalogue.

PRU.—An aerial postal service is hortly to be established in this country, and special set of stamps is to be is- ued but we have no further details as to what the denominations are to be.

S. KITTS & NEVIS.—We have received a fresh supply of the 6d and 2/- stamps which are of a new printing, the 2/- de- nomination shows no variation either in colour or watermark, but the 6d is of a slightly brighter colour, whilst the water- mark is the reverse way, facing to the left instead of to the right.

S. VINCENT.—We have received the current 2½d stamp with script water- mark, printed in a much paler blue than previously; copies of this new shade may be had at 4d each.

SAN MARINO.—With reference to the stamps to be issued to commemorate the seventh centenary of the death of St. Francis d'Assisi and to which we re- ferred in our October Bulletin, we are now advised that the stamps are to be put on sale on January 2nd, and that the denominations will be 50c, Lire 1.25, Lire 2.50, and Lire 5.—Whitfield King & Co.'s Bulletin.

LOOKING ROUND

By "MARQUETTE".

It is a painful thing, when looking through collections, to see how philat- elists, many of whom ought to know better, are led into foolishness by their craze for buying cheaply. It would seem that for many collectors it is only neces- sary that they should see the words "one- third" or "one-quarter" of catalogue, and all caution as to the status of the seller, all thought as to whether value is being obtained, goes by the board. Conse- quently one sees a quantity of smaller collections and a fair proportion of dis- plays of some importance which are per- haps satisfactory as far as the cheaper items are concerned, but in which all the "stars" are cleaned, repaired, or other- wise tampered with.

Though such collectors never think of paying "full catalogue" for a stamp, full catalogue bulks very largely in their thoughts when they come to sell, as they never seem to realize that, whatever criticisms may be directed at individual catalogue quotations, market value is a reality, and it is extremely unlikely that any collector, buying without special knowledge, will be able to obtain scarce stamps at less than their market value.

The only safe way of buying stamps of any degree of rarity is to buy from a dealer of repute, and to pay a fair price. There is nothing that the inex- perienced collector should avoid more carefully than so-called "bargains" in the better stamps. The pity of it is that so many collectors who think they have knowledge, are really quite inexperienced, and fall readily into the "cheap price" trap.

The £1 Gibraltar is still attracting at- tention as I write. There seem to be quite a number of people willing to pay double face for it as a "spec.," but I do not think there are many sellers. My own opinion is that the ordinary collector should complete his set of the current issue as quickly as possible, inclusive of the £1, if obtainable, but I do not imagine any uninformed speculation is likely to be profitable in this direction. (Later. The £1 stamp is now obsolete and price is rising.)

Of the 15s Script St. Helena there do not appear to be enough to go round. I have heard of five or six times face being asked for this stamp, and such a quota- tion may eventually be justified.

In Irish Free State recent interest has centred on the 2s 6d, 5s, and 10s "Saor- stat" in pairs with the wide and narrow date se tenant. Until recently the 10s was regarded as a great rarity, but there has apparently been another printing (though probably not a large one), so prices have fallen. If obtainable at a reasonable figure, a set of the three stamps in pairs should prove as sound an investment as any previous Irish high values, particularly if stamps in the new permanent designs appear soon.

With Afghanistan joining the ranks of the countries which have European in- scriptions on their stamps, some of the quite undeserved prejudice against the issue of this State may be dissipated. Every collection should include a few of the early "tigers" if only for their bi- zarre effect, and real study may be done in regard to the issues from 1907 on- wards at quite a moderate cost. Recent stamps can be collected in complete sheets, which rarely consist of more than eight stamps, and different settings and types may be noted.

Luxemburg is a country I can recom- mend for those who want to form a sin- gle-stamp collection on moderate lines. As a European country its issues have an assured future, and the stamps them- selves are for the most part attractive in colour and design, and so make a good display.

Monaco is also likely to come into favour again as a result of the approach- ing International Exhibition, and an at- tractive trio of "little 'uns" may be com- pleted by adding San Marino to your list.—Gibbons Stamp Monthly.

The Great Mid-Western Exhibition At Cleveland, May, 1928

By W. W. MACLAREN, in the Stamp Hunter.

Sometimes it is hard to start a ball rolling—and then harder still to stop it. The little Exhibition "ball" that was given its first push last April, has steadily gained impetus and size—now nothing can stop it.

Stock in the Exhibition Company is selling fast. From latest reports, over 400 shares have been subscribed, and new subscribers coming in daily.

Of the 20 dealers' booths—and there can be no more for lack of space—seventeen have now been spoken for. By resolutions adopted by the Directors of the Exhibition Co., booths will only be rented to people of good philatelic standing. No booth will be rented to anyone who has been expelled from any reputable philatelic organization.

Reservations for exhibits are pouring in, over 125 frames being already spoken for. The Exhibit Committee will doubtless be in a position to choose, assuring a very high grade of exhibits.

The Hotel Cleveland has advised our Directors that they have cancelled the charge for rent ($550.00) in view of the extensive publicity we are giving the Hotel.

Many prominent philatelists, in all parts of the country, have indicated not only their willingness to exhibit, but say they will attend the Exhibition.—Stamp Hunter.

LITIGATION RUN MAD

"Make friends with thine adversary whilst thou art in the way with him." Never was the truth of this saying proved more clearly than in the case of the Lek stamp collection and the absurd lawsuit over it which closed last week in the House of Lords.

The desire to possess postage stamps and stick them in a book is one of the most mysterious phenomena of our human nature. They are not beautiful. They do not adorn. They do not sustain life. They contribute not one jot or tittle to the comfort, wealth, charm, or beauty of existence. But they are collected, and because they are collected they are valuable.

Mr. Lek, wealthy diamond merchant of Antwerp, was a collector, and had two or three friends in the London diamond market who were collectors too, and pointed out to him the prudence of insuring his treasures in case they should be stolen or destroyed. In an unhappy moment Mr. Lek agreed, and effected at Lloyd's a policy which ultimately reached the imposing figure of £44,000.

While Mr. Lek is stopping in Berlin the collection is stolen, and though the album is recovered, many of the greatest treasures are missing, and Mr. Lek claims on his underwriters for a total loss—£44,000—less the value of the stamps recovered. The underwriters' assessors, who are apparently satisfied with the bona fides of the loss and the claim, ask for a list of the stamps lost, and the replies given to their questions raise grave doubts in their minds as to the true value of the collection and the stamps that Mr. Lek really has lost.

LONG COURT ACTION

The doubts deepen, but, without prejudice, they suggest to Mr. Lek that he should accept from underwriters £18,000 in settlement of his claim. The offer is refused, and the underwriters are advised that they must either settle as for a total loss or fight. They determine to fight, and do what is usually a rash thing in a litigant—they plead fraud, and repudiate liability under the fraudulent claims clause.

A man worth half-a-million sterling charged with making a fraudulent claim for a few packets of silly postage stamps! But the charge being made the case must go on, and, first, for 30 days it is tried before Mr. Justice Branson, who gives judgment for underwriters. Next, it goes to appeal, where two judges decide for Mr. Lek and one against him. Then to the House of Lords, where two decide against him and one for him.

EVEN VICTOR IS LOSER

So in this expensive three-round contest Mr. Lek takes the count in the last round. The case has occupied some of the brightest legal minds of England for months. The combined costs are believed to amount to over £60,000.

Mr. Lek, who might have had £18,000 and peace with honor, has lost (in addition to a certain intangible asset stamp collection that he liked to with and probably about £40,000 to lawyers.

The underwriters, after receiving taxed costs and making many ene may be out of pocket by anything £20,000. Væ victis et væ victoribu is not only in war between nations victory is a losing business.—(London Economist, Dec. 3, 1927.)

BATTLESHIP CANCELLATI

By WILLIAM HORNBECK.

In the past few years the collecti United States stamps has become and more popular, and as time go each U. S. collector usually branch the regular issues and starts to spec in some sideline pertaining to the st of our country. Some go after st some blocks of four, some air-mails others plate numbers and so on.

It was quite a problem to me to something to specialize in—some that would be different and still t teresting. Then one day I recei letter from a friend who was wit Navy. His envelope caught my e once with a most unusual magenta cellation. It had the ordinary 2 stamp, but was nicely cancelled wit U. S. S. NOA handstamp and the of Shanghai, China, between two

This little missive was the orig of my plan to start a collection of t ship postmarks, and at that ti thought it an original idea, but since found out that there are man lectors going after these.

I find that these marks are very esting to hunt for although the ships are fairly common, as much is sent daily from them. At present are 69 branch post-offices listed as aboard U. S. naval vessels. Ho the most fun comes in finding a from a ship that is out of commi and is no longer in use. My coll now numbers 188 postmarks, and I mounted them quite successfully i Poole loose leaf albums. Whenev sible I place the data pertaining ship's life together with the ship' ture alongside of the postmark.

The first special cancellations naval vessels date from 1908 in year the Secretary of the Navy wa thorized to appoint 64 clerks and sistants for service aboard vessels.

The number of vessels having own post-offices has varied from ti time, and as interest in these specia cellations is of quite recent date extremely hard to find cancellations some of the older vessels which been out of commission for some

Very few cancellations dated pr 1914 are known, but as interest i side line grows there is a possibil finds being made.—Philatelic Opini was handled in a different part of the large city post offices, from the regular booths where the first class mail was prepared for sending out of the city. The killers are very different in the two rates of postage as found on covers.

Cracked Plates. — Few examples of what may be cracked plates occur on the 2c Black Jackson. I have records of but three varieties in all, and of only one am I truly convinced that it is a true crack in the plate. As there were seven plates for this stamp, the ruining of one plate would not be a terrible loss, and a different plate might be easily substituted in the printing, as we see few stamps showing the "worn plate" variety.

The one I consider a true cracked plate is easily seen. The stamp is printed in gray-black, not jet black. It is as badly worn as any of the worn plates of this stamp. The background adjacent to the word "Two," and the large "U" under the word, is very faint, in fact almost white. The crack extends right through the stamp, and if one is fortunate he should find the two adjoining stamps in time. I have never seen either however, and assume that this plate was laid aside soon after this copy I have was printed. The crack starts from the right side margin at the last little leaflet of the top acanthus leaf, and extends irregularly downward in a southwesterly direction, coming through the botton margin directly under the letter "U." In its course, it travels through the left eye, across the bridge of the nose, down through the O of TWO, and then through the wee double leaf in bottom margin near the frame holding the large U. This crack is jagged and in two parts for a small portion of the distance, for it also goes through the eyebrow above the left eye, and is a very distinct crack for almost its entire length.

On a grilled stamp (9 x 13), is a jagged line running from the margin down into the acanthus leaf at top left. This is a heavy crack, or plate flaw. It can be seen also, without a glass, and has a rather smudgy appearance. The stamp is probably a top row stamp. About 3mm of this crack shows on my copy, stopping just above the label and over the "S" of U. S. POSTAGE. It is in all likelihood a true cracked plate.

The third one is doubtless a scratch, rather than a crack, as it is smooth, and has a continuous direction, running in a sweeping line from left margin at a point opposite the dot in hair, down through the hair, and out at the bottom through the O of TWO, and then through the little double leaf at right of the O. This scratch or crack is not continuous, as it breaks after getting above the O of TWO.

Will get off this detail in next Forum. Many collectors like minor varieties, and this is for their records.

Written for MEKEEL'S WEEKLY.

U. S. 24c CONTINENTAL 1873

By ELLIOTT PERRY.

MEKEEL'S WEEKLY for December 26, 1927, contains an article on the 24c purple, U. S. issue of 1873—Continental print—by Theodore L. Behr, copied from the San Francisco Stamp Society "Monthly Bulletin," which I have read with much interest. I have taken several shots at the interesting problem presented by this stamp myself, and nearly fourteen years ago an article containing my conclusions appeared in No. 212 of the Philadelphia Stamp News (No. 6 of Vol. 5, April 18, 1914).

The gist of that article was;—First, that the number of 24c Continental prints actually issued may have been any quantity from none to about 150,000. Second, that there was no definite proof that any of the 24c Continentals printed for general use were issued for sale. Third, that the only 24c Continental print which philatelists can be quite certain was issued is the special print of 1875 on hard paper, Scott No. 175.

Various later attempts on my part to obtain a more satisfactory solution of the problem have met with little success, and I regret that Mr. Behr's conclusions do not impress me with favor. His article does not advance any reasons, which I consider would justify changing the conclusions I reached in 1914. Almost the first statement he makes will not stand investigation. He states:—

"Incidentally, all the stamps printed, but not delivered to the government at the time of the change in the stamp printing firms were turned over to the Continental Bank Note Company. Among these were a considerable quantity of the 24c stamps. However, in 1879, when the American Bank Note Company took over the undelivered stock of the Continental Bank Note Company, there were found a quantity of 24c stamps exceeding the number delivered by the National Bank Note Company to the Continental Bank Note Company. This is the fact upon which experts rely in order to prove the existence of this rare stamp."

I would like to know the basis for these statements, particularly that the National Bank Note Company turned over any stamps to the Continental Bank Note Company, and that the American Bank Note Company found any 24c stamps in the undelivered stock of the Continental Bank Note Company. I have never found any evidence to show any of the 24c stamps passed from one contractor to another. The evidence is quite clear that the National "remainders" in 1873 were turned over to the government stamp agent at the expiration of the National contract and the remainders of 1875 were from a regular delivery made to the stamp agent before July 1, 1875. After June 30, 1875, the stamp agent retained what was left from both of these two lots of remainders and they were all destroyed in 1885. There is no reason to believe any of them were ever in the possession of the American Bank Note Company.

Unless he has information different from that in Mr. Luff's book, which we are given to understand came from official records, Mr. Behr's statements cannot be reconciled with the facts. According to Luff, the balance of undelivered 24c stamps on hand when the change of contractors was made in the spring of 1873 was 581,450. The balance on hand June 30, 1875, is not known, but early in 1885 when certain remainders were destroyed, the number of 24c stamps destroyed was 364,950. As there is no record of any 24c stamps having been issued after June 30, 1875, this last figure (364,950) probably represents all the 24c stamps on hand June 30, 1875, plus any which may have been returned to the department from that date until all the remainders were destroyed in 1885.

Therefore the number of 24c stamps on hand June 30, 1875, may have been less than 364,950, but there is no reason to believe it was greater than that number. The reader will note that instead of this quantity being greater than the number of undelivered remainders on hand in the spring of 1873, as Mr. Behr may have intended to state, it is 216,500 smaller. I do not understand how any expert or anyone else could rely upon this fact "to prove the existence of this rare stamp." If the difference between the two quantities of remainders proves anything it proves just the opposite to what Mr. Behr claims.

Now let us examine the records given in Mr. Luff's book. We do not know they are absolutely correct, but usually they do check with each other, and whether quite correct or not they are all we have. By re-arranging the figures so that all are for calendar years, we obtain the following:—

STAMP AGENT'S RECORD

To Dec. 31.	Received.	Issued.
1866	1,969,875	1,969,875
1867	1,898,850	1,898,850
1868	277,475	277,375
1869	305,375	305,275
1870	217,375	217,425
1871	229,450	229,450
1872	299,625	299,625
1873	135,975*	300,625
1874	none	266,275
1875	365,000	150,075

* All National prints.

We note that in 1866, 1867, 1871 and 1872 the stamp agent issued to postmasters exactly the same number of 24c

Confederate Provisional Hand Stamps

We have just secured, from a find, a quantity of the rare Confederate Provisional hand stamps listed in Scott's.

We have on hand at present some varieties of the "Atlanta" 10c, including several unlisted papers; also a very fine copy of the 5c type E1, surcharged 10c. We also have some nice "Milledgeville" covers, both 5c and 10c values, and both spacings of "Paid". We also have a few of the very rare "Tallbotton" hand stamps recently discovered, some of which are lsited in the addenda of Scott's catalogue.

We should be very pleased to quote prices or submit any of these on approval to interested parties.

stamps he received from the National Bank Note Company, while in 1868, 1869 and 1870 there are slight differences—only 50 or 100 stamps. The records show much the same close corresponding of receipts and deliveries for earlier years back to 1863, and also for the other denominations.

In 1873 the stamp agent issued 164,650 more 24c stamps than he received, and altho he received none in 1874, that year he issued 266,275. By adding these two amounts we obtain a total of 430,925, which could have come only from the National remainders turned over to the stamp agent in or after April, 1873. As there were 581,450 of these 24c remainders at the expiration of the National contract, by subtracting the 430,925 issued from this supply in 1873 and 1874 we obtain a balance of 150,525, which probably is not far from the quantity of remainders the stamp agent still had on hand December 31, 1874.

Between January 1 and June 30, 1875, the stamp agent issued 150,075 of the 24c stamps. The only delivery of 24c printed by the Continental Company was made between January 1 and June 30, 1875, but just when in that six month period we do not know. Neither do we know whether or not all the National remainders still on hand were of the 1870 design. Study of the records in the period 1868 to 1870 does not yield positive information on this point, but negatively seems to indicate there were few, if any, stamps of the 1869 or earlier issues among the National remainders issued by the stamp agent in 1873 and 1874, and still on hand at the end of 1874. As early as September, 1869, it was known a new issue was in preparation. About this time, and probably between September, 1869, and April, 1870, a large number of remainders of various denominations were burned. Among these old stamps destroyed were 268,450 of the 24c value. The records indicate these old remainders were not part of the stamp agent's stock, but were reserve stock held by the National Bank Note Company, which had never been delivered to the stamp agent. It seems very likely this housecleaning was done in preparation for the new issue of 1870.

If these old remainders were burned in the spring of 1870, they probably included all the old 24c stamps, while if burned in the previous fall or winter, they would have included all except a supply sufficient to last until the 1870 issue was ready. This leads me to believe there were few or no 24c stamps of the 1869 or earlier issues among the National remainders of April, 1873, or December, 1874.

Assuming all the 24c remainders on hand January 1, 1875, were the Winfield Scott purples of 1870, we may subtract the number of 24c issued in 1875 (150,075), from the approximate number of the remainders (150,525), and there remains still a small balance—450 stamps. If we now add the Continental delivery, 365,000, we have a total of 365,450, which is just 500 greater than the quantity of 24c destroyed in 1885 (364,950).

This discrepancy of 500 stamps can be reconciled by assuming the reserve supply held by the National Company, and not turned over to the stamp agent until April, 1873, increased 500 stamps between December 31, 1872, and April, 1873. As the reserve supply held by the contractors never appears in the stamp agent's record of receipts whether that reserve supply increases or decreases does not effect that part of his record.

Assuming then that the reserve supply which amounted to 581,450 stamps in April, 1873, was 580,450 stamps on January 1, 1873, and adding the National delivery in the first four months of 1873 (135,975), and the Continental delivery in 1875 (365,000), we obtain a total supply of 1,081,925 stamps. Now adding together the quantities issued by the stamp agent in 1873, 1874 and 1875, we have a total issue after 1872 of 716,975 stamps, which subtracted from 1,081,925 gives the remainder 364,950, and this is exactly equal to the number destroyed in 1885.

Of course, it is possible to juggle these figures to a certain extent. We can assume a much greater increase in the reserve supply during a period ending at the expiration of the National contract, than the 500 used above to exactly reconcile the small discrepancy, but any juggling with a supposed "increase in reserve" demands a corresponding change in the balance on hand June 30, 1875, in order to reconcile with the quantity of remainders on hand in 1885.

It is clear that the "increase in reserve" cannot exceed 150,525 stamps, for if a greater increase is assume stamp agent would have had too f stamps to make up the amount he in 1873 and 1874. If the reserve was 150,525 stamps smaller Jan 1873, than in the following Ap stamp agent would have issued remainders in 1874, and would ha none on hand January 1, 1875. this case we should also have to that from some unknown sourc 150,000 of the 24c stamps someh into the remainders after June 3 since otherwise there could no been 364,950 remainders to dest 1885.

I find no evidence that any sta sued by the stamp agent ever w turned to him. He was the pos department's representative at th Note Company's place of busi New York, and it was his duty t and receive the stamps from t tractor, and to distribute them offices. Any stamps returned b masters were sent to the departm Washington, not to the stamp a New York. I have never seen a ord that indicates any of the 24c of 1870-'75 were ever returned department. I mention the above ularly because the problem of Continental has been clouded by ments that there were 24c stam turned to the stamp agent and re by him. I find no evidence that su the case.

HURRAH FOR UNCLE SAM ! !

The United States Government has published a fifty-four page book entitled A Description of United States Postage Stamps and Postal Cards Issued by the Post Office Department from July 1, 1847, to December 31, 1927. As the title indicates, it contains a description of all U. S. postage stamps ever issued. It gives the dates of issue of most of them and a great abundance of other information of interest to a stamp collector. You can't imagine how much philatelic information Uncle Sam has packed into this book.

Unused U. S. stamps offer one of the best kinds of investments. When you have a few spare shekels to invest, you of course want to know what the Philatelic Agency has to offer you at face value. The current list of stamps available will be found in each issue of Washington Stamp News, published monthly. Having the up-to-date list always at hand is worth the cost of a subscription. In addition WSN offers you a lot of information about new U. S. stamps and air mail routes.

Here's a bargain for you. Send $1.00 for a year's subscription to Washington Stamp News and I'll send you Free the book described above and my pamphlet describing the Philatelic Agency. I Guarantee that you'll be satisfied. If you are not, just send back the book and I'll refund your dollar, plus your postage. You can't lose.

FACTS ABOUT USED B. W. INDIES

By Rev. L. Meister, Holyoke, Colo.

In connection with articles by Messrs. Hill and Gordon, I might be able to throw some light on the relation rarity of used copies, since I have spent 15 years in the British West Indies, and been interested in stamps all the time.

For over 6 years I was a resident of Montserrat where I got a fair knowledge of the regular postal transactions. It is absolutely wrong to compare the negligible postal needs of its 10,000 inhabitants, most of them negroes, with any U. S. town of that population. Apart from the ordinary letters, a steamer would bring a few registered ones, mostly embossed covers with a 1d stamp on it, and perhaps ½ dozen parcels, containing worn clothes, etc., which negroes sent each other. About one-half of the stamps of such parcels were spoiled already, they were either too heavily cancelled, or torn, or too much wetted in case of fugitive ink-stamps, or damaged by the cockroaches which abound everywhere, even in postoffices, and are very fond of the chalk surfaced paper. I never saw anything higher than 6d and 1/- used on such parcels. Once the counter-clerk begged me to buy his 5/- from him. "Why, what good can it do to you?" I said. "Well," he replied, "I have it here month after month, and each time I am returning my checklist of stamps on hand, I am to mention it; I want to get rid of it." So I bought it, but got my regular supply from the treasurer. Such is the local demand for high values.

I wonder whether the P. O. of Montserrat needs more than £50 to £100 worth of stamps per annum, but the colony used to sell in those days from £700 to over £1,000 every year, according to new issues. You could get as many as four varieties of the same denominations at a time as 2/6 Leeward, 2/6 Montserrat No. 20, 29c, 39. I bought thousands of used stamps which the negroes never throw away, but it is safe to say that among 200 there was barely one 2d or better value.

The Leeward Is. were little used in those days, with the exception of Antigua, where the merchants preferred them to the larger size of their own stamps. If we depended on 2/- and 2/6 used by requirements, there would be few in this country; and as for the used 5/- Leeward, or any of that group of islands, there might be a few found in England, but none here. £1 is very handy to place on a license paper for a permit to sell liquor at a bazaar during a whole day; but it will be penmarked and you won't enjoy it, unless you had a good sale; and this is difficult owing to the saloon competition and absence of prohibition.

All these colonies simply have nothing to export, except tropical fruits, and they are not sent by mail. Mostly the weight limit of parcels is 11 lbs. only, and transport by steamers, coastwise and intercolonial, is preferable. Or, you send a messenger to town; if he spends a whole day, he costs you only 20 or 25c per diem; so why spend 5/- or 10/- postage?

I spent also several years in Trinidad and tried hard to get second hand used higher values, but without any results. A very fine used Trinidad 5/- or £- is well worth full face. The fact is that nobody has got them, and I receive numbers of applications for them. It would tickle me to get them anywhere at ½ cat. But, no doubt, some revenue stamp with just a bit of black circle of the cancellation happen to be sold as postally, used.

Quite recently I wrote to the Postmaster General of British Honduras to give me some information concerning used high values. He answered Dec. 16th by saying: "The $2 and $5 are used on parcels and as revenue stamps, but I do not think in sufficient quantities to affect the catalogues prices of stamp dealers." In the case of British Honduras, British Guiana and Jamaica with big "Linterlands" one can understand that people occasionally must have recourse to parcel post. But they are too few, and the stamps are likely to be too often damaged to appear in quantities on the market.

Intercolonial shipments of goods are reduced by the fact that each island puts import-tax on such goods. Hence, it is the better way to import straight from England. Barbados alone seems to be less burdened with tariffs and sends parcels with 2/- and 3/- on them to other islands; yet these used stamps are not numerous enough to cover the demand.

There is one outstanding fact, that nobody can prevent you from using any kind of stamps in your correspondence with your colonial agents. Several years ago, the postmaster of St. Lucia refused to obliterate stamps in excess of postage required. I referred the matter to the Under-secretary of State, England, and the postmaster was instructed to comply with my wishes. There is no such thing as cancellation-to-order. Hence, the letters must go through the post offices, and the stamps are likely to be heavily cancelled, even on purpose, in order to wean the mischievous stamp collector from his habit of troubling the poor postmaster with too many registered letters. This policy is one of the main reasons why the collecting of used stamps had to give way to unused.

I know a postmaster who told me openly: I hate stamp collectors. And he acted accordingly; he never realized that the easiest money his colony made was from stamp collectors; any negro child who asks for a 1d stamp would get 1s at once, but you send him an order with several £ cash and he makes you wait months.

Then, there is a danger that your stamps are damaged, or taken off in transit. Such losses soon eat the small margin of profit which you expect. I receive every shipment from colonies with "fear and trembling," and I sigh with great relief when I find the shipment O. K.

Of course, there is no danger that stamps will be thus used in considerable quantities; no great and rich dealer seems to speculate on used copies; it wouldn't pay him either, unless he gets more than for the unused copies. In Europe they do charge more for them. The middle dealer will be satisfied to furnish his regular subscribers and keep a few extra copies on hand. When they are gone he cannot get any fresh supply of obsolete copies because nobody speculates extensively on them. But it is a pity that used stamps are no longer so popular. If I buy a mint Montserrat stamp in England that was printed in England, what connection has that stamp with Montserrat, except the name? If I buy a used copy, I know it has been there and done some real postal service!

I may add that the number of post offices is no reliable indication of the quantity of transactions. Montserrat has but one; some uncalled for letters are taken by policemen to two rural offices of theirs, and pinned on the door posts that people may see them. They have no island post, hence you would have to go to Antigua if you wanted to mail a letter to your next door neighbour. If Virgin Is. has three offices, it is owing to the fact that it consists of several poorly inhabited islands whose people cannot all run to the S. P. O. of Tortola. But it has less postal transactions than Montserrat. Dominica, where I spent some five years, has some ten post offices, but with exception of two towns, the postmasters are the regular schoolm most of them have a date stamp supply of ½d and 1d stamps, am to a couple of shillings. Nobody of robbing postoffices there. I them about one-quarter hour to r the bi-weekly mail. I should know what made the T. Caicos so tant that their used stamps are sc The main island is just a distress of salt, with nothing growing on cept the "Turks' heads." I supp salt is more salty in some plac people send samples of salt all by parcel post?

Now, what holds good of the West Indies, probably holds gooc smaller islands in the Pacific an nies in Africa. It is not merely ter of population and post off which we may guess the use of but rather a question of what the have to exchange in goods by m parcel post.

As for the right price of all su copies, I should say that they o fetch 10 and 20% more than un still current, there is so much lat tra-postage, damage and risk co with obtaining them. But as solete copies, one can only guess. big English dealer might have more copies of a rare Montser mint but you would have to make walk from dealer to dealer, till yc used copy.

BOOK REVIEW

The Berkshire Exchange of Cummington, Mass., has just published the 1928 edition of the American Catalog of Air Mail and First Day Covers (Price, $1.). As the title indicates, it is published in the interest of air mail and first day cover collecting, and is copyrighted by Holcomb York, who sends us an autographed copy "With my best compliments" for review. We take great pleasure in heartily commending the publishers of this book for the great mass of useful data contained therein. There are numerous illustrations which add to the value of the reading matter, and the price quotations are not the least of the prominent features of the book. It is bound in cloth and the cover is adorned with a fine picture of Com. R. E. Byrd, to whom the book is dedicated.

CUBAN CONFERENCE, 1928

By HARRY E. HUBER.

In connection with the Sixth International Conference of American States, which convened at Habana, Cuba, on January 16, 1928, a special series of stamps was prepared, and issued Monday, January 2, 1928. While not superseding the regular series, these stamps will be sold in preference to it until exhausted, and the proceeds, after deducting the cost of manufacture, will be applied to the expenses of the conference.

The conference was opened Monday morning, January 16, 1928, in the National Theatre, Habana, by President Gerardo Machado introducing President Calvin Coolidge of the United States, who with Mrs. Coolidge, and the American delegation, arrived from Key West, Fla., on the U. S. S. "Texas," Sunday afternoon, the 15th.

The stamps were recess printed by the Cia. Nacional de Artes Graficas y Libreria, Habana, from plates manufactured by the Security Bank Note Co. of Philadelphia (which also engraved the dies), on star watermarked paper, and perforated 12, single line. The sheets are of 200 subjects (10 x 20), with a margin on all four sides; the plate numbers appear twice in the left margin, reading up, opposite the 10th and 20th horizontal rows, and twice in the right margin, reading down, opposite the 1st and 11th horizontal rows. These sheets of 200 stamps are then divided into Post Office sheets of 100 (10 x 10), so that stamps of the lower row of the upper pane, and those of the upper row of the lower pane, have one straight edge.

The design (common for all denominations except the vignette), in a horizontal oblong, 36 x 21mm, depicts at the left of the central vignette, a map of North and Central America and the West Indies, and at the right, a map of South America. Across the top, in three lines is "Republica de Cuba—Sexta Conferencia Internacional Americana — 1928"; in the upper corners is a colorless diamond shaped ornament, with a single star in the center. Between numerals of value (on solid color squares) in the lower corners, is "Correos—Un Centavo" in two lines. The lettering and numerals are colorless.

The inscriptions (in small colored caps) under the central vignettes (circular on the 1c and 2c, and on the others, in horizontal rectangles) and the quantities of each denomination printed (after which the plates were destroyed) are as follows:—

1c "Tomas Estrada Palma" 1,000,000
First President of Cuba, May 20, 1902 to Sept. 26, 1906.

2c "General Gerardo Machado" 1,500,000
Present President of Cuba, May 20, 1925.

5c "El Morro, Habana" 500,000
Guarding the entrance to Habana harbor.

8c "Estacion Terminal, Habana" 125,000
Terminal station of the United Railways of Habana.

10c "Palacio Presidencial" 500,000
Presidential Palace, Habana.

13c "Vega de Tabaco" 250,000
Tobacco plantation.

20c "Secretaria de Hacienda" 250,000
Treasury Building, Habana.

30c "Un Ingenio" 150,000
"Las Delicias" mill, producing the world's largest sugar crop.

50c "Catedral de la Habana" 100,000
Columbus Cathedral, Habana.

1 peso "Centro Gallego" 50,000
Centro Gallego (Club) and National Theatre, Habana.

4,425,000

On December 13-14, 1927, Col. Chas. A. Lindbergh made a successful non-stop flight of 2,031 miles, in 27 hrs., 10 minutes, from Washington, D. C., to the City of Mexico, in his monoplane "The Spirit of St. Louis." After visiting the Central American capitals, and Panama, he will fly to Habana, while the conference is still in session. It is reported that his visit will be marked by the issue of a special stamp, some present design being adapted by means of an overprint.

GETTING ON

I now have 22 subscribers to my new issue Service of British Colonials. A gain of 100% in a month. This is a de Luxe Service for particular people—a complete record is kept of distributions and any box short of some item is supplied eventually, which is quite different from the usual "hit or miss" method. I am prepared to mail the Prospectus of this Service on request, but Post Card communications go direct into that great American Receptacle, the Waste Paper Basket.

PRECANCEL CATALOGS

The publishers of the Standard Precancel Catalog, The Rotnem Stamp Co., announce a most favorable sale of their 1928 Catalogs. Altho there was an increased edition of the Catalog this year, the publisher's stocks are less than one hundred copies of each of the $2.15 paper edition and the $3.15 cloth edition. The 50c Canadian section is also selling well. This augers well for the Precancel Hobby.

The publishers have also surprised their mailing list by circulating free, a special edition of a revised Bureau Print Precancel Catalog. The edition is limited to 5,000 copies, 4,000 of which have been distributed and 1,000 of which are available to collectors not on the Company's mailing list.

The new catalog re-prices these attractive and popular government issues which have had such marked attention. They are as most of the readers know, those precancels which are printed for the larger city users of precancels direct at the Bureau of Printing and Engraving at the same operation as are the stamps.

There is some basis to the challenge that Bureau Print precancels merit classification as regular United States issues, for they are specially prepared stamps for local city usage. Many an American city Post Office serves a wider field than do many stamp issuing countries.

The free distribution of this catalog is a constructive builder for this special and very stable part of the hobby. The last precancel auction, the collection of W. C. Black, announced the following prices on certain scarce Bureau Prints.

Conn. New Britain, One Cent Coil	$ 1.40
La. New Orleans Experimental 1c, 2c	3.20
Ditto, the scarce 3c, Cat. only $3.00	25.25
Ditto, the 1c, 2c Dues	5.75
Mass. Springfield Experimental 8c	6.75
Ditto the 12 cent	6.75

EAST AND WEST:—

A WHOLESALE price-list of the stamps of Sweden has just been issued by A. B. Harry Wennberg, 5 Bromfield St., Boston, Mass. Dealers who are at all interested in the stamps of this country should ask for a specimen copy.

WE have received from J. A. C. Wilson of Houston, Tex., a clipping from a local paper, which describes the vast amount of mail matter piled up in the post-office there for the airmail flight of Feb. 6. The clipping mentions the wide variety of combinations of stamps used by the senders of the mail.

CLIPPINGS are at hand from H. A. Breuer, Chicago, Ill., and Robert E. Dunlap, Cicero, Ill. Both are identical and are taken from the Chicago Daily News of Jan. 23. A small map of Macedonia is pictured, accompanied by four labels used as postage stamps by the Revolutionary forces. They bear no values, but portray four great Macedonian leaders, all of whom have been killed.

W. W. BETTS, Clearfield, Pa., is sending out a 1928 pricelist of special sets in 20th century unused European complete. Allenstein, Austria, Bavaria, Belgium, Bosnia, Danzig, Denmark, Fiume, Germany, Lichtenstein, Luxemburg, Marienwerder, Memel, Montenegro and Saar are his specialties. Our readers interested in the above countries should send for a specimen copy. Mr. Betts has just renewed his advertising contract with the WEEKLY for 5,000 lines. He writes us that his advertisement of Jan. 23 brought superb results that kept him busy night and day.

THE Rotnem Stamp Co., Inc., have changed their office address to 545 McKnight Bldg., Minneapolis, Minn., where all mail is to be addressed. The firm is also opening a branch street store at 8 North 4th St., where they will have a complete line of accessories, packets and counter books for local trade.

CANCELLATIONS 1890-1900

By W. W. MACLAREN.

I sometimes wonder if cancellation collectors appreciate the scarcity of unusual and colored cancellations on the 2c stamps of this period. For some years prior to 1890 cancellations had become more and more standardized, and the post offices using any other color than black, or a design of their own, became constantly fewer.

One of our Cleveland collectors, Mr. Jas. H. Young, has let no opportunity go by for the past eight years to acquire unusual and colored cancellations on the 2c '90, '95 and Columbian. There are no more attractive pages in his albums than these, especially the 2c '90.

I have just finished going over a lot of fourteen thousand of the above three stamps, gathered and bundled at the time they were in use. I found less than thirty that were worth picking out—at the prices I get, it was really time wasted.

One afternoon last Fall my friend "Bi" Harris dropped in. I had nothing new to show him and asked how he would like to go over a lot of six thousand 2c Columbian that had just come in, all nicely cleaned from paper, and bundled while current. He said he would enjoy it, so we went to it—result—less than twenty worth keeping, and not one real good one in the lot.

I have during the past year gone over several very large accumulations, some running thru the 1902 issue, and amounting to tens of thousands. One of the things that impressed me was the great scarcity of the standard cancellations in any other color than black. In one lot were several on 2c 1902, in bright blue, and more recently, one on a 2c '95 in blue, but stamp damaged. If scarcity alone determined value, I would say either of these should be worth many dollars, but those I found sold mighty slow at 10c apiece.

On all three stamps the commonest fancy design is a star, usually in magenta, frequently well worn, in fact, real fine impressions being the great e tion. Next comes an initial or n gram, usually in black, being that o town or postmaster.

I am not boosting these cancella because I have any to sell, I have few, but simply to wake up my fr to their real scarcity and value, they can be had. I consider an un cancellation on any one of these st to be scarce in ratio with the follo letter rate stamps: 2c '87—3 to 1, 2c 5 to 1, 3c green, 10 to 1, 3c '61—15 to Stamp Hunter.

CANADIAN COMPLAINT

Canadian postal officials have info the Post Office Department that sp delivery letters mailed in this co for Canadian addresses are in cases insufficiently prepaid. It is po out by the postal administration of ada that fully fifty per cent of letters are prepaid only 10 cents in tion to the regular postage. The fe the special delivery of letters and ar paid at the letter rate which are dressed for delivery at any Can post office is 20 cents in addition t regular postage.

Postmasters in the United States been directed to give the widest pub to this fact in order that in the fi special delivery letters sent to Ca may contain the proper amount postage.

CUBA AND LUXEMBURG

By HERMANN FOCKE.

uba—The beautiful set of ten vale of commemorative postage stamps is-ul in honor of the Assembly in Havana of he Pan-American Congress—or as the stmps show: the International American Cgress—have come and gone, and very fe, if any, have been used for regular pcal service, although my firm had the gd fortune of receiving some of the hger values on its business mail, and frm all appearances we may expect the stamps to command a good pre-mm over face value in not a distant ire.

ccording to Mr. Avery, whose inte:sting article appeared in the WEEKLY, sme values were expected to be sold ou within a few hours, but this was a lie too optimistic, as I secured ten full se by courtesy of a friend in Havana, at the Post Office as late as January 19th, whereas my first set was purchased on January 2nd, minus the 1 Peso value wch, it seems, did not appear the same da.

Unfortunately by far the greater part of these stamps is very poorly centred, an quite a large number show one st ight edge, as the sheets were imper-fate on all four sides, the number depeding on the size of the sheets, on wch point I am still lacking advice frm Cuba. Well centred copies with pe orations all around should, under the ciumstances, be considered as really
"rae aves" and correspondingly higher in alue than the defective ones.

The authorities had evidently expected ollo their principal business in this issue the proceeds of which served to de-fr the expenses of the Congress, with fo ign collectors and dealers, as special ho ers were prepared for the mailing of the stamps, these being of oblong siz similar to the well-known approval cas for mint stamps used extensively all ver the world, each card holding two co plete sets in four rows of five stamps
eac. This arrangement had the advantag of avoiding damage to the stamps by reasing, all of my ten sets having arrived in perfect condition.

So far I have not seen any of the stamps offered for sale by our local dealers, and therefore have no idea of the market value, but judging from the limited issue, and, by comparison, the prices asked for the recent "floating mail" issues of Curacao and Suriname, not selling as high as $15.00 a set of face value of around 60c, we may look forward to stiff prices also for this Cuban set, which on account of its attractiveness should not go begging for customers.

Luxemburg—In the current issue of the WEEKLY we learn of two more provisionals issued by this little Grand-
Duchy, to which we have to add a third, the 75 centimes carmine of 1927, recently replaced by the same value in a new color, having been surcharged "60" in black with two obliterating bars through the old value.

Willson Collection

(1870-1915)

THREE OLD AND BATTERED Stanley Gibbons albums, just acquired from an English collector, contain this venerable collection. . . .

8,244 stamps, all in good condition, cataloguing $2,600.00 and offered at a bargain price!

Mr. Beginner, it will make a splendid foundation for your world-wide collection.

Mr. Old-Timer, it will economically fill many gaps in your pre-war pages.

Mr. Dealer, it will add to your stock of British & French Colonials and other popular countries, at prices which make money for you!

What's In It?

A multitude of worth-while stamps are treasured within the Willson Collection, slumbering quietly among old issues, or flaming proudly amidst the bright colors of pre-war colonials.

While some of the stamps are earlier than 1870, practically none are later than 1915.

Most of the catalogue value is in stamps which are priced between 50c and $10.00. No rarities and no rubbish.

New Europe, for example, except Danzig almost complete, is conspicuous by its absence. Low values, too, are noticeably missing.

And half the stamps are composed of British & French Colonials and South Americans — with everything in good condition but the albums!

Book I

Book I, devoted entirely to the British Empire, contains 2,826 British Colonials (with some Great Britain), including many blocks of four. All stamps are in fine condition, and the higher values predominate. Nearly every dominion, colony and protectorate of Great Britain is represented, and there are exceptionally good pages of the following:

Barbados, Br. Guiana, Br. Honduras, Cayman Islands, East Africa & Uganda, Falkland Islands, Malay States, Gambia, Br. Occupation of German East Africa, Gold Coast, early Great Britain, Hong Kong, India (gorgeous copies of high values), Iraq, Johore, Kedah, Kelantan, Maldives, Malta, Montserrat, Natal, Nigeria, Papua, Rhodesia, Turks & Caicos, and Tanganyika.

Books II & III

These books are notable for splendid displays of Argentina, Paraguay, Uruguay, Serbia, Siam, and France; and for beautiful, well-filled pages of pre-war Austria, Cameroons, Chile, Congo, Djibonte (a page of odd, interesting stamps), Dutch Indies, French Congo, Fr. Guiana, Fr. Somali Coast, Ecuador, early Germany, German Southwest Africa, Guatemala, Indo-China, early Italy, Madagascar, Mauritania, Mayotte, Mexico, Moheli, Mozambique, Nicaragua, and Reunion.

Painstakingly assembled over a number of years, the Willson Collection is a product of the utmost philatelic good taste, and superb of its kind. The popular period covered by the stamps, the careful selection of countries and comparative exclusion of triflingly low values and junk, mark this collection as one of February's best bargains.

Price, $650.00
(One-fourth Catalog)

Terms

The Willson Collection is offered under our usual guarantee of satisfaction or money-back. Cash orders have the right of way, but if the collection is unsold after ten days, we will gladly send it on approval to persons known to us or furnishing references.

J. O. MOORE, INC., HAMMONDSPORT, N. Y.

Sevard's Twinkles

Every now and then, a foreign slogan greets us bazzooing a bazaar. The general trend, however, in recent years has been to avoid that sort of thing, don't you know, for slogans of a helpful nature to promote domestic tranquillity and the pursuit of national happiness. Time it was when our traveling "drummers" and silk merchants and better homes companionates spoke cancellitic in their hey-dey of convivial assemblage, but today we only find such shibboleths of economic felicities as "Use Air Mail, Address Your Mail, Register or Insure and Let's Go!" Those of us born with self-starters have been on the go ever since, and hinky-dinky parly-voo!

And after we blustered so loudly to join the Navy and travel, Australia has to come along and blat "Save Travelling Expenses—Sell by Mail" and add with a poetic discordance "To Increase Your Sales—Use the Mails" with which our "Earn While You Learn" does a grand prix for vers libre. Anyway, London wants us all to come to the "British Industries Fair for Trade Buyers" which should appeal to our exchange department.

M. T. Dome who so adeptly uses his cross word puzzle acumen in converting any smudge to a flying elephant cancel, diagnoses S.Y. and many other abbreviations in the old hand-stamp mark. "Stock Yards," Chicago, is just a whiff of his potentialities. He intends to list all his abbreviations soon, the which is a harbinger of check list fever.

THAT "MOUNT VERNON ON THE POTOMAC" CANCEL SOUNDS LIKE A LISTING IN BAEDECKER. NO NEED FOR IT, ANYWAY. THE ONE IN NEW YORK IS "MOUNT VOINEN."

A stamp "Postes Egyptiennes" cancelled "Cairo Post Office Savoy Hotel" on the stamp with King Tut hieroglyphics isn't so bad. We remember onc't while writing bunk hist'ry for a New York publisher on matters Egyptian, a chap asking us, "I say. Have you a gasper? An Abdullah, don't you know?" which accounts for the broken palm tree on the corner near the Savoy Hotel in Cairo. And that's a philatelic story or I'll comesticate my sombrero.

And last Christmas, when shopping for Yule conviviality, we found many of the 1917 Revenue Act, orange on blue cigars, which means that after ten years the cigars were fairly quiescent.

We received a propaganda sheet listing all the Olympian philatelic intelligensia, from Zeus to Hermes himself. One had at least expected a worthy souvenir, such as a vest-pocket combination haircomb and perforation gauge, or a folding shoebrush and watermark detector. Our own inspiration was for a shaving pad holder, designed to utilize old catalogs. As Al Capone says, "It's your own fault if yer git tookent in outside me own deadline."

AND WHEN THEY SEND US AUCTION CATALOGS, LISTING WAFTING DREAMS OF PERPETUAL ECSTACIES, SHALL WE SIT BACK IN MAUDLIN TEARS, AND CLASH HIGH HEAVEN WITH INVECTIVE FOR OUR IMPECUNIOUSNESS, OR SHALL WE RING WITH REJOICINGS THAT IDLE TREASURES ARE PASSING FROM CLOISTERED CONFINES TO NEWER JOYS, NEWER HOPES, NEWER FRIENDS? I CANNOT BID, BUT I SEND A SPRIG OF ROSEMARY—JUST FOR REMEMBRANCE!

And that stamp I missed by just ten cents? Youth wanes year after year; the Spring days are fugitive; the frail flowers die for nothing, and the wise man warns me that life is but a dewdrop on the lotus leaf. Should I neglect all this to gaze after one who turned her back on me? Or who broke Columbus' hat?

EDITORIAL

Some weeks ago, reference was made to a proposed trip by airplane from Chicago to Havana, and then to various capitals of South America, and a date now past was given as that on which the flight was to be started. It transpires that the announcement of the time of taking-off was premature and in explanation of the delay, the explanation is made that the preparations for the long trip required more time. The aviator, Capt. Joseph F. Donnellan, in company with others interested in the flight, was a recent caller, and the details of the enterprise were reviewed. It was the intention of the flyer to leave on a date reached before this notice is in print; and while letters will be carried from Chicago to points on the itinerary, they are not transported under governmental authority, although something was said about the possibility of Captain Donnellan being appointed a mail clerk. However, the postmasters in the other countries take official cognizance of the visit of the plane to their capitals, we are informed, and they authorize mail to be carried by the plane on its return to Chicago. No doubt such letters will have distinctive markings to identify them. The purpose of the trip is to prove the practicability of using planes of the smaller type for commercial purposes between Chicago and South American cities.

Never before have there been so many philatelic societies or stamp clubs in existence as there is at present. Reports of the organization of new bodies of the kind show the spread of systematized collecting, and the results of this activity will be manifest. The idea of organization is the order of the day, and the fact that collectors are making a record in this regard is a satisfaction, indeed. Here, tribute should be given to those in a position to direct the activities of young people who recognize that in philately there is an admirable outlet for the spirit of youth. These workers are performing a service that is helpful to all of us, even though their efforts are not heralded as widely as they deserve to be. Action of this kind is more beneficial to our pursuit than theoretical discussions of how to extend our influence.

Some months ago, a correspondent asked for particulars of the frank of Ballou & Co.'s Carriboo Express found on plain envelopes bearing Canadian stamps. This express operated between settlements in British Columbia, a list of which are given in Coster's old catalogue. The date of the service is not given, but the company was succeeded by Dietz & Nelson, who ran for some time in conjunction with Barnard & Co. Barnard & Company sold out to Wells, Fargo & Co., in 1872. In a note in his catalogue, Phillips says that the Ballou & Co. frank is not found on U. S. envelopes.

Mr. L. G. Dorning of Philadelphia, sent us particulars of what in its days was "an astounding piece of philatelic publicity" some time ago, and we have not been in a hurry to comment on it, albeit that Mr. Dorning does not emphasize unduly his discovery, because mention has been made at different times in the past of the self-same subject. Mr. Dorning came unexpectedly upon a copy of Harper's Magazine for October, 1871, in which there is a long illustrated article on "Postage Stamps and Their Origin" by James M. Chute; and it is natural that our correspondent was thrilled by it, since it was an authoritative review, engagingly written, of stamp collecting. When the article appeared nearly sixty years ago, philately needed encouragement, and unquestionably Mr. Chute's article watered a plant that, if it was not drooping, was not yet in the hardy class. Mr. Chute's production was famous for years and it was referred to frequently in the stamp press, as a shining example of publicity of the right stripe in publications that addressed the outside world. On several occasions, a review of Mr. Chute's article appeared in the WEEKLY. It may be added that Mr. Chute in the following year of 1872, contributed a series of articles to a Boston weekly, and he was the Boston correspondent of the New York Fireside Companion, in which he conducted a query column devoted to stamps, coins, etc. Mr. Chute wrote for the philatelic press under his own name and the nom-de-plume of "Correos" as well. He was born in 1846, and having removed to Boston in 1865, he lived there many years; and it was not so many years ago that his death was chronicled. Mr. Chute was an indefatigable philatelist who qualified as a student, and his name deserves a high place among those of the philatelic pioneers.

A critic asks why there seems to be a general acceptance of commemorative issues now without protests from collectors, when years ago, there were movements that had for their aim the suppression of such stamps. This correspondent evidently has in mind the activities of the Society for the Suppression of Speculative stamps, and the objections that were made to the issue of the Omaha stamps as well as other gestures of disapproval. Briefly, the answer is that autres temps mean other customs. It does not follow that the ways of philatelists are any more stationary than the years. For instance, we well remember the outcry against the Omaha or Trans-Mississippi set, when it was proposed that it be issued, and among the objectors were some of the leading collectors of thirty years ago. The post office department was petitioned not to proceed with the issue, and at this period, Washington did not take kindly to additional stamps chiefly because of the extra work caused by two sets of stamps. Yet the stamps did make their appearance, over-riding all obstacles placed in their path; there were forces seemingly invisible that brought forth the set. It is evident there has been a change in sentiment which has come slowly, perhaps, but which has developed effectively. The newer generation of collectors are not concerned particularly with the traditions of the past, and they look upon commemorative stamps as welcome additions to the album pages. They regard them as attractive and appealing, and applaud them for their advertising possibilities. In other words, they are the "go-getters" for the pursuit. If the stamps fullfil a few simple requirements, embraced principally in the availability of the stamps for postage, what more need be asked.

The commemorative stamp has come to stay, or until it is supplanted by some other form of celebration. The explanation of the popularity of this stamp is simple, even if it is not on the surface. The fact is that the postage stamp has grown to be so big a factor in every-day life that it may no longer be claimed as the private property of even a considerable band of those who look upon the stamp with unusual sympathy and understanding. The postal talisman belongs to all the people and is an intimate bond between them and their government; and for that reason, the stamp loans itself to use in transmitting a message or preaching a text, in an ideal way. While the opinion of philatelists in connection with new issues of stamps should be sought and given weight when once given, yet the stamp belongs to all the people, and not some of them. The postage stamp has become so big in its suggestions and potentialities that it is too large for any class of people to handle; hence, as a messenger to the masses, the postage stamp is unrivalled in reach and dir ness. The question of financial integ sometimes enters into the analysis of character of the commemorative sta and when it does, the problem of ar ing at a decision is complicated. only comfort the philatelic opponent all unneccessary issues may have is braced in the hope that the commem tive idea will not be carried to extren and that no financial aim attend th issue. Further than this, it is unlik that he will have cause for rejoicing even he must admit that stamps are unmatchable means for celebration.

THE SCOTT STAMP AND COIN CO.

HAS PURCHASED THE

Edward S. Knapp Collection of CONFEDERATE STATES, GENERAL ISSUES

This famous collection, comprising Nos. 200 to 212 inclusive, is, in all respects, the most unusual single gathering of Confederate States ever made.

This collection, which has won first award wherever exhibited, is unique in the quality of its rare pieces. In its comprehensiveness it stands as a monument to the labors and researches which have given Mr. Knapp preeminence in the philately of the Confederacy.

We are not selling individual pieces, for the collection is too remarkable thus to be broken up, but only by groups. The collection is so well known that a detailed description of it is unnecessary.

We will be glad to enter into arrangements whereby interested parties may inspect such of these groups as are not already sold when this announcement appears. Correspondence. [tf

25th Anniversary Announcement

FORT UNION

On July 26, 1851, a department of the U. S. Army established a post at the base of the Turkey Mountains in what is now Mora County, New Mexico, about 65 miles northeast of Santa Fe, for the protection of travelers along the old Santa Fe Trail. The post was called Fort Union.
On August 24th, 1851, a letter left the post addressed to Annapolis, Maryland, and bearing a 5c stamp of the 1847 series, which had ceased to be valid for postage on the 1st of the previous June. The stamp probably was carried to Fort Union by one of the army officers who had been out of touch with civilization too long to know the stamps of the 1847 issue had been declared invalid.
The letter probably was carried to Washington in a pouch with army dispatches and on September 29th was deposited in the Washington post office. It reached Annapolis the following day, having been five days on the way. The stamp is a fine specimen tied to the cover by the WASHINGTON CITY, D. C., postmark in black and bears no other cancellation. The cover is a little white envelope bearing the notations "Ft. Union—Augt 24th—1851" and "Received September 30th, 1851", with the signature of the addressee.
Also there are no other Fort Union covers in the 1847 collection I am offering and with likely no others in the world, the collection does contain many other fine covers, some perhaps being of even greater historical interest.

Big Perf. and Smudge Man Tells of Success

The newspaper office was all in a whirl. The Boiled Ham Company was smoking terrifically and wood alcohol had snuffed out two innocent lives in the merry carouse of a deleterious day. The City Editor turned to me and asked if it wasn't time for me to get some "scoop" story to thrill our readers, some feature to play up the gallery of hairbreadth adventure, sloppy romance, swank society, feminine fickleness, destitute divorce, or ambitious alimony, when suddenly I recalled the interesting figure of our local ash can sniveller and waste paper miser. I quickly turned to our City Editor, and gasped, "You big bonehead. I have a story." I ran from the circular desk as a dictionary flew over my head, all of which characterizes the pleasantries of the newspaper game.

My entree into the demesne of our popular perf. and smudge man was none too sorrowful, for after ringing the doorbell twenty times, I noted the sign "Batteries Dry" which meant that I had to knock. Later I was informed that everyone knocked at cheap stamp establishments. I grasped the doorknob in a powerful grip, and spent two minutes trying to put the doorknob back again, when I was greeted joyfully by Calaban himself. I walked into his establishment, down the hall, thru the kitchen, down the dark back cellar stairs, into a dim furnace room, cluttered with ashes and tin cans. "There," he exclaimed, "it'll be ready in two weeks." "But your stamps," I rejoined. "Where are your stamps?" He sunk into a lethargy I knew meant but exhaustive pleasure in my query.

"There," he said, pointing to a coal bin, "there lies the treasure trove." Before me was a vast bin of stamps, tied in bundles, stacked ceiling high, arranged in testudos of on-rushing shields of perfs, shades, guide lines, straight edges and perf. initials. There stood a phalanx of post cards, beyond were the meters and paid permits, further and beyond me, were the New York Stock Transfer stamps. I was overwhelmed at this panoply of philatelic possessions. To those who have visited stamp exhibitions, such as one finds in the British Museum, or at Washington, D. C., we might say "You ain't seen nothing yet."

"You ask me," Calaban wistfully remarked, "what causes me most grief?" I had put the question that way. "After my wife, it is these," said he, pointing to a bin full of stamps. My interview with Calaban had begun.

"What are the common stamps? Which stamps are commonest? You, who read only catalogs, admit your ignorance. Of all these stamps, which do I find most of? Today I have more of the 2c 1923 perf. 11 than any other stamp. That is the flat bed stamp. Daily I add few to the pile, as the new rotary press compound perforated stamp is getting plentiful, and maybe it will in time be more common than that thing—the 2c 1923 perf. 11. Look at the pile."

I gazed at it and wondered. Then observing another pile almost as large, I asked about it.

"Those," Calaban noted, "are the 2c browns." There was a heap of them. "Those come in regularly. They are almost as common as the 2c 1923 perf. 11. Of course if we look for shades, you will note that each pile gets less. Now take the full carmine shade of the 2c 1923 perf. 11—there's not as many as the 2c brown. And there's the 2c triangles, and the 1c 1898 green, and the 2c Columbians, all of which have shades and cancels to bother one."

Observing a card hanging on the wall, I copied down a few figures. These, I was informed, were the degrees of commonness of used United States stamps.

"Darling," I heard an upstairs voice sweetly call. "Darling, come here." Calaban looked at me sheepishly, and twinkled his eyelids. He moved slowly from his stacks of philatelic researches toward some volumes lying on a bench, but again the battle call was heard percolating from the kitchen. "Darling, come here or I'll break your neck."

My interview was ended, but I came away with figures which even Flo Ziegfeld cannot judge.

Lenoir

A small town in the state of North Carolina, which is known to philatelic fame from the fact that in 1861, the then postmaster issued a provisional 5c stamp for the prepayment of postal charges. This special stamp was superseded by the general issues for the whole of the Confederate States after a very short life.

"Country" Etymology

Brazil.—Which was at first considered an island, received the name, Ilha da vera cruz, i.e., "islands of the true cross" after a great wooden cross which was erected on May 1, 1500.

The well-known dye wood transported to Europe for the first time in 1503 which the natives called ibira pitanga, i.e., "red wood" and the Portuguese named biaza (fire) after the fiery red color, was employed to bestow its enduring name upon the country. In German it has the form Brasilien meaning land of "the fiery wood."

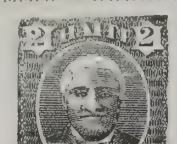
JUNIOR STAMP STUDIES



PRES. SALOMAN
Hayti A5
2c violet

The stamps of the 1887 issue of Hayti always attract the attention of one unfamiliar with them, because of the white haired and venerable old gentleman there portrayed. This was General Louis Etienne Félicité Saloman, then President of the Republic. He certainly looks mild and benevolent enough, but is described by Pritchard as "a notorious sectary of snake worship [voodooism], beneath whose iron hand the country groaned for years, and public executions and robbery were the order of the day." Yet under his long presidency the Republic was unusually prosperous.

General Saloman was born in 1820 at Aux Cayes, on the southern peninsula of Hayti, and was a negro of colossal stature and of pure African descent. He was a politician as well as a military man, having been one of the ministers of General Soulouque, the negro slave who attained the Presidency in 1847 and ruled as the "Emperor Faustin I" from 1849 to 1859. On the overthrow of Soulouque, General Saloman, who was then commander-in-chief of the Emperor's army, fled from the island. Twenty years later he returned and on October 23, 1879, was himself chosen as President for seven years He was re-elected in 1886 for another term, but was deposed by a revolution in August, 1888, and fled to Paris, where he died on October 19, of the same year.

New Lindbergh Stamp

Costa Rica honored Lindbergh on his recent visit to that country with a special stamp commemorative of his trip. The 12c carmine showing a portrait of Columbus in his youth was overprinted with an airplane and an ornate L in the lower loop of which the word "Lindbergh" was completed, and "Enero, 1928" included. The whole effect is very pleasing and especially so when it is recalled that upon this stamp is a picture of one of the ships of Columbus' fleet and as well the two continents of North and South America. In the lower corners the 12c value is overprinted with "10" in a fanciful design. We are indebted to Ernesto Quiros A, San Jose, Costa Rica, for a specimen of the stamp.

Building A Collection

By GEO. TODD.

How to Buy—No. 3

A third method of increasing your collection, is by exchange. There are dealers who will accept your duplicates in return for stamps you haven't already got, but they exact a percentage which is usually pretty big on low-valued stamps. Exchange with another collector is all right if you know what you are doing. Trade value for value, and not stamp for stamp, unless the stamps are very common. Don't take anything you don't want, but when you have an opportunity to make a profitable exchange, do it, because what may be rare to you may be common to the other fellow. It is best to trade old stamps for old stamps, and new ones for new ones, because the value of old stamps is stable, while that of new ones is not.

In closing, let me say that the value and appearance of a collection is based on quality and not quantity, so don't collect junk.

In Reply to Mr. Tendick

By PHILIP H. WARD, JR.

(1) The Department stamps printed by the Continental Bank Note Company, were issued on May 24, 1873, although their actual use was not authorized until July 1, 1873. They were distributed on the previous day, in order that they might be available at the time that their use was required.

(2) The records of the American Bank Note Company have never been available to the stamp collector, and as a result, I cannot tell the exact date on which the soft paper Departments of 1879 were placed on sale. The Continental Company was taken over by the American Company in February, 1879, and the soft paper stamps probably appeared in March or April.

(3) As to the third question—the Executive stamps were not discontinued in 1877, as your correspondent imagines. The fact that none were printed after 1877, simply means that the use of this series was small, and there was ample quantity on hand to take care of the requirements.

All Department stamps, including the Executives, were discontinued on July 5, 1884.

Leeward Islands

This is really a geographical division consisting of various groups of islands in the Caribbean Sea, but so far as we are concerned at present, it is the official designation of a British West Indian colony consisting of five separate presidencies which are administered by one Governor. The five presidencies are (1) Antigua, with Barbuda and Redonda; (2) St. Christopher and Nevis, with Anguilla; (3) Dominica; (4) Montserrat, and (5) the Virgin Islands. With the exception of the latter, they all have their own local legislatures, which are subordinate to the Legislative Council for the whole colony. In 1890, it was decided to issue a set of stamps for use throughout the colony, and these superseded the separate sets for Antigua, Dominica, Montserrat, Nevis, St. Christopher and the Virgin Islands, which had been in use up to that date. Although a general issue for the Leeward Islands is still in use, all five presidencies have, of recent years, again issued their own particular and distinctive stamps, which are in concurrent use with the general set.

Seven Wonders of Philately

By GEORGE CREAMER MCMILLAN.

A letter such as the following is greatly appreciated. We just like to have our Juniors tell us what they think of stamp collecting and if there is anything we can do upon this page to promote our hobby it will certainly be done. We thank George for his letter.

I am a subscriber to the WEEKLY, and, while not taking a very active part in it, I nevertheless read the Junior Page in every issue, and I can truthfully say that nothing has helped me so much in stamp collecting as that same page. I enjoy your contests very much although I don't participate in any of them—guess I'm too lazy! At the present time I collect the general issues of the Confederate States and a few special things in U. S. on cover, such as Wells-Fargo imprints and cancellations; a few pre-stamp covers (I have one that was used on U. S. Frigate Constitution); U. stamps used abroad—in the Philipp Mexico, and France; and U. S. st used on battleships and with Se cancellations. I also enjoy readin "ad" whether I buy anything or n usually note the things which are a tised the most and I made up a li such things which I enclose here can call them the "Seven Wonde Philately":—

(1) U. S., 19th century, used, off cover, cancellations, etc.

(2) U. S. Department stamps, us unused, on or off cover, etc.

(3) U. S., 20th century, mint.

(4) Confederates, provisionals or eral issues, on or off cover, etc. (T a wonderful opportunity for speci tion here.)

(5) Stampless covers, U. S. and federates.

THE CAPE WAGON

The Boer trek wagon appears on a number of South African stamps. As part of a coat-of-arms it figures on nearly all the issues of the old South African Republic (Transvaal), as well as on certain fiscal stamps of the Orange Free State that were allowed to be used for postal purposes. The 1894-1895 issue of the Transvaal bears, through an artist's mistake, the ludicrous representation of a trek wagon with shafts! A true wagon, outspanned, and with one of the yokes and the long driver's whip, provides a forlorn and rather aimless design for the 5s value of the new Union of South Africa series; while the 2s 6d value of the same series depicts a typical South African scene—a wagon, drawn by a team of oxen crossing a drift.

It is not surprising that the Cape wagon should be deemed so worthy of representation on South African stamps, considering the prominent part it has played in South Africa's story. To the early settlers at the Cape, and to the Voortrekkers who crossed the Orange and Vaal Rivers to found the Orange Free State and the South African Republic, it served alike as conveyance, as home and as fortress. Many a fierce fight has waged round Boer laagers, the heavy wagons, flung into a circle, providing a rampart for the defenders and a shield for the women, children and cattle gathered in the centre.

Even to-day, the Cape wagon is an indispensable feature of South African life. Railway development in the Union is yet in its infancy, and although the motor-car does much to increase the facilities for personal travel and the transmission of light articles, the Cape wagon affords, in a great many places, the only means of transporting heavy goods. Transport riding is still a popular and romantic occupation, especially in the up-country districts, where it is an everyday sight to behold wagons loading up at railway sidings; then trekking slowly but steadily across the veld, drawn by their teams of fourteen longhorned oxen or sixteen sturdy donkeys, led by the "voorloper" (usually a piccaninny of the marriage of ten) tugging on the leading pair's yoke, and controlled by one or two drivers on foot, with their long whips; finally, outspanned, with their teams grazing nearby, discharging their loads into the store miles away from the railway. Sometimes, owing to prohibitive railway freights, heavy merchandise is transported up-country right from the big towns, and it is no uncommon experience to see wagons in the streets of Cape Town, Kimberley and Johannesburg.

On the diamond fields and on the gold fields, the digger's wagon becomes his temporary home and storehouse. On the farm, the wagon brings in the harvest. On the open veld, the traveller sleeps in it or under it. Very often it has saved the lives of travellers who have sought shelter beneath it during a torrential hailstorm that has destroyed the team of animals.—Gibbons Stamp Monthly.

DURBAN EXHIBITION

NORMAN WELSFORD, Sec., Durban, S. Af.

Appeal for Funds.—In the semi-final edition of the prospectus, an appeal was made to overseas philatelic societies, stamp dealers, philatelic publishers, and others interested in philately, to contribute to the funds of the exhibition. In making this appeal, the committee felt that they had a good claim on those to whom it was addressed. In past years, the various philatelic societies in South Africa have contributed freely within their means to the funds of exhibitions held in various countries; whilst collectors generally in South Africa have been generous patrons of dealers and subscribers to publications. The exhibition, which is to be held in Durban next July, will undoubtedly be the means of stimulating interest in philately, and correspondence which has been received from all parts of the world indicate the nation-wide interest which is being manifested. This must benefit both philatelists and dealers. The response to the appeal has not been very great, so far. Assistance can be rendered in several ways, viz., by donating the cost of a gold, silver or gilt medal at £2 15/-, £1 5/- and £1 respectively; by an outright cash donation; or by the purchase of tickets for private view day.

The exhibition committee make this further urgent appeal to all philatelists, dealers, etc., to send along a donation, no matter how small. Whilst cash is preferred, used or mint stamps will be welcome.

Contributions to date total £115 12/6. Four gold, two gilt and five silver medals have also been promised.

Government Exhibits.—The Third Assistant Postmaster-General of the United States Postal Service will send an interesting exhibit. The Rhodesian Government is being asked to sanction the entry of a comprehensive exhibit. The Minister of Posts and Telegraphs of the Union of South Africa is giving the exhibition his cordial support and entering a very fine series of plates. Other Governments have notified their interest and will announce decisions shortly.

STAMPS AND ACCESSORIES

Our extremely large and comprehensive stock, as well as our services, are at the disposal of serious collectors. We feel that we can supply many items missing in most collections, ranging from the commoner stamps to the great rarities; thus we solicit your patronage and would welcome a visit.

Furthermore, it is our belief that suitable accessories play a most important part in philately, and for this reason we are marketing the following two articles:

A daylight lamp which furnishes a perfectly diffused blue-tint light from which all glare is eliminated, and which gives the same effect as daylight. It is the perfect light for color matching. The lamp is manufactured in five models, with a price range of $6.50 to $14.00.

A magnifying glass, eight power, manufactured by Steinheil, which is so nearly achromatic and anastigmatic that it has proved itself far superior to any that we have examined. Some of the most prominent Collectors have purchased this magnifier from us. We are offering this glass at $12.00.

CUBAN IMPERFORATES

Herewith is translation of decree published, and which is probably news to many philatelists.

THE SECRETARY OF COMMUNICATIONS
The Director of Posts (Order No. 22)

Taking into consideration that on August 28th, of the current year an order was issued by this Office under No. 16, authorizing the use of automatic machines to affix postage stamps to correspondence in Cuba, subject to due permission to be obtained in each case, and in order to enable the proprietors of such machines to obtain the necessary supply of stamps for same it has been arranged to print sheets of 400 subjects without perforations.

Taking into consideration that it having become public knowledge of the new offer and suggestion, and petitions having been received to the effect that this issue be sold, in sheets of 400 or 100 imperforate stamps, to such persons as may request them although they may not be for use in the automatic machines.

Taking into consideration that in view of the public interest shown in the demand for these stamps, the sale in sheets of 400 or 100 will increase postal revenues it is resolved that:

(1). To authorize the sale to the public of sheets of 400 or 100 stamps without perforations, with no other requisite than the request for same and payment in the respective expending office.

(2). That by the Section of Stamps and Materials of this Department, such Post-Masters as may request those sheets of 400 or 100 stamps in such quantities as to cover orders received from the public be supplied.

(3). That the sale of such stamps to the public must be precisely in sheets of 400 or 100 each, and under no circumstances will part of such sheets be sold.

(4). That order No. 16, dated August 28, 1926, will continue in force as to what refers to the authorization for the use of automatic machines for affixing postage stamps.

THE DONNELLAN FLIGHT

By HENRY O. MEISEL.

On the Editorial page, January 9, appeared an article relative to Air Mail flights, and which reads in part: "We have just succeeded in obtaining definite tidings of the trip of Captain Joe Donnellan, British Royal Air Force, from Chicago, to all the capitals of the South American countries. It is reported to us that he has been authorized by the post office department to carry mail on the trip and that he will leave Chicago on the morning of January 1, 1928, some time between the hours of 4.30 and 10.00 A. M. The first stop will be Atlanta, Georgia, from where he will proceed to Havana, and then go to other Central American cities before making a circuit of the capitals of all the South American countries."

I wrote to the Postmaster at Chicago, to which I received the following reply on Jan. 18. "You are respectfully informed that so far as this office is aware, no such flight has been announced, and we have no instructions from the Post Office Department concerning any dispatch of mail by such flight."

I also wrote to the department at Washington, to which reply was received as follows on Jan. 21. "We have no record of a flight that was to have been made from Chicago on January 1, to the points mentioned. If such a flight was made, or is to be made, the Department has not authorized the carrying of mail thereon."

BROOKS COLLECTION

It gives me great pleasure to announce that I have just purchased the very fine collection, listing well up in five figures, of mint United States stamps in singles and blocks, gotten together by Mr. Harold C. Brooks. This collection includes — Postmasters, General Issues, Departments, Postage Due, Newspapers, Carriers, and the United States Colonies. Mr. Brooks endeavored to obtain a fine mint single of each variety, and purchased most all of the blocks cataloging under fifty dollars, with a great many of the scarcer varieties.

From 1847 to 1916, where he left off, there is a mint single of practically everything, with few exceptions. I especially note such things as — 1847 5c, several copies in shades with gum. 1851 1c to 24c, including several types, the 24c having full sheet margins at top. In the 1861 August issue, the 3c is represented by numerous singles and several blocks in shades. There is a superb mint imperforate, as well as a perfection 10c. Someone will have an opportunity of purchasing a very beautiful 1861 September 3c pink, and a magnificent 5c in the rare olive shade, with full original gum. He has the finest single 3c scarlet that I have ever seen, together with a block of the same stamp.

From this point on, little if anything is missing, including full sets of all of the reissues, the 1901, 1c, 2c, 4c inverts, 1908 blue papers complete, 1915 24c airmail invert, etc.

The Departments in mint condition on hard paper are complete, and this includes a magnificent 90c Justice, together with fine copies of the 2c Navy Error, and dollar States. The soft papers, with few exceptions, are all in the collection.

The U. S. Colonies make a wonderful and inexpensive lot, and these will be offered as a whole, or separately by colonies.

This collection added to my present enormous stock places me in a position to offer my clients practically everything that they may desire in the way of United States stamps, either late or early.

I would also advise that I am in the market at all times to purchase at highest cash prices fine United States properties. While I most particularly desire the adhesive postage stamps, I also want Postmasters, Carriers, Departments, Revenues and Confederates.

Valley Forge Stamp

Letters are still being received by the Post Office Department at Washington, recommending the issuing of a 2-cent stamp to commemorate the Encampment at Valley Forge. Mr. Malcolm H. Ganser has interested many of the organizations, as well as publishers, in Norristown, and as a result numerous communications from this point are being received by the Postmaster General.

Congressman Watson of Pennsylvania, has not only called upon the Postmaster General relative to such a stamp, but has addressed a communication to each of the Governors of the original thirteen states, calling their attention to the fact that they are going to participate in the celebration this year at Valley Forge, and suggesting that they write to Washington, recommending such a stamp.

Further, Congressman Watson has introduced in the House of Representatives the following Resolution:—

"Resolved by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, that the Postmaster General is authorized, and he is hereby requested, to design and issue a special postage stamp of the denomination of 2 cents in honor of the one hundred and fiftieth anniversary of the encampment of Washington's Army at Valley Forge, Pennsylvania, and there is hereby authorized to be appropriated such amount as may be necessary to carry out the provisions of this Act."

If this passes both Houses, and is signed by the President, we may expect something quite attractive in the way of a new stamp, to be issued in May or June.

It is not too late to address the Postmaster upon the subject, and if you have not written heretofore, a letter bringing his attention to the advisability of such a variety is in order.

Air Mail Notes

Under date of January 19th, the Traffic Agent of the Air Mail Service at Chicago announces that effective February 6th, Air Mail Service will be inaugurated on two new routes to be known as C.A.M. 21 and C.A.M. 22.

C.A.M. Route 21 will operate on a round trip basis between Dallas, Texas, and Galveston, Texas, with intermediate stops at Fort Worth, Texas, and Houston, Texas.

C.A.M. Route 22 will operate on a round trip basis daily between Dallas, Texas, and San Antonio, Texas, with intermediate stops at Fort Worth, Texas, Waco, Texas, Austin, Texas, and later on the flight will be extended to Laredo, Texas; sufficient advance notice will be given when the effective date of the extension from San Antonio to Laredo has been decided upon.

Mr. Ben Delovage kindly sends a clipping from the Portland Oregonian, dealing with the air mail activities of the Boeing Air Transport Company. We are informed that 63% of all air mail carried in the United States, during the last six months, has been carried on five air mail lines operating west of Chicago. More than one-half of this mail, or 36% of all air mail, was carried by the Boeing Company on its transcontinental route between Chicago and San Francisco. During this time their planes flew 821,000 miles, and carried 621 passengers, without any serious mishap. They are arranging to purchase a new type of plane to be used on the Pacific Coast.

Steamship Mail

The Second Assistant Postmaster General announced under date of January 28th, the quantities of mail delivered by the New York Harbor Boat Service during the three years of 1925 to 1927.

It is interesting to note from the following figures the growth of this Service.

Established in London 1882.) [2wkEM

France.—Whitfield King & Co. have shown us the 2frs postage due stamp, design as A4, in light blue shade.

French Colonies. — The Echo states that at least five of the latest 3fr stamps of various Colonies are minus full stop after the initial "F." (Viz. Congo, Gaboon, Martinique, Reunion and Somali Coast).

Liechtenstein. — We have received three new items of this country from Whitfield King & Co. They are all in the design of the 5rp value of the 1924-26 issue and of the following values and colors: 2½rp olive-green and red lilac, 7½rp green and brown and 15rp red-brown and green.

Lithuania. — New High Values will be issued shortly in the current series: 1l (5,000,000), 3l (2,000,000), 5l (2,000,000).

Tenth Anniversary of Independence will be celebrated on February 16th, when a commemoration series of stamps will be issued; the values and quantities, according to Champion's Bulletin, being: 5c, 125,000; 10c, 125,000; 15c, 125,000; 25c, 125,000; 50c, 225,000; 60c, 225,000, and 1l, 500,000.—Philatelic Magazine.

Monaco.—We learn from Mr. Theodore Champion that there will be issued in February two values commemorating the International Philatelic Exhibition. The stamps are transverse oblong with triple portraits of three Princes of Monaco. Engraved by Henry Cheffer they are recess-printed at French Government Works at Paris. The values are 50c red and 3fr violet, and each value will be sold at a premium of five francs, the charge for admission to the Exhibition. We understand that there will be 150,000 sets printed.

Poland. — Coming commemorative. To be issued for National Philatelic Exhibition, Warsaw, May 3rd to 13th, 1928. Portrait of Marshal Pilsudsky, 50 groszy. A 1zl portrait is also foreshadowed for the same occasion and, according to Messrs. Yvert & Tellier, the two stamps will be sold at their face value plus the charge for entry to the Exhibition, i.e., 3 zloty (about 3s).—Stamp Collecting.

Russia. — Copies of the 8k, yellow green, in the design picturing the Russian workman, are to hand from Whitfield King & Co.

San Marino.—The stamps issued on Jan. 2nd last and known as the St. Francis d'Assisi Commemoratives have been received from Mr. R. Roberts. They are of four values, two designs in each, 50c rose and 1.25L blue, of one type picturing the monastery and 2.50L brown and 5L violet, showing the death of the Saint. Each stamp bears the inscription "VII Centenario Francescano," while across the top is "Poste Della Rep. Dis. Marino."

MARKET IN MODERN COLONIALS

By "PHILATELIA."

Newfoundland.—It is often useful to look out for stamps underpriced on numbers issued. Where these are definitely known, it is difficult to find many examples amongst the popular groups, but an instance, tho' true it is only a minor variety, occurs in Newfoundland 1$ on 15c, S.G. 143, of which 10,000 were thus surcharged. Of these 2,400 had no comma, whilst only 400 had no stop after 1919. If the normal is worth 15/- (and it is modestly priced at this figure) the no stop variety should be worth nearer £10 than the 50/- quoted. However, if you can get it under catalogue so much the better, and is a good buy at current prices. The 1923 Pictorial set is also worthy of careful study from the financial viewpoint. Ever since Whitehead, Morris & Co. started printing the stamps of this Colony, the numbers printed have been more limited, and in each set there have been certain values that have stood out as really scarce. Thus the Coronation set gave us the 8c, and the Caribou set the 6 and 8 cents.

In the 1923 series it is the 9c and 24c that are going to be so good. Both have been completely sold out for some time and are very good buys at anything round current prices. The 9c was only sold in very limited numbers, and may easily reach 10/- during the next few years. The 24c, if not quite so scarce, is certainly worth buying, and will doubtless at least reach a similar figure. I do not think any large wholesale stocks of these two values exist, so that it is possible the rise may be meteoric when the inevitable rush sets in.

Ascension.—The first issue continues to appreciate in value, the 3/- now being very good property indeed. The current 1924 set presents some interesting features. The 3d, 4d, 6d and 1/- have all been out of issue with rumours of colour changes, but the 3d and 1/- have now been re-issued in same colours as before. One would hardly expect the 6d to show any change, the 4d is less certain, it is a question of wait and see.

Barbados.—There are signs that the 1921 issue is going to move up in market value, in particular, I suggest that the 2½d, 1/-, 2/- and 3/-, all with Script watermark, are worth following. The 2/- of the Victory set I also consider relatively underpriced, as is the 2/- of 1916. The reduction of the 3/- violet from its sensational level of 75/- to 35/- in Gibbons latest catalogue supplement will not be unexpected to those who read in these notes references to this stamp being grossly overpriced. It now looks as though the figure given in our catalogue was a misprint, as no other catalogue gives it as anything approaching that figure.

Gibraltar.—The £1 stamp is the latest sensation here. There have been rumours of it going out ever since the 5/- and 10/- were issued in 1925, and it has at last appeared in quite different colours. It has had a good innings. The 15 years of currency being longer than almost any other King's head stamp, so that it is not likely to reach any sensational level, and several knowing ones have been laying it quietly by in some quantity, nevertheless, a temporary shortage is bound to cause a brisk rise at first.

Tanganyika. — In the rush for the high values of Giraffe design a little stamp of the series seems to have been overlooked. This is the 25c black of 1922. If you can buy it at its catalogue price of 1/- you are lucky! Turpin's list quotes it as 4/-, whilst Scott also gives it as a dollar. It is the scarcest by a long way of the low values.

The high values have mostly been about in fair supply of late, but as the remainders were withdrawn and destroyed some time ago, the market value of nearly all will appreciate as available supplies get absorbed. At present, the 2/- upright wmk. can be acquired very reasonably, but it is a stamp well worth watching.

South-West Africa. — This popular Colony continues to advance in leaps and bounds; nearly all the obsolete issues are a very lively and healthy market. The 4d triangular is worth picking up whilst so cheap, especially in blocks or sheets. The bulk of this stamp was sold in packets already cut up by machinery. The 1st Pictorial issue is also showing great strength, and all values are advancing strongly and may easily turn out in time to be the rarest of the issues. It is bound to be very popular. All values from 1/- upwards seem likely to be good. Whether the 2/6 is to be the rarity that is expected in some quarters it is yet too early to say. For those who collect the Postage Dues the last 5d of this country is well worth buying, as it was a relatively small printing, and even if it cannot be obtained at current issue rates, no hesitation should be felt at paying up to six or eight times face value, as it is not likely to be re-issued now.—Philatelic Magazine.

Where the Bargains Come From VARIOUS CANCELLATIONS, MASONIC AND OTHERWISE

MASONIC EMBLEMS OFFERED A CONVENIENT CANCELLING DESIGN TO EARLY POSTMASTERS WHO WE MASONS—A FASCINATING FIELD OF STUDY FOR PHILATELISTS

By JOHN W. NICKLIN.

When people first collected stamps their sole aim was to get as many different stamps from as many different countries as possible. They paid little or no attention to the refinements of collecting, but in time they began to differentiate. Instead of trying to collect all the stamps of every country, they might restrict their attention to two or three, or perhaps only one, of their favorite countries —many great collections have been made, indeed, of just one issue of stamps. The early issues were printed from plates made from an engraved die. The method of manufacture of these plates, and their subsequent treatment while in use, resulted in many minute differences, distinguishable on the stamps themselves.

The first postage stamp was printed in 1840 in Great Britain. It was handsomely engraved and printed in black, the principal feature of the design being a youthful portrait of Queen Victoria. Even as our Grand Jurisdiction traces its history back through charters issued by Masonic bodies in England so are all stamps traced to this first stamp of England. The life of the stamp as a means of indicating the prepayment of postage has now exceeded the three score and ten years which, according to the Great Light, constitute the allotted span of man's life on earth.

A little-studied phase of the subject of stamp collecting is the various means used to cancel stamps and the designs employed for the purpose. Into the minds of many of us will come a picture of the small-town postmaster in the old days. Usually he was a man of leisure, though of some dignity and importance in his community. The mails were not so heavy nor official duties so exacting as they are today. The postmaster had time to do his work and also to indulge his fancies.

Today, of course, all cancelling devices and postmarks are issued by the Post-Office Department directly to the post-offices. Everything is made to a pattern, standardized. In the old days, however, the postmaster secured these implements of his office from convenient sources or else made them himself. In the latter case it was just a question of whittling a piece of cork according to his fancy's dictates and there you were. The customary way was merely to cut intersecting indentations across the face of the cork, providing a design that had the appearance of a roughly quartered circle.

There are, at the same time, numerous examples of a much greater display of imagination and artistry. Collectors who have turned their attention to this interesting subject have been able to gather a wide range of designs. Some of these are of considerable artistic merit, others chiefly notable for the unusual character of the design. The period in our postal history most prolific in examples of these vagaries ranges from 1851 to 1880.

A distinction might be made between those designs which are merely the result of whim or fancy, and another group which really has some significance in denoting a particular handling of the mail matter to which it was applied. In the latter group might be mentioned the various styles of the word "Steamboat," and the picture of a river-packet boat under full steam which was stamped on all mail carried aboard the Steamer "Rapides." Another early river boat, the "Frank Lyon," used a design showing its name in an oval, with the added symbolism of a lion with upraised tail.

In the days of the gold rush in California, and before the government provided the carrier service that it does today, Charles Proctor Kimball established a stationery store in San Francisco. This gentleman made it his business to collect from the inhabitants of the city mail intended for dispatch to the East. It was his custom to walk through the streets calling out his business so that all who cared might hear and deliver their letters to him. It was said that he had a rich, powerful baritone voice which could be heard at a great distance. He was dubbed the Noisy Carrier and eventually employed a postmark on all mail that he handled embodying this title. The members of our own Craft were not remiss in emblazoning on this enduring record of the past evidences of Masonic life during that period. Dozens of examples of the use of Masonic insignia as cancelling devices have come to light. These usually consist of the Square and Compasses, sometimes alone but more often within a circle or rectangle.

The illustration accompanying this article shows a number of these Masonic cancellations found on stamps used on letters in the period just after the War. Though the towns that used devices have not in all cases been erly identified, still we know that o them was used in the post office at gor, Wisconsin, while another one employed at Island Pond, Vermont. of the more elaborate and, from standpoint of the stamp collector, desirable of the Masonic cancella are two other of the designs. T are both of unusual design and ap ance, the former being struck in customary black, while the latter is in olive-green. It may interest tho our readers who are unacquainted the proclivities of stamp collector know that clear examples of these sonic cancellations find a ready sal $10 each and upward, though the st to which they are applied would o wise be worth no more than a few

In addition to those already ref to there are a number of other can tions found on early United S stamps which probably have a Ma significance. We note a triangular vice that was used at a town, the master of which was known to Master Mason. From this same lo came the trowel cancellation, the Ma antecedents of which we can be sure of. There is also known on stamps of a somewhat later period, 78, a cancellation representing a Research has not as yet developed dence that this device was intende have any Masonic significance.—sonic Outlook.

SPRINGFIELD'S ANNUAL CONTEST

By WILLIAM C. STONE, Pub. Agent.

Commencing with 1915 the Springfield (Mass.) Stamp Club has held an annual contest in which the members are asked to enter a single album page, on which are mounted stamps to illustrate some special subject, which is announced some two months or more in advance. The thirteenth contest has just been held and the winners were announced at the January 20th meeting of the club. The subject this year was "The ten most notable events pictured on postage stamps." The judges were H. L. Lindquist and Theo. E. Steinway, of the Collectors Club of New York. All entries were sent without any distinguishing mark and were rated according to the following scale: judgment in selection: 50%, condition of stamps 20%, annotations 20%, arrangement and neatness 10%. Robert C. Munroe was the winner of the first prize, William C. Stone second, and John W. Prevost third. Ribbons suitably inscribed were the awards.

The following were the stamps selected by the winners: 1869 15c, Landing of Columbus; 24c 1869, Signing the Declaration; 2c, Hudson-Fulton Steam Navigation a reality; 2c, Panama Pacific, Opening of the Canal; 5c, Pilgrim, The Mayflower compact; 2c, Lexington, The Shot Heard round the World; 10c, Lindbergh air mail "We" did it first; 2c, Saratoga, Britain meets defeat at the crucial point; 10sh Malta, Christianity on its way to Rome; New Zealand 3p 1906, England takes Australasia.

Messrs. Stone and Prevost each agreed with the winner in five of the stamps, and Mr. Stone and Mr. Prevost also agreed with each other in three events.

CHASE CITY, VA.

By A. H. ROBERTSON.

In your issue of Jan. 23, are remarks by Mr. R. R. Walker of Richmond, relative to the peculiar names employed in naming many of the towns of Virginia. In this list I find Chase City among those given. Being in a position to give facts in this instance I come forward, not in defence, for I feel that none is needed, but solely that the facts determining the adoption of the name "Chase" as applied to Chase City may be fully understood.

But to start at the first of the story, as one should in giving information, will say that at one time the Chase City of today was known as "Christiansville," just when this originated I am not in a position to say, but it must have been prior to 1860, as I have a Confederate cover, with No. 204, dated Aug. 7, 1863, from Christiansville, Va., addressed to a neighboring county. Other covers in hand bear about the same dating. When the days of reconstruction followed the war, moral conditions reached that low point here, with saloons, gambling dens and the like, that a majority of the people here began to feel that the name belied the conditions, as existing and it was then that the new name was taken, named in honor of Chief Justice Chase. The earliest dated cover that I have been able to locate is July 8, 1880. As well as my memory serves me, am under the impression that the town was incorporated about 1878. But can set the date positively by the last named cover, which went from Chase City into this county.

THE LOVE OF MIKE

Tell it not in Gath, but the love of Mike was an unholy passion for stamps. Even as you or I, Mike had made his tentative essays at specialism. According to Mike there are more snakes than millionaires in Ireland, which is his Hibernian way of saying he has not the wealth of the Indies to spend on his hobby. But he was wise in his generation, for, said he to himself, says he, "if I am going to specialize a counthry, it will be one shtill wearing the swaddling clothes of a philatelic infant, one that I can nurse meself, and keep a master's hand upon. It's master in my own house I'll be, and none shall say that I allowed my hobby-horse to ride me."

So he started on Palestine about 1918, but the infant grew quickly out of its swaddling clothes, and what with plate flaws and overprints, it soon got beyond Mike's masterful conthrol. Then Fiume began, and as there were rumours of a good fight out there Mike was afther specializing in Fiume. But the Fiumans came out too fast for him and he turned off to Cilicia; 'twas like taking shelter from the fire in the frying pan, for it was an unending race between the French and the Arabs to see who could produce the most varieties for Mike.

Someone told our hero that Poland was very much like Ireland, only more so; while Ireland had no stamps, Poland did have one that sufficed for sixty years, without even so much as a centhre inverted. So Mike turned to Poland, and that disthressful counthry woke up. Shades of Sobieski and Konarski, how she woke up! The sixty years of philatelic shleep had been a long nightmare of preparation. Mike struggled valiantly to keep pace with Mr. Trampczersky and his pals, but it was a losing race for Mike, and by the time they got to the Consthitution issue of 1921, Mike laid him down on the hearthrug like a white-hope heavyweight, and smote the floor full many a time.

Then there came a fresh glimmer of hope to our hero. The Ould Counthry herself was going to treat herself to shtamps of her own. Here at least he might stand a chance if he got in on the ground floor, or even below it, at the post-office in Dublin's fair city. With Irish shtamps, to be sure, he would be on terra firma, and being on the spot he could have as many of them as he liked, for they were sure to be as plentiful as black eyes at an Irish wedding.

So he began with the Rialtas when there were as yet no Saorstats, and the only accent to worry about in Ireland was the brogue. It seemed all plain sailing at first with the Dollards and the Thoms and the Harrison's an' all, and then came the Free States, and they set tled poor Mike's hash for him. As if i mattered whether an accent were grave or acute or perpendicular or horizontal, or indade if it were left out altogether, and put back by thumb. Mike had the overprints in shiny black, and it was not difficult to turn some of them into dull blacks when he felt he preferred them that way, but the accents which would have been easy enough for him to insert by hand (30sh variety) bothered him, for try as he would he could never find a stamp without an accent where there should have been one, and £7 was too much to pay for them, and then when they showed Mike in the catalogue that a penny stamp without the accent and without a final "t" as well was priced at £27, the poor fellow gave up; his own counthry had done the dirthy on him.

Mike is no longer a specialist; he is a general collector. Specialism, he says, is like a glass that's so big, 'tis better to drink out of the bottle.—Stamp Coll. Fortnightly.

PRECANCELS OF CARTHAGE, MO.

By DR. J. M. BROOKS.

Carthage is the county seat of Jasper County, with a population of 10,375. It is surrounded by a rich farming and fruit growing country, and is in the heart of the famous Sarcoxie strawberry fields. It is the seat of the great Carthage limestone quarries, from which building stone is shipped all over the country. There are three railways and many fine highways, several of which are the main routes to the famous playgrounds in the Ozarks not far away.

Carthage has used two precancel types. The first one, type I of the catalog, was a handstamp similar to U-73; a large per cent of these stamps were illegible, being a mere smudge. Good readable copies are not plentiful. The 1917 issue was precanceled up to and including the 30c. I have not seen the 50c, and don't know if it exists.

Type II is an electro like U-10, and is scarce on the 1917 issue, as it was begun just as the present issue was coming into use. The 9c and 13c of the old issue are the only ones I know of.

In the 1922 issue all values up to and including the 50c were issued, unless it be the 25c, which I have not seen. If the $1 has been issued, I have not seen it. (I have been told that Carthage uses the $1 on shipments of overalls. Reported to me from western Kansas, A.F.G.) All Carthage precancels are good property and scarce. While many are used, most of them fall into non-collectors' hands. If there is a precancel collector in Carthage or her neighboring cities of Sarcoxie, Webb City, Carterville, or Joplin, cities representing a population of over 50,000 people, I have never been able to get in touch with him. I live 28 miles from Carthage, and am the only collector to my knowledge in her territory.

My estimate is that not over 5% of Carthage precancels reach a territory beyond 50 miles from the city, as her business industries using precancels supply a local territory mostly, with the above radius.

Carthage issues are in no way tainted, no favors are shown in that office. I specialize in Missouri, and there are many Carthage precancels that I have never seen. Needless to say, I would be glad to fill up my sets.—Precancel Gazette.

THOMAS KEAY TAPLING, M. P.

By Charles J. Phillips.

I do not think that many of my readers will know anything about the great English collector who formed one of the finest general collections ever made in England, if not the finest, and on his death left it to the British Museum for the use of the public forever.

Mr. Tapling was born in the year 1855 and is said to have commenced collecting stamps when he was ten years of age, and unlike many other boys, he seems to have maintained an intelligent interest in the pursuit all through his school boy days. He went to Harrow at the age of 15 and afterwards to Trinity College, Cambridge, where in 1878 he graduated with honors in law taking the degrees of M.A. and LL.M. At college Mr. Tapling was known as a proficient in Athletic Sports, being Captain of his College Cricket Eleven as well as a good rider and an excellent shot.

He joined the London Philatelic Society in 1871 and was thus early brought in contact with the leading British collectors.

After taking his degree he studied medicine for a time but the law was the profession which he intended to follow and he was called to the Bar at Inner Temple in 1880.

The death of his father in 1882, however, changed the whole course of his life.

He found himself left at the head of the well known firm of Thomas Tapling & Co., Wholesale Carpet Dealers of Gresham St., London, and giving up the profession which he had chosen, he threw all his energies into business.

In 1881 he was elected Vice-President of the London Philatelic Society.

In 1882 he purchased the famous collection of W. E. Image, at that time one of the finest in England. Later on he practically purchased the bulk of the famous collection formed in Paris by the Caillebotte Brothers.

In 1886 Mr. Tapling was elected Member of Parliament for the Harborough Division of Leicesershire, his country estate being at Gumley Hall in that Shire. His London residence was at Kingswood, South London, a noble mansion standing in large grounds on a hill close to the station, in which he had private sales. On several occasions I had the pleasure of spending Sunday with Mr. Tapling and he was not only one of the finest students that Great Britain ever had but one of the most lovable men and the kindest friend that anyone could possibly have.

He read very many papers at the Philatelic Society, especially very learned ones on the issues of Afghanistan, Turkey, Tasmania, New South Wales, etc.

His health was never good, as I believe he suffered from a weak chest and his death took place on the 11th of April, 1891, at Gumley Hall, death resulting from a chill which he got when attending to his Parliamentary duties in London. This turned to pleurisy, and we thus lost one of the greatest Philatelists that Great Britain ever had.

When Mr. Tapling's will was proved it was found that he had left to the Trustees of the British Museum his entire collection of Postage Stamps and everything belonging to him appertaining to the science or hobby of stamp collecting upon the condition that the collection was never to be broken up and was to be kept in a separate portion of a room to be called "The Tapling Collection" and to be always accessible to the President and the Secretary of the Philatelic Society.

In due course this collection was handed over to the authorities and they arranged with Mr. Tapling's great friend, Mr. Edward Denny Bacon, to arrange the collection and mount it for exhibition.

The stamps are now on view in the King's Library in the British Museum. They are shown in a beautiful series of upright cases with the slides all enclosed, arranged in alphabetical order so that the public can go in and draw out any particular frame which they desire to inspect;—the stamps are shown under thin slabs of plate glass and when not being inspected, are all kept in the dark and are beautifully preserved.

It is, I think, a great pity that up to now the Museum has not published a catalogue. Personally, I was always an advocate of such being done and in 1895 I arranged with my good friend and associate in the firm of Stanley Gibbons, the late Mr. Gordon Smith, to write a list of the collection, and we commenced to publish the same in the Monthly Journal. This list can be referred to by those who wish to see what have been published commencing in the Monthly Journal, Volume V, May, 1895, and continuing to Volume XII, December, 1901. Shortly after this date Mr. Gordon Smith died and I never found anyone else to carry it on in a satisfactory manner. The Philatelic student will find the details in the lists therein published of considerable use and it is only to be regretted that so few countries were written up. Amongst those that have been so dealt with are all the West Indies, the United States of America, Mauritius, India, France, and a few others.

It is difficult to give any general idea of the stamps in this collection. Its value today, I should think, would be close to Two Million Dollars. Nearly all the great rarities are here in the standard stamps. For instance, Hawaiian Islands, first issue, two types each of each value with several extra copies.

The British North American Colonies are a superb lot. Of the one shilling values alone in Nova Scotia, New Brunswick and Newfoundland there are 27 specimens, many of them unused. This includes a pair of one shilling unused orange-vermilion Newfoundland, which I believe is unique.

The Buenos Aires are a very fine lot, about 100 of the Ship Type, all unused, including rows of the 3 peso green, 4 peso red and 5 peso orange.

Where possible, the collection contains reconstructed or uncut plates of the British Colonial and other stamps that can be plated, such as New South Wales, Tasmania, Mauritius, Nevis and many others.

I would strongly advise all American Philatelists who visit London to be sure and make a point of seeing this magnificent collection when they visit the British Museum.—Philatelic Classics.

THE PRECANCEL REVIEW

By FREDERICK W. ALLEN, 405 Oak St. S. E., Minneapolis, Minn.

BROOKLYN. N. Y.	CLEVELAND OHIO.	TONAWANDA NEW YORK
MANKATO MINN.	BATAVIA N. Y.	BOULDER COLO.

Part I. The Illustrations

So many interesting types have been appearing, which I believe should be illustrated, that it is necessary to show a group of six in this article if we are to be up to the minute with our news of them.

Brooklyn, N. Y.—Changes to the U-12 from the U-10. There is no improvement in my opinion, but the change of style will add a touch of variety where it can be appreciated.

Cleveland, O. — Also changes from the U-10. Here, too, we find additional interest as a result. The same type from a large city, year after year, tends to grow monotonous.

Tonawanda, N. Y., Precancels will not go into the waste basket now as a result of illegible handstamping. Formerly this was the case. Now an attractive set, clearly printed, can be mounted since the U-12 electro has been placed in use.

Mankato, Minn., was in about the same class as Tonawanda, when legibility of overprints were considered. It is pleasing to note that the precancels from here are now bearing the U-12 overprint.

Boulder, Colo.—We were agreeably surprised here. Boulder is not a prolific user of precancels, but has been a fairly steady one. The old U-51 handstamp has been of good service and deserves to be retired in favor of the new electro.

Batavia, N. Y.—Through the courtesy of one of our readers I am able to illustrate the new electro style now in use. Besides the 3, 6, 1½ and 15c Special, shown me, I have the 2, 4, 5 and 10c.

Part II. Miscellaneous

Alexandria, Minn.—On the 1c (inverted), and 15c current series are new to Minnesota specialists. The style is U-71. What angler is there who has not heard of this famous resort in the heart of Minnesota's lake region?

Crookston, Minn.—Precancelled with the box roller for several seasons. Now the office has a handstamp like New Berlin, N. Y.

Elk River, Minn. — A well known village in the old lumbering days. In December, 1927, the post office used precancels for the first time. All values from one cent to one dollar were precancelled for the holiday season. The style is like New Berlin, N. Y.

Minneapolis, Minn. — I was astonished to find a 10c current series, perf. 10. with the local overprinting, not the Bureau, in a lot. A block of six of the current 8c, with DOUBLE overprint is a fine piece reported as a recent pick-up by Chas. Metz.

Dayton, O.—On the current 2c in the U-71 handstamp is an interesting item to note, for Dayton has never before used handstamped precancels.

Des Plaines, Ill. — Appears on the current series in two lines of plain caps between lines, which overprint may be described as U-73. Phillipsburg, Pa., has also the same type.

Precancel Stamp Society has just issued its annual Year Book and Proceedings of St. Louis Convention. It is surprising to note the rapid growth of membership. Sales and Exchange Departments are functioning smoothly, and on the whole the report for the year is an excellent one. Dr. Mitchell is the present head of the Society. Any reader desiring to get in touch with a group of live precancel enthusiasts may secure the particulars from the editor of this department.

"Precancel Gazette" is the only magazine catering directly to just the precancel fan. The able Prof. A. F. Gam-

ORIGINAL COVERS

Last week, I advertised in this space some early United States on cover. The offerings are still available.

Now, perhaps a word about my stock may not be amiss. For years I have been a firm believer in covers and have bought heavily. I think I can say without fear of contradiction that no dealer in the world holds an equal to my stock of United States covers.

A list of your wants will be appreciated. Please include reference (your bank and two stamp dealers preferred), if you have not been an approval customer of mine within two years.

25th Anniversary Announcement

BOSTON

This fine old city is noted philatelically for the unusual variety of interesting postmarks and cancellations used in its Post Office during the first half century of the stamp era.

A collection of stamps and covers showing these Post Office markings in the sequence of their use forms an historical exhibit of great philatelic interest.

The postal history of many other of the larger cities can be shown by such collections of stamps and covers but until recent years this most fascinating and important work has been largely neglected and the field is still open to all.

I can supply suitable material used in Boston, New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Chicago, New Orleans, San Francisco, and other cities, both in domestic use and on covers showing "British Packet" and other ship and transit postmarks to many foreign countries. Correspondence invited. [H

ROGER C. HACKETT, Bosse High School, HENRY A. MEYER, Central High School, Evansville, Indiana.

Stamps and History

Now as to particular stamps which may serve as illustrative materials and how they may be used. In the first place, portraits of hundreds of the world's leaders in all walks of life are found on them. These are of interest not only in a physiognomic sense, but also in pointing out what persons the different countries have seen fit to honor. In the United States every one of our thirty presidents has been honored by having his portrait appear on one or more stamps, or stamped envelopes or postals, with the exception of Van Buren, William Henry Harrison, Tyler, Polk, Fillmore, Pierce, Buchanan, Johnson, Arthur, Taft and Coolidge. The unwritten rule that living celebrities shall not be so honored, of course, keeps portraits of the last two from our stamps. Franklin and Washington, the Americans most frequently honored by our stamps, have usually had their portraits on the one and two cent values, which are, of course, those in most general use.

Other Americans whose portraits appear on our stamps include Clay, Farragut, Fremont, Nathan Hale, Hamilton, Livingston, Marshall, Oliver H. Perry, Scott, Seward, Sherman, John Smith, Stanton, Martha Washington, and Webster. In addition, portraits of Columbus, Balboa, Pocahontas, and Marquette, who can hardly be classed as "Americans" in the ordinary meaning of the word, appear on various stamps. On the stamps of the Confederate states are found the portraits of Washington, Jackson, Calhoun, and Jefferson Davis. The Hispanic-American nations have honored great numbers of their multitude of presidents, dictators, emperors, and generals. Often the men so honored have had their portrait appear during the time of their power and under their orders, a la royalty! Sometimes several countries have honored the same man. Thus Simon Bolivar's portrait appears on the stamps of Bolivia, Brazil, Colombia, Peru, and Venezuela, and San Martin's on those of Argentine, Brazil and Chile. Brazil issued a stamp in 1909, containing the portraits of five of the American liberators, the central one being that of George Washington. Among the more prominent Hispanic-Americans, besides those already mentioned, but not including those who are mentioned hereinafter in connection with commemorative stamps, whose portraits are found on postage stamps are Hidalgo, Juarez, Maximilian, Madero, and Carranza (Mexico); Zelaya, Escalon, Medina, Jiminez, and Barrios (Central American states); Las Casas (the famous colonial champion of the Indians), Simon Sam, Nord Alexis, and Leconte (Haiti and Dominican Republic); Gomez, Garcia, and Maceo (Cuba); and Narino, Sucre, Urdaneta, Penna, Fonseca, and Emperor Dom Pedro II (South American states).

In the European countries almost every monarchy has portrayed every one of its sovereigns on stamps since each began their issuance. In some cases other members of the royal family are portrayed—for instance, Alphonso XIII, Queen Victoria and all their children are seen on an express letter stamp issued by Spain in 1926. Greece and Germany have been the only monarchies none of whose sovereigns have appeared on stamps, although Mohammed V is the only Turkish sultan portrayed. In Africa, Menelek II is seen on the stamps of Abyssinia. Japan, Persia, Siam, and a few of the native states of India are the only Asiatic monarchies which have pictured royalty on their stamps. No monarchy anywhere has ever portrayed anyone not of royal blood on its regular stamps. Many such individuals, however, are pictured on commemorative stamps.

The republics of Europe, Asia, and Africa have presented us with the stamp portraits of Marx, Engels, Petofi, Martinovics, Dozsa (Bela Kun's short-lived Bolshevist government in Hungary), Masaryk (Czechoslovakia); Haydn, Mozart, Beethoven, Schubert, Bruckner, Strauss, and Wolf (Austria); Lenine (Russia); William Tell (Switzerland), Paderewski and Pilsudski (Poland); Goethe, Schiller, Frederick the Great, Kant, Lessing, Leibnitz, Bach, and Durer (Germany); Yuan Shih Kai and Dr. Sun Yat Sen (China); and Presidents Johnson, Gibson, and Barclay (Liberia).

The colonies of European countries have in general followed the lead of the mother country in their stamp designs, at least as far as individuals are concerned. Exceptions on regular issues may be noted as follows: Gen. Faidherbe (French colonies in Africa, in the foundation of which he was active), the Virgin Mary (Virgin Islands, Bavaria, and Liechtenstein), St. Paul (Malta); Prince Consort Albert, Queen Victoria's husband (Canada), and Gen. Baden-Powell, the founder of the Boy Scouts (Cape of Good Hope).

The Philippine Islands is the only possession of the United States, if the Canal Zone be not included under this heading, which does not use the regular stamps of the home country. Portraits of Rizal, McKinley, Magellan, Legaspi, Lawton, Lincoln, Sampson, Washington, Carriedo, and Franklin are found on the Philippine Stamps. The issues of the Kingdom and Republic of Hawaii portraits of eleven members of t Kamehameha dynasty (including Liliuokalani, the last of the line) a President Dole.

But stamps illustrate history in ways other than by showing portrai famous men and occasionally fa women. Among the multitudinous age stamp designs are those feat public buildings and monuments; flags, natural features, especially falls and mountains; agricultural industrial scenes; ships, trains, aut biles, and other vehicles; and ani birds, fishes, flowers, fruits, and p

A MIXTURE:—

OUR subscribers have doubtless noticed the series of advertisements that F. E. Hook, Grand Rapids, Mich., is running in the WEEKLY. If not, note his advertisement this week. Mr. Hook is going through his stamps and his offerings will embrace a line of popular stamps that should prove interesting.

A FINE feature appeared in the New Bedford Standard Feb. 5. It described the collecting activities of Curtis H. Stiles of that city. Mrs. Stiles figures in the story, also the five children and the dog. All but Major have been bitten by the hobby, indeed, Mrs. Stiles declares stamp collecting a very "litter-y" hobby, but of course it's a little pleasantry upon her part. Clipping from EDW. E. MCWILLIAM.

PHILIP R. HOUGH, renewing his subscription, writes us at length in regard to what our U. S. Postal department could do in the way of scenic issues. He outlines a very pretentious program of a dozen sets covering a wide range of subjects issued at intervals of about ten years.

THE firm of H. & G. H. Jopling informs us that an error occurred in a recent advertisement in which they advertised the 5d Scripts. The advertisement read:—"St. Vincent (5d script) is already at $5, etc." This should have been Virgin Islands, as later in the advertisement the firm announced the St. Vincent 5d at only 15c. The firm has been deluged with replies, as might have been expected, and deeply regrets the error.

"I JUST received from Athens, Greece, a consignment in which there were sheets of six of the Greece catalog Nos. 1118 and 1123. These are undoubtedly counterfeits although pretty good ones, and apt to deceive. Please note that the color is paler and the paper is thinner in the forgeries. There are variations in the type, such as broken letter n in the second line of the 10L, the red control line and the blue cancelling mark are also paler. The same consignor also sent me a lot of the Epirus Nos. 40 to 46, also bad.—EUGENE KLEIN.

A. B. MOSS sends us a cutting from the Brooklyn Daily Eagle showing a new stamp selling machine, the first to be installed in the lobby of main post office in Manhattan. It delivers 1c, 2c, five 2c, and a 25c booklet of stamps, stamped envelopes and postcards. Some machine, surely. Service at face value.

AT the annual meeting of the Southern Tier Stamp Society held January 16, the following officers were elected: Pres., Chas. Haase, M.D.; Vice Pres., Chas. R. Seely; Sec.-Treas., Kenneth B. Levegood, 970 Walnut St., Elmira, N. Y. There was a large attendance, 25 members being present. Meetings held monthly at the office of Dr. Haase, 52 Lake St., Elmira, N. Y.

READERS need have no hesitancy in answering advertisements that appear from time to time in the name of the Kolar Co., Dallas, Texas, for its proprietor is none other than Elizabeth L. Guest, wife of J. E. Guest, Sales Manager of the A. P. S. Mrs. Guest is starting out in the stamp line on her own resources and we wish her success.

MR. M. OHLMAN writes us that he is being overworked on account of our insurance item of a few weeks ago. He writes as follows: "I wish you would state only these facts, as some people may be afraid to send in stamps after the robbery. Mr. Doane and myself have made arrangements through a philatelic insurance agent whereby we can insure material sent us for auction, against forcible entry and the burglarizing of our safes, any material sent us for auction 'at the amount at which we appraise same,' at a cost of 1 per cent of the value insured and in case of a loss, the owner will receive the amount from the insurance company. Otherwise, I can give no information regarding philatelic insurance, and all letters received, I am forwarding to my broker for answering."

I HAVE recently become very much interested in stampless covers and in this connection naturally desired to investigate the various rates of postage, etc., during the colonial and early periods of our country. I came quite accidentally across an excellent book on early U. S. Postal History that I had never heard of. It should be of great interest to any serious student of our stamp and postal history. THE MONACO EXHIBITION

By C. A. HOWES.

The International Philatelic Exhibition which will take place at Monaco on February 18th to 26th is announced as being assured of the greatest success. It is certain that nothing has been neglected to make it one of the most brilliant occasions of the kind. Collectors who have gathered the world's rarities have consented to exhibit the finest things they possess, and they have the assurance of finding in the Principality a most courteous reception, the most attentive care and the most stringent guarantees for security. They know also that the items shown will be exhibited under the best conditions and that the public will appreciate their value. The great hall of the Palace of Fine Arts of Monte Carlo, superbly decorated, will lend itself admirably to such an exhibition.

The Committee of Arrangements, presided over by a Councillor of the Princely Government, M. Louis de Castre, will spare no pains to give every satisfaction to the exhibition. There will be prepared diplomas, medals and small plaques which will form precious souvenirs for the prize winners. Seconded in Paris by the eminent General Organizer, M. Theodore Champion, there have been collected numerous gifts and subscriptions for the prizes to be offered. On his side M. Gamerdinger, the Commissioner-General, whose indefatigable activity is known to all, is occupying himself with all the details in order to have everything properly arranged for bringing to a complete success the work undertaken.

The Committee likewise has selected a magnificent work of art, which will be assigned as a trophy for the collector who exhibits the finest pieces, in the judgment of a particularly competent jury. Nor have they thought only of the success of the Exhibition, for they have also organized entertainments especially for those who will participate in this philatelic event. We can already announce a brilliant evening fête in the bay of Monaco, and a gala performance with the most famous artists at the celebrated theatre of Monte Carlo. Local committees will also arrange celebrations to coincide with the period of the Exhibition.

The catalogue, which is so important a part of the Exhibition, will detail more completely than the programme already circulated the individuals, the Societies and the representatives of the philatelic press who make up the different Committees. It will give also an historical study of the Post in Monaco, since the Middle Ages, from the researches Sauve, attaché of the Archives Off the Palace.

The names of the principal donc art objects and medals will be anno later.

Enquiries should be addressed to Louise Bouzonnie, Secretary of th hibition, P. O. Box 7, Monaco City will be pleased to answer post free

OUR REVIEW

By C. A. Howes.

We are in receipt of Zumstein's "Small Special Catalogue of the Stamps of Switzerland," to translate its title in German. It is the third edition and seems to be very popular with collectors of Swiss stamps, which are relatively cheap and attractive after the Cantonal issues are passed. It is a thoroughly specialized catalogue, even pricing the better stamps in pairs and blocks of four, and on cover. Like Scott's Catalogue it lists the type stamp under a whole number, and all varieties are sublettered under this number—shades, minor varieties of engraving, printing, etc.,—except the large and small perforations and the plain and silk papers.

The catalogue lists the regular postage stamps first, beginning with the Cantonals, of course. Then follows the tête-bêche varieties of recent years, grouped together, and the stamp booklets. Next are the postage dues, followed by postal frank stamps, the charity stamp issues (which have attracted so many to Swiss stamps), the air-post stamps, the official stamps, the private stamps (of the Swiss Hotel posts), and the telegraph stamps.

There are 208 pages of text with 440 illustrations, all the latter being at least the full size of the stamps, and some enlarged, with plenty of enlargements of the minor varieties described. As the paper is of good surfaced quality, the illustrations all show up well. Copious notes and explanations are found all through the work, and the prices are brought up to date. As Messrs. Zumstein & Co. are specialists in Swiss stamps as well as general dealers, one can be assured that these prices reflect most correctly the current quotations for Swiss stamps. They are given in Swiss francs, of course, which have retained their pre-war value. The price of the catalogue is Swiss Francs 1.25 (about 25 cents, U. S.) from Zumstein & Co., Marktgasse 50, Berne, Switzerland.

Again we have received a copy of that superb stamp magazine "Filatelia," published in Turin, Italy. As usual its contents supply "food for thought" for many tastes, and in several languages. We note articles on the new Union of South Africa issue (in English), Interesting Cancellations on the first Swiss stamps (in German), Philately and the Microscope [Southern Nigeria dies] (in English), Palestine and Transjordan, enlarged cuts of minor varieties, stamps of Liechtenstein (in French), the Coming Pictorial stamps of France (French), Forgeries and Reprints of Sardinia (English), U. S. Local Posts (Italian), the Paris Stamp Bourse (German), the Oldest Post Card (Italian), the World Triumph of Philately (English), etc., as well as the prospectuses of the Expositions to be held at Monaco, Strasburg and Milan. As usual there is the unique feature of the translation into French of all the articles which are not written in that language. Album pages for recent new issues make up the balance of the number. Published by "Editrice Filatelica," P. O. Box 487, Turin, Italy, at lire 48.35 without new issue supplement, or lire 60.35 with this supplement.

Messrs. Bright & Son have sent us the fourteenth edition of their "A. B. C." catalogue of the stamps of the British Empire. It has been some five years since the last edition was issued, due to changes in the proprietorship of the business, so that a thorough revision of this popular catalogue has taken place. Perhaps the first thing to be noticed is that three sets of prices are given for the British stamps, unused, used with "light" cancellation and used with "usual" cancellation. This is a very excellent idea for, as we all know, British stamps are quite apt to be heavily cancelled, and a really fine used copy is well worth looking for and commands a much better price than the "usual" variety. But it seems to us that the differentiation of used copies might well have stopped with the 1887 issue, unless of the high values, as these and later issues are common enough so that really fine used copies are the only ones worth considering. We note that inverted or reversed watermarks are catalogued, though seldom priced save in recent issues, and the no watermark stamps of the current issue as well. The "cut out" stamps from envelopes, wrappers, telegraph forms, post and letter cards, which are allowed to be used for postage, are all listed and most of them priced, but mention is made of the fact that the prices are "for copies used on the entire cover or on a portion of same." Postal fiscals, official stamps and the Levant issues are all represented, and a list of stamps "used abroad" with the cancellations of the British foreign post offices. Throughout the lists plate numbers are given full attention.

GETTING ON
I now have 22 subscribers to my new issue Service of British Colonials. A gain of 100% in a month. This is a de Luxe Service for particular people—a complete record is kept of distributions and any box short of some item is supplied eventually, which is quite different from the usual "hit or miss" method. I am prepared to mail the Prospectus of this Service on request, but Post Card communications go direct into that great American Receptacle, the Waste Paper Basket.

Turning to the Colonial issues, we were somewhat surprised to find Arabia (replacing Hedjaz and Nejd) and Egypt included, both being supposedly independent kingdoms, while Nepal is retained as of old, though this also is an independent kingdom. The reason is, of course, that these states are within the "British Sphere of Influence," as is noted in regard to Egypt in the preface. The Australian Commonwealth, Arabia, Transjordania, N. W. Pacific Islands, have been rewritten, and watermark varieties have been added as in Great Britain. We note that these latter, as well as imperforate varieties, are sublettered under the full number given the stamp, but that shades are still given full numbers. It seems to us that Scott's arrangement of the full numbers for the type stamps and the sublettering of all varieties is much to be preferred.

The catalogue is a very handy one for those collecting this group of stamps, the paper is good quality and the illustrations are good, mostly full size, but some reduced, and also some enlargements of surcharges and type varieties. We note the use of halfpennies in the prices, and believe this is new to British catalogues. The prices have been revised, particularly among early issues and those of the last decade. The issues in between do not require much alteration at present in their opinion. On the whole a very attractive and handy catalogue, with prices below Gibbons in many cases. Published by Bright & Son, 164 Strand, London, W. C., at 3 shillings and 10 pence, post free.

A 15,000 MILE AIR MAIL FLIGHT

(Clipping from Oregon "Journal".)

(The enclosed clipping describes an All-American Air Mail Cover which I sent out last spring, and which came through to me in very fine condition. The description as printed will be, I think, interesting to other Air Mail cover collectors, although I understand such cumbersome pieces are not now accepted by postmasters.—A. H. LOMAX.)

One of Portland's most enthusiastic stamp collectors is A. H. Lomax of No. 677 East 13th Street north, whose own collection is enriched by some oddities in the way of stamps and stamp arrangements.

Hoping to test the extent and efficiency of the air mail routes, he co-operated with friends in starting a parcel on its way, properly stamped and marked so that it would traverse every mail route covered by airplanes in the United States. This parcel found its way back to him with the cancellations showing that these routes actually were traversed. The "log" of this parcel follows:

Left Youngstown, Ohio, at 3 p. m., April 21, 1927, on the first flight, contract air mail No. 11, to Cleveland, Ohio, arriving at 9 p. m. the same day, and thence to the various air mail points of the United States.

Leaving Cleveland for its transportation west, the cover is carried three times to Chicago, in order to reach main points on regular routes, and thus to Pacific coast points, arriving at Los Angeles at 5 p. m., May 5, via Pasco, Wash., and Salt Lake City. From Los Angeles the cover is carried north to Seattle, then South to San Francisco, arriving May 8 at 6.30 p. m.

From San Francisco the cover is carried to New York, arriving at 8 p. m., May 10. From New York the cover goes to Boston, arriving the next day at 1 p. m., and immediately starting on its journey south to Atlanta, Ga., via New York, Philadelphia and Norfolk, Va., reaching Atlanta at 6 p. m. on May 13.

Leaving the latter city on its journey north and west the cover reaches Chicago at 7 p. m., May 14 and Pasco, Wash., at 1.30 p. m., May 15.

From Pasco to Portland the cover is carried by rail, arriving at 8.30 a. m., May 16, after a journey of approximately 15,000 miles in 24 days and 17½ hours.

THE MONACO EXHIBITION

We have received from Jos. A. Steinmetz of Philadelphia, a detailed account of his exhibit at the Monaco Exhibition to be held under royal patronage Feb. 18 to 26. It consists of twenty-five rare stamps on letters and twenty-five rare covers of the stamps of Asia, Africa, America and Oceania. The covers are picked at random from his collection. We take the liberty of quoting from his letter as follows:

"I wish you would speak of the opportunity thus presented to American collectors in exhibiting in foreign countries. It will be tremendously helpful in giving Europeans a proper appreciation of the interest taken by the philatelists of America. Such exhibitions tend to establish good-will between nations, and are in keeping with the spirit of the times.

The Monaco Exhibition will be patronized by the great philatelists of Europe, and many important stamp exhibits will be seen. I hope there will be representatives from the United States."

Accompanying Mr. Steinmetz' letter was a detailed account of his exhibits, and we regret we do not have the space to publish it in its entirety.

WHAT TO COLLECT IN PRECANCELS

By A. F. GAMBER.

I get so many letters from precancel collectors, active or prospective, asking, "what shall I collect," that it occurs to me a few words on this topic might not prove amiss.

The beginner is at a loss just where to start in. His case is more puzzling than that of the regular postage beginner, owing to the much wider range of the field. I believe the lack of a guiding hand and a little friendly advice often causes recent precancel beginners to drop out and thus become lost to the game.

What follows is the result of the writer's own observation and of his talks with men who have been in the game for a long time. It is not the road he followed himself, so in this case you will have to "do as I say, not as I do."

My suggestion to the precancel beginner is this: Before you mount a single stamp, decide which of two roads you will follow, that of collecting a certain group of states, or all states. If the former, your work is automatically cut out for you, there is nothing for you to do but get 'em, and the sooner you get 'em after they come out, the better it will be, for there's no time like the present for precancels.

In case you decide to take in all states, here is another suggestion: owing to the great number of precancels already in existence, a number which increases at every tick of the clock, almost, it will be wise for you at the beginning to limit yourself within certain bounds. Now these bounds may be the bounds of types or the bounds of cities. I mean this: you may limit your collecting to the precancels bearing overprints of certain types only. For example, one good way is to limit yourself to electro or printed overprints, eschewing all handstamps. This is a nice way to limit yourself. Another way is to limit yourself to the stamps from cities of certain sizes. Start off, say with only the cities of 500,000 population. Maybe you think that isn't a big enough order for an ambitious beginner, but after the ambitious beginner has followed this 500,000 population trail a few months, he begins to see that he has a lot of work cut out for himself. Then, when you begin to feel that your work has shown satisfactory progress, take down another bar, let in the cities of down to 250,000 population, and play around with them for a while. That will prove another big mouthful, they and the larger ones will give you all you want to do. Later your bars can be let down still farther, to include those down to 100,000, and so on. You get the idea by this time, I know. In this way you are working in a field which is large enough for the moment, yet which can be enlarged at any time.

It was the fad a while back to specialize in the precancelled Commemoratives, but at present these pretty stamps are under a cloud, due to the fact that a few petty thieves and grafters have had so many of them precancelled at various offices as a favor for themselves. The great body of collectors frown on this practice, and are taking forcible steps to put a stop to it as far as possible, but the Commemoratives suffer as a result. Some go in for the special denominations, such as 13c, 14c, 17c, 25c and the like. This is a nice field, but not productive of enough varieties to keep the collector busy. General collecting is the thing, more and more collectors are embarking on this field, where a short time back specialization was all the thing.—Stamp Echo.

EDITORIAL

Covers coming over the first night Chicago-Dallas route, C.A.M., No. 3, were dated February 1, at each terminal. Chicago used a rubber-stamp impression, "First Night Flight," but Dallas did not rise to the occasion with a special marking. The Dallas-San Antonio route was opened on February 6th, according to schedule; and Mr. Edgar C. Cantrell, San Antonio, is entitled to much of the credit for having brought forth an "Alamo" postmark for the air mail covers originating in his city. Some time ago he called the attention of the manager of the Chamber of Commerce to the desirability of using a special cancellation on the first flight, and as a result the city comes to the fore with a distinctive marking. Houston, too, used a striking "Lone Star" cancellation on its firsts, as we see from a cover that came from Mr. E. J. Stedston of that city.

The Associated Press recently called attention to the General Sandrino "protest stamps," the sale of which is intended to provide funds to further the Nicaraguan's activities in the field. It is not alleged that the stamps have any postalic validity, but they are used to "protest against the marine rule in Nicaragua" when affixed to the back of letters. The stamps are the creation of the All-America Anti-Imperialist League, and the postmaster at New York has warned that the use of the stickers might be followed by prosecution.

A reader is anxious to know of any printed albums for private proprietary issues, match, medicine, perfumery and playing card, of the Civil War period. He thinks that an album that was designed for spaces for these stamps would stimulate the collecting of them. The first album of this kind that we know of was the Revenue Stamp Album published by J. W. Scott & Co., 1874; and the latest that issued by Mr. Carter of Brooklyn, not so many years ago, when these stamps were much on the surface. It is something of a trick to provide spaces for the stamps of irregular shape, but blank pages may be used to advantage for them. In fact, one of the pleasures of collecting them lies in the manner in which they may be arranged on the blank pages; and it is doubtful whether a new printed album for U. S. revenues, private proprietaries, would meet with a heavy sale. The blank page album is the logical candidate for the favor of the collector of these stamps, although the printed album may have its following.

Lindbergh was not forgotten in Haiti, according to the press accounts, by those who have his philatelic interests at heart. The inevitable presentation of stamps to him was not overlooked by the enthusiastic Haitians; and so, Lindbergh's philatelic holdings increase and we hope before long to have some definite indication of his philatelic leanings.

The installation of a philatelic agency by the government of Sweden, in the post office at Stockholm, was announced some time ago, and we find particulars of the innovation in a well-prepared article in the Svensk Filatelistisk Tidskrift, dated January 15, 1928. Through the kindness of Mr. K. A. Wallquist, we are enabled to give the following review of the editorial in question: "The Sveriges Filatelist Forening, some time ago called the attention of the Swedish P. O. Department to this subject, and after investigations of such agencies in other countries, the Swedish post office department has now inaugurated such an agency where philatelists in Sweden and other countries get their philatelic orders attended to, and also obtain a catalog in English or German, listing the stamps available for collectors at the Swedish Agency. When writing to the Agency, address as follows: Frankoteckensexpeditionen, Stockholm, 2, Sweden. As our correspondent says, collectors in this country will undoubtedly appreciate this action by the Swedish P. O. Department, and congratulate the Sveriges Filatelist Forening for the favorable influence that it exerted.

We should like a list of all the various philatelic agencies, maintained by the different governments throughout the world, as a number of subscribers have asked for a roster of the kind. We want to know that each item in the roll has been authenticated because it has been found that we received complaints concerning the modus operandi of several of the offices that we have named in the past. Details that entered into the transactions with one or more agencies evidently were not fully understood by the correspondents, and we have been chary in listing all the agencies until it is known that every address on the roll be validated. Several correspondents who have promised to compile a list have not yet done their work, but the subject of these agencies is one that is growing in interest and we want to satisfy those who have written us as well as many others who have not.

A dealer received a ten cent green of 1861, U. S., among other stamps that had little or no value from a point in Iowa; and the sender placed a valuation of one thousand dollars on the stamp specified. The dealer returned the lot and said that the stamps were of no value with the exception of the 10c, 1861, which was worth a dollar. The dealer was none too happy to get this stamp again from the irrepressible Iowan who said that the dealer could have it for a dollar. Let the mathematician figure out the discount represented by one dollar to one thousand, and then wonder why the dealer demurred at his bargain.

A development that seems to be expanding in its scope is a result of the somewhat frequent coming of commemorative stamps from our post office department and their effect on the minds of the people. Postmaster General New is a proponent of the historical stamp and makes no secret of his espousal of it when the stamp serves to mark an event fraught with patriotic or progressive meaning. His position is respected by many collectors who formerly showed an antipathy to the special stamp, but who have now reversed their opinion of historical stamps whose birthright is certified to in the bright annals of American history. To speak with some exaggeration, but with a measure of truth, these later stamps have inspired a spirit of patriotic interest and inquiry by bringing evidence to the doors of the people of their priceless heritage, nationally. A reader who watches the current of philatelic thought with attention confesses to having had a change of sentiment for the historical issues, and he thinks that they have a stimulating influence in a patriotic way; the recent stamps have caused him to read again the passages that as a student he perused without the maturer realization of their significance. He is thankful that his attention has been turned back to them, and he credits the stamps for having reopened fascinating pages for him. He favors a Valley Forge commemorative, and looks to next year, saying that he recommends that a stamp celebrate the opening of the first Congress at New York in 1789. He argues that the memorable meeting provides a rich background for stamp treatment. He has copied the following impressive description of the day by Fisher Ames, the Massachusetts statesman and orator and friend of Washington. Ames was a member of the first Congress in 1789; he was born in 1758 and died in 1808, and the account as follows appears in Frederick Scott Oliver's recently published "Alexander Hamilton": "The returns from the electoral colleges showed that General Washington had been chosen president by a unanimous vote: "... approached the Hall of Congress, h... seen to retain the firm elastic step ... yet vigorous soldier's frame. THE SCOTT STAMP AND COIN CO.

HAS PURCHASED THE

Edward S. Knapp Collection of CONFEDERATE STATES, GENERAL ISSUES

This famous collection, comprising Nos. 200 to 212 inclusive, is, in all respects, the most unusual single gathering of Confederate States ever made.

This collection, which has won first award wherever exhibited, is unique in the quality of its rare pieces. In its comprehensiveness it stands as a monument to the labors and researches which have given Mr. Knapp preeminence in the philately of the Confederacy.

We are not selling individual pieces, for the collection is too remarkable thus to be broken up, but only by groups. The collection is so well known that a detailed description of it is unnecessary.

We will be glad to enter into arrangements whereby interested parties may inspect such of these groups as are not already sold when this announcement appears. Correspondence. [tf

OUR ERROR IN PRICE

Attention is called to a bad error made our printers in the advertisement of Cortlandt Stamp Co. in the Jan. 30th cial. The British Guiana 96c white k No. 188, was priced at $1.25, when should have been $3.50, as the copy inly gave it. We acknowledge the er- and crave the indulgence of the ad- tiser and any readers misled by the stake.

THE HOME OF THE POSTAGE STAMP
BOX 3, JACKSON HEIGHTS, NEW YORK
J. Avery Wells Telephone, Havemeyer 3350. J. Van Kirk Wells

IN PASSING:

THE following reference to Mr. William F. E. Gurley, Chicago, will be most interesting to those who recall Mr. Gurley's activities as philatelist, first in Danville, Ill., and then in Chicago. His collections of match and medicine stamps, revenue stamped paper and foreign specialties were famous in their day. Mr. Gurley retires as chief of the Masonic Veteran Association of Illinois, at the age of seventy-five. Mr. Gurley is a paleontologist of Walker Museum, University of Chicago; and at one time was state geologist of Illinois. For the past ten years, Mr. Gurley has been blind.

MR. HENRY M. WEINSTOCK, Milwaukee, Wis., had a stroke of good fortune. He says: "A painter and decorator who removed the residue of old accumulations from a home in this city was instructed to throw away all rubbish. There was a box of old postal covers dated from before the civil war. The same painter was doing some work for me and told me of the box." Mr. Weinstock found a profusion of interesting covers, one of which was marked for return in five days, if the post office could not find the lady who went south to nurse the yellow fever sufferers.

MR. ONEY K. CARSTARPHEN, who for many years has been a tax expert and adviser, has severed his connection with a New York bank and is now in business for himself; and we suppose that he will specialize in stamp folks' returns.

THE first national precancel stamp exhibition to be held in Chicago in connection with the sixth annual convention of the Precancel Stamp Society is taking form, as it were, and already some hundreds of dollars have been subscribed to the exhibition fund, the chairman of which is Adolf Gunesch, 555 West 103 Street, Chicago, Ill. Incidentally, Mr. Gunesch has recently published the first edition of the Catalog of City Type Coil Precancelled Stamps.

IN Cleveland Topics of January 28, 1928, there is a fine portrait of Mr. Alvin Good accompanied by an article, "Hobbies." The excellent publication in question is running a series on hobbies, and Mr. Good and philately have the floor in the issue named. The biographical sketch is an interesting resume of Mr. Good's philatelic activities, which have covered a good many years, from the time previous to that when he was Mr. Worthington's secretary down to the present, when he is engrossed in the preparations for the Midwestern Stamp Exhibition, May 21st to 26th, 1928.

THE second number of the Furniture City Stamp Club "Bulletin," Grand Rapids, Mich., says that Roland Goodman, the editor, has placed exhibits of stamps in the Ryerson and branch libraries where they have attracted attention. We notice that the library at Grand Rapids contains bound volumes of the WEEKLY from 1891 to 1918.

THE "Pacific Stamp News" is a weekly review of western philately that is published at Piedmont, California, at 25c a year. It is literally a sheet consisting of one folio, but it is outspoken and in No. 4, the publishers speak of issuing a correspondence course in Philatelic Salesmanship.

THE Chicago Aero Philatelic Society, which was organized on January 22, 1928, has now attained a membership of over sixty, we are told; and no doubt will continue to flourish under the officership of J. Max Golding, president, and Frederick R. Warner, secretary, Parlor K, Hotel Sherman, Chicago.

MR. RAYMOND V. BAHR, Springfield, Ill., was a recent caller at Chicago, where his interest in air mail in particular is recognized. Mr. Bahr has spoken on the subject on different occasions, and some time ago appeared before a meeting of the Indiana Stamp Club at Indianapolis.

MR. TED. J. TYRRELL is helping the boys in his home town, Jacksonville, Illinois, through a stamp club which meets at his home. His talks to them embrace helpful advice on practical lines of collecting, and is liberal in his donations of stamps for their collections.

MENTION should have been made before of the very successful banquet and auction sale held by the German stamp club last month, in Chicago, when nearly a hundred members and friends were regaled with talks and stamps, not to mention food, to their fill. The capable president, Julius Loeffler, presided at the successful occasion.

THE lots in N. B. Paulson's second auction sale will be displayed in Philadelphia, at Eugene Klein's; in New York, at the office of the Nassau Stamp Co., and in Boston, at Daniel F. Kelliher's. A fine lot of U. S., on and off cover, is included in this Chicago sale.

Guatemala

The most northerly of the republican states of Central America, having an area of 46,774 square miles and a population of over 1,800,000. The first postage stamps for the republic were issued in 1871.

Seen on Stamps

Lietuvos. — Native name for Lithuania: Litauen is German: Lithuania is English: Lithuanie is French. A former province of Russia, now an independent republic, which is contiguous with Latvija. It has very little coast, as it just reaches the Baltic at Polanger. Important cities are Vilna and Kovno.

Lietuvos Pasta. — An inscription found on the stamps of Lietuvos, or Lithuania. It means "Lithuanian Post."

Lietuvos Pasto Zenklas.—See above. This inscription means "Lithuanian Postage Stamp."

Life Insurance Department. — The inscription shown on the special stamps of New Zealand issued in connection with the department dealing with life insurance, which is a government monopoly.

Light and Liberty. — The motto shown under the coat-of-arms on the stamps issued by the Imperial British East Africa Company in 1890-91.

Light in Darkness. — The motto shown under the coat-of-arms on the stamps of British Central Africa issued in 1895 and 1896.

Brain Teasers Contest

We were deluged with contestants on the Brain Teaser problems, no fewer than 81 sending in entries, and we want to thank all who participated.

The ten questions provided two stumbling blocks: No. 1, "Quince" and No. 4, "O. H. E. M. S." Many contestants fell down on one or both of these two and they will be chagrined when they realize the solutions are rather easy after all.

The following entry by Howard Marriner is fairly representative of the group of twenty complete answers received:—

(1). Quince is found on the stamps of Guatemala, Salvador, and a few other countries. It is the Spanish word for fifteen.

(3). O. H. H. S. means "On His Highness' Service."

(4). O. H. E. M. S. means "On His Egyptian Majesty's Service."

(5). Casa do Moeda is a watermark used on some stamps of Brazil.

(6). Flugpost means Airpost.

(7). The 1908 issue may be distinguished from the 1904 issue by the perforation by the height of the design, 24mm instead of 23mm, and by the words "J. L. Arango" or "Lit. Nacional" at the bottom of the stamp.

(8). The caribou is pictured on the 1918 issue of Newfoundland.

(9). Rutherford B. Hayes is pictured on the U. S. 11c of the present issue.

(10). The plate numbers are worked into the border of the older stamps of Great Britain, usually on each side.

Papua A1
1901-5, 1 shil.

This picture shows a tion of the Papuans of Guinea. It is a "lakato trading canoe, consisting o one-trunk canoes fastene gether catamaran fashion; used only for coast-wise the Papuans are not ope farers like the Malays Polynesians. The unique are made of palm leaf. cargo consists of pottery sago. The dwellings in the background are probably built on piles,—that puan custom anyway, though tree-dwellings, especially for purposes of refug common.

The people who sail these canoes are physically of short stature, frizzle-h (Papuan means that), dark-skinned, long-skulled; in civilization, living in the Age; in tastes, cannibal; in temperament, imaginative; in disposition, sede and varying from the lazy and hospitable to the energetic and hostile. They ship ancestors and spirits. Their customs include head-hunting, vendettas, societies and the duk-duk, a secret organization whose objects are to ke esoteric practices, strengthen the power of the chiefs, keep the women in subje police the village, deal out justice and train the young men. Yes—Red Cross—No Postal Value

Described by WALTER C. PEACH.

To introduce myself: I am a Junior collector having only a small collection of North and South American stamps, as I tired of saving the many thousands of European, Asiatic and African stamps. My collection is not exactly a specialized one, I am merely centralizing my efforts to the countries mentioned; saving only those stamps of the eastern continent which I think might prove valuable.

While trading some stamps with a friend of mine a few months ago I noticed a Jamaica stamp of which he had three or four copies. Thinking that it might fill one of the many blank spaces in my album I promptly traded one of my duplicates for it. Later when I wanted to place the stamp in my album I could find no reference to the stamp in the catalogue (Scott's). Would you kindly tell me something about this stamp?

Description:—
No watermark.
Perf. 12.
The airplane and cross are red.
The word "Jamaica" is black.
The frame is red.
The stamp is postally used.
Two men may be faintly seen on the plane.

PERU'S FIRST ISSUE

In one respect the first stamps issued by the government of the Republic of Peru are unique, for they were not printed specially, but were borrowed from the Pacific Steam Navigation Company.

This English shipping company had a trading connection between Liverpool and the chief ports on the west coast of South America. Letters were carried by its vessels between the various ports at which they called and to facilitate keeping account of the moneys collected for this service two stamps, bearing the facial values of 1 and 2 reales, were issued. The design is the same for both and consists of a two-masted schooner in a central oval surrounded by an engine turned oval. On this latter the value ("1 Rl." or "2 Rls.") and the weight ("½ oz." or "1 oz.") are shown. In the corners are the letters "P," "S," "N," and "C" respectively, these of course standing for Pacific Steam Navigation Company.

In 1857 the Peruvian Government decided to follow the lead of other countries and give postage stamps a trial. Evidently such a radical departure from the system previously in vogue was looked upon with considerable misgivings and the government officials were anything but sanguine as to the success of the venture. In fact they were so uncertain in their own minds that, not wishing to incur a greater expense than was actually necessary, they decided to borrow a supply of stamps from the Pacific Steam Navigation Company to experiment with.

The two stamps were placed on sale on December 1, 1857, in the towns of Lima, Chorrillos, and Calloa only. The government was soon convinced of the success of the experiment, and March 1, 1858, a special issue, showing the arms of the Republic, was placed on sale and the "borrowed stamps" ceased to have currency.

The company's stamps used in Peru can only be distinguished by the postmarks and they are far from plentiful. When cancelled with the obliteration of any of the three cities named above these stamps can undoubtedly be classified as the first issue for this Republic.—Philatelic Opinion.

Stamped Envelopes
Stamps On Original Covers

We have just purchased a large and rare lot of fine early European stamped envelopes which we are about to break up. This collection contains some of the greatest rarities. We would be glad to communicate with any interested parties.

We also have a surplus stock of stamps on original envelopes. These are all fine copies of early 19th century stamps of Europe. In order to reduce this stock, we are offering, by the lot, ten envelopes all different for $1.10 post-paid. Satisfaction guaranteed or money refunded.

ATLAS STAMP CO. (P. C. Smith) W. Somerville, Mass.

BROOKS COLLECTION

It gives me great pleasure to announce that I have just purchased the very fine collection, listing well up in five figures, of mint United States stamps in singles and blocks, gotten together by Mr. Harold C. Brooks. This collection includes — Postmasters, General Issues, Departments, Postage Due, Newspapers, Carriers, and the United States Colonies. Mr. Brooks endeavored to obtain a fine mint single of each variety, and purchased most all of the blocks cataloging under fifty dollars, with a great many of the scarcer varieties.

From 1847 to 1916, where he left off, there is a mint single of practically everything, with few exceptions. I especially note such things as — 1847 5c, several copies in shades with gum. 1851 1c to 24c, including several types, the 24c having full sheet margins at top. In the 1861 August issue, the 3c is represented by numerous singles and several blocks in shades. There is a superb mint imperforate, as well as a perfection 10c. Someone will have an opportunity of purchasing a very beautiful 1861 September 3c pink, and a magnificent 5c in the rare olive shade, with full original gum. He has the finest single 3c scarlet that I have ever seen, together with a block of the same stamp.

From this point on, little if anything is missing, including full sets of all of the reissues, the 1901, 1c, 2c, 4c inverts, 1908 blue papers complete, 1915 24c airmail invert, etc.

The Departments in mint condition on hard paper are complete, and this includes a magnificent 90c Justice, together with fine copies of the 2c Navy Error, and dollar States. The soft papers, with few exceptions, are all in the collection.

The U. S. Colonies make a wonderful and inexpensive lot, and these will be offered as a whole, or separately by colonies.

This collection added to my present enormous stock places me in a position to offer my clients practically everything that they may desire in the way of United States stamps, either late or early.

I would also advise that I am in the market at all times to purchase at highest cash prices fine United States properties. While I most particularly desire the adhesive postage stamps, I also want Postmasters, Carriers, Departments, Revenues and Confederates.

United States

Washington Notes

Hundreds of letters are still being received by the Post Office Department, requesting that a stamp be issued to commemorate the one hundred and fiftieth anniversary of the Encampment at Valley Forge.

Congressman Watson states that so far eight of the Governors of the thirteen original states have written to the Postmaster General endorsing the stamp.

Congressman Ernest R. Ackerman of New Jersey, our fellow philatelist, writes:—"You may be very sure that I will assist Mr. Watson in every way possible to obtain favorable consideration of his bill for the issuance of a special stamp commemorating the Valley Forge Encampment."

Hon. Thomas S. Butler of Pennsylvania, states that, "I will be delighted to write to the Postmaster General urging him to issue a special two cent stamp in commemoration of the Encampment at Valley Forge. Whatever I can do to contribute towards the success of the movement, please be assured that I am willing and ready to do."

The Postmaster General is still at home ill, and as a result, no definite action has been taken. The bill of Congressman Watson is still in the Committee, and has not as yet been reported out. It is believed, however, that the proposition will be given consideration by the Postmaster General on his return to office, so that the special authorization by Congress will not be necessary.

I feel safe in stating that by summer we will have a special 2-cent stamp, printed in red of the size of the normal stamp, showing a Valley Forge scene. The long dimensions will probably be placed horizontally, and we will find Washington in prayer with the Valley Forge huts in the background.

Mr. Willis M. Pott sends an Associated Press clipping from the New York Times, with a St. Louis headline dated February 6th, in which the following statement appears:

"Warren I. Glover, Second Assistant Postmaster General, telegraphed today that a special air mail stamp would be issued to commemorate Lindbergh's proposed flight over his old air mail route from St. Louis to Chicago, Feb. 20, and return Feb. 21. The stamps are to be placed on sale all over the country, and people urged to post mail to be carried by Lindbergh."

I have communicated with Washington, and am informed that no special stamp has been authorized or is even contemplated. There will be a special cancellation used on the occasion, and no doubt the Associated Press assumed that a "cancellation stamp" meant a new postage stamp.

The official notice from Washington, describing this new postmark, reads as follows:—

"LINDBERGH AGAIN FLIES THE AIR MAIL" will be the cancellation mark on air mail letters handled on the route between Chicago and St. Louis via Springfield and Peoria, Illinois, on February 20 and 21 when "Lindy" takes the stick and flies his old route.

From Santo Domingo the "Flying Colonel" cabled his old boss, William B. Robertson, president of the Robertson Aircraft Corporation, air mail contractor on the Chicago-St. Louis route, expressing a desire to fly out of St. Louis with the mail on February 20, and to return from Chicago the following day.

W. Irving Glover, Second Assistant Postmaster General, immediately granted permission for the flight, restored Lindbergh to the active rolls as an air mail pilot and arranged for special cancellations of all mail originating at or destined to any of the cities on the route.

The cancellation stamp will be horse-shoe shaped with the name and de tion of the route in the arch horse-shoe, and the name of the p lar post office on the route with th of flight at the opening."

Mr. W. H. Gilley has shown me a horizontal block of eight of the 1903-2c lake imperforate, which shows the stamps in the third vertical line slightly out of place, due to incorrect aligning at the time this row was transferred from the transfer roll to the plate. The block in question comes from plate No. 4671.

Mr. William C. Kater has submitted for inspection a copy of the current 1½c envelope on white in a very deep black brown shade, different from the light brown seen heretofore. In fact, the shade differs sufficiently to almost be classified as a separate variety.

Air Mail Notes

Mr. Albert N. Brown kindly sends an air mail communication from Oakland, Calif., dated February 1st, which was the first day of services at the Oakland Air Mail Field over C. A. M. No. 8. Change of fields from Mills Field to the Oakland Airport, which is now the western terminus of the transcontinental route, was made on February 1st.

The cover which bears the 10-cent Lindbergh stamp is postmarked "Oakland, Calif., Air Mail Field, Feb. 1, 1928, 12.30 P. M." As the cover was sent via Los Angeles, it has the back stamp of the Los Angeles post office, in addition to the Philadelphia and Germantown postmarks.

The Information Service of the Post Office Department under date of February 2nd, made the following announce-

San Marino

A country whose issues you do not see offered anywhere very freely, especially the 20th issues. Many are also quoted far too low in the cat. compared to B. C. and other lines and rock bottom cost does not allow their sale at much discount. You'll find most dealers are "out of stock" when you want these stamps. We have gone to no little trouble and expense to put this offering before you and believe our clients will appreciate the opportunity. We believe these are a "good buy."

ment:—"The Republic of Mexico is not prepared as yet to establish any air mail routes from Mexico City to the Southern boundary of the United States."

This information was contained in a communication received by Second Assistant Postmaster General, W. Irving Glover, today, from the Postmaster General of Mexico. The Mexican official stated, however, that immediate steps will be taken to raise money to finance these air mail routes, by increasing the postage in Mexico from eight to ten centavos.

The Postmaster General of Mexico believes that when an air mail route is established there, it should extend from Mexico City to Nuevo Laredo.

It is the idea of Postmaster General New, and other officials of the Post Office Department, that a route extending from Mexico City to Brownsville, Texas, via Tampico and Matamoras, would be the most desirable one. Both of these Mexican cities are headquarters for the richest oil fields in that country, and it is felt by Washington officials that a route from Mexico City to Brownsville would be more liberally patronized by business interests using the air mail service. Further negotiations will be conducted, however, between officials of the two governments before any decision is reached.

Canal Zone

Mr. W. Austin Amory has shown me a block of the current 2c perforated 11x10½ overprinted in black in two lines, "Canal Zone." This stamp which was possibly issued towards the end of the year, has not been noted heretofore. The block submitted by Mr. Amory was from plate 18809. So far, we have had the 1c, 2c and 5c, with the new perforations from the rotary press.

Argentine Republic.—Mr. R. Roberts submits for chronicle copies of the 10c, deep grey-green, with new watermark A.P. in shell.

Belgium. — Whitfield King & Co. have shown us the 60c olive, in the current design.

Bolivia.—We have received from Whitfield King & Co. the following new items of this country: 2c yellow, design as A54; overprinted "Octubre 1927," 5c green, 10c grey and 15c red of the same type as the first noted.

From the same source we learn that the following values in the type of the 2c yellow have appeared: 3c rose, 4c claret, 20c olive, 25c blue, 30c violet, 40c orange, 50c brown, 1b red, 2b purple, 3b sage green, 4b lake and 5b light brown.

Brazil.—Whitfield King & Co. advise that the 10 reis Official stamp of 1913 has been overprinted "Servico Aereo 50 Rs" in three lines in black. Diamond shaped characters cover the figures in the upper corners. Later information from the same correspondents adds the following values to the above: 200rs on 2,000 reis; 200rs on 500 reis; 300rs on 500 reis; 500rs on 50 reis; 1,000rs on 20reis and 2,000rs on 100 reis.

Cuba.—Whitfield King & Co. send us for note the first five values of the Pan-American Congress series. At the top of the stamp is the name of the country with "Sexta Conferencia Internacional Americana 1928." The 1c green pictures the map of the North American continent at the left with that of our southern world at the right. The portrait of Tomas Estrada Palma appears in a circle between. The 2c bright red, is the same design as the 1c, but has the likeness of General Gerardo Machado. The 5c blue has the same background with El Morro, Habana, appearing in a square frame as the central view. An 8c brown pictures the Estacion Terminal at Havana, while the 10c olive-brown shows a view of the Presidential palace. The other values of this set are the 13c orange, 20c olive-green, 30c purple, 50c pink and $1 black. Each is of a different design, but our correspondent does not describe in detail.

France.—Copies of the 40c pale blue, surcharged "Caisse d'Amortissement + 10c" in three lines in red have been shown us by Mr. R. Roberts.

Italy.—Mr. R. Roberts informs us that a 15c purple and 35c rose-red stamp in the Posta Pneumatica definite type have been received. The stamps are perf. 14 and watermarked Crown.

Luxemburg.—The 75c carmine, current issue, has been surcharged "60" in black. Two thin parallel bars obliterate the former value. Whitfield King & Co. and Mr. R. Roberts submit this new provisional for chronicle.

Mauritius.—We have received from Mr. R. Roberts and Whitfield King & Co. copies of the 6c sepia brown, King George type, script watermark.

New Zealand.—Mr. R. Roberts submits for chronicle copies of the 3sh pale violet, Admiral type on Cowan paper, thick and white. The stamp is watermarked N. Z. and star almost invisible, and the shade is much paler than the previous issue.

Nicaragua.—Whitfield King & Co. advise that they have received the ½c green, 5c slate-green, 10c yellow, with the overprint "Resello 1927" and also the 1c purple with the surcharge "R de C."

South West Africa.—Mr. R. Roberts submits for chronicle copies of the 2p postage due stamp of Union of South Africa, old type, overprinted "South West Africa" and "Suidwes Afrika." Stamps are unwatermarked, perf. 14, Pretoria printing.

ORIGINAL COVERS

Last week, I advertised in this space some early United States on cover. The offerings are still available.

Now, perhaps a word about my stock may not be amiss. For years I have been a firm believer in covers and have bought heavily. I think I can say without fear of contradiction that no dealer in the world holds an equal to my stock of United States covers.

A list of your wants will be appreciated. Please include reference (your bank and two stamp dealers preferred), if you have not been an approval customer of mine within two years.

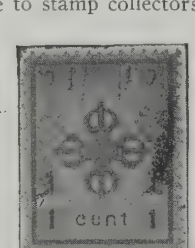
MONGOLIA---ITS STAMPS

By K. Lissiuk.

In the rapidly growing list of new stamp issuing countries is to be found the name, Mongolia. To those older and forgetful persons, Mongolia is geographically located in the middle section of Asia. The country is large in area and population, mostly Chinese and Russians. All signs of advanced civilization are lacking and primitive methods are still in vogue, due to its "buffer" existence between Russia and China. Swayed by Russian diplomacy and taking advantage of the revolutionary conditions in China, Mongolia declared itself a free and independent Republic in 1911. It was not until 1924 that the nationality of the country as a republic was universally recognized.

Between the period of this semi independence, 1911 to 1924, no stamps had been issued. The postal services operated by the franking system, long since adopted by countries prior to the issuance of adhesive stamps. The franked covers of Mongolia are perhaps scarce, like those of other countries, but have little value to stamp collectors.



First Issue

Mongolia made her philatelic debut in November, 1924, by presenting its own permanent stamp issue consisting of seven values expressed in Chinese currency (silver dollar). The design for this issue was produced by the Government and showed the coat-of-arms and other national symbols. This issue was printed in Moscow and the different values of the set came on an assortment of various colored surface tinted papers. The stamps came perforated both with 10 and 13½ gauges and also a compound gauge of 10 x 13½. All values exist with an extra horizontal row of perforations across the stamps, allowing for a semi division. Each halved stamp would thus be available for a franking privilege of half its original face value. The inscriptions are in black throughout the issue. The design size varied as did the frames in different values. The papers used were without watermark.

No.

1 1 cent buff, gray-brown, gray on bistre (19x25mm)
2 2 cents red-brown, yellow-brown, drab, dull blue on brownish (19x25mm)
3 5 cents gray, rose-brown, yellow on white (25x32mm)
4 10 cents blue, dull blue, brown on gray-blue (22x28mm)
5 20 cents gray-blue, dull blue, drab on gray (25x32mm)
6 50 cents dull red, orange, drab, on salmon (28x36mm)
7 1 dollar buff, light drab, red on yellow (30x39mm)

Second Issue

The first issue became exhausted in 1926. Pending the completion of a new governmental permanent issue the post office officials supplied quantities of the current revenue stamps, also expressed in Chinese currency, showing a provisional surcharge signifying their use as postage stamps. This surcharge consisted of a rectangular box with the word "POSTAGE" in English at the top, and again in Arabic at the bottom. This surcharge was of the handstamp variety and was applied to the stamps in violet, black, red and blue ink. Like the preceding issue the different values came in various frames and design sizes. An added value, 5 dollars, was included in this issue. The stamps were perforated with 11 gauge only. The paper was unwatermarked. The stamps with the violet surcharge can be considered the commonest color, then the black, followed by the red, with the blue the scarcest. Covers have been discovered which have the revenue stamps without the surcharge, but showing legitimate postal duty and cancellations.

"LINDBERGH AGAIN FLIES THE AIR MAIL"

is the cancellation mark on air mail covers handled on the route between Chicago and St. Louis, via Springfield and Peoria, on February 20 and 21 when "LINDY" took the stick and flew his old route. The cancellation, officially provided by the U. S. Post Office Department, is horse-shoe shaped with the name and designation of the route in the arch of the horse-shoe, and the name of the particular post-office on the route with the date of the flight at the opening. Note that each city has its name in the cancellation it used.

FREE Send one dollar for a year's subscription to WASHINGTON STAMP NEWS and receive free an actually flown air mail cover bearing this special cancellation and franked with the Lindbergh air mail stamp. Every philatelist should have one. Think of its interest and value. Think of being able to show it to your friends and say, "Here's an envelope that was actually carried by the World's Greatest Hero." Could there be any more valuable souvenir of the famous flier?

If you want a more elaborate showing or don't want to subscribe to WSN, we offer covers as follows:

Your choice of any single cover at 40c each.
Set of four, one cover from each city, for only $1.50
Complete set, one cover from each city to each other city, twelve covers in all, for only $4.00.

TWO RARE BLOCKS

Here are two blocks of the 1c stamps of 1857 fit to grace any collection.

Unused, full o. g., well centered block of six stamps from Plate 12. Upper stamps are Type I with full scrolls; lower row are Type II. A block of four Type I from this plate catalogs $500.00. Our price for this block of six is just half that figure, net, cash, $250.00.

Another rare block of six is from the upper left corner of the left pane of Plate IV, with sheet margin. Nos. 1-2-3 and 11-12-13. Half the stamps are type II and the others are Type IIIa. The block was separated into two strips and perfectly rejoined. A beautiful piece, offered at the price of the two strips, $225.00.

As a rule we have a number of fine blocks and strips in stock which we are glad to submit on approval to those known to us.

THIRD ISSUE

The new permanent issue was issued in 1927, this year. The stamps were printed by the National printing office from a design depicting the new coat of arms and expressed in the native currency, the unit of which is the "tuhrck" (equivalent to the American dollar) and composed of 100 "mung." Again the inscriptions were printed in black. Unwatermarked paper was used. Perforation 11 as before. On the 5 and 20 mung values, two distinctive types are to be found, i.e., Type I, the pearl above the crescent is solid while the devices in the middle of the stamp are not outlined. Type II, the pearl is open and devices and panels are all outlined in black. The stamps came uniformly in design and size (22x28mm).

The stamps of Mongolia are not so seldom seen due to the backward condition of the country. The stamps of the second issue are scarce and already contain real rarities. The stamps are interesting and collectors are advised to complete their collection of this young country. The small number of them issued so far should be gotten while the stamps are new and current as their prices are the lowest. All of the above list has been chronicled and will soon be catalogued.

The cancellations come either in blue, black and red. Those on the first issue consisted of a frame with English and Mongolian reading matter in squares with Arabic figures. On the second and third issues are still found the frame cancellations together with circular types reading in English "ULAN BATOR"—"MONGOLIA."

CLEVELAND EXHIBITION NOTES

By W. W. MacLaren.

Interest in the Exhibition increases daily. Mr. Good is overwhelmed with requests for exhibit space. In next month's Stamp Hunter I shall give a partial list of exhibitors, amongst whom will be recognized many of our prominent collectors.

No free passes. At the last meeting of the Directors, a resolution was adopted, that there be no free tickets whatever—each Officer and Director agreeing to purchase a season ticket at $1.50.

Employees of the Company, and at the dealers' booths will be given employers passes, as will representatives of the Newspapers. Arrangements are being made with the Public School Officials for the sale of Scholars' tickets at 10c each. All Stamp Hunter readers who plan on exhibiting are urged to communicate with Mr. Good at once, as a large portion of the frames has already been reserved.

Mr. J. H. Rottner, Secretary of G.-P., and a member of the Publicity Committee has been assigned the duty of handling the foreign language newspapers. Mr. Rottner, who is a linguist of no mean ability, writing fluently in six different languages, has also an extensive acquaintance among our foreign-born citizens, so we can count on some good work being done.—Stamp Hunter.

LINDY'S GOOD WILL FLIGHT FROM HAITI

By Arthur O. Litt.

At dawn on February 8th, Col. Charles A. Lindbergh left the Bowen Aviation field at Port au Prince, Haiti, which was named after a Marine Aviation officer killed during a flight in Haiti in 1922, and winging his way along the coast of Haiti, accompanied by Marine Airplanes as an escort, he at last bid them goodbye at Mole St. Nicholas, Haiti, which is a point of land jutting out towards Cuba.

It was here in 1493 that Columbus landed. What a difference in the method of locomotion since that time. Soon "We," composed of "Lindy" and the rest of the partnership, were cutting the air currents over that very turbulent body of water called the Windward Passage, which is more than 120 miles across. In about one and a half hours the Coast of Cuba off Manzanillo was sighted, and thence over the entire length of Cuba, where he arrived five minutes ahead of schedule.

"We" carried a cover to me that I shall ever prize. This envelope contains two Haitian stamps, one being Scott's No. 314, and a new stamp I have never seen before, a 35 centime de Gourde value in blue, which is twice the size of the other stamp on the envelope, and greenish in color. This stamp, I am informed, will be used as a regular value. In the center we see a branch containing coffee berries, which is the principal product of Haiti. The envelope is further embellished by a special cancellation in red showing an airplane in flight, and on the front of the airplane the word "Lindbergh." The cover is dated Port au Prince, Haiti, February 7, 1928, and Havana, Cuba, February 8, 1928—4 P. M. on the back. A legend is also placed there by the Cuban Postal authorities in Spanish, which means: Use the airmail. Save time. There is another cancellation, Havana, Feb. 9th., 11 A. M., and the last cancellation, New York, Feb. 12, 9 P. M. The end of the route.

FIVE YEAR HONOR CLUB

ARGENTINE REPUBLIC
ISSUES OF 1858 TO 1872 ONLY
Over ONE THOUSAND Rivadavias

I have just purchased one of the largest collections of the early issues of the Argentine Republic that existed down there. The collection was formed regardless of expense by a well known old collector, but I have been pledged not to quote his name.
The collection was in seven large albums but for convenience of sale abroad, I am mounting the stamps in my well known approval books, grouped as follows:—
a. Rarities, unused and used.
b. Unused.
c. Used.
d. Stamps on covers.
Selections of any of the above, in any issue from 1858 to 1872 inclusive, can be sent to collectors who wish for really fine classic issues for study and investment.
To give some idea of the importance of this magnificent collection, I quote a few of the more important items:—

1862. Accent on "U"
10c green. Unused, Pair and 19 in superb shades.
" " Used, Pair and 38 singles.
15c blue. Unused, 11, many rare shades
" " Used, 32 in superb shades.

1863. No accent on "U"
10c green. Unused 7.
" " Used, Pair and 21 singles.
15c blue. 1 superb used.

1864-67. Rivadavia, Imperf.
5c brown-rose. Unused 3, Used 18.
10c green. Unused 1, Used, pair and 4 singles.
15c blue. Unused 1, Used 4.

U. S. 24c CONTINENTAL 1873

By ELLIOTT PERRY.

Much of the foregoing applies only indirectly to our problem. The real problem comes when we try to find out what happened between January 1 and June 30, 1875. We can be fairly certain the stamp agent had about 150,000 of the 24c on hand at the beginning of 1875, and that many, most, or all of them were Winfield Scott purples, printed by the National Bank Note Co. before the latter part of April, 1873. We also know that this old supply was just about equal to the number actually issued in 1875. Right there our reasonably accurate knowledge ends and we have to start guessing.

Whether or not any of the Continental 24c stamps were issued and the quantity issued, if any were issued, depends wholly upon the date in 1875, when they were delivered to the stamp agent, and what he did with them. If he received them on January 1, 1875, he may have laid aside the old National remainders and issued only Continentals until the 24c stamps were withdrawn from sale June 30, 1875, in which case he would have issued the maximum number of Continentals that could have been issued—150,075. But if the entire 365,000 Continental 24c which he received were all delivered to him on June 30, 1875, he may have issued only 50 copies. Obviously, he could not issue any Continentals before he received them and therefore any 24c stamps issued by the stamp agent in 1875, before Continentals were delivered to him, could only have come from the old supply of National remainders, and any such National 24c stamps issued in 1875 would necessarily reduce the number of Continental 24c that may have been issued.

About the only thing we can be fairly certain of is that no one handling stamps ever breaks into an unbroken package until they are obliged to. Stamps contained in unbroken packages are easily counted and checked, while it is far more laborious to count and check loose sheets. Unless there is some other controlling fact or factor of which we are ignorant, it seems far more likely that the stamp agent continued to issue the old National remainders in the first six months of 1875, and either did not break into the Continental delivery at all or else issued only a small quantity of the Continental 24c stamps when the old supply of National remainders finally became exhausted. Hence the 364,950 remainders destroyed in 1885 may have been all Continentals and were all but 50 stamps of the entire Continental delivery.

The chief reason for the Continental printing appears to be that the Continental Company had the quite natural desire to sell as many stamps as possible to the post office department. The contractors were required or expected to keep several months supply ahead, but with such a large supply of National remainders available there was no real need for the Continental printing. Any Continental 24c delivered to the stamp agent very early in 1875, must have been printed before 1875, while if both "printed and delivered" in 1875, they must have been printed after it was generally known the need for them would greatly diminish or cease entirely within a few months.

The 24c denomination was seldom used on domestic mail. The shilling letter rate to Great Britain had been cut in two in 1866, and further reduced to 6c before the Winfield Scott purple 24c were first issued and there was a sharp decline in the use of 24c stamps after 1867. From a yearly issue closely approaching two millions, the demand dropped to less than 300,000 in 1868, and thereafter never greatly exceeded 300,000 per year. There was no reason to expect a considerable increase in 1875—quite the contrary. On October 9, 1874, the Postal Union Treaty was signed to become effective in all the countries then belonging to the Postal Union (except France), on July 1, 1875. A circular issued by the Third Assistant Postmaster General under date of June 21, 1875 announced:—

"The changes in foreign postages will render unnecessary the further use of the 7, 12 and 24 cent stamps and stamped envelopes, and they will accordingly be discontinued."

It does not seem to me the probabilities favor the possibility the Continental 24c were printed in 1874, and not delivered to the stamp agent until the following year. What seems much more likely was that when the 24c plate was put to press to print the "special prints" in the spring of 1875, they didn't stop with the 50 sheets required for the special printing of 10,000 stamps, but went ahead and printed 365,000 more 24c, which were then gummed and perforated and delivered to the stamp agent before the curtain fell on June 30.

During the fiscal year ending June 30, 1875, the stamp agent issued 271,775 of the 24c stamps. The quarterly issue was as follows:—

To Sept. 30, 1874,	86,525
To Dec. 31, 1874,	35,175
To Mar. 31, 1875,	44,525
To June 30, 1875,	105,550

There is nothing in the figures for

Tanganyika
was formerly German East Africa. The League of Nations, seeing that Great Britain had occupied the country during the war, turned the territory over to England to administer. By what right King George's head appears on a Mandated Territory I fail to understand. But it's there just the same. With reservation to withdraw this offer any moment, I offer:—

What else in France or French Colonies?

This series of ads started Oct. 17th, something different each week. Mostly extracts from "Phillips' Monthly Bulletin", 32 or more pages each issue. It's FREE. We have one of the largest general stocks of stamps in the World and can supply 90% of all items offered in former ads.

HARTFORD CONNECTICUT TRUST BLDG., 750 MAIN ST.

other years to indicate the demand for 24c stamps in April, May and June was heavier than at other periods, or that postmasters were in the habit of ordering more 24c stamps in those months than at other times. The figures for the three months ending March 31, 1874, and June 30, 1874, for instance, are 102,500 and 42,075 respectively—the quantities issued in the two quarters of these two consecutive years being almost exactly reversed. The only other quarter when the issue exceeded 100,000 stamps was in the three months ending March 31, 1872. To my mind the unusually large shipment in the last three months of the issue of 24c stamps is a rather clear indication the stamp agent was "cleaning house." And it seems to be rather more than a mere coincidence that his shipments from January to June inclusive, total almost exactly the same as the number of National remainders he apparently had on hand January 1, 1875.

The Continental delivery was 365,000 stamps. The number of remainders destroyed in 1885 was 364,950. The difference between these two amounts is very slight, only 50 stamps. Is this also a mere coincidence? If we believe only a few stamps were taken from the Continental package, and the remainder was held until 1885, and then destroyed, it is easy to understand why the figures for the two amounts so closely correspond, but if we believe many Continental 24c were issued, we are obliged to fall back upon "coincidence" to explain why there were just enough National remainders, or other 24c obtained from somewhere (address unknown), to make up a quantity only 50 short of 365,000.

Mr. Behr also states, "the nearest approach to the actual color of the 24c Continental is the 3c Justice Department stamp on soft paper, which is only found in the rich, dark shade." This statement can be found in several philatelic publications, and in more than twenty-five years has achieved wide circulation. I have never been able to trace its original source, and neither have I been able to find any valid justification for it. Since we do not know that any of the Continental 24c stamps of 1875 (except the special print), ever got into circulation, how can anyone presume to state the shade in which they were printed? Or must we call forth another coincidence to explain why a stamp, which no living collector ever may have seen, happens to match the shade of another stamp printed four years later?

The 24c Continentals would be more likely to match some of the 3c Justice on hard paper, for the records show 37,500 of the 3c Justice were printed and delivered to the stamp agent in 1875. A special printing of 10,000 each of the complete Justice set was also made in 1875, but no one seems to have tried to use this coincidence to bolster up a theory that the 24c Continental is a close match for the Justice "Specimen" set.

The Continental 24c is listed in the Scott catalog as No. 164, but is not priced. The reason it is not priced reflects great credit upon the publishers of the catalog who resolutely refuse to offer for sale a variety which they are not quite certain exists, or which exists, but cannot be identified. The collecting fraternity in general owes the Scott Co. a debt of gratitude for the position they maintain regarding this stamp.

Mr. Eilers is alderman from Ward 26 and Secretary of the St. Louis Stamp Collectors Society.

WE are indebted to Mrs. O. W. Mott, Jackson, Mich., birthplace of Lindbergh, for information dealing with new local air mail routings. Also for a cover mailed from Jackson. At the top centre of the face in four lines is: "Lindbergh —Our National Hero—Born February 4 —1902-1928." Unfortunately the post marking reads "Feb. 3!"

THE Landsdowne (Pa.) Stamp Club recently installed the following officers: Pres., Dr. F. E. Locy; Vice-Pres., H. C. Hays; Sec.-Treas., R. H. Thomson; Exch. Mgr., E. E. Meacham; Chairman Memb. Com., A. B. Maris. The club has over 30 active senior members. They are already planning their 3rd annual exhibition for November. The show held last fall was very well attended by Philadelphia and Delaware County stamp enthusiasts and others. The publicity obtained was very gratifying. Short articles on the exhibit appeared in the larger Philadelphia and the local newspapers. Information about the coming Exhibition may be obtained from Dr. F. E. NEW YORK PRECANCEL CLUB

By N. R. HOOVER.

The first anniversary of the New York Precancel Club was held Friday evening, February 3, at the Hoovers' office, 35 West 33rd Street. President Willcox celebrated by holding it on the night the Hoovers ran their biggest mail auction, 968 lots. A feed was given, sandwiches, coffee, ice cream and cake, the latter contributed by Mrs. Foerster, the one lady member of the club. It was a great success.

The special Committee on examining Brooklyn minor varieties, under the chairmanship of Allan R. Brown, made its report. The following resolution was adopted:

"Resolved that the New York Precancel Club approves the following types and type descriptions for Brooklyn, N. Y., that said types be referred to the state editor and city editor with a request that they be incorporated in the new catalog, and that the secretary of the club be directed to give this resolution and the list of types to the philatelic press."

The suggested changes on Brooklyn involve types from VI to XX as against the present list that carries them to Type XV. Between VI and XV there are a number of corrections and elaborations, and several absolutely new ones are identified and listed. This is a distinctive service to the cause of precancels. The new types will show in the next Catalog.

25th Anniversary Announcement

BOSTON

This fine old city is noted philatelically for the unusual variety of interesting postmarks and cancellations used in its Post Office during the first half century of the stamp era.

A collection of stamps and covers showing these Post Office markings in the sequence of their use forms an historical exhibit of great philatelic interest.

The postal history of many other of the larger cities can be shown by such collections of stamps and covers but until recent years this most fascinating and important work has been largely neglected and the field is still open to all.

I can supply suitable material used in Boston, New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Chicago, New Orleans, San Francisco, and other cities, both in domestic use and on covers showing "British Packet" and other ship and transit postmarks to many foreign countries. Correspondence invited. [H

We have been shown sample impressions of the cachets or impressions that will be applied to the mail carried by Lindbergh on his flights, St. Louis to Chicago, and Chicago to St. Louis, through the courtesy of Mr. J. Max Golding of Chicago. The cancellation is in horseshoe form, about two inches wide by two inches high and reads: "Lindbergh Again Flies The Air Mail, Chicago-St. Louis, C A M 2, Springfield, Ill. (tor instance) 2-21-28." This date will appear on the mail going from Chicago, while that originating in St. Louis and en route to Chicago will bear the date of "2-20-28." Much interest is being shown in Lindy's souvenir flight, so to say, over the old air-way; and we understand that the Chicago Aero Philatelic Society has undertaken to signalize Lindbergh's visit to the city in some manner.

The Cuban air mail stamp printed in red and surcharged in black in two lines, "Lindbergh-Febrero, 1928," made its entry as advertised in the city of Havana on February 7th, and the interior points on the 8th. A half million of the stamps have been issued and they are valid only on correspondence for the air mail route, Havana to Key West. These Lindbergh stamps received much attention in the Cuban newspaper press and were in great demand by the populace. As a correspondent says, the people were serious in their intention to honor Lindbergh, and they regarded this stamp issue as an appropriate means of showing their respect.

Several correspondents who have written for information on the subject of Costa Rica's contribution to the Lindbergh stamp constellation are referred to the description of it on the Junior Page in the issue of February 13th. The stamp and surcharge make an ensemble that is pleasing and distinctive as told in the paragraph. A correspondent in Costa Rica now writes to say that some grumbling has resulted from the manner in which the special stamp has been distributed, although he is not in a position to say that there has been any scandal in handling it. It is evident that the stamp will not be plentifully supplied to collectors who did not obtain stocks, and the likelihood is that it will be a specimen that will give a good account of itself as time trots on.

THE SCOTT STAMP AND COIN CO.

HAS PURCHASED THE

Edward S. Knapp Collection of CONFEDERATE STATES, GENERAL ISSUES

This famous collection, comprising Nos. 200 to 212 inclusive, is, in all respects, the most unusual single gathering of Confederate States ever made.

This collection, which has won first award wherever exhibited, is unique in the quality of its rare pieces. In its comprehensiveness it stands as a monument to the labors and researches which have given Mr. Knapp preeminence in the philately of the Confederacy.

We are not selling individual pieces, for the collection is too remarkable thus to be broken up, but only by groups. The collection is so well known that a detailed description of it is unnecessary.

We will be glad to enter into arrangements whereby interested parties may inspect such of these groups as are not already sold when this announcement appears. Correspondence. [tf

SCOTT STAMP AND COIN CO.
1 West 47th Street, NEW YORK, N. Y.

A recent visitor to Chicago, Harold C. Brooks, mayor of Marshall, Michigan, was pressed for details as to the results of his extensive as well as intensive campaign for stamps as waged in the advertising columns of hundreds of publications of a general or unphilatelic kind. His story is an interesting one, and the thrills, fascinations and disappointments that characterize it make it a very human one. Really, more space than is available here is required to present it in a proper light, and we shall abide our time, in order to present it adequately. It is enough to say that both a stout heart and a strong purse are the first adjuncts of the campaigner for stamps, and the hazards that are run would cause one to shrink from playing the game, if he were of conservative cast.

Just after having read the announcement in the New York Times of the reelection of Harry L. Lindquist as president of the Collectors Club, New York, we had the pleasure of seeing Mr. Lindquist in person. Not many years ago, Mr. Lindquist was a Chicagoan to the core and when he left that gentle cote, his friends feared for the future; they thought that the lamb would be sheared in heartless New York. Evidently, the canary packed a wicked peck, judging from the cat's story, and "looking down the vista of time," we now see Mr. Lindquist beginning his second term as president of the big society, or rather, club. However, perhaps it is significant to say that as editor of the Collectors Club official magazine, his fame is brightest; he has made this publication the greatest philatelic journal of the day, and his editorial product has achieved a high notch, indeed. We are proud of the Collectors Club Philatelist, as typifying philatelic ideals that the serious collectors of this country are striving to realize. Incidentally, Mr. Lindquist is not immune from editorial disappointments. Through a series of singular impediments, as it were, last month's number of the Collectors Club Philatelist is not yet issued, even though it is on its way.

Mr. Lyman J. Seeley, Hammondsport, New York, is interested in the publication of Dr. Carroll Chase's exhaustive work on the three cent issues of 1851 and 1857, U. S., even though he is under no illusions as to the financial cost of a volume that will present the text and illustrations in a worthy typographical dress. Mr. Seeley thinks that if he can secure subscriptions at least to five hundred copies at five dollars, in buckram binding, he will proceed with the task of bringing forth the work. Several specialists have underwritten ten to fifty copies of the book, and no doubt others will be glad to co-operate when once their attention is called to the project. Dr. Chase intends to rewrite and revise much of the text in order that the contents will be inclusive of the latest developments of a subject that is receiving the support of many students.

Our diligent correspondent, Mr. E. M. Ash, has sent in a copy of El Commercio, Cuba, the front page of which carries an important bit of philatelic news, the headlines on which are translated: The Subject of Stamps Will be Studied. We read that the secretary of posts, Ingeniero Sanchez Aballf, has named Jose Domingo Morales, Cesar Carvallo and Enrique Nin to act in accord with a commission of philatelists, comprised of Miguel Angel Moenck, Augustin Goitizolo and Julio B. Forcade to study the problems relating to postage stamps to the end that pertinent recommendations, when regarded as such may be referred to the secretary. As Mr. Ash says, this action is significant of the growing tendency of the authorities to give attention to the philatelic suggestions of the times, the world over.

Particulars of the conditions affecting the Lindbergh issues of Panama as they come from correspondents show that the demand for the souvenir issues is a strong one. The following data may be of interest: "Through the courtesy of the Canal Zone officials, these stamps were placed on sale in the Canal Zone post offices at Balboa Heights, Ancon, Balboa and Cristobal, and covers were received at each post office for transmission to the nearest Panama post office to receive the first day cancellations. The Panama City post office closed at one o'clock, Jan. 9, 1928, the date of Colonel Lindbergh's arrival, while the Canal Zone post offices remained open until five P. M. This facilitated the posting of first day covers and aided in the very wide distribution the stamps received. An enormous percentage of such covers was sent as 'souvenirs' by non-philatelic persons." While mention is made of minor varieties by a correspondent, it is doubtless whether the variations that he cites are deserving of distinction. The popular effect of the Panama issue was most marked and without exaggerating it, the statement may be made that for the time being these stamps were in the minds of almost every person in the republic. The demand for the Lindbergh stamps was a general one that was swollen, of course, by the philatelic rush for them.

The new Newfoundland set des the praise which it will win. The t teen designs are all pleasing, and v without losing sight of the fact tha stamps constitute a series and mu related and bound together by c features in common. The happy w which this set hangs together, the plicity and fitness of the lettering, the pleasant harmony between central feature and legend is almost

The 1c is an example of how to map-stamp. The 2c and 5c are suc ful in handling the subjects of o liner and railway train; the 4c is a mirable portrait stamp; the 10c is cellent in solving the difficulties always attend the choice of a monu as a central feature of a stamp de and the other denominations are all good indeed, with the possible exce of the 3c, which is unfortunate in of a size too small for the two port and of a shape ill-adapted for them seems like two very nice stamps sp by being welded together—bisect it, see how much each half gains in di and proportion.

Altogether a delightful set, v makes one feel that the designer is only an artist, but a gentleman, and the Newfoundland postal authorities the engraver were capable of appreci him.

HAITI---LINDBERGH, 1928

By HARRY E. HUBER.

Col. Chas. A. Lindbergh arrived at Santo Domingo City, Dominican Republic, from San Juan, Porto Rico, on Saturday afternoon, February 4, 1928, his 26th birthday, and after spending two days in the Dominican capital city, set out for Port au Prince, Haiti, at 10.30 a. m., Monday, the 6th. He carried a mail for Port au Prince, and for Habana, Cuba, this being the first time that mail was ever conveyed in "The Spirit of St. Louis."

Instead of flying in a straight line to the Haitian capital (185 miles), he took a northwest course, at the request of the Dominican Government, to pass over Santiago de los Caballeros, in the interior, and after circling the city, continued on to Cap Haitien, the second city of importance on the northern coast of Haiti, just beyond the frontier. Over Cristophe's Citadelle he flew low, in order to inspect it, and then set his course for Port au Prince, on the shores of the Gulf of Gonaives. He landed at 2 p. m. at Bowen field, just outside of Port au Prince, having covered 270 miles in 3½ hours.

In writing from Port au Prince, on Feb. 7th, to the New York Times, Col. Lindbergh mentions with the Haitian Order of Merit that was conferred on him by President Borno, the Haitian stamps that were presented to him. Just what these stamps were has yet to be learned.

As soon as the Haitian Government's invitation to Col. Lindbergh had been accepted, there was agitation locally for a special stamp issue, but the financial authorities would not approve of an overprint, or a surcharge, due to the speculation which would be sure to result. However, a special cancellation was authorised, and applied to all mail matter passing through the Port au Prince Post Office on February 6th and 7th.

In the early part of 1927 the issue was authorised of a stamp of the denomination of 35c de gourde (7c U. S. currency) for registered letters to all countries (subscribing to the Pan-American Postal Union) to which the domestic rate of postage applies (i.e., 10c de g. plus 25c de g. for registration). The new stamps arrived in January, from New York, and issue was withheld until February 6th, the day of Col. Lindbergh's arrival from Santo Domingo City.

The stamp was line engraved and recess printed in green by the "American Bank Note Co." (which imprint appears in small colored caps under each stamp) of New York, on unwatermarked paper, and perforated single line 12. The design is within a horizontal rectangle, 49 x 22mm, and in the center bears a representation of two branches of the coffee tree, one with leaves and blossoms, and the other with leaves and berries. Across the top of the stamp, arched, in two lines of colorless caps is "Republique d'Haiti —Postes," while at the foot in a straight line is "centimes de gourde." Colorless numerals of denomination "35" appear on shields at the side, and under the central vignette, in small colored caps, is "Cafe." The design is most pleasing, and the engraving and printing of a high standard.

In issuing the 35c Cafe stamp, Haiti draws the attention of the world to its principal export commodity. In 1923-24 coffee constituted 73% of the total value of Haitian exports, and not only did France purchase 80% of the entire coffee crop, but she also purchased approximately half of the second most important Haitian export, i.e., raw cotton. Coffee dominates the entire economic situation of Haiti, and disaster to that industry is bound to demoralise its entire commercial life. In 1923-24 coffee exports totalled 29,402,200 kilos valued at Gds. 51,808,880; the total exports in the same year were valued at Gds. 70,881,610. In 1924-25 the coffee exports totalled 30,767,100 kilos (Gds. 76,999,495), and in 1925-26, 35,683,690 kilos (Gds. 81,621,600). Port au Prince is the principal point of exit for coffee, followed by Petit Goave and Jacmel.

First day covers, which I received, bear in black the ordinary single line circle (27mm) cancellation of "Port au Prince, Haiti," with the date (in 3 lines), "6—FEV—28" in the center, and also the special marking (to commemorate Col. Lindbergh's visit), applied to the stamps in red, in the form of a large outline plane (whose greatest dimensions are 39mm horizontally, across the wings, and 35mm diagonally, along the body,) with

GLOBE AIR MAIL RACE

SEATTLE, Feb. 10.—Two air mail letters will race each other around the world, traveling in opposite directions, in an "around the world air mail derby," announced here today by The Post Intelligencer.

The two letters will be mailed from Seattle, February 17, and will be speeded on their opposite paths around the globe by use of all available air mail routes here and abroad.

The post office department is assisting in the race, the purpose being to lower the present record for circumnavigation of the globe by letters. The eastbound letter will be sent by train to Pasco, Wash., where it will be started on its journey by airplane, the westbound letter will go by air mail to Victoria, B. C., thence by ship.

Wants Stamps

—And the older they are, the better

—You were probably the same way earlier in your life.

Most of us go through the "collecting" stage. . . Some of us never get over it.

Perhaps, in your case, it was buttons, or street car transfers, or pictures of actresses . . . Stickers had a fascination, too.

But somehow postage stamps have never lost their popularity. Collecting them has developed so far that there's a scientific name for it.

Yesterday, a philatelist appealed, through a Globe-Democrat Want Ad, for old stamps, foreign and domestic. He buys 'em.

Liechtenstein

A small independent state bounded on the north and east by the province of Vorarlberg, Austria, on the west by the Rhine and on the south by the Swiss cantons of Grisons and St. Gall. Since 1866 it has belonged to the Austrian Customs Union and until January, 1912, managed to get along without postage stamps. In that year it issued a modest series of three values, modelled on the style of the contemporary Austrian issue, and bearing a portrait of Prince John, its ruler.

JUNIOR STAMP STUDIES

HIPPOPOTAMUS
Liberia A24

The Junior is very much interested in the stamps of Liberia, and here we have the hippopotamus in all his glory. This animal is nocturnal in its habits, usually sleeping during the day with its body immersed in the water and only the top of the head visible above the surface. At night it leaves the stream or pool for the banks and forages for some distance, tramping down and destroying almost everything in its path. It is a voracious feeder, the stomach having a capacity of five or six bushels, so one can imagine the amount of provender necessary for a herd of the animals, and if they should locate near a cultivated tract it can readily be seen that not only the amount they would eat, but also the amount of crops trampled and spoiled by their clumsiness would be enormous. It is a fact that their extermination in Natal was due to the circumstance of their developing a great fondness for sugar cane.

The hippopotamus hide, as is well known, is extremely thick and tough, being from an inch to an inch and a half on the back and about three-quarters of an inch in thickness on the sides. It is supplied with a vast quantity of pores which exude an oily substance that no doubt helps to keep it pliable when the animal is alive, and also protects it from the water. The flesh is considered quite good eating, especially that of the young, and is said to resemble beef, while the feet furnish a good jelly.

Liberia possesses a distinctive species, a small variety standing not over two feet high and weighing some four or five hundred pounds only when full grown. But this animal is rare, living more in marshes or forest and not in the rivers. The hippopotamus pictured on the stamp is of the ordinary variety.

Brunei

I. A British protectorate in northwest Borneo situated between the territory of the North Borneo Company and Sarawak. It has an area of 4,000 square miles and a population of over 10,000. Until 1888 it was an independent Mohammedan state and its Sultan was at one time overlord of the whole of the island of Borneo. Its capital, Brunei, is chiefly built on piles. Postage stamps for use in this Protectorate were first issued in 1906.

II. Some years ago a set of stamps purporting to be a genuine issue for the state of Brunei made their appearance, but the history attaching to these labels is so unsatisfactory that they are now generally believed to be a bogus emission. The central portion of the design shows a small vessel on a large expanse of water with a mountain in the background. On each side are palm trees and at the top a five-rayed star is shown.

Duc. Di Parma, Piac. Ecc.

The inscription engraved at the top of the stamps of the 1857 issue of Parma, being an abbreviated form of "Ducati di Parma, Piacenza, eccetera." It means

"Duchy of Parma, Piacenza, etc.," and refers to the two main provinces, which with certain annexed states, formed the old Italian Duchy of Parma.

"Country" Etymology

Venezuela.—Means "Little Venice."

Virgin Islands. — Islas de las Virginis, discovered by Columbus on his second voyage on the day of the Holy Ursula and the 11,000 virgins—the 14 day of October, and so named.

Fiji Islands.—Were named by the natives "Vits Islands."

New Zealand. — Derived its name from the Holland province of Zealand.

Queensland.—So named in honor of Queen Victoria.

Tasmania.—From Abel Tasman, the Dutch mariner.

Buenos Ayres.—"Good air."

Canada.—By common usage, is derived from an Indian word Kanata, which means "a number of huts."

—Ill. Briefmarken Jour.—Am. Jour. Phil.

Special Delivery Stamps

Special stamps issued by some countries—United States, Canada, Cuba, etc.

—to denote payment of the special charge on letters delivered by special messenger ahead of the regular mail delivery.

Gulden

The unit of value in the Netherlands and its colonies, in Austria until the change of currency in 1899, and in Germany until the currency was changed in 1874. The Dutch gulden is composed of 100 cents and is equal to about 40c in American money; the Austrian gulden was divided into 100 kreutzer and was also equal to 40c; while the German gulden contained 60 kreutzer and likewise had a nominal value of 40c. No German stamps of the value of a gulden were ever issued.

Dominica

A British Colony in the West Indies, being the largest island in the Leeward Islands group. It is situated 95 miles south of Antigua, between the French islands of Martinique and Guadeloupe. It has an area of 291 square miles and a population of about 30,000. The first postage stamps for this Colony were issued on May 4, 1874, and in 1890, the distinctive stamps were superseded by the general set for use in the whole of the Leeward Islands. In 1903, however, Dominica, in common with the other individual members of this group, again issued its own stamps and these are now in concurrent use with the set inscribed "Leeward Islands."

Marysville Has a Junior Clu

me of the most curious looking of the old-amps is the small halfpenny value issued reat Britain in 1870, and we think the wing short article reprinted from the "Brit. Philatelist" for July-August, 1908, will e of interest to most of our readers.)

his value was introduced in connec- with the reduced rate of postage on nd newspapers, printed matter, and erns or samples, which was to take t as from the 1st of October, 1870. design, which was oblong in shape, measured only 18mm by 14mm, con- d of a diminutive diademed profile Queen Victoria to left, in a plain oval in a rectangular frame, of which the nd was mechanically engraved in a ce-work pattern.

t each corner was a square block to ain the small sans-serif check letters, h ran from "A-A, A-A" to "X-T, ," there being four hundred and ty stamps on the sheet, arranged in ty horizontal rows of twenty-four ; and at each side of the frame, on ound of solid colour, was "½d" in e—this was the only inscription.

he plate number, in small Arabic fig- , will be found on the lattice-work ie sides of the oval medallion.

he inscriptions in the margins were lar to those of the previous values, prices being "½d per label, 1/- per of 24, £1 per sheet"; and the plate ber was engraved at the four cor- of, and the current number above below, the pane of stamps.

or this value a special paper was ufactured, with the watermark of penny in script, extending over the e of three stamps, and the words 'age Stamps, also in script, appeared ie end margins of the sheet.

he plates ran from 1 to 20, but it found necessary to reject some, —plate 2, after being half finished, found to be imperfect; plate 7, or er its roller, was defective, and could be used; plate 16 could not be fin- d, as the roller broke; and the roll- of plates 17 and 18 cracked after a few impressions had been taken.

ate 1 was put to press on the 20th , 1870, and plate 20 on the 27th , 1879. Two more plates, Nos. 21 22 were made, but were never put ress.

ie colour of the impression was lake- similar to that of the One Penny, like it, varied in tone and depth of e.

ith a few exceptions, all the sheets perforated before being issued, the e being the usual one of 14 to the centimetres. There was one notice- difference between this and the other es; the perforation, instead of being ied in horizontal rows was begun at side, with the result that the sheets perforated in vertical rows, and one of the outside rows was left rforate on either the left or the t. Copies with the right side im- orate, are lettered "X-A, A-X," to T, T-X," and those with the left imperforate, "A-A, A-A," to "A-T, ."

here was a large demand for stamps his value, and during the ten years were in use no less than 1,837,200, were printed.

late 9 was at one time supposed not ave been put to press; it was, how- , brought into use towards the end 1871, but copies from it are com- tively scarce.—Philatelic Opinion.

ARE YOU A GENERAL IN THE STAMP ARMY?

Of course you are! Your dollars are your soldiers, with which you are setting out to conquer a fine stamp kingdom,—a really worth-while collection.

But what about your intelligence service? You can't dispose of your troops effectively, unless you know something of the ground they are to fight over, and of the enemy dispositions.

GIBBONS STAMP MONTHLY is the stamp general's intelligence department. It collects news from all parts of the stamp world, gives valuable market hints and warnings, tells what stamps are going obsolete, and records all new issues, — often with numbers printed.

☞A post-card brings you a free specimen copy. A dollar bill (not stamps) brings it every month for sixteen months. 10,000 read it. Why not YOU?

The Dated Precancels Of Binghamton, N. Y.

ALLAN R. BROWN.

The Binghamton Dateds were produced and used by the Kilmer Medicine Co. of Binghamton, N. Y., manufacturers of Swamp-Root, a kidney cure-all widely advertised from 1900 to 1918. The one cent stamps were used on circulars; the five cent, on samples. Other denominations, including two, four, seven, ten and twenty cent, were used to a limited extent. A few pairs of various denominations exist, also blocks of four mainly of the one cent and five cent. I have a vertical strip of five of the three cent. Both pairs and blocks are scarce.

The stamps were printed by the company in their own printing house up to December, 1915, when the company began to use the regular types furnished by the Binghamton postoffice. In view of the conditions of production, errors seem to be rather infrequent, although a contrary view has been expressed in the Gazette. The worst feature of the printing is the ink, which was often used in too thick a consistency, thus causing the type to clog. The varying consistency of the ink sometimes occasioned apparent varieties which are not really type varieties at all.

The collection in my possession consists mainly of the collection of Dr. Mitchell, which in turn comprised the collection of Clarence H. Eagle and F. L. Smith. To this I have added the Michels collection and other items secured from various sources. To the collection as exhibited at New York last fall, I have added about twenty catalogued and uncatalogued varieties, and also ten pairs and forty-seven blocks of four. These latter nearly all came from Dr. Mitchell, and very few others exist, as far as I can learn after advertising. The blocks are of considerable value in the study of the stamps, and I wish I could get more. Oh, for just one sheet.

I do not wish at this time to discuss prices, as my judgment might be felt to be not entirely disinterested. However, it may be permissible to say that the replies to my advertisements have been few and far between. Some of the items are not uncommon, as the prices in the catalogue fairly indicated, but the rarities are rare indeed.

The discussion in this article will proceed under three heads:

(a) Catalogued items not in the collection.

(b) Uncatalogued items in the collection or known to exist.

(c) Minor varieties which are uncatalogued.

(a) Catalogued Items Not in the Collection.

It was suggested that the following items, all missing from my collection, do not in fact exist, so Vice-President Gamber sent out a call in an effort to establish their existence or non-existence:

55e 1902 1c 2-04 no final n in Binghamton.
71b 1902 5c 10-04 double.
78b 1902 1c 2-04 double.
94e 1902 1c 10-05 Mew York.
179 1902 5c 4-09.
219e 1908-10 pf 12 1c 10-10.
1st error, figure 1 of first 10 inverted.
2nd error, figure 1 for I in BINGHAMTON.
239 1908-10 pf 12 1c 8-11.
240 1908-10 pf 12 5c 8-11.
285 1912-15 pf 12 20c Type II.
293 1917-22 pf 11 1c Type II.
294 1917-22 pf 11 2c Type II.

Of these Mr. Hoskins reported having 179, and Mr. Field reported having 285.

I have secured a copy of 219 in which the right upper serif of the I is missing, making it look like an Arabic 1. This may account for the second catalogued error in 219.

Another collector kindly sent me in a copy purported to be 78b. On careful examination under a powerful glass, I found that it was dated 2-06 and not 2-05. The two prints were almost superimposed, and the date might easily be mistaken for 2-05. For this reason I am inclined to think that 78b is just a mistake and does not exist.

I am not sure whether the other item in the above list exists or not, and still hope to find some, but I am strongly inclined to the opinion that 239 and 240, the two for 8-11, and 293 and 294, the two perf. 11 items, do not exist.

I think that cat. No. 172, dated 12-00 is simply a clerical error in cataloguing and does not exist.

There is another error in the omission from the last catalogue of No. 164 and 165, dated 9-08. They were in the 1925 catalogue, and I have them both. Mr. Field has reported also having No. 164.

In addition to the above catalogued items I lack also 244x, 5c 1908-10 12-11. I should not mind having someone send me a copy with accompanying invoice.

(b) Uncatalogued Items.

I have the following uncatalogued items in my collection:

1898, 1c 6-02 red ink.
5c 6-02 red ink.
1c 8-02 red ink.
5c 8-02 red ink.
1c 4-03 double.
1c 10-03.
1902, 5c 3-03 double.
1c 4-04 double.
1c 9-04 double.
1c 11-04 double.
1c 10-05 double.
5c 10-05 up, "Mew" error.
1c 11-05 serif error, double.
1c 12-05 double.
1c 1-06 "Mew" error, double.
1c 9-08.
5c 9-08.
1908, 5c 2-09.
1912, 1c 4-15.

Mr. Brown's third classification (c) will be discussed by him in the April issue.—Precancel Gazette.

STAMPS AND ACCESSORIES

Our extremely large and comprehensive stock, as well as our services, are at the disposal of serious collectors. We feel that we can supply many items missing in most collections, ranging from the commoner stamps to the great rarities; thus we solicit your patronage and would welcome a visit.

Furthermore, it is our belief that suitable accessories play a most important part in philately, and for this reason we are marketing the following two articles:

A daylight lamp which furnishes a perfectly diffused blue-tint light from which all glare is eliminated, and which gives the same effect as daylight. It is the perfect light for color matching. The lamp is manufactured in five models, with a price range of $6.50 to $14.00.

A magnifying glass, eight power, manufactured by Steinheil, which is so nearly achromatic and anastigmatic that it has proved itself far superior to any that we have examined. Some of the most prominent Collectors have purchased this magnifier from us. We are offering this glass at $12.00.

UNITED STATES INVERTED CENTERS
1901 Pan-American Issue

There is no error in any country more popular and attractive than the Inverted Center. Their desirability has resulted in few dealers being able to stock them, for the demand is greater than the supply. Only when the larger collections are broken up, we find the varieties upon the market.

At the present time, I offer from my wonderful stock of United States stamps, the 1901 1c and 2c with inverted center.

Of the 1c green and black with inverted Steamboat, about three to four hundred copies are known. As a rule, this stamp comes fairly centered, but at the present time, I can offer an exceptional specimen, with full gum, at $125.00. I can well remember that some years back, I purchased my first copy of this stamp at $15.00, and thought that I was paying a substantial price for it. A few years hence, no doubt, its present value will be greatly increased, as there are hardly enough to go around.

In the case of the 2c, less than sixty copies are known, and practically all of these come from a small find in Brooklyn, N. Y. When they were first located, the owner had a difficult time in selling them at $25.00 each. Today it is a great rarity, and heads the list of the 20th century United States obtainable varieties. This stamp differs from the 1c in that about 80% of those known are in off center condition, and as they were not treated especially well in the early days, quite a few of them are without gum, or have rough gum, looking as if several hinges had been soaked off. At the present time, I can offer one of the few known superb copies, in well centered condition with full gum, at $1,000.00.

If you are looking for any of the other inverts, or if you want any United States item, either early or late in blocks or singles, used or unused, I am likely to have them on hand.

I am also in the market to purchase at all times fine United States properties, especially the inverts of the postal and revenue issues.

Washington Notes

The Postmaster General has not recovered sufficiently from his recent illness to return to his office, and as a result, no definite action has been taken upon the suggestion to issue a 2-cent stamp to commemorate the sesqui-centennial of the Valley Forge Encampment. The Postmaster General, together with Mrs. New, and accompanied by Mr. Warren Irving Glover, Second Assistant Postmaster General, left for Key West, Florida, on February 9th, and no action will be taken until his return.

Letters are continuing to pour in, and I doubt whether any stamp suggested in late years has received the substantial backing that this recommendation is receiving. The bill introduced in Congress for the issuing of such a stamp, is still in the Committee, as are similar bills to issue stamps commemorating the New York Constitution and the North West Territory project. It is likely that all three will die a natural death in the Committee, unless the Postmaster General favors their issue.

The Committee on Post Offices and Post Roads is now considering the Post Office Bill, and there is no doubt, that when finally passed, it will contain provisions making necessary either new stamps or the discontinuance of the large use of certain issues now available. For instance, a 1c postal rate on private postal cards, as well as on circular communications, will result in the increased use of 1c stamps and the decreased use of the 1½c denomination.

It is even possible that the rate will be placed at 1¼c, in which case we would have a new ¼c stamp, a new 1¼c, and a 2½c. Such a rate would possibly result in the further surcharging of our current envelopes. The Department certainly does not favor such a rate, for it would result in extra complicated bookkeeping, where fractions are necessary, and greatly increase the stock issued to Postmasters.

It is quite likely that the rate on air mail will be reduced, and if the bill is finally approved as now recommended, the rate will be just one-fourth of the present price, so that 5 cents will take a letter weighing one ounce from coast to coast via air mail. The present rate on an ordinary letter weighing one ounce would be 4 cents, so that no doubt a greatly increased portion of the regular mail would go via air mail. This would necessitate a 5c air mail stamp, and the increased use of air mail would result in a special 5c air mail envelope. There is, of course, at present a 5c envelope, but this would not indicate immediately to the postal clerk that the letter was going via air, whereas a special envelope would.

Air Mail Notes

The Traffic Agent of the Air Mail Service under date of February 10th sends out the following communication:

"We are advised that Colonel Lindbergh will fly the mail plane on route C.A.M. 2 (his old route) between Chicago and St. Louis, Mo., northbound on February 20th, and southbound on February 21st, on the regular schedule.

In honor of Lindy and to commemorate his return to the regular Air Mail, the Hon. W. Irving Glover, Second Assistant Postmaster General has authorized a special cancellation cachet stamp to be used on all Air Mail letters carried on the round trip made by him as stated above.

St. Louis will have a special cachet on February 20th, Springfield and Peoria on February 20th and 21st, and Chicago February 21st, and we take pleasur giving you this information, know that you will take advantage of s and forward your first flight cover the Postmasters at the four offices volved at the earliest possible date."

The recent inauguration of air routes from Dallas to Galveston, Dallas to San Antonio, has resulte new contract air mail covers for the mail collector. In each case, the known octagonal contract air mail mark was used, but in several cases, ditional markings of interest were ad

Within the star, w is surrounded by a wreath, we find name of the town—"Houston, Tex and slightly above the star, "2-6-28."

San Antonio had one of the most teresting marking that has as yet peared. This consisted of an outline the famous Alamo, showing two p trees at either end, and reading " Antonio, Largest Aviation Center America—All Year Playground." NE OF THE FINEST XXth CENTURY COLLECTIONS IN AMERICA

My three coming auction sales will afford buyers a e opportunity to purchase stamps not generally offered, ıeld by professionals.

March 17. XIXth and XXth Century. Collections Mr. H. P. Tiemann and Mr. F. W. Hodge.

April 6, 7, 13, 14. Twentieth Century only. A truly rvelous collection in nine Scott printed albums, 98% ıplete unused. This is one of the finest collections yet med and contains all the standard rarities. For mple, Malta and Gibraltar complete, and most of those mps usually found on want lists. The French and lian colonies lack but a few to absolute completeness, l the South and Central Americans give evidence to the ıers' hunting ability. It will be years before another h collection comes on the market.

May ?? U. S. and the finest lot of Western Franks r offered at public auction in this country.

Write now and have your name placed on our auction

I am always a cash buyer of collections and fine single ns of any country. I collect Patriotics.

F. B. TURPIN

is preparing a series of postage due stamps for use in the Philippines. I am endeavoring to obtain from Washington further details upon the subject.

Brazil.—Copies of these values of the Hermes Official stamps with the overprint "Servicio Aereo" and new value the original denomination being obliterated by a diamond shaped device sideways: 50 on 10rs black and grey, 200 on 2,000rs black and red-brown, 300 on 500rs black and yellow, 500 on 50rs black and grey, 1,000 on 20rs black and olive, and 2,000 on 100rs black and red. Mr. Roberts understands that the following denominations are also to be similarly overprinted: 2,000 on 200rs, 2,000 on 10,000rs, 5,000 on 20,000rs, 5,000 on 100,000rs, 10,000 on 500,000rs, and 10,000 on 1,000,000rs.

Gwalior.—Whitfield King & Co. report the appearance of the 3 pies Service stamp on multiple watermarked paper.

Hungary.—We find in L'Echo de la Timbrologie an illustration of a modified form of the Crosses watermark long familiar in this country. Apparently the Crosses will now be in Multiple fashion, upright and sideways alternately. The 1 to 25f values are about to appear thus, followed shortly by the Postage Due labels.—Stamp Collecting.

New Hebrides. — Mr. L. Meister, Holyoke, Colo., would like to know if other importers of its stamps have trouble in getting them, and if it be true that the English series can be purchased with French money.

Newfoundland. — In a recent letter from Mr. Frank F. Wills he advises that the new issue of stamps is very poorly centered and it will not be possible to secure any better copies until the single values come on sale. At present they are sold in complete sets only at the Post Offices. Mr. Wills further advises that the following stamps are still on hand and on sale: 24c and 60c, Cabot issue; 36c Caribou; 1923 pictorial, all values excepting the 9c and 24c.

Portugal and Colonies. — The Daily Telegraph of January 10th (kindly sent by Mr. A. T. Newham) contained the following from Lisbon:—

The Administrator-General of the Postal Services has determined to place on sale for sixty days postage stamps which have been withdrawn from use of the following series:—India Centenary (Portugal and Azores); D. Manuel (Portugal and Azores), Ceres type; Casa de Moeda (Mint). After the period of sixty days 30,000,000 stamps are to be burnt, being approximately half of the existing stock, and the remaining stamps of various series and of more than eighty varieties will be surcharged 3, 4, 5, and 6 centavos, and put into circulation.—REUTER.—Stamp Collecting.

Seychelles. — 4c will shortly change its colour; it will be printed on white paper, but the new colour is not yet announced.—Philatelic Magazine.

South West Africa. — Mr. A. Lichtenstein writes to the South African Philatelist that there are persistent rumors that the "S.W.A." overprint is not going to last for long, while the Director of Posts and Telegraphs, Windhock, informs Mr. H. Mallet-Veale that the question of overprinting the ½p, 1p and 6p postage stamps is receiving the attention of the Administration, and if at all possible a different setting of the type will be arranged. The Director of Posts confirms the statement that no more 5p postage due stamps will be overprinted. This value with the English and Afrikaans overprint is proving very elusive and that it will become a rarity is a foregone conclusion.

Syria (Lebanon). — "There is a rumour that the present Provisional Republic of Lebanon stamps are to be replaced by a permanent issue in about two months' time [from December 17.]." —N. R. S. Joly, Beyrout.—Stamp Collecting.

WAYNE STAMP SOCIETY'S SOCIAL

By HERMAN W. BOERS.

The Wayne Stamp Society of Detroit, held its first social in their new rooms in the St. Clair Recreation Center Building on Thursday evening, Feb. 9. It was a get-together where all members could meet and talk over matters, philatelic and otherwise.

Sixty members were present and a lunch was the order of the evening. Pres. A. C. Butzen presided, and remarks were made by Clyde Jackson, Fred Clark, Henry Fritz, and also Messrs. Meyers, Sommerhoff, Kellar, Koslowski, Jungwirth, Carter, Babcock, Boers and Dunwoodie.

Charles Brisley, president of the Michigan Stamp Club, commented on the good fellowship that existed between the societies, and extended congratulations and well wishes.

A WORTHY SHUT-IN

Some months ago we called attention to the fact that Launcelot G. Reeves, 518 Summit Ave., Charlotte, N. C., was a shut-in deserving of consideration at the hands of some of our more fortunate subscribers. We are taking the liberty of quoting from a recent letter:—

"I shall be twenty-one years old March 22, and am still enjoying my stamps. I wish I could get some first day covers, as I am much interested in them. After all my operations I am really worse and am left an invalid. As far as I can see I shall have to spend the rest of my days in a rolling chair, and my stamps and my friends will indeed be friends to the shut-in."

Mr. Reeves has not asked us to make any public solicitation in his behalf, but we feel that many of our readers will be glad to help make his birthday a pleasant one. However, do not wait until March arrives, but act at once and send a lot of sunshine into the life of Mr. Reeves.

HAITI-LINDBERGH-1928.

"LINDBERGH" inscribed on the wings. The letters (registered) were backstamped at Port au Prince (6—FEV—28), and on arrival in Pittsburgh (Feb. 15, 1928).

Lindbergh Carries Mail to Habana

On Wednesday, February 8th, at 6.30 a. m., Col. Lindbergh took off for Habana (720 miles), the last leg of his Goodwill Flight before returning to the United States. To the New York Times, he writes, while in the air between Port au Prince and Habana:—

"I am carrying with me three sacks of mail for Habana, the first air mail ever carried in the 'Spirit of St. Louis.' One of these came from Santo Domingo, and although it remained in the plane for two days while I was in Port au Prince, it will still arrive in Habana days ahead of time. This is an indication of the possibility for air lines south of the United States."

A small mail was accepted from L'Administration Generale des Postes d'Haiti, which he handed over to the Cuban authorities on landing at the Camp Columbia flying field, just outside of Habana, at 4 o'clock that afternoon. Letters in this mail were delivered in Pittsburgh, Monday morning, February 13th, having been dispatched by air from Habana to Key West on the 9th, and thence by rail.

The stamps used were the 25c de gourde, Commerce type, blue (August, 1927, reprinting), and the 35c, de g. Cafe, green (issued February 6, 1928), making up the 60c de gourde air rate to Cuba. To these was applied the ordinary "Port au Prince, Haiti" cancellation, "7—FEV—28," in black, and the special "LINDBERGH" cancellation, in red, described above. The cover which is endorsed "Par avion Spirit of St. Louis via Cuba," also received in red, the AVION marking, introduced on September 13, 1927 (two concentric circles, 33 and 28mm, with a wavy line between, and enclosing an outline plane, and the word AVION).

At Habana, Cuba, the covers were machine cancelled on the back "Habana, Cuba, 1928" within a single lined circle. 21mm, with date in the center in two lines "FEB 8—4—PM," and to the right the new "flying flag" slogan (58x18mm) with the representation of a biplane in the left portion, and in the right, in three lines, "Utilizando el—Servicio Aereo—Economiza Tiemp" (i.e. Use the air service; it saves time). The "4 PM" marking was doubtless applied to commemorate the hour of Col. Lindbergh's landing, as another identical electric machine cancellation appears on the back of the ten covers I received, with the date and hour "FEB 9— 11—AM."

Slogan Cancellation

In the early part of 1927 two slogan rubber stamps were used by the Port au Prince Post Office, calling attention to its principal product, coffee. One measures 92mm "Le Cafe d'Haiti est le meilleur" (all caps, but smaller in the last three words, and the other, in two lines. 62 and 84mm, respectively) "Le Cafe d'Haiti est le meilleur—Haytian coffee is the best in the world."

25c Commerce reprinting, 1927

The reprinting of the 25c Commerce type (200,000) was issued in August, 1927, and differs somewhat from the original printing. The blue is deeper and brighter, the paper is whiter, and the gum white, as opposed to the dull blue of the original printing (issued April 19, 1920), with brown gum.

Mole San Nicolas Air Service

Mole San Nicolas at the extreme northwest end of Haiti will be the next to receive air service from Port au Prince. When Columbus reached Cape Maisi at the eastern end of Cuba, he sighted a mountainous country to the southeast, and on the following day, December 6, 1492, he reached this island, and the first port he entered (on San Nicolas Day), he called Mole San Nicolas. The island originally called Haiti, he renamed La Espanola, but it soon became Latinised to Hispaniola. Mole San Nicolas is a natural harbor with deep water, and commands the Windward passage (50 miles wide between Mole San Nicolas, Haiti, and Cape Maisi, Cuba) from the east, just as does Guantanamo Bay, at the eastern end of Cuga, command it from the west. President Harrison under the influence of Secretary of State Blaine, sought in 1891 to secure control of this port from President Florville Hyppolite (Oct. 9, 1889, to March 24, 1896) for use as a naval base, but was unsuccessful.

Sea Post Cancellations

Haitian stamps are quite frequently found with the Duplex marking of the Panama Railroad steamers "Ancon" and "Cristobal," which call at Port au Prince to and from Cristobal. The cancellation, applied in black, consists of a single lined circle, 30mm, "N. Y. & Canal Zone R.P.O." with four lines in the center, "SEP—20—1925—North (or South.") At the right is a vertical ellipse of three graduated bars above and below a numeral—"1" used by the s.s. "Cristobal" and "2" by the s.s. "Ancon"—within a hollow circle. Letters posted on board the steamers are additionally handstamped in black "Paquebot."

The steamers of the Royal Netherlands West Indian Mail also call at Port au Prince (and the cargo steamers at other ports, in addition), and letters are often handed to the pursers after the mail has closed at the General Post Office. A letter posted on board the s.s. "Oranje Nassau," and bearing a 10c La Ferriere stamp, was rubber stamped in violet, in one line "S.S. Oranje Nassau,' (49mm long). On arrival in New York harbor, it received also the mail boat cancellation "New York, N. Y., Paquebot" (within a single line circle 26mm) with the date in the center in 2 lines, "SEP—p," and a vertical ellipse at the right, formed of graduated bars with a hollow circle in the center. The year (1927) is positioned between the postmarking circle, and the ellipse, at the bottom.

A more pretentious marking used by the s.s. "Nickerie" of the same line is a horizontal rectangle measuring 47x28mm, with three lines of lettering, "K.N.N.M. —S.S. Nickerie—6—Mei 1927," applied in violet to a pair of the ½d King George, green, Bahamas, on a letter posted when the "Nickerie" called at Mathew Town, Inagua, in the Bahamas. The usual "Paquebot" cancellation was not applied by the mail tender in New York harbor.

THE MANAGING EDITOR.

MY TRIP TO AMERICA

By A. J. SEFI.

As my readers will remember, the Editorial in the December issue was written on the Cunard R.M.S. "Mauretania" en route for New York. I was able to stay in America this time about three weeks, and had hoped to find space in this issue to describe my trip at some length, but, though this is a twenty-four page issue, I have barely enough space for half the articles that I should have liked to publish. In the circumstances, therefore, I must content myself in saying that I had a most delightful stay, and that my warmest thanks are due to all my American friends for the hospitable and courteous way that they received me.

I found stamp collecting in America in a most healthy condition. My dealer friends, Mr. C. J. Phillips, Mr. Edward Stern, Mr. Klemann, Mr. Clark (of the Scott Stamp & Coin Company), and many others all reported good trade, and from all of them I was able to make substantial purchases. Mr. and Mrs. Phillips, as usual, were kindness personified, and did much to make my stay agreeable, and I have to thank them both for many enjoyable evenings. C.J.P. has an unrivalled knowledge of stamps, and of the stamp world, and it is always a most refreshing experience to spend a few days in his company; he has done much to stimulate serious collecting in America, and must be a tower of strength to the Collectors' Club.

During my short visit I was able to attend one of the Meetings of this Club, of which I have been a member for many years. Well housed, exceedingly well organised and possessing one of the finest philatelic libraries in existence, the Collectors' Club forms a splendid centre of Philatelic activity, and the Council and Members are to be congratulated upon the results they have achieved. The Club is fortunate in having such officials as Dr. Chittenden, Mr. Steinway, Mr. Lindquist and Mr. Konwiser.

During my short visit I was able to see many fine collections, and I was particularly fortunate in seeing much of Mr. Arthur Hind's magnificent collection. I was very impressed with the progress he has made in his mounting-up since last I was in America.

Owing to lack of time I was unable to visit many other cities besides New York, but I was able to spend a day with Major T. Charlton Henry, of Philadelphia, whose magnificent collection of West Indians is now so well known to British Philatelists.—Phil. Jour. of Gt. Britain.

NEW STAMPS FROM THE SOUTH SEAS

By A. L. CHAPPELL.

Two attractive additions have lately been made to the series of pictorial stamps that was first issued seven years ago for New Zealand's dependencies in the South Seas. One of them is of special interest because the principal part of the design is associated with the work of George Baxter, the famous inventor of oil-colour printing, whose prints are sought after so much by print-collectors.

New 2½d and 4d Pictorials

When the line-engraved pictorial stamps for Rarotonga, Niue, Aitutaki, and Penrhyn Island were introduced in 1920, each of those islands had a 2½d value, overprinted on the 2½d stamp of New Zealand, but a stamp of that denomination was not included in the new set—perhaps because there was a prospect, then, of an increase in the postal rate on letters for foreign countries. So the overprinted 2½d stamp has been used concurrently with the pictorials. Rarotonga, but not the other islands named, had a 4d denomination, overprinted on the New Zealand stamp of that value. As the other islands did not need a 4d stamp, that value was not included in the pictorial set, the designs of which were common to all four islands. Now Rarotonga, Niue, Aitutaki, and Penrhyn Island are to have a pictorial 2½d stamp, the same design being used for all, and Rarotonga and Niue are to have a 4d stamp, the design of which is the same for both. Of course, the name-labels differ.

An Island that was Missed

The design of the 2½d label, which is illustrated here, is very appropriate to Rarotonga, for it is in one way a link with the first European discoverer of the island. Rarotonga is not the largest island in the Cook Group, but it is the most fertile and the most beautiful; indeed, it is one of the most picturesque in the South Seas. It lies southwest of the centre of the group, but it is the seat of administration. Now, Captain James Cook had discovered most of the islands in the group that now bears his name, but he had not found Rarotonga. Nearly half a century later, John Williams, a great missionary, who later was martyred at Erromanga, in the New Hebrides, learned from natives of the Society Islands that far away to the southwest there was an island called Rarotonga. In his missionary pioneering, Williams searched for the island, and found it. That was in 1822. Fifteen years later, Williams's book, "A Narrative of Missionary Enterprises in the South Sea Islands," was published. The earlier editions of the book had as frontispiece a full-length portrait of Te Po, a chief of Rarotonga, printed in oil colours by George Baxter, from a painting by J. Williams, junior. This portrait of Te Po has been reproduced on the 2½d stamp that has now been issued, but, of course, it is not in the colours of the original. The background has been changed for the stamp. In the reduction of the portrait there has been an inevitable loss of likeness in the features, but no one who has seen the stamp and the frontispiece to Williams's book can mistake the figure.

A Typical South Sea Picture

Te Po is depicted in the ancient costume, clothed very lightly, but with his body and limbs tattooed. His head-dress is made of feathers of the kukupa (fooddove) and the tavake (bosun bird). These tall head-dresses—sometimes a fathom high—of scarlet and black feathers, with frontlets of berries of the brightest red, were highly prized in old Rarotonga. A long spear grasped by the chief's left hand denotes his readiness for war, but the palm fan in his right hand is a sign of peace, as well as an indication of his chiefly rank. In the original picture the spear was shown to have half a dozen rather unpleasant barbs on each side below the point, but in adapting the portrait for the stamp the head of the spear has been cut off so that it shall not run up too high in the design.

The scenic background for the portrait has been changed. Instead of a glimpse of sea and shore, with a native canoe and a mission schooner in harbour, we have in the stamp a native hut and some palms, with the trunks of two palm trees forming the sides of the frame of the design. The hut is of the old reed-built type—long and low, and floored with dried grass, and, as an early missionary has borne witness, comparatively comfortable when new and clean.

PRIVATE COMPANIES COILS

We list below a few of the private coils we can supply at present. All prices are for mint pairs. Singles can be supplied at half price in most cases.

We shall be pleased to supply a small booklet giving a full list, with illustrations, of our current net selling prices upon receipt of 25c. This amount may be credited on your first order for these stamps from the list, amounting to $1.00 or more.

We find these most interesting issues are once again becoming popular, and with prices reduced considerably all round, now is the time to buy.

25th Anniversary Announcement

BOSTON

This fine old city is noted philatelically for the unusual variety of interesting postmarks and cancellations used in its Post Office during the first half century of the stamp era.

A collection of stamps and covers showing these Post Office markings in the sequence of their use forms an historical exhibit of great philatelic interest.

The postal history of many other of the larger cities can be shown by such collections of stamps and covers but until recent years this most fascinating and important work has been largely neglected and the field is still open to all.

I can supply suitable material used in Boston, New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Chicago, New Orleans, San Francisco, and other cities, both in domestic use and on covers showing "British Packet" and other ship and transit postmarks to many foreign countries. Correspondence invited. [H

A Cannibal on a Stamp

It is interesting to notice that another portrait of this chief appears in the Rev. W. Wyatt Gill's "From Darkness to Light in Polynesia," but, although in this the chief holds his spear in his right hand and the fan in his left, it obviously is adapted from the picture in Williams's book. Gill, whose writings are still our principal authority on the natives of the Cook Islands, among whom he worked for many years, describes the chief as "Tepou, a Rarotongan chief, once an idolator and cannibal, but afterwards one of the earliest converts to Christianity."

Perhaps it should be explained, before we leave the subject of the 2½d stamp, that John Williams was the first European to record the discovery of Rarotonga, and so to all intents and purposes he was its discoverer. But Williams found that a ship had called at the island about two years before his own arrival there. The excesses committed by the captain of that vessel probably were the reason why he did not record his discovery.

Rarotonga has two or three boat-harbours, of sorts, but only one, that at Avarua, the principal settlement, is considered to be at all safe. Large boats, though, cannot enter. The entrances are simply a couple of gaps in the fringing coral reef. A view of part of this harbour is given on the 1s stamp of the pictorial series of 1920. Now, on the new 4d stamp, we have a view from another angle, with Mount Rarotonga thrusting up its peak in the background. The design gives some idea of the rugged grandeur of the island scenery. A belt of rich alluvial soil, varying from one mile to three miles in width, runs round the island, between the mountains and the sea.

The new stamps are recess-printed in Wellington, from plates made by Perkins, Bacon & Co., London, and the colours differ for the various islands for which they are intended. Each is in two colours. The paper is watermarked with the N.Z. and Star of New Zealand.

The overprinted 2½d and 4d stamps will be withdrawn from issue on March 31st next—the end of the financial year—unless, of course, the stocks are absorbed in the meantime. The new stamps, which are already on issue, are being sold in the four chief centres of New Zealand, as well as in the islands for which they are to be used.—Gibbons' Stamp Monthly.

THE MONACO COMMEMORATIVES

[Translated by C. A. Howes from the Monthly Bulletin issued by Theodore Champion.]

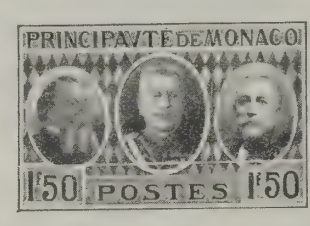
As we have previously announced to our readers, there will be issued on the occasion of the Philatelic Exhibition at Monaco, and under the authority of His Serene Highness, Prince Louis II, a superb series of three commemorative stamps:

50c red, 1f 50c blue, 3f violet, of which we give a reproduction herewith.



These stamps present the portraits of the last three reigning Princes of Monaco, Their Serene Highnesses, Charles III, Albert I, and Louis II. They are engraved by the well known artist, Henry Chaffer, and printed in line engraving at the French stamp manufactory on the Boulevard Brune in Paris. The series will certainly be one of the most beautiful that has been issued. The printing has been fixed at 150,000 series (6,000 sheets of 25 stamps of each value).

In order to be able to satisfy all demands, the Exhibition Committee has decided to accept, until June 10th, the subscriptions of those desiring at least 25 series, at the same time reserving the right to reduce the quantity ordered if deemed excessive. The subscriptions must be reduced to a point, as a matter of fact, where enough series will be reserved to satisfy the demands of visitors to the Exhibition.

In case a certain number of series should remain unsold at the close of the Exhibition, a special commission will be appointed to destroy them, and an official report of the destruction will be drawn up by them. No series will be sold either through correspondence or outside the location of the Exhibition. Entry alone to the Exhibition, fixed at 5 francs, will give right to a ticket, which will permit the purchase of a series at its face value. Each series therefore will cost 10 francs.

LINDBERGH FLIGHT

We are indebted to various subscribers for specimens of the Lindbergh St. Louis-Chicago airmail flight. Up to the time of going to press specimens have been received from Albert W. Dr A. E. Gorham, Bradie Buchanan ar M. Chamberlin.

"LINDBERGH AGAIN FLIES THE AIR MAIL"

is the cancellation mark on air mail covers handled on the route between Chicago and St. Louis, via Springfield and Peoria, on February 20 and 21 when "LINDY" took the stick and flew his old route. The cancellation, officially provided by the U. S. Post Office Department, is horse-shoe shaped with the name and designation of the route in the arch of the horse-shoe, and the name of the particular post-office on the route with the date of the flight at the opening. Note that each city has its name in the cancellation it used.

FREE Send one dollar for a year's subscription to WASHINGTON STAMP NEWS and receive free an actually flown air mail cover bearing this special cancellation and franked with the Lindbergh air mail stamp. Every philatelist should have one. Think of its interest and value. Think of being able to show it to your friends and say, "Here's an envelope that was actually carried by the World's Greatest Hero." Could there be any more valuable souvenir of the famous flier?

If you want a more elaborate showing or don't want to subscribe to WSN, we offer covers as follows:

Your choice of any single cover at 40c each.
Set of four, one cover from each city, for only $1.50
Complete set, one cover from each city to each other city, twelve covers in all, for only $4.00.

KNOWLEDGE IS POWER

No greater contribution to philatelic knowledge has been made at any time than Dr. Carroll Chase's monumental work on the United States' 3c stamps of the issues of 1851-1857. It ran, in its original form, for nearly three years in the "American Philatelist". Illustrated by hundreds of half tones, it pictured and described all of the outstanding varieties of these interesting stamps. With its help any stamp student can easily learn how to identify the various extra and missing line positions from the last three rows of Plate III; can learn to understand the unusual varieties of recutting in frame lines, triangles, etc.; learn to recognize at a glance the rare plate cracks, flaws, scratches. All of the important shifts are illustrated and described, as well as many sought for varieties now known only to specialists in these stamps.

For the advancement of philatelic knowledge and as a tribute to Dr. Chase, we are undertaking to secure advance subscriptions enough to guarantee the publication of this great study. The book will run to some 400 pages. All new material and discoveries made by Dr. Chase since he began the publication nearly four years ago will be incorporated in the new book. The regular edition, when and if published, will be issued in buckram covers at $5.00, with 50 special copies on Japanese Vellum at $25.

The project has the endorsement of leading collectors and dealers of the United States and Europe.

Among the above are many that one rarely finds. First is the bull dog with collar on. This has been shown to me by Mr. Glaze also. It appears on a 3c 1861 cover addressed to Bridgeport, Conn., and the dog is struck on the back of the cover, which leads me to believe that it was used by this town, rather than the town it was mailed from, as that town had its own obliterator on the stamp. No. 2 was on several stamps. It is an odd cancellation, and my drawing is made from a composite of several, as no one cancel was as clean cut as the composite. Very often a small slip in the strike of an odd obliterator will make something entirely different from the true strike. No. 3 was handed to me as the picture of a little colored chap singing right out loud, and that is what it was probably intended to portray.

Oftentimes odd suggestions were portrayed in these obliterators. This is especially true in Waterbury, Conn., where many of the odd designs were merely caricatures on the events of the times, and not all of these were caricatures, some being quite true to the subjects.

No. 4 is a most peculiar portrait, it may be some person who was in the public eye at the moment, or more likely a portrait of someone in the P. O. from which it came. I do not recognize that face though as a man of public prominence. No. 5 is a very well cut pool table, and hit in blue, it stands out well on a cover. It is from Chicago. No. 6 is quite a novelty, a purple silhouette, and it is very striking purple. That town of Whitestown used many odd designs. No. 7 is one of the less familiar padlocks, of these padlocks there are several, and most of them fall on the 1869 issue.

No. 8 has caused plenty of discussion, and I think that it is recognized now as a Jewish design or tablet, the lettering meaning Jehovah. No. 9 is possibly from Concord, N. H., but of this I am not sure. No. 10 has never cropped up lately, so it remains quite a mystery.

Bisects, Good and Bad.—In studying Black Jacksons, very often a cover comes to your notice in an auction or otherwise, listed as "split-on a cover." Well, you want to see it, if it be in an auction, because you may not think it is genuine, and you don't care to buy if it is not a

THE C.P.S. ANNUAL DINNER

By NOAH SCAPE.

The 41st yearly dinner of the Chicago Philatelic Society was held at the Brevoort Hotel on February 16th, with a full line-up at the plate. The stranger from afar who looked upon the multitude might have been in doubt as to the nature of the cause that was celebrated, as the number of doctors present indicated that the profession was having a field-night. The attendance at this inter-state meeting was over eighty; and the guests outside of the home folks were Doctors Kraft and Lincke, and Messrs. Draves, Staab, Noske, Steinman and Bachman, all of Milwaukee; Mr. Paul Murray of St. Louis; Dr. Macnamara and Mr. Raymond V. Bahr of Springfield, Ill., and Mr. A. W. Filstrup of Benton Harbor, Michigan. Surely this was a convocation of contented philatelists from without the gates that insured the success of the evening, and as the visitors were the whole show and the local lads the supernumeraries, merrily we rolled along.

The president, B. L. Voorhees presided and introduced as toastmaster, the redoubtable Laird (To the comp.: Do not omit the "d") of Libertyville, Ill.; and as a consequence, the Scotch theme prevailed, the very air being close. The menu was a good one and the philatelic interpolations, timely, even to the cigars which were "penny blacks." After the platters were polished, Mr, MacGuffin with ready wit, introduced the speakers. Dr. Kraft began with a serious period and ended with an exclamation point. Paul Murray made a graceful little talk and told of the active philatelic conditions in his city, with emphasis on their affair of February 21st, when the beauty and chivalry of his city will celebrate at a dinner given by the St. Louis Stamp Collectors' Club. Dr. Macnamara was within his rights in mentioning Springfield as the air mail capital of the country, with Postmaster Conkling as high chief; and then said that Mr. Bahr was to make the speech for his city. Mr. Bahr rose to the occasion and said that there were already 27 adult members in the society recently organized there; and that it was the intention soon to begin work on the boys. Mr. Staab, Milwaukee, referred to the presentation of the Uihlein collection to the Art Museum in his city and of the favorable influence that followed the generous action of the veteran collector, Wm. J. Uihlein. Dr. Hennan detailed the vicissitudes of the Dutch specialist, and Mr. T. C. E. Hunter, who had charge of the banquet and was deserving of credit for the manner in which he staged the dinner was compelled to arise to say that he had nothing to say.

Then came the Will Rogers of the evening, who dispensed humor so dry that it crackled; he was Mr. W. N. Emerson, who used his recent hunting trip down south as the s of a talk that brought down the l He certainly had the stands rocking we have paid to see them not ha good. Mr. Samuel Leland, No. 3, tioned some of the earlier membe the society and said that he liked new his acquaintance with membe least one a year, at the dinner. Filstrup recited some of the detai his recent court experience and it seen that he had vindicated a pri which was upheld by the judge wi recourse to a jury's aid. Mr. Du Milwaukee, made a telling contrib to the enjoyment of the dinner, and Mr. Severn told of the desirabili repeating occasions of this kind guests from neighboring cities. The ner was over a bit after ten, bu members were slow to depart, thus ing that time did not drag. Mr. Vo hee's administration scored heavil promoting the successful occa (Note. "M. T. Dome" of Milwa was missed, and so I was dragoon rattle around in his boots.)

Written for MEKEEL'S WEEKLY.

CUBA-LINDBERGH, 1928

By HARRY E. HUBER.

After two days in Port au Prince, Haiti (where he arrived Monday afternoon, February 6th, from Santo Domingo City, D.R.), Col. Charles A. Lindbergh took off in "The Spirit of St. Louis," from the Bowen field, just outside of Port au Prince, at 6.30 a. m., Wednesday, the 8th, for Habana, the last leg of his Good-will Mission.

Following the coast to Mole San Nicolas, at the northwestern end of Haiti, he crossed the Windward Passage (a 50-mile stretch of water), and was reported from the U. S. Naval Station at Guantanamo Bay, on the southeastern coast of Cuba, at 9.15 a. m. At 11.15 a. m. he was sighted at Camaguey, and at 1.20 p. m. was over Cienfuegos. He appeared over Habana at 3.40 p. m., and a few minutes later, over Camp Columbia flying field, about seven miles from Parque Centrale, Habana. As it was not yet the hour set for his arrival, Col. Lindbergh kept to the air until a few minutes before four o'clock, when the wheels of his plane touched ground, and exactly at 4 p. m. he stepped from the cockpit of his machine.

The flight from Port au Prince to Habana, 720 miles, consumed 9 hours, making a total of 8,235 miles flown in 100 flying hours, since leaving Bolling field, Washington, D. C., on December 13, 1927.

In writing to the New York Times on the 8th, while in the air between Port au Prince and Habana, Col. Lindbergh says:—
